THEY CANNOT STOP US.

It is true that we have received many hard jolts from some courts, some judges, injunctions, judge-made laws, damage suits, etc., and a hostile congress within the last few years, but the membership has increased and is still increasing.

It is true that we have been assailed by the National Manufacturers' Association with its open shoppers, by a hostile and indifferent press who have fed the public on half truths and all of our faults and none of our virtues and splendid work, but what of it? The old-timer expects this and remains with undaunted courage, refusing to surrender. And why? He knows the past, he has seen and experienced greater opposition and persecution when he had to fight almost single handed and has seen the movement grow and prosper beneath it.

Thirty-five, forty and fifty years ago it was held to be a crime to even organize. Members of unions were arrested under alleged conspiracy laws, common laws and any old law, tried, convicted and sent to jail for even asking for an increase of wages. They did not wait for a strike in those days; they went right after the workers right on the jump.

Formerly organized labor was ignored, humiliated, brow-beaten, bulldozed and looked upon as worse than outlaws. Manufacturers' associations existed. Courts, judges, public officials, police, Pinkertons and the militia were hostile and bitter in their opposition and the general public looked on with indifference or with approval and satisfaction over the persecution.

Wages were low, hours long, conditions frightful with no rights for the workers that anybody was bound to or did respect.

Despite all of this the trade union movement has steadily grown in power, strength, usefulness and numbers and has the respect and confidence of a large portion of the general public.

The fierce attack we are now undergoing in which courts, judges, congress, presidents and others have been drawn in and have taken a hand in is a decided compliment to the stability, worth, effectiveness and usefulness of the present trade union movement. It testifies to the soundness of the movement, justifies our policies and leadership and argues well for the future.

The record of the trade union movement which under the severest opposition and relentless persecution has overcome and mastered all obstacles from within and without proves that we will successfully combat and finally master all opposition regardless of what it may be in the future. It justifies an optimistic outlook and means success. The methods, plans, work and policies of the past, changed only to meet changing conditions such as experience and ripe judgment may justify, if adhered to in the future, will surely bring success and the final organization of all workers.

The only danger, and that of a temporary nature that can overtake us, is the impatience, discouragement and lack of faith in the movement in the minds and hearts of some caused by the present onslaught.

The same undaunted courage, persistence and determination that has characterized the men of action in the past is still with us and will carry forward the work despite all opposition just as surely in the future as it has in the past. The trade union movement has raised wages, shortened the hours of labor, improved the sanitary conditions of the shop, factory and mine, abolished the truck system, decreased diseases, increased the length of life of its members, stood the workers on their feet facing in the right direction and fighting for more, and has accomplished countless other beneficial things.

The record speaks for itself and proves that the trade union movement is on the right track and justifies optimistic hope and confidence. Faith, honesty and a rugged determination will carry us on to final success.

LAW BREAKERS.

One J. Kirby, manufacturer, Dayton, Ohio, and President of the National Association of Manufacturers, and chief union buster, was arrested July 12 for violating the child labor law. State Factory Inspectors May and Curley made the arrest. Exploiting young and innocent children for profit in his factory who should be in school may be O. K. from Kirby's moral standpoint, but the law says different.

The saw dust manufacturer of Battle Creek, who froths at the mouth every time he sees a union man, Kirby's side kick in the union busting business, isn't saying a word in denunciation of the law breakers in this instance. He is just sawing wood and saving the dust. It comes handy in his business, and in this case silence is golden.

The young natural born union man when he enters the labor movement is full of enthusiasm and impatience. As he grows older he never loses his faith and enthusiasm in the union, but gets over his impatience. He learns that the wrongs of a life time cannot be corrected in a moment.

The fellow who has been out of the union most of his life or who very seldom attends a meeting usually wants to tell the rest how the union should be conducted, and if the meeting does not take his view of it he declares the rest are boodlers, fakers or fools.

The present laws of the International Union are the result of over forty-six years of experience and represent the combined wisdom of the majority of the membership through the initiative and referendum system of law making and individual voting.

Occasionally we hear some one say what has the union ever done. The answer is, raised wages from $3, $4, $5 per M., and take your pay in cigars, groceries and notions, to $8, $9 and $10 per M., and low wages in cash once a week.

A perfect economic condition can only be brought about through trade union effort. A better social condition will surely follow an improved economic state. Begin at the bottom and build up. The trade union will do it.

If one-half of the time and energy now spent by certain people in the labor movement in fighting men and women in our own ranks was spent in an effort to build up the organization great good would follow.

None are too wise or too old to learn something new. When a man gets to the point that he thinks he knows it all it is a sure sign that he is an ignoramus and an unsafe counsellor.

The accumulated wrongs of centuries cannot be righted in a day or a week or a year. It takes time. The trade union movement is young. Give it a chance. It will succeed.

Remember that the other fellow is human and that he has opinions which he thinks are just as important as yours. A little tolerance towards others will help.

If any institution-human-is corrupt the right thing to do is to reform its component parts and one of the ways to do that is to start with one's self.

Impatience, hasty and ill advised actions and strikes do more to retard the growth of the trade union movement than all else combined.

If in doubt say nothing until you find the facts.

*Decrease.

It is estimated that since 1896 the cost of living has increased 44 per cent; the average increase in wages has been less than 20 per cent. Wherever the increase in wages has been anywhere near the increased cost of the chief articles of food, such increase has only been secured through effective trade organization.

The recent convention of the Bricklayers and Masons' International Union decided to place the question of erecting a national home, similar to that of the printers, before their local unions for discussion for ten months, at the end of which time it will be put to a referendum vote of the membership.

The Maryland legislature has passed a law requiring that the union label of the allied printing trades be placed on all the printing done for the state. The bill did not meet with much opposition, as the wisdom of the provision seemed to be generally recognized.

Trade unions seek to obtain the very best they can for their membership regardless of the system or conditions under which they live.

The Farmers' Union is reported to be making considerable headway in Colorado. Its members are demanding the union label on many things and the St. Louis and Chicago jobbing houses have been compelled to furnish union goods in many parts of the state.

The decision of the Tennessee supreme court against the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky under the state anti-trust law was on May 2 affirmed by the supreme court of the United States and the Tennessee anti-monopoly law held to be constitutional.

Two large labor bodies have recently decided to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor—the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen and the Western Federation of Miners. Of the 205 local unions in the latter body only five voted against the proposition.

It is generally conceded that the late King Edward was friendly disposed towards and a firm believer in trade unions.

Wisdom, experience and judgment come to all, but only with maturing years.

"Directions for living and sleeping in the open air," is the title of a pamphlet just issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis to its local representatives in all parts of the United States.

The pamphlet is meant to be a handbook of information for anybody who desires to sleep out of doors in his own home. It emphasizes the fact that outdoor sleeping is as desirable for the well as for sick. The booklet will be sent free of charge to any one applying for it at the headquarters of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in New York, or to the secretary of any local or state anti-tuberculosis association.

Some of the subjects of which the pamphlet treats are, how to take the open-air treatment in a tenement house; how to build a small shack or cabin on a flat roof in the city; how to make one comfortable while sleeping outdoors either in hot or cold weather; how to arrange a porch on a country house; and how to build a cheap porch; the construction of tents and tent houses; the kinds of beds and bedding to use in outdoor sleeping, and various other topics. The book is well illustrated and attractively prepared.

The object of the book is to suggest particularly to consumptives who cannot secure admission to a sanatorium how they can be treated at home under the direction of a physician. In view of the fact that there are less than 25,000 hospital beds in the United States for consumptives and fully 300,000 who should be in hospitals, the National Association urges that more attention be paid to sleeping in properly provided places at home, and that in every case the best be made of the patient's environment.

Government owned and operated telephones in Western Canada have been demonstrated to be completely successful from the standpoint of cheapness and efficiency, and it is reported the system is to be rapidly extended in every direction.

Ripe wisdom, sound judgment, courage and fidelity are among the greatest assets we have in the labor movement.

Actions speak louder than words. Men are best known by their deeds rather than by what they say of themselves.

Nothing is accomplished in the foolish attempt to tear down. What we need and what counts, is to build up.

Help build up the union and it will help take care of you and yours, both socially and economically.

Don't be a knocker. Be a booster. Boost for the union, the best friend you ever had.

No living soul can say a truthful word against a properly conducted trade union.

Experience is after all the greatest teacher we have.

I do the very best I know how, the very best I can and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference.—Abraham Lincoln.

UNION NOTES

John Holmes (53936) is requested to correspond with the secretary of Union 143, Lincoln, Nebr. Very important matter.

Union 51, Holyoke, Mass., writes: "Mr. C. Lachine (4258), initiated December 5, 1908, by Union 58, Montreal, has to answer to the charges of scabbing in the shop of Joseph Gavonette of Holyoke in person or by letter or the fine will be put on."

Wm. Bezio, write to secretary at Spokane at once. It will pay.

If Wm. Voelker does not call for his goods, same will be sold. Anyone knowing his address, notify the secretary of Union 14, Chicago, Ill.

Any secretary holding the card of Frank Caughey (39529) will please collect $2.35, being seven dues and one assessment, that he failed to pay for upon receipt of his card, and remit same to Union 291, San Jose, Calif.

Secretary holding the card of Earnest Dralle please notify the secretary of Union 387, Yankton, S. D.

Secretaries Please Notice—The card of Wm. Roach, issued by Union 257, Lancaster, should show $10.00 balance from old card. Any secretary holding the card, please enter the amount.

Any secretary holding the card of Robert Kiser (77510) collect $26.50 private loan. This was in the June Journal and we did not hear from him or any secretary. By Union 313, Lima, Ohio.

Secretary holding the card of Harry Barber please write to the secretary of Union 488, Middletown, N. Y.

Joe Amstead, secretary of Union 404, Austin, would like to hear of the whereabouts of Harry Delear (51880).

Notice to Secretaries: The card of Earl M. Pope (106298) shows credit of $9.65 on International fine paid to Union 200, Galesburg, Ill. This is an error, and secretary of union accepting said card please make correction by annulling said credit. The credit of $9.65 antedated by two years the present traveling card, issued July 9, 1910. Also notify Gus C. Rausch, secretary, Union 200, Galesburg, Ill.

The financial secretary of Union 103, Ansonia, will transact business at 112 Beaver street only between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. No use calling at his house, 18 Clifton avenue. Is mail address only.

The secretary of Union 20, Decatur, Ill., would like to hear from C. A. Lewis (20962), initiated by Union 300, Michigan City, reference his card, which is on deposit here.

Union 122, Warren, Pa., writes: "If Eddie West doesn't correspond with Union 122 before the next issue of the Journal this union will take action."

The secretary of Union 471, Macon, Ga., would like to hear from George Wilson (12397); also Geo. McCann, of St. Joseph, Mo. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of either kindly notify Union 471.

Union 344, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "If any local union has any advertising matter on hand that they don't need, please send it to Union 344, Atlanta, Ga., before or after Labor Day. We need it, and need it bad. Those that have been here, know how bad it is, and we have a good chance to do some good if we have something to do with."

Notes by Union 97, Boston.

Wall Street will soon gamble in spring wheat, then corn, after that cotton.

Japan, who buys raw cotton in India, sends it back manufactured, is now planting cotton in Korea.

Manilla cigars are now made in Hong Kong, China, and exported. There is no revenue tax there. Turning out from 50,000 to 60,000 a day. We wage earners want protection that protects.

If one-half the cigars consumed here were made here we should triple our membership, and this is true of every large city in the country.

When the miscellaneous trades realize we are all links in the same chain and demand the label on all commodities, the shorter work day, the living wage and the better conditions for the woman worker will be here.

The demand for the label means the formation of locals in various places when there are none at present. This means formation of central and state bodies and the uplift of the race.

So far we donated the following sums:

Textile workers.....	$ 3.50
Carney hospital.....	50.00
Persia.....	10.00
Outing fund for children.....	10.00
Campbellton fire sufferers.....	10.00
Free home for consumptives.....	25.00
Tampa lock out.....	375.00
Lima labor paper.....	1.00

Total$489.00

Many of these donations add to the prestige of the labor movement, and strengthen the label.

We need a convention and we should add an old age pension to our chain of benefits.

The trend is towards independent political action but not partizan politics.

We would like a photograph of a Judge who will not grant a temporary injunction against a labor organization.

Instead of working over time in the 9th district, why not organize and get a living wage for an eight-hour day.

"Whether you work by the piece
Or work by the day,

The shorter the hours,
The greater the pay."

First organize.

Then reduce hours.

Then increase the wage.

Let the worker demand:

Good food.

Good clothes.

Good homes.

Raise the school age.

If we don't restrict immigration the protective tariff will go.

Every worker should have books on his shelves and pictures upon his wall, and it needs a living wage to do it.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

The following are the only alterations or amendments to the constitution adopted since the Detroit (1896) convention, and not published in the 21st edition of the constitution:

By Union 77, Minneapolis, Minn.:

Amend Section 219 of the Constitution by adding: "And if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

Section to read as follows: "Each local union shall have the right to propose, through the columns of the Official Journal, amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal, containing such amendments, and report to the International President. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined $5. But no union shall be fined for not taking action on a proposed amendment, unless the same has been submitted by the International President by circular. Any amendment receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a vote of local unions within thirty days, and if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

By Union 316, McSherrytown, Pa.:

Amend Sec. 67 by adding after the word "adoption," on the last line, the following:

"And except in the 1st and 9th districts of Pennsylvania, where the initiation fee for applicants for membership shall be 50 cents for a period of three months, beginning the first day of the month following the adoption of this amendment."

"That should the results in increased membership from the operation of this amendment justify an extension of time, the International Executive Board is hereby empowered to extend the time for an additional three months, or such additional periods as they may deem necessary."

Sec. 67, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Union 460, San Juan, P. R.:

Amend Sec. 210, by adding the following:

District of Porto Rico.
A. The District of Porto Rico shall embrace the entire Island and all Local Unions of the Island, who shall elect a "Joint Advisory Board."

B. The "Joint Advisory Board" shall adopt rules of procedure, calculated for the best welfare of the Unions in Porto Rico, but not conflicting with the International Constitution.

C. The basis of representation shall be decided by the Unions in Porto Rico, but shall not be less than one delegate for each Local Union.

Sec. 210, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Local 71, of Elgin, Ill.:

Amend Section 106 by inserting between the word "loans," on line 11, and the word "loan," on line 14, the following in place of the present words:

"Members in the payment of private loans must pay cost if money has to be remitted to another union. They shall be entitled, at their own expense, to a postal receipt to be mailed to the union having been granted the private loan."

Section to read accordingly.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 9, Troy, N. Y., as published in the July Journal, as follows:

TUBERCULOSIS SPECIAL.

Sick laws not to interfere with present sick laws, the above to be governed the same as the present law.

1st. All tuberculosis members reporting sick and who place themselves under the care of a tuberculosis sanatorium or camp, or who are men of family and have the responsibility of a home, be allowed $10.00 per week.

2d. If the member be in sick benefit the amount drawn by said member of the present law, namely, $65.00, should be drawn, the same to be credited as International benefit.

3d. Should he draw more than $65.00 the amount drawn to be credited as a deficiency in the union said member has his card deposited and the same to be reported to the International office, and the International President to levy an assessment on all 15, 20 and 30-cent members to make up said deficiency.

4th. The said tuberculosis members to receive benefit while they are sick or until they become cured.

5th. All members who are afflicted with tuberculosis, whether entitled to benefit or not in accordance to present sick law, shall be entitled to benefits under the Special Tuberculosis Law.

Received the endorsement of 150, Sioux City.

The amendment of 46, Grand Rapids, Mich., as published in the July Journal, as follows:

To strike out of Section 156 the last clause, as follows: "But in no case shall a manufacturer be permitted to use the label who offers presents as an inducement for the sale of his goods."

Received the endorsement of 301, Akron; 9, Troy; 183, Mendota; 499, Trinidad; 431, Litchfield; 308, Muncie; 410, Centralia; 450, Oklahoma City; 259, Bloomington; 88, Dubuque.

The amendment of Union 481, Bayamon, as published in the July Journal, as follows:

In Section 67, third line, after the words, "Initiation of $3," it shall read: "Except in Porto Rico, where there shall be paid $1.50 for one year, payable in installments of 50 cents every two weeks."

Received the endorsement of 301, Akron; 150, Sioux City; 9, Troy; 499, Trinidad; 69, Three Rivers; 148, Caguas.

The amendment of Union 149, Brooklyn, N. Y., as published in the July Journal, as follows:

Amend the Blue Label Laws, Sec. 156, by adding after the words (on page 42, fourth line): "This shall not debar a local union from establishing a price above $20.00 per thousand." Add the following words: "When a higher price has been established by any local union the same shall apply to all manufacturers or their agents selling label goods within the jurisdiction of said union."

Received the endorsement of Union 9, Troy; 72, Burlington; 174, Joliet; 259, Bloomington.

The amendment of Union 450, Oklahoma City, as published in the July Journal, as follows:

"The office of town collector of Hot Springs, Ark., is a position which requires as much attention as many of our locals require of their secretary, and as there are so many of our members there for treatment, and some need and require the assistance of the town collector at all hours, for which he receives no recompense, the town collector of Hot Springs shall receive a salary of $10.00 per month, to be paid by the union paying the sick benefits, same to be paid out of the International Fund."

Amendment by Union 144, New York:

Strike out of Section 81 all on line 13, after the word "decided," on line 15, and insert the following: "Unless the shop or shops involved shall have voted by secret ballot whether an application for strike shall be made, and if the vote is in the affirmative the same shall be referred to the Joint Advisory Board, who shall have the power to make an application for strike to the International Union without submitting the same to a referendum vote of the members affiliated with the Joint Advisory Board, but no application to strike shall be made unless a committee of the Joint Advisory Board first visits the firm to adjust the grievance." Section to read accordingly.

Amendment to Section 77, proposed by Union 217, South Chicago:

Amend Section 77 by striking out on lines 7 and 8 the comma and words after International assessments, which read, "and local assessments levied for label agitation."

Section to read as follows: "Sec. 77. Any member who has contributed full dues for a continuous period of three years quitting the trade, or becoming a foreman as defined in Sec. 64, or a continuous employer of one or more members, may be placed in the retired beneficiary class and continue to receive the sick and death benefit upon the payment of 20 cents dues per week and all International assessments. All persons in the retired beneficiary class shall be entitled to vote on all questions relating to sick or death benefits, or assessments they are subject to, but shall not be entitled to sick benefit while in a foreign country, away from the jurisdiction of the International Union. Any member failing to avail himself of this beneficiary privilege shall be granted, within thirty days, if clear on the books, an absolute retiring card, entitling the holder, upon his return to the trade, to readmission free of charge as a new member. The retiring card of any person, or the beneficiary membership of any person, violating the laws or working against the interests of the International Union, shall be annulled."

Union No. 129 Denver Colorado, offers the following amendment to the International Constitution: That an assessment of 25c be levied on all 15c and 30c members for the benefit of the locked out members, of Local Unions in Tampa, Fla. Said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

There is no persecution, no injustice to a great movement, but if met in the right spirit bears its harvest of good.

Out of this attempt to seal the lips of men of labor I believe will come good.—Ex.

As a result of the almost bloodless conflict with Spain, the actual hostilities of which lasted less than six weeks, the United States paid in 1908 $3,471,157 in pensions, with assurance of an annual increase for many years to come, and the rolls of the Pension Office today bear the names of 24,000 pensioners, over 19,000 of whom are invalids and survivors of this war. More than 18,000 additional claims are now pending, although the total of the Cuban army of invasion was only 20,000 men. In 1907 the United States paid in pensions a total of $146,000,000. For 1908 the appropriation was increased to $151,000,000.

In all the wars in which the United States has engaged disease has been responsible for more than 70 per cent. of the mortality, more than one-half of which could have easily been prevented through organization and preparedness.

Preventable disease, more than wounds, swells the pension lists. Through the Museum of Safety and Sanitation, it will be shown how to lessen this loss. Statistics of the Pension Office prove that if this unnecessary loss had been avoided the saving in pensions alone would have paid the cost of the resulting war every twenty-five years. Aside from the sorrow of the homes made desolate, consider the economic value of the 70 per cent if lives now uselessly sacrificed that might be saved as bread-winners in industrial pursuits.

UTILIDAD DE LA UNIÓN.

Es cosa harto lamentable el tener que repeler continuamente los ataques injustos é interesados de los detractores que parten del mismo seno del trabajo.

Esta clase de enemigos que tienen las asociaciones obreras, son las mas tenaces, los que mas daño hacen á los ideales del mismo proletariado.

La mayor parte de esos que se denominan luchadores de la causa obrera, emplean su tiempo y sus mas preciosas energías en disputar contra sus propios hermanos los demas obreros.

No enseñan, ni ilustran, ni instruyen; sino que combaten sistemáticamente á los compañeros que se permiten diferir del criterio que ellos sustentan.

Hay que oírles con que presopopeya se proclaman Leaders de la santa causa de las reivindicaciones sociales, y luego resulta que toda su acción se concreta á obstruir la obra de los obreros que de algún modo hacen algo práctico en beneficio de toda la clase.

No vituperamos la acción educadora de sabios y filósofos que riegan en el surco sana simiente de progresistas ideas.

Pero, como habremos de aplaudir á los individuos que, en su locura, obstruyen el sendero que trillan asociaciones como la nuestra, la cual tiene por objeto hacer posible la vida de los trabajadores dentro del medio en que nos vemos precisados á vivir?

Nosotros entendemos que los trabajadores necesitan ocuparse en sus propios asuntos de actualidad, ó sea en todo aquello que se relaciona con las necesidades de la vida diaria, y por esta, mas que por otras razones tambien importantes, fue por lo que se creó la Unión Internacional, Institución que procura sistemáticamente para sus asociados la mayor suma posible de mejoras y beneficios, tratando siempre de que estos le cuesten pocos sacrificios.

Entendemos también, que no debe adoptarse el temperamento agresivo en todas las cuestiones que hayan de dilucidarse entre capital y trabajo, porque la experiencia nos ha demostrado que esa clase de guerras depauperan al trabajador más de lo que dañan al capitalista. Este se repone pronto de las pérdidas que le ocasiona una huelga, mientras que los trabajadores padecen la indecible en ella, y sufren hondas consecuencias mucho tiempo después de concluida la contienda.

Quizás sea esa la causa de que tantos detractores nos hayan combatido desde la fundación hasta la fecha, á pesar de que nuestros propagandistas no acometen á los de otras tendencias de otra manera que con argumentos suaves y razones evidentes.

Sea de ello lo que quiera, es lo cierto que se nos combate con saña por muchos individuos que debieran emplear su inquina en atacar á los verdaderos enemigos del trabajo que son los "trusts," los ajotistas y especialmente la ignorancia de los hombres, mediante la cual se hacen posibles todas las grandes y pequeñas explotaciones.

Y no es que nosotros nos quejamos de que así procedan contra esos elementos que sistemáticamente combaten á los obreros, pretendiendo que con esos ataques les defienden y redimen.

Nosotros no tenemos motivos de queja si bien se mira el asunto, pues nuestra Institución ha crecido y se ha desarrollado en el estruendo de los ataques dirigidos por esa y por otras clases de enemigos. Lo que hay es que nos apena ver tan mal dirigidas, tan mal empleadas, esas fuerzas y energías que si fuesen bien distribuidas, la clase obrera ganaría en ello tanto como ahora pierde.

¿Cuan otra sería la situación actual de los trabajadores en general, y cuanto más de prisa andaría el carro del progreso, si tanta energía perdida en las luchas intestinas hasta el presente, se hubiese empleado con habilidad en instruir á las "masas"!

Si por cada hálito de odio y de envidia y de rencillas y de desconfianzas, que ha venido invirtiendo en el seno del trabajo la pasión mal sana, hubiere dejado caer en el surco algunos granos de cariño, de amor á la clase y de enseñanzas razonables, es muy posible que la simbólica carabana estuviese numerosas millas más allá de donde se halla actualmente.

Pero; ¿qué puede hacer para destruir al enemigo común, quien tiene que emplear su tiempo y sus energías en repeler las agresiones de los mismos obreros, muchos de los cuales se introducen en el seno de nuestra Sociedad para herirnos con más certeza?

Afortunadamente muchos de sus trabajos se estrellan contra la realidad de los hechos como sucede cuando nuestros detractores hablan de la inutilidad de la Unión.

Ellos afirman con frescura inaudita, que el oficio de tabaquero está cada vez peor, á pesar de que la Unión Internacional de Tabaqueros existe; y como consecuencia de su aserto, deducen la inutilidad de nuestra Unión. A conclusiones erróneas, deducciones falsas.

En general, en los Estados Unidos de Norte América el oficio de tabaquero no has desmejorado nada como quiere suponerse gratuitamente. Por lo contrario; has obtenido mejoras demucha importancia.

Hace treinta años que nuestra Unión ejerce alguna influencia en la industria tabacalera, y podemos mostrar los datos necesarios para desvirtuar el aserto de nuestras detractores.

Hace treinta años, repetimos, eran las condiciones del trabajo en esa rama de la riqueza del país, mucho peores de lo que son actualmente, como puede ver todo el que quiera examinar ó prestar atención á los preciosos datos que suministra la historia.

En aquella fecha se pagaba el millar de tabacos al tabaquero, á razón de cinco ó seis pesos, y el pago efestuébase en vales que al hacerlos efectivos en los establecimientos designados, sufrían un notable descuento, como es consiguiente en tales casos.

Conociendo esos precios y ese sistema de pagar al obrero, no es preciso decir mas para que se comprenda la triste y desmedrada situación que atravesaba al oficio antes de que la Unión Internacional de Tabaqueros ejerciese en él su influencia salutífera.

Ensucesivos artículos continuaremos tratando este tema interesantísimo, el cual es siempre de actualidad á juicio nuestro.

BAVARDAGES.

Le bavardage et la jalousie de métier occasionnent plus de troubles dans l'union que n'importe quel autre cause. Une controverse d'une nature mesquine et insignifiante s'élève d'abord, et la langue désœuvrée de l'insinuation entreprend sur le champ de semer le discord en ouvrant une campagne qui ni sert qu'à étendre le ravage. Sur ce, la difficulté grossit et devient un sujet de première grandeur qui souvent divise l'union en plusieurs factions, occasionne des grèves hâtives et une grande perte de terrain et une animosité que des années arrivant à peine à éteindre. La jalousie et la rivalité de patrons en concurrence sont souvent les instigatrices du mal. Ils disent une demi-vérité et avant qu'elle ne soit très vieille, elle est devenue un mensonge complet. Les journalistes ont d'habitude assez à faire pour s'occuper de leurs propres intérêts sans se soucier de faire montre d'hystérie à propos des intérêts rivaux de patrons en concurrence. Parce qu'un patron trouve à redire à une "shop" et commence à insinuer de vilains bruits contre elle, cela n'est pas une bonne raison pour qu'un membre se mette à insulter d'autres membres et à répandre des insinuations sur des affaires dont il ignore le premier mot.

Un esprit de fraternité et d'amitié doit être encouragé et cultivé entre les membres sur toutes les questions strictement concernant l'union. Nous pouvons différer d'opinion, virilement et d'une manière tolérante, sur les questions concernant l'union, et cependant, montrer une bonne camaraderie dans les salles de réunion. Différez d'opinion tant que vous voudrez sur toutes les affaires en dehors de l'union et sa sphère de droit, mais pour votre propre bien et le bien général de l'union, il est nécessaire de travailler en harmonie sur toutes les affaires intéressant l'union. Quand il est nécessaire de discuter des affaires de l'union, l'endroit pour le faire, c'est la salle de réunion de l'union, et non le coin des rues ou autres endroits publics. Si un membre en diffame un autre derrière son dos, dites-lui: venez avec moi le dire devant lui, et s'il s'y refuse, qualifiez hardiment son histoire de fausseté. Mettez-vous à la place de l'autre homme et faites aux autres ce que voulez qu'il vous soit fait par les autres.

ORGANISEZ, AGITEZ ET EDUQUEZ.

Efficacité de l'Organisation.

L'efficacité de l'organisation ne saurait être surfaite. Les unions ouvrières ont fait un bien incalculable. Elles ont éduqué et relevé la qualité de l'ouvrier par le monde entier; elles ont obtenu un nombre infini de bonnes lois, telles que celles concernant l'inspection des ateliers et celles contre le labeur des enfants, etc., et on peut dire en toute vérité, que sans les unions ouvrières, il n'existerait pas une seule loi ouvrière à l'heure actuelle. Au commencement du dix-neuvième siècle, l'ouvrier était considéré comme un esclave et un vassal, ignorant et dégradé, sans espoir de s'élever jamais au-dessus de la pesante, monotone routine à laquelle il était enchaîné; tandis qu'aujourd'hui, après un demi-siècle de labeur unioniste, l'ouvrier occupe une des plus honorables et dignes places dans le monde, et il est devenu évident que s'il avait existé une organisation du labeur universelle, le bien qui aurait été fait, eût été cent fois plus considérable.

Pour protéger les intérêts des gens de notre métier et de nos membres, il faut que nous soyons à même de leur dire: "Allez de l'avant; tenez-vous sur vos droits, et nous veillerons à ce que rien ne vous manque."

L'unionisme est la protection contre la tempête, le secours dans la détresse, et la sympathie pour ceux qui souffrent.

Les unions ouvrières encouragent l'éducation et déracinent l'ignorance et avancent les intérêts et augmente et maintient les gages de leurs membres. Elles protègent les membres des patrons peu scrupuleux et dénués de justice. Elles accomplissent en votre faveur ce que vous ne sauriez espérer de faire en tant qu'individu isolé. C'est donc un devoir que vous avez envers votre femme, votre famille et vos enfants que de vous affilier à une union.

Ce n'est pas le labeur organisé qui cause l'inquiétude, le mécontentement, les luttes des travailleurs, en vue d'améliorer leurs dures conditions de vie. Mais c'est le labeur organisé qui cherche à contrôler ces mouvements, à les conduire par des canaux pacifiques et sûrs, loin des sables mouvants de la violence et des précipices de l'anarchie. Et le temps arrive — à moins que les signes ne signifient rien, — où même toutes les grandes forces conservatrices du labeur organisé seront nécessaires pour maintenir la paix entre la cupidité ignorante et sans frein des chercheurs de monopoles d'un côté et les esclaves gagés, ignorants, non organisés et opprimés de l'autre.

Les Bienfaits Des Unions Ouvrières.

L'éditeur a souvent reçu des lettres d'étudiants sollicitant des renseignements au support du côté affirmatif du débat: "Les unions ouvrières font-elles du bien à l'ouvrier?"

Bien que cela soit vraiment encourageant de voir que le mouvement est un sujet d'intérêt dans les collèges, ce qui atteste son importance de jour en jour croissante, toutefois, la forme sous laquelle ce débat est présenté démontre combien grossière est la conception des unions ouvrières que se forme l'étudiant en moyenne. On pourrait tout aussi bien se demander si cela fait du bien à la santé prendre des bains, si le bifteck est nourrissant, si les écoles propagent l'éducation, si les églises servent à la religion. S'il existe des doutes sur les effets des unions ouvrières sur la condition matérielle des ouvriers, demandez donc alors le contraire, c'est-à-dire si l'absence d'unions serait un bien pour eux.

Les ouvriers peuvent-ils obtenir des meilleures conditions de travail en s'adressant individuellement aux patrons? Les ouvriers non-organisés travaillent-ils moins d'heures et reçoivent-ils une plus haute paye que ceux qui le sont? L'ouvrier non-unioniste jouit-il de plus de liberté et d'indépendance? Son bien-être est-il mieux servi les salaires que la libre concurrence lui permet d'obtenir?

En résumé: La condition de la classe ouvrière sera-t-elle élevée par la soumission pure et simple, en rendant l'ouvrier incapable de redresser un tort qui lui sera fait, en dépendant tout uniquement sur la générosité des patrons et la bonne volonté de la société, au lieu de se mettre à co-opérer en vue de s'améliorer elle-même et de se dresser unie dans l'affirmation de ses droits?

Prozíraví řemeslní unionisté věří, že dělnická otázka ve svém nejširším smyslu, zaujímá v sobě každý sociální a hospodářský problém, poutající pozornost člověčenstva. My věříme, že konečně a úplně rozluštění této velké dělnické otázky musí být dosaženo evolučními a ne revolučními metodami. Jednotlivci musí být naučeni rozuměti svým povinnostem a závazkům vůči svému spolubřiznímu dříve nežli úplné rozluštění nastane. Touto cestou, evolučními metodami, řemeslné unie dokázaly mnoho, a jsou dnes mocným činitelem v povznášení a osvícení masový lidu. Zjevy v dělnické otázce, jimž jest nejlépe porozuměno a na nichž všechny řemeslné unie se usjednotí, jsou ty, jimž věnujeme zvláštní a okamžitou pozornost. Dnes jsou to zkrácení doby pracovní, odstranění dětské práce, zdravotní opatření a zlepšení domovů a dílen. Až tyto budou rozluštěny, pak přijdou na řadu další náležitě otázky a i tyto budou řemeslnými uniemi a jich vlivem vyřízeny.

Doutníkáři by měli napomahati, kde jest to možné, organizovati jiná řemesla. Příhodný čas pro organizaci jest zde. Příštích několik roků budeme svědky ohromného oživení hnutí řemeslného dělnictva. Pomáháte-li jiným—pomáháte také sobě. Ti, jež zorganizujete, sesílí požadavek uniového lablu a následkem toho více a stálejší práce pro uniového člověka. Opatrným řízením, přesností a přidržováním se patřičných sfér, Mezinárodní Unie dosáhne během nynějšího oživení 40,000 členů, čehož plná síla počítána bude již příštího roku. Necht' heslo jest: Organizovat, agitovat a pak rozkvět uniového lablu.

Řemeslné unie věří v konání dobra kdykoliv a kdekoliv se příležitost k tomu naskytne. Majíť to srdce, rozum a odvahu čeliti stavu a podmínkám jak je nacházejí a mužně přemahají veškeré překážky, z nichž žádná se nejeví dosti děsivá anebo příliš velká aby před ní zmalovaly srdce upřímného řemeslného unionisty, kterýž poznává dobro vykonané v minulosti a možnosti pro budoucnost, kdežto průměrný re-formator (který obvykle chce reformovati každého jenom na sebe) spokojuje se resolutováním o mluvením o krásách růžové budoucnosti.

Máme-li býti naprosto úspěšnými ve velkém před námi stojícím zápase dokonale zorganizovati naše řemeslo a přivoditi slušné mzdy a poměry na něž mají veškerí dělníci takové spravedlivé nároky, musíme spolupůsobit s vysokomyslnými, dobře smýšlejícími uniovými vyrobiteli do takové míry, aby to nebylo na úkor našich práv, výdělku, atd.

V zápasech v nynější dobu se odehrávajících jakož i v těch jež nás očekávají, vodítkem-li bude mírná přímot, smílivost, spravedlnost a bude-li potřeba i arbitrace, každý pokus korunován bude úspěchem.

Upřímný řemeslný unionismus vyznačuje pravidelné poněkud avšak jisté povznášení řemeslných tříd k vyšším, ušlechtilějším a lepším snahám v životě. Řemeslní unionisté vědí co chtějí a také ví jak by splnění svých tužeb o zlepšení svého postavení dosáhli. Pravý řemeslný unionista rozumí správnému vývinu rodiny člověka, a ať jest netrpěliv jako kdokoli o zlepení, jeho intelligence jej vede dále s pořádku-milovnými, pomalými avšak spojenými spolunionisty. Mužové tito jsou ti praví rekové v bitvě za dělnickou emancipaci. Zneuznání, porážka aniž úspěch je nezmění. Oni mají odvahu jež vyplývá z přesvědčení a může být na ně spoleháno že vždy se budou bít pro právo a spravedlnost.

Zednáři, Odd fellows a podobné jednoty pozůstávají z mužů všech povolání v životě. Ne tak s řemeslnými unii, jejich členstvo hned od začátku pozůstávalo z těch, již po staletí drželi byli na dně společenské úrovně a jimž k všelikému vzdělání příležitost upírána.

Dnes řemeslné unie mají ve svých řadách některé z nejlepších řečníků a spisovatelů o nichž bylo kdy slyšáno. Jich místní schůze mohou býti s prospěchem porovnány s ložovými schůzemi jak u vzhledu členstva tak i v práci i v debatách, kdežto jejich konvence v ohledu intelligence, vzhledu i všeobecné debaty předěly kterékoliv zákonodárné těleso v zemi, i spolkový kongres v to počítaje. Řemeslné unie povznášením intelektuálního morálního a fyzického blaha svých členů vykonali užitečný úkol na prospěch lidské společnosti vůbec, výkon, kterýž nemá sobě rovná v těch mnoha úspěších v historii vzniku a vývinu v této zemi.

Povinnost uniových členů.

Ponaučení, jež každý unionista by si měl vzíti k srdci jest ta skutečnost, že úspěch dělnického hnutí spočívá na jednotlivých pokusech členstva. Jest to v té míře, v jaké průměrný člen bere účast ve své organizaci, v jakéž tato pokračuje anebo hyne. Jest to ten muž, který uznává svou povinnost vůči unii, jenž povzbuzuje úředníky svoji přítomností a jenž bere účast na jednání, kterýž napomáhá v práci a kterýž činí pokrok nejen možným ale jistým.

Každý muž má svůj díl k vykonání a svou povinnost k vyřízení. Jiný člen to zaň činit nemůže. Pakli schází ve schůzích, zůstává sesle prázdná a o jednoho účastníka jest tam méně. Každý člen má být činitelem a něco zastat. V takové organizaci není žádný život, kde členové jsou lhostejní anebo spějí na svých veslech. Pakli to stojí za to patřiti k unii, stojí to za to, přivést ji k úspěchu. Každá unie jest právě taková jakou jí činí její členstvo. Bude bud' mrtvá anebo živá, prospívající anebo ochablá, právě v takové míře v jaké její členové chápou svoje zodpovědnosti a poctivě jim chtějí dostáti.

Die Kritiker und Fanatiker in den Arbeiterreihen deuten stets auf die Feindschläge. Wenn mal ein anarchistischer Richter mit der rohen Macht eines Einheitsbegriffs einen Streik aushebt, schwächen die Kritiker und Fanatiker Flug und sagen: „Hab ich's nicht immer gesagt? Die Arbeiter werden stets verhaufen!“

Wenn mal ein eigenmächtiger Gouverneur die Gewerkschaftler mittels Gewehre und Aufrührerkanonen einschüchtert, dann steden die Kritiker und Fanatiker ihre Köpfe zusammen und sagen: „Hab ich's nicht immer gesagt? Die Gewerkschaften haben ausgespielt?“

Nichts ist verächtlicher, als das Krächzen dieser Unglücksraben. Nichts ist auch wohl gründlicher als ihre Unwissenheit über das, was die Gewerkschaften bis jetzt erreicht haben.

Sicher ist der Kampf um die industrielle Gerechtigkeit noch nicht gewonnen. Die Besitzer erhalten noch viel mehr als die Arbeiter. Seit 1825 sind jedoch tausende von weitreichenden und dauernden Siegen durch die Arbeiterorganisationen gewonnen worden. Die Löhne sind erhöht, die Stunden verkürzt, die Verhältnisse verbessert worden, Reformen sind erzwungen und Mißstände beseitigt worden, und die ganze Stellungnahme der Gesellschaft den Lohnarbeitern gegenüber ist achtungsvoller und menschlicher geworden.

In der Kürze dieses Artikels lassen sich Statistiken und Geschichte nicht besprechen. Wir wollen nur ein paar Gegenstände in der Vergangenheit und Gegenwart des amerikanischen Arbeiters betrachten.

Man stelle die $500 jährlich, die der Fabrikarbeiter heute durchschnittlich erhält, den $247 gegenüber, die derselbe Arbeiter 1850 erhielt. In 50 Jahren, die Löhne zu verdoppeln und die Stunden zu verkürzen, ist sicherlich Schnellarbeit im sozialen Fortschritt.

Man vergleiche die 50 Cents täglich für 14 Arbeitsstunden, die der New Yorker Maurer 1776 erhielt, mit den $4.80 für 8 Stunden, die er heute erhält. Nur seine Gewerkschaft hat diese Höherwertung verursacht, und er verdient heute 10 Cents mehr für eine Arbeitsstunde, als einst für vierzehn Arbeitsstunden. Welcher Revolutionsplan der Gelben der rothen Flagge hat jemals etwas Ähnliches geleistet?

Wenn es auch eine traurige Tatsache ist, daß viele fleißige amerikanische Bürger $1 täglich und weniger erhalten, so sollte man aber nicht vergessen, daß vor 100 Jahren tausende von Weibern in dieser Republik sich an Arbeitgeber für sieben Jahre für $100, oder $14.28 jährlich verkaufte! Hier und einen halben Cent für den Tag! Das war das sogenannte „Redemptioner-System“, das die organisierte Arbeit abschaffte.

Viele Gesetze sind heute streng und unbillig, aber wer würde sie mit den barbarischen Verordnungen vergleichen, die vor einem Jahrhundert galten, als in einigen Staaten auf 25 Verbrechen die Todesstrafe stand? Im Jahre 1789 schlug der Vorherrn arbeitende Frauen und Kinder mit der Peitsche, wenn sie ihre Arbeit verlangsamt. Die Treitmühle hörte nicht auf zu gehen, Branger und Alos waren selten leer, das Brandeisen wurde immer gebraucht, und der Schandpfahl war stets von frischem Blut geröthet. Diese schandwürdigen Grausamkeiten erhielten sich durch Jahrhunderte, und sie wurden erst abgeschafft, als selbstbewußte, organisierte Arbeiter sich weigerten, noch länger ihre Opfer zu sein.

Das Loß der Streiter von heute ist nicht leicht, aber man vergleiche es mit dem der 21 New Yorker Schneider, die 1836 an den Streik gingen, und die um $1150 gestraft wurden für das Verbrechen, höhere Löhne zu fordern.

Vor hundert Jahren war eine Gewerkschaft so ungeschicklich wie eine Falschmünzergilde. Die ersten Gewerkschaftler versammelten sich heimlich in Ställen oder Werkstätten. Wenn sie weniger Arbeit oder mehr Lohn forderten, waren sie Gefesübertreter und wurden bestraft. Noch im Jahre 1834 fanden die Gewerkschaftler in Boston, als sie ein Festessen geben wollten, jede Halle in der Stadt gegen sich verschlossen, und sie mußten sich eine eigene kleine Halle bauen.

Solche Verhältnisse sollte man mit den heutigen vergleichen, in denen Gewerkschaften so gesetzmäßig wie Korporationen sind.

Je mehr einer die Gewerkschaftsbewegung studirt, desto mehr wird er von ihrer entwicklungs-fähigen Natur und ihrem schließlichen Erfolg über-zeugt. Man mag sie bekräftigen, soviel man will, ihre Errungenschaften stehen da als ewiger Beweis ihrer Thunlichkeit und Macht.

Neben der Unterstützung seiner Union, wird ein vernünftiger Gewerkschaftler auch an seine örtliche Arbeiterzeitung denken. Ihre Art ist es ja allein, auf die im Kampf der Arbeit Verlaß ist, darum ist es Pflicht der Arbeiter, mit ihrer Unterstützung nicht hintanzuhalten.

Die ersten Vorkämpfer.

Überall sind die Gewerkschaften die ersten Verteidiger und Vorkämpfer der Demokratie in allen Formen. Da die Demokratie sich mit Kriegführung nicht vereinbaren läßt, bekämpfen die Gewerkschaften aller Länder die Eroberungslust und den Imperialismus. Sie bekämpfen auch den Völkerverhaß und die religiösen Vorurtheile. In diesen grundlegenden Fragen der Menschheit und Menschenrechte sind sie voll muthiger Einigkeit. Sie sind mit allen ihren Fehlern und Mängeln die größte einzelne Beeinflussung zur Duldsamkeit und Geistesfreiheit. Und doch hat man sie engherzig gehalten, weil sie sich nicht jedem erbitterten politischen Reformplan einfügen oder sich nicht jedem Plan, die Welt in einem Tag umzuarbeiten, anschließen, sondern lieber auf das Grundliegende als auf besondere Maßnahmen und unbewiesene Theorien Gewicht legen. Die organisierten Arbeiter denken langsam, aber sicher. Ihre Art ist vielleicht unbeholfen, aber ihr Ziel ist klar.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Section 61 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amounts for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the office of the international Union:

58 Montreal	$100	103 Ansonia	$100
61 La Crosse	100	105 Maysville	100
63 Corry	100	106 Ogdensburg	100
64 Lebanon	100	109 Aberdeen	100
71 Elgin	100	116 Cortland	100
74 Poughkeepsie	100	120 Muscatine	100
78 Hornell	100	122 Warren	100
79 Sandusky	100	123 Hamilton	100
81 Peekskill	100	124 Watertown	100

88 Dubuque	100	143 Lincoln	100
93 Omaha	100	146 New Brunswick	100
99 Ottawa	100	147 Union Hill	100

CORRECTION.

Owing to typographical error the call for tax in the August Journal read $1.00 instead of $100.00, as intended in each instance.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

The Constitution, twentieth edition, contains an error. The amendment of Union 97, Boston, reference accepting cards from foreign countries, took the place of the old law. Through mistake both the amendment and the old law are included.

If you hold any loan cards of no further use send them to this office.

Before granting or accepting retiring cards secretaries and members should consult Sections 76 and 77 of the Constitution.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and in addition send in such card, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

If secretaries when ordering supplies will place the order on the regular blank, it will greatly simplify the work here and avoid unnecessary delay for those who order the supplies.

NOTICE.

We are repeatedly asked whether it is necessary in the event of death to issue a card and send it to this office. The request for cards of deceased members only applies where members have been accepted by card, and especially where cards show a loan account, as the account must be checked up and closed. No card need be issued to or for any member except he retires absolutely, when an Absolute Retiring Card is issued, or if a 20-cent beneficiary member wishes to change to another union's jurisdiction, then a transfer card is issued. Or if a 15 or 30-cent member wishes to travel then a Blue or Loan Card is issued in accordance with length of membership. But in no case need cards be issued to members simply because they are members, as that is a needless loss of time and in the aggregate entails considerable useless expense.

NOTICE.

Attention is directed to Sections 11, 12, 13 and 14 of the International Constitution, which read as follows:

Sec. 11. The officers of the International Union shall consist of a President, First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Vice-Presidents and Treasurer, who are hereby constituted the Executive Board. Every member of the International Union, provided he has been a continuous member in good standing for not less than five years prior to election, shall be eligible to any office in the International Union. The President and the Vice-Presidents to be located at different places. The Third Vice-President to be a resident member of a Canadian union.

Sec. 12. The election of officers for the Cigar Makers' International Union shall take place by a popular vote of the members thereof; an absolute majority of all votes cast being necessary to an election. At the same time and place the full quota of delegates to which the International Union shall be entitled at the conventions of the American Federation of Labor shall be elected, and all rules and regulations of this constitution shall apply in the nomination and election of delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention that obtain in the election of officers of the International Union. When the International Union is entitled to five delegates, local unions may nominate five candidates as delegates. If five are to be elected, the twenty-five candidates who receive the largest number of nominations of local unions shall be placed upon the official ballot. All candidates for delegates must be members of the International Union for at least five consecutive years.

Sec. 13. Between September 15 and November 1, preceding the time for the election of International Union officers, each local union shall nominate one candidate for each of the offices to be filled. The nominations in local unions to be taken by secret ballot. Unions failing to nominate shall be fined $10.

Sec. 14. Within twenty-four hours after the nominations taking place in a local union the corresponding secretary shall notify the International President of the names of members nominated, of which local unions they are members and to which offices they have been placed in nomination. The International President shall furnish local unions with blank lists for this purpose. Corresponding secretaries failing to mail nominations within the time herein prescribed, shall be fined $5. At 12 m., precisely, on November 8, after the nominations have been made, the International President shall close the nominations, and any nominations received after the above time shall not be considered.

You will notice by the foregoing that the law provides that each local shall nominate one (1) candidate for the office of International President, one

(1) candidate for First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Vice-President, and International Treasurer; and that the President and Vice-Presidents shall be located in different places and that the Third Vice-President shall be a resident member of a Canadian union, and that each local union shall nominate five (5) candidates for election as delegates to the American Federation of Labor; and that it provides a fine of $10.00 for failure to make nominations as provided in the foregoing. The law also provides that all members who desire to be candidates must be members for five consecutive years.

All nominations have to be made by secret ballot. Nomination blanks for the purpose of recording the nominations for President, Vice-Presidents and International Treasurer, and for recording the nominations for candidates as delegates to the American Federation of Labor have been forwarded to all local unions. Candidates for delegate to the American Federation of Labor can also be nominated for any of the other offices.

G. Nestelhut appealed against 22, Detroit, for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

J. C. Niss appealed against 71, Elgin, for fining him for failure to attend meeting of the Union. The appellant says the time and place of the meeting was changed, that he did not know of the change, and was not notified by any one. The union says the time and place of the meeting was changed. The appeal was sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 46 Grand Rapids, Mich., to fine Henry Ganthier $25.00 for working in the unfair shop of Goldsmith & Co., and losing his card. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 6.

Approved the application of Union 45, Springfield, Ohio, to suspend and fine Chas. Mentel, No. 68685, $200.00 for quitting the foremanship of a union factory and starting a scab shop and employing nothing but non-union girls. Following is the vote: Four members approved the application as made; the other three members favored a fine of $100.00.

Approved the application of Union 456, Albia, Iowa, to fine Brice Scott, No. 112,829, and Fred Scott, No. 106,440, each $50.00 for allowing themselves to become suspended and taking jobs in non-union shops. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 6. The other member favored a fine of $25.00.

Approved the application of Union No. 32, Louisville, Ky., to fine Lesley Ganley, No. 119,517, $50, and suspend him for going to work in an unfair shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 5. Of the two other members, one did not approve suspension, and the other approved a fine of $25.00.

Approved the application of Union 457, St.

Joseph, Mich., to raise the fine imposed upon Chris. Binder, No. 104, on Dec. 1, 1909, for throwing up his card and accepting a job in a non-union shop from $25.00 to $75.00. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 6; Negative, 1.

Approved the application of Union 414 Win-nipeg, Man., to fine J. Welch $100 and suspend him for working as foreman in a strike shop; also to suspend and fine the following $50.00 each for scabbing in the same shop: T. Welch, No. 100,937, H. Venegratzky, No. 108,412; C. Gilbert, No. 21,467; R. Golden, No. 116,716; Mrs. King, No. 10,000; A. W. Dewitt, No. 114,081; E. Clancy, No. 111,846; H. Wardell, No. 116,923; M. Freeman, No. 101,170; A. Diamond, No. 105,198, and J. Zeriff, No. 105,198. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 6. The other member approved the fines, but not the annulment of the cards.

Approved the application of Union 102 Kansas City, Mo., to fine W. J. Adams $25 for working in a non-union factory of the Jenkins Cigar Co. for the month of March. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 133 Richmond, Va., to fine W. B. Blakenship No. 10,678, $50 for allowing himself to be suspended and for working against the interests of the union by accepting a situation as foreman or teacher in one of the factories of the American Cigar Co. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 283, Geneva, N. Y., to suspend and fine Henry Crea-ger, No. 3802, $50 for going to work in a scab shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 4, Cincinnati, O., to annul the cards of and fine Frank A. Hempelman, No. 23,582, and H. H. Brenning, No. 20,925, $200 each for scabbing in the A. Mayer shop. Following is the vote: Four members approved the $200 fine and three approved a $100 fine. One member disapproved the annulment of the cards.

CORRESPONDENCE

Coopersburg, Pa., August 8, 1910.

The factory laws of the State of Pennsylvania, for the protection of female labor, are probably the poorest north of the Mason and Dixon line. The cigar factories of this state, including the Trust factories, I venture to say, employ more females than males; hence then interest in factory legislation ought to be more pronounced and active. While the factory laws limit the week's work to sixty hours, they at the same time permit a day's work of twelve (12) hours. This in face of the fact that the laws of the state limit a day's work on all municipal and state work to eight per day.* Recently the Superior court of this state, the highest court, declared this law to be constitutional, when a contractor of Pittsburg was fined $5.00 for violation in the lower court.

The factory laws also provide for an hour for lunch at noon, but permit the chief Factory Inspector to reduce the time, and fail to mention the limit to which it can be reduced. This is another weak spot which should be amended. The twelve hour limit should be reduced to ten, if nothing better can be obtained; and a definite line drawn when the hours shall commence and when they shall end.

The unorganized cigarmakers of this state commence to work, when trade is busy, at six o'clock in the morning, and continue to work till 11:30 a. m.; finish their dinner, going and coming, in about half an hour; then work is continued till about 6 p. m.

On Saturday they work till 11:30 a. m. In the afternoon the married women, who work in the factories making cigars, start to do the house cleaning for the whole week.

In this connection I desire to say that no law can be enforced, unless the parties directly interested, insist upon its enforcement, by complaints to the Deputy Factory Inspector, and if necessary to the Chief Factory Inspector; and if the authorized officers fail to enforce the laws, then to proceed by mandamus, compelling them to appear in court and show cause.

The laws against stealing, which are as old as civilization, cannot be enforced unless the party having been robbed makes proper complaint.

There are at present, roughly estimated, over 40,000 females employed in the cigar industry, of whom less than 5,000 are organized. This is one of the great problems we have to face in the near future; the sooner a solution is found the better. I submit the following amendment to the constitution for discussion:

Class B:

Section 1.—Any female cigarmaker, over seventeen years of age, having worked at the trade at least two years, shall be eligible to membership as follows:

The initiation fee shall be one dollar, payable within eight weeks; the weekly dues shall be 15 cents. The benefits shall be as follows:

A sick benefit of $3.00 weekly.

A strike benefit of $3.00 weekly.

An out of work benefit of $1.50 weekly.

A death benefit of $50.00.

Section 2. These laws shall only apply to females not working in blue label factories; in all other respects the laws, rules and regulations governing the sick and death benefits, out of work and strike benefits, and suspension for non-payment of dues, shall be in full force.

Section 3.—Any female member going to work in any factory using the blue label shall pay the same dues, as those enumerated in Class A, and receive the same benefits. The membership prior to this time shall be computed on the basis of two years for one.

I do not believe in the enactment of special laws, which provide a lower initiation fee for part of the State of Pennsylvania, Florida or Porto Rico, unless the benefits are reduced accordingly. Under the McSherrytown amendment, which includes the city of Philadelphia, being located in the First Internal Revenue District, a cigar maker can join for 50 cents, while in the city of New York, where trade conditions are almost equal, the initiation fee is $3.00. Legislation of this kind is not only absurd, but opposed to all principles of equity and fairness.

The State of New Jersey employs in proportion to production, as much cheap labor, especially females, as the First and Ninth Internal Revenue Districts of Pennsylvania. The amendments I suggest are to govern the entire jurisdiction of the C. M. Int. Union of America.

For the fiscal year ended June, 1910, the First and Fifth Districts of New Jersey paid taxes for 517,646,705 cigars, of which the product of cheap female labor was over 440,000,000. Four hundred and forty million cigars. This shows where we are drifting to. It is useless to hide one's head in the sand, like the ostrich in the Sahara Desert, when the storm approaches.

The local unions of the First and Ninth Internal Revenue Districts of this state have recently discussed plans for the purpose of educating the non-union cigarmaker to protect his interests by organization and unity of action. This looks well so far as it goes. Nevertheless, I hold that the most effective way to accomplish this result will be proper factory legislation, by the reduction of the hours of labor and the absolute prohibition of night work.

It is impossible to any degree to educate married women, going to work at 6 o'clock A. M. and continuing to work until 6 P. M., and in the busy season two and three hours after supper; then to attend to the household duties and look after the children. There is hardly any time under such conditions for education. In this connection I desire to quote from the writings of the late Mrs. Ira Stewart of Cambridge, the wife of the original Eight-Hour Philosopher of this Continent:

"Whether you work by the piece,
Or work by the day—
Reducing the hours
Increases the pay."

The above is as true today as when it was written, about forty years ago. The history of the American labor movement proves it conclusively. When the laboring men of this country worked twelve hours a day and longer they had occasional strikes and riots, but no permanent organization. They formed unions spasmodically and subsequently dissolved in short order. The securing of legislation by legitimate methods and the enforcement of the same costs money. I therefore suggest the following amendment for discussion:

The local unions of the States of Pennsylvania and Florida shall have the privilege of expending one-half of the per capita allowed for label agitation, for the purpose of securing protective legislation for children, minors and married women in the cigar factories, and for the enforcement of the same by agents and the employment of counsel if necessary.

The female labor employed in the cigar factories of this state, especially in the Trust Factories, is rapidly increasing, and I venture to predict that in less than ten years it will increase to more than 65 per cent of the total employed. The sooner action is taken the better.

There is a school for apprentices in East Greenville, Pa., where boys and girls finish their apprenticeship in six months; the tuition fee is $15.00. After that they secure employment as full-fledged journeymen in the factory of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros. From 40 to 50 cigarmakers are thus added to the trade annually. Yours fraternally, A Strasser.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16, 1910.

To Organized Labor and Friends, Greeting:

While it is apparent to all who have given any consideration to the matter that the promotion of the sale of union made products is on the increase, nevertheless the fact remains that some of our affiliated organizations who are not as strong in numbers as others are entitled to receive greater support and encouragement.

One of our affiliated organizations in particular, the Tobacco Workers' International Union, in their efforts to organize the men and women engaged in that industry, are combatted by a combination which is probably about the largest in this country, the American Tobacco Company.

In a recent investigation made by one of the departments of the Federal government it was reported that more than 85 per cent of the smoking and chewing tobacco and cigarettes made in this country are the output of that combination familiarly known as the "Trust." Not only was this demonstrated in the investigation, but it was also reported that a great percentage of the product of this Trust was not tobacco at all, but was a cheap substitute therefor.

When we realize the large number of workmen who use tobacco in some form or other, and consider the enormous output of the American Tobacco Company against the output of tobacco and cigarette factories operating under union conditions and using the label of the Tobacco Workers' International Union, it cannot be denied that this organization and its label are not receiving the support they are entitled to from organized labor and its friends.

At the present time the Tobacco Workers' International Union has agreements with some sixty factories located in various parts of the United States and Canada who are manufacturing smoking, chewing tobacco, snuff and cigarettes that bear the label of that organization.

If our members and friends would give greater attention when making purchases of this character and insist that the union label should appear upon every package they purchase, it will be but a short time before this organization, which is making such a splendid struggle, would be numbered among the largest organizations in affiliation with this department and with the American Federation of Labor.

The American Tobacco Company having obtained almost complete control of the smoking and chewing tobacco and cigarette industry, are now branching out and endeavoring to obtain control of the product of the cigarmaking industry. It is sometimes thought by many that cigars made in the southern sections of the United States, particularly in Key West and Tampa, Fla., are imported cigars, and the impression among many is that they are not entitled to bear the label. This impression is erroneous. The organizations using union labels in the tobacco industry are entitled to greater support and patronage than they are receiving at the present time. If our members and friends will in the future agree among themselves, collectively and individually, to purchase no tobacco, cigarettes or cigars unless the same bears the label of the respective organizations, they will be lending a helpful hand to both the Tobacco Workers' International Union and the Cigarmakers' International Union.

Our members and friends are urgently requested that in the future, when making purchases of this character, they shall insist that the label of the Tobacco Workers' International Union appears upon all packages of tobacco and cigarettes, and the label of the Cigarmakers' International Union appear upon boxes from which they purchase cigars.

Not only are they urged to do their duty in this direction, but to insist upon the union label appearing upon all purchases that they make, no matter what the character of the article might be. As stated above, the demand for union labeled products is on the increase, and if during the coming year we keep alive the activity that has been displayed in the past, it is bound to be of benefit to the affiliated organizations, and the trade union movement as well.

Thomas F. Tracy,
Secretary-Treasurer.

New York, Sept. 6, 1910.

It is getting more and more difficult for an old cigarmaker to get work because the small manufacturer is crushed out of business by the different trusts. The large manufacturers will not, through their superintendents and foremen, take into their employ an old man as long as they can get younger men and women. On the contrary, for a small manufacturer, an old man is many times more acceptable on account of the fact that he very seldom has any rush orders and in many cases only store trade, which business he has given up or will have to give up as it is impossible for him to compete with the united stores and the trusts.

I am seventy-one years old and although a little slow in my work I am still able to make a fair cigar, but in the last five years I have been more out of work than at work, and if it was not for a relative of mine who helped me (and to whom I accordingly have willed my death benefit) I would have been suspended and perhaps out of existence, therefore I take the opportunity, through the Journal, to ask what will become of the old members that have been in the union twenty-five years and longer and are unable to get work. There are probably many old members in the same condition as I am, that have been waiting to see an amendment adopted, that will guarantee for old members an out-of-work benefit all the year round. I hereby take this opportunity to ask the officers and members if there should not be a way to right this wrong to the old members, not a wrong committed by the unions, but due to the concentrated, capitalistic greed for money.

Philadelphia, Sept. 4, 1910.

Of late the question of holding a convention of the International Union appears to be on tap, but like malt liquor, when drawn in a glass, there is much froth on top, but when allowed to settle it doesn't measure up to the apparent quality. That is to say, if the question of holding a convention of the International Union is given the cool, candid consideration of the membership at large, I believe that many might change their minds as to the necessity of holding one. In my mind there are several good things that a Convention might have done. Among them it might have raised the International President's salary to a respectable figure, and that can be accomplished by an amendment through the Journal as well. I have been a member of the International Union for thirty years; I have watched it grow from tottering infancy to stalwart manhood, and I am proud of my membership—am proud of its past history, gratified at its present standing and sanguine of its future triumphs, but I am not proud of the small salary paid our International Presidents for the services rendered. On the contrary, when I am asked by a member of another organization to state what amount our International President receives I am ashamed to state it because I know he receives less for the work he does than any other International President in the country.

Hence I sincerely hope that there is some local union big enough to propose an amendment to the Constitution to raise his salary to a fair compensation. The main reason that I oppose a convention is I don't feel that we can spare the money that it would cost as we are at present up against two big propositions—first the Tampa strike; to win that strike will cost at least $150,000 and we must win at any sacrifice; to lose would give the International Union a bad set back; secondly we are now engaged in a campaign to organize the poorly organized districts.

I. W. Lansing.

New York, Sept. 13, 1910.

The first annual entertainment and ball of the Women's Trade Union League of New York will take place at the Grand Central Palace the evening of Nov. 11. The League is planning to make this the great social event of the year among trade unionists. The program is not yet completed, but the Entertainment Committee is arranging for music, dancing, a bazaar and other special features which will be announced later. The League will offer a banner as a reward to the Union from which comes the largest number of members. This banner will be designed by a well known artist and made up by the Badge & Banner Makers'

Union. Also rewards to those who sell the greatest number of tickets.

Helen Marot, Secretary.

Warren, Pa., Sept. 5, 1910.

Members are being victimized in Warren that were in the strike and had active parts. They are filling up the shop with men from the cheap district; there are fellows moving their furniture in here, moving into houses, and after they are settled down they go up to the factory and ask for a job. Conditions are very poor. Trade dull. E. J. Tribout, Secretary.

ORGANIZERS' REPORT.

London, Ont., Sept. 10.

Trade is generally good throughout the Niagara peninsula, despite the fact that some liquor licenses have been cut off and that our ultra temperance friends have been exceptionally active in promoting local option campaigns, which if they do nothing else, cause a feeling of uncertainty which reacts on trade. However, up to date, these people have pretty well confined themselves to the attempt to secure local option in the smaller and less populous municipalities, frankly stating their intention to arrive at the same result in the larger centers by means of license reduction.

I visited Humberstone, Port Colborne and Dunnville, places under the jurisdiction of Union 140 St. Catharines. There are two small factories (union) at Humberstone, both reporting good business, the label is in good demand here and fair in Port Colborne; some credit for this lies in the increased advertising given this district by the Canadian Blue Label League.

In Dunnville there is one small factory (non-union) which up to date has resisted all attempts to convert it to unionism. I covered this place as well as Port Maitland with advertising matter donated by the C. B. L. League. I next visited Simcoe, where there is one small factory (union); business is reported good, and label goods appear to be in fair demand; the label league has been doing some advertising here also.

From here I went on to Woodstock and Ingersoll. There is one factory at Woodstock, good business is reported here, and the label is in fair demand. This is one of the places in the province that used to have a fairly good labor movement; and had two cigar factories. There is little or no labor movement in existence now. Ingersoll maintained a cigar factory up until a few years ago; there is not much demand for label goods, nor much to work on to make a demand. Stratford is another place that at one time had a good labor movement. The recent G. T. R. strike and its settlement have led old timers like Jos. Heintzman to believe that as Stratford is a great railroad town, the railroad men can now be interested to help along the general labor movement.

In our trade all hands are at work; business is reported good; the label is in good demand—home-made goods generally having the call.

The label league maintains a good permanent advertising sign opposite the railroad station, as this is a large junction point; the value of the sign is unquestioned.

The recent strike and its settlement in London, Ont., has undoubtedly cleared the air for better conditions generally, and has the added value of demonstrating the power of organization to the non-unionists of our trade in that city.

The demand for union goods is steadily increasing in response to the work of an active and progressive label committee ever ready to seize an occasion to advertise the label; amongst other things they have inaugurated a series of excursions, on which and at stopping-places by the way, suitable label advertising matter is distributed. The last of these excursions netted the union about one hundred dollars, which will be used for label advertising. They are also arranging with local, motion picture shows to exhibit a slide advertising the label. The labor day parade will also be taken advantage of to advertise.

The work shows results; a few years ago the label was a rarity in London; now it is in evidence, and in demand. My visit to St. Thomas disclosed about the same condition of affairs as obtained at my previous visit, matters pertaining to our trade appear to be very slow and incapable of improvement.

The label is in poor demand, and although there are many men in St. Thomas belonging to railroad organizations, they are not responsive to the appeal to demand the union label on cigars.

I noted that the Canadian Blue Label League have put up a large blue label sign at Port Stanley, which is quite a summer resort, where a large number of cigars are sold.

W. V. Todd, Org.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 6, 1910.

Arrived in Lima early in August to make an effort to organize the cigar makers in the San Felice factories. The Delsel-Wemmer Co., who make the "San Felice" five-cent and "El Verso" ten-cent as their leading and well advertised brands, employ about 1,300 cigar makers and packers in five factories, located in Lima, Delphos, and Wapakoneta and Sydney. The two largest factories are located in Lima. The team work system prevails on all grades of goods. At least two-thirds of the bunch breakers, rollers and packers are girls and are paid one-third less for rolling and bunch breaking than is paid the men and boys on the same jobs. There is much fear among the girls of losing their jobs and for this reason it is a very hard proposition to get them to become members. Yet there is much dissatisfaction against the firm for paying them less for the same cigar than is paid men. And among the men there are a large number who appear to feel that they can be satisfied as long as they are getting higher prices than is paid the girls. I feel the time will come when the firm will decide to equalize prices and if the cigarmakers remain unorganized the men will be reduced. But if they can be induced to see this danger and organize they can equalize by getting the girls the same price as is now paid the men. This I tried to impress on them. There is no Saturday half holiday in these factories. All must work late Saturday afternoon or lose their jobs.

An effort was made to organize them by making personal visits to their homes night after night and while some success was attained, not what had been hoped for. In the prices paid and in many other respects this firm has adopted the same system to obtain cheap labor as the large concerns in the first and ninth districts of Pennsylvania. The local Unions of the latter districts held a second conference at Reading Aug. 28 with 15 locals out of 16 represented by 33 delegates. The reports from all but 3 of the locals showed an increase in membership since the adoption of the 50 cent initiation fee. It was determined that all locals go to work with renewed efforts to organize during this month, before the expiration of the 50 cent amendment.

It was also decided to raise funds to issue and distribute literature to the homes of the non-union cigar makers and if possible make this continuous in an endeavor to convert them to the principles of organization. While in Lima I attended and addressed meetings of Central Labor Union Carpenters and Car Workers and requested their assistance in organizing the cigar makers in the San Felice factories; also to assist the cause by creating a demand for the Blue Label.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

The following are the only alterations or amendments to the constitution adopted since the Detroit (1896) convention, and not published in the 21st edition of the constitution:

By Union 77, Minneapolis, Minn.:

Amend Section 219 of the Constitution by adding: "And if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

Section to read as follows: "Each local union shall have the right to propose, through the columns of the Official Journal, amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal, containing such amendments, and report to the International President. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined $5. But no union shall be fined for not taking action on a proposed amendment, unless the same has been submitted by the International President by circular. Any amendment receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a vote of local unions within thirty days, and if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

By Union 316, McSherrytown, Pa.:

Amend Sec. 67 by adding after the word "adoption," on the last line, the following:

"And except in the 1st and 9th districts of Pennsylvania, where the initiation fee for applicants for membership shall be 50 cents for a period of three months, beginning the first day of the month following the adoption of this amendment."

"That should the results in increased membership from the operation of this amendment justify an extension of time, the International Executive Board is hereby empowered to extend the time for an additional three months, or such additional periods as they may deem necessary."

Sec. 67, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Union 460, San Juan, P. R.:

Amend Sec. 210, by adding the following:

District of Porto Rico.

A. The District of Porto Rico shall embrace the entire Island and all Local Unions of the Island, who shall elect a "Joint Advisory Board."

B. The "Joint Advisory Board" shall adopt rules of procedure, calculated for the best welfare of the Unions in Porto Rico, but not conflicting with the International Constitution.

C. The basis of representation shall be decided by the Unions in Porto Rico, but shall not be less than one delegate for each Local Union.

Sec. 210, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Local 71, of Elgin, Ill.:

Amend Section 106 by inserting between the word "loans," on line 11, and the word "loan," on line 14, the following in place of the present words:

"Members in the payment of private loans must pay cost if money has to be remitted to another union. They shall be entitled, at their own expense, to a postal receipt to be mailed to the union having been granted the private loan."

Section to read accordingly.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of regret and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 278, London, Ont.—W. Cane, who died at Emerson, Manitoba, was buried at London, Ont. Committee attended funeral.—And Geo. McAuliffe, who died September 4. Committee attended funeral.

REFERENDUM VOTE.

On Amendments of Union 71, Elgin, and 14, Chicago. The amendment of Union 71, Elgin, reference Section 106, was adopted. The amendment of Union 14, reference Convention, was defeated.

PRIVATE LOANS

Will the secretary holding the card of C. H. Stefins (71585) please collect $1.00 private loan and forward the same to Union 140, St. Catharines, Ont.?

Any secretary holding the card of Mr. Walter Conklin, kindly correspond with W. H. Conklin, 217-218 Epier block, Seattle, Wash.

Roy Auger and Wm. Bezzio, please write to Union 325, Spokane, Wash.—W. A. Mitchell, Secretary.

Matt Brown (37303), who reported his card lost, has been suspended by Union 39, New Haven.

Union 493, of Tampa, annulled the retiring card of Arturo Fernandez (2045) for failure to deposit card and working in a strike shop at St. Augustine, Fla.—Jose R. Gimenezes, Secretary.

Will the secretaries holding the cards of John Costello and Emil Sorenson please collect and remit to secretary of 290, Janesville, the following: John Costello, $1.50; Emil Sorenson, $2.25. These amounts are for unpaid board bills and should be attended to at once.

Charges are pending against Frank M. Hart in Union 7 for working against the interests of the union. Hart is hereby notified that the trial will proceed on October 1, 1910.

An Apology.—Union 83, Nashville, Tenn., regrets very much having advertised Mr. Edward Jackson (85337) in the July issue of the Journal, and at his request does most heartily offer an apology for publication in this month's issue. It was purely a mistake, which every man here who knows Ed regrets. He paid his private loan promptly, and could get another one if he was here and needed it. (Signed) John P. Gross, Secretary; Lucian Burton, President.

Geo. Herold (106125) was suspended from Union 89 on August 13, 1910, for non-payment of dues and assessments, also percentage on loans.

Secretary holding the card of Earnest Dralle

The amendment of Union 481, Bayamon, as published in the July Journal, as follows:

In Section 67, third line, after the words, "Initiation of $3," it shall read: "Except in Porto Rico, where there shall be paid $1.50 for one year, payable in installments of 50 cents every two weeks."

Received the endorsement of 301, Akron; 150, Sioux City; 9, Troy; 499, Trinidad; 69, Three Rivers; 148, Caguanas; 114, Jacksonville; 132, Brooklyn; 102, Kansas City; 44, St. Louis; 232, Sellersville; 129, Denver; 182, Madison; 119, San Juan; 118, Peoria.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 149, Brooklyn, N. Y., as published in the July Journal, as follows:

Amend the Blue Label Laws, Sec. 156, by adding after the words (on page 42, fourth line): "This shall not debar a local union from establishing a price above $20.00 per thousand." Add the following words: "When a higher price has been established by any local union the same shall apply to all manufacturers or their agents selling label goods within the jurisdiction of said union."

Received the endorsement of Union 9, Troy; 72, Burlington; 174, Joliet; 259, Bloomington; 275, Aberdeen; 114, Jacksonville; 132, Brooklyn; 102, Kansas City; 44, St. Louis; 129, Denver; 5, Rochester.

The amendment of Union 450, Oklahoma City, as published in the July Journal, as follows:

"The office of town collector of Hot Springs, Ark., is a position which requires as much attention as many of our locals require of their secretary, and as there are so many of our members there for treatment, and some need and require the assistance of the town collector at all hours, for which he receives no recompense, the town collector of Hot Springs shall receive a salary of $10.00 per month, to be paid by the union paying the sick benefits, same to be paid out of the International Fund."

Received the endorsement of 301, Akron; 90, New York; 150, Sioux City; 9, Troy; 179, Bangor; 72, Burlington; 174, Joliet; 499, Trinidad; 259, Bloomington; 114, Jacksonville; 132, Brooklyn; 102, Kansas City; 44, St. Louis; 341, Neenah; 232, Sellersville; 129, Denver; 182, Madison.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 144, New York, as published in the August Journal, as follows:

Strike out of Section 81 all on line 13, after the word "decided," on line 15, and insert the following: "Unless the shop or shops involved shall have voted by secret ballot whether an application for strike shall be made, and if the vote is in the affirmative the same shall be referred to the Joint Advisory Board, who shall have the power to make an application for strike to the International Union without submitting the same to a referendum vote of the members affiliated with the Joint Advisory Board, but no application to strike shall be made unless a committee of the Joint Advisory Board first visits the firm to adjust the grievance." Section to read accordingly.

Received the endorsement of Union 336, Tampa; 213, New York; 315, St. Cloud; 44, St. Louis.

The amendment of Union 217, South Chicago, Ill., as published in the August Journal, as follows: Amend Section 77 by striking out on lines 7 and 8 the comma and words after international assessments, which read, "and local assessments levied for label agitation."

Section to read as follows: "Sec. 77. Any member who has contributed full dues for a continuous period of three years quitting the trade, or becoming a foreman as defined in Sec. 64, or a continuous employer of one or more members, may be placed in the retired beneficiary class and continue to receive the sick and death benefit upon the payment of 20 cents dues per week and all International assessments. All persons in the retired beneficiary class shall be entitled to vote on all questions relating to sick or death benefits, or assessments they are subject to, but shall not be entitled to sick benefit while in a foreign country, away from the jurisdiction of the International Union. Any member failing to avail himself of this beneficiary privilege shall be granted, within thirty days, if clear on the books, an absolute retiring card, entitling the holder, upon his return to the trade, to readmission free of charge as a new member. The retiring card of any person, or the beneficiary membership of any person, violating the laws or working against the interests of the International Union, shall be annulled."

Received the endorsement of Union 102, Kansas City; 315, St. Cloud; 301, Akron; 44, St. Louis.

The amendment of Union 129, Denver, Colo., as published in the August Journal, as follows:

Union 129, Denver, Colo., offers the following amendment to the International Constitution: That an assessment of 25c be levied on all 15c and 30c members for the benefit of the locked out members of Local Unions in Tampa, Fla. Said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

Received the endorsement of Union 8, Hoboken; 135, Appleton; 314, Jackson; 213, New York; 294, Duluth; 412, Newport News; 44, St. Louis; 3, Paterson; 97, Boston; 165, Philadelphia; 290, Janesville; 102, Kansas City; 316, McSherrystown; 150, Sioux City; 69, Three Rivers; 336, Tampa; 266, Memphis; 118, Peoria; 409, Kewanee; 209, Coldwater; 42, Hartford; 89, Schenectady; 99, Ottawa; 228, San Francisco; 315, St. Cloud; 174, Joliet; 167, Owosso; 301, Akron; 72, Burlington.

Union 15 of Chicago, Ill., offers the following amendment for adoption:

That an assessment of one dollar ($1.00) be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members, to be paid in four weekly installments in aid of the locked out union cigarmakers of Tampa, Fla. The proceeds of said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

Amendment offered by Union 248, Jacksonville, Fla.:

That an assessment of 25 cents be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members each month to give assistance to Tampa unions, and the assessments to continue until the International Union of America has fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars in the treasury to be used for such strikes as Tampa has now, and it shall be handled by the International President and Executive Board, and when said funds be exhausted to twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars that the assessment be renewed until the amount is replaced in said fund. The President and Executive Board shall send aid immediately to said union that is in trouble, like the one in Tampa, to be used for non-benefit members.

CHICAGO, SEPTEMBER 15, 1910.

If the history of the past does nothing else it can and should inspire confidence in the future and the stability of the International Union.

FUTURE IS PROMISING.

A glimpse into the past shows that in St. Louis, Mo., in 1876 unorganized cigarmakers worked for as low as $2.50 per M for making cigars. The prevailing jobs at that time were $4 and $5 per thousand and take your pay in cigars-truck. A member who was there at the time recently said that he counted nearly one hundred men standing in line Monday morning before a cigar factory waiting for a chance to get in and ask for a $4 job.

While the workers were compelled to take their pay in cigars they were charged at the rate of $25 per thousand, but were compelled to sell them in the open market in many instances for as low as $13 per M. They were robbed both going and coming. They were paid starvation wages for making them, then charged the top price when taking them as pay—wages—and then forced, owing to competition, to sell them for one-half what they paid for them.

With no organization, no union treasury and no benefits the workers were at the mercy of the employers and the times.

To-day Union 44, St. Louis, has a bill which is about $10 low, with scarcely a non-unionist in the city. What has been done there can be done elsewhere with organization. The same relatively low wages, long hours and other adverse conditions exist in all places where there is little or no organization. The past, when measured up with the present, justifies hope and inspires confidence and faith in the ability of the International Union to finally do for all places what it has already done in places where we are organized.

The spirit of unrest, coupled with an honest desire for better and more favorable working conditions is inborn in the minds and hearts of nearly all mankind and is kept alive by the more enthusiastic and boldly inclined.

COURAGE, STRENGTH, CHARACTER.

It is well for the workers that this is true. Whenever the masses lose hope and ambition and cease to struggle the human family will commence to go backward.

This is true in all walks of life but especially so in the trade union movement.

In our unions we have the radical, the enthusiast, the young and the old, the men of experience, the hopeless, the impatient, the ones with faith and the doubter, and many minds with many different opinions.

The great task is to harmonize all these conflicting elements in a manner that will enable us to make headway in a permanent and substantial form that will do the most good for the greatest number.

The young, inexperienced enthusiast, while meaning well and with the best of intentions, will stake all in one effort, while the older and more experienced, while just as anxious to advance the cause, and desirous of getting as much, but with riper judgment, counts the consequences and weighs well the chances of success. He is not willing to rush to almost certain destruction with the chances 100 to 1 against him. He knows from experience the time, money, labor and self-sacrifice that it has cost to build up and maintain the International union and is not willing to risk its destruction on the turn of a card. These men are the real leaders and have made the union possible.

The enthusiast is just as necessary as the old timer with the right heart and riper judgment, he arouses the dormant and hopeless to action and great good follows IF THE MAJORITY FOLLOW the wise counsel of the more conservatively inclined.

The man of judgment who is honestly inclined and has the courage of his convictions, will counsel and advise taking what we are sure of today and abiding the chance to improve a little tomorrow, or when the time is opportune. It takes more courage to do this than it does to stand up and play to the gallery, the prejudice and passion of inflamed members.

The pathway blazed by the true union man with ripe judgment and experience to back it up always leads to the greatest good for the greatest number.

In a bitterly contested strike in a competitive trade like ours, the man of experience, ripe judgment, knowledge, fairness and the courage to stand up and be counted is a boon to the movement, a credit to himself and the trade union movement and will live always in grateful remembrance in the minds and hearts of the membership and in the history of our movement.

The effort to organize any trade is an uphill job at best. The indifference and hopeless attitude of the unorganized coupled with fear makes the task doubly hard.

Our experience in this connection is the same as that of all other trades and when it comes to comparison it will be found that in so far as the per cent organized is concerned we measure up with the best of them.

Notwithstanding the many drawbacks we have to contend with not in the pathway of most of the unions we are as well organized as the best of them and far better than many.

Ours is a competitive trade in which women, children, the bunch and roll-up system prevail and in addition we have to deal with one of the most powerful trusts of modern times.

We have on our rolls today about 44,500 30c-dues-paying members, which with the 15 cent and 20 cent members brings the total up to over 51,000.

Self-preservation is the first law of nature and it is also the duty of the international union and all locals to protect its own members first. This can best be done by bending every effort to organize the unorganized.

The unorganized with their low wages and cheap method of working are a standing menace to the well organized places and the sooner they are organized, their wages increased, the better it will be for all concerned. This can be done; it will be done; how soon depends upon the attitude of the unions most vitally concerned.

We shall continue the work of organization and along well defined lines and under systematic plans which experience has demonstrated are the best calculated to reach results. We have a staff of faithful, hard working organizers who are doing their best; we ask the earnest co-operation and assistance of all members in their work among the unorganized. In the meantime all members can protect and advance the best interest of the organized by keeping the label always to the front.

The September issue of the Federationist, official paper of the A. F. of L., contains a splendid review of the recent past and present status of the trade union movement by about fifty trade unionists, and is a magnificent tribute to the strength, usefulness, and solidarity of the trade union movement of our time.

The letters cover over forty pages of the Federationist and space will not permit even mention of the splendid achievements placed to the credit of all of the unions.

The letters, however, portray the fact that without exception the unions are stronger financially and numerically and better equipped for useful activity than ever before in the history of the trade union movement.

Not a single discordant note appears in any of the letters; all are grounded on recorded facts and breathe the same remarkable spirit of hope, faith, and prediction for ultimate success. These letters are all written by trade union officials and portray facts and are signed documents.

Every member of the International Union should get and read the September issue of the Federationist.

The history of the past is useful only for measuring the progress made up to the present and forecasting our success for the future.

It is foolish to assert that history repeats itself except in a modified form. Each generation grows more intelligent than its predecessor. The masses know more to-day than ever before and are better equipped and better able as a consequence to get what they want.

If we fail to use our knowledge in the right direction and things go wrong it is partly our own fault.

The plan of voluntary conciliation and arbitration is taking deep root with and is now a part of most of the successful trades unions. The International Typographical Union has an elaborate arbitration system which is in full working force. The officers say that while there is always some criticism by a few the majority are well satisfied with the awards, which in nearly all instances give the union what it asked for.

The time will come when all unions will have to adopt voluntary arbitration laws for the settlement of trade disputes. The workers want more, which is natural and right that we should, but there must be some dividing line. If the parties at interest and directly involved cannot find and agree upon the line it is sometimes, not always, better to call in the third party.

Trade unions instill confidence, courage, faith, fidelity, respect, judgment, fairness, hope, ambition, and discipline in the minds and hearts of their members, all of which make for the better manhood and the better citizen. Manhood and good citizens make countries great.

Organized labor through trade unions will ultimately absolutely control economic conditions. It is therefore our duty not only to ourselves but to coming generations that we build wisely and well. The satisfaction and beauty of the trade union plan is that we are able to help ourselves, to better our present conditions as we build for the future.

Let us strive for the greatest good for the largest number. The world wasn't made in a minute, and its multitude of trouble, trials, and tribulations cannot be wiped out in a day. If you can't get what you want today, try again tomorrow.

Suffer little children to come out of the shop and lead them into the school room and the play ground, and suffer the father at the same time to get out of the play ground, get a job, and thus earn an honest living for himself and family.

No institution on earth is more fairly inclined than organized labor. It has suffered long, been kicked, abused, and driven to desperation; and the wonder is that it is not even more resentful than some of our enemies would make it appear.

If the meetings are not what you think they ought to be, attend them and do what you can to correct what you say are evils. A speech or a vote on the corner or in the shop doesn't count.

Under present conditions the rule of fairness must prevail whenever labor has or whenever it shall become arrogant and unfair it has and will continue to meet with sure defeat.

Knowledge rightly applied leads to a higher, better, and nobler existence. Cultivate your mind, but at the same time stick to the due book and the bill of prices.

Trade unions were the real instigators of the public school system. Knowledge is the greatest asset the masses of any country can possibly possess.

If the front of the army gets too far away from the rear, disaster is liable to overtake it. The same applies to unions in competitive trades.

Constructive work along correct lines is the aim of all honestly inclined, loyal, well meaning union men. Don't pull down. Help to build up.

The more the masses earn the better it is for trade and commerce, the worker, the merchant, and for society generally.

The easiest thing for some to do is to find fault—and what a lot of us have that habit!

Of the millions of workmen in the land, how small the portion of them that are in the ranks of organized labor! Yet every improvement in present over past conditions of labor is due to the efforts and sacrifices of the brave men and women that compose the trades unions of the land and who are still struggling to further improve the lot of the worker and are daily making progress to higher and better life for the toiling masses of the earth.

Every advance made and every advantage gained through the efforts of organized labor is shared by the unorganized, who have been the greatest obstacle in the progress of the movement.—Exchange.

NEARLY TEN MILLION PAID OUT BY ORGANIZED LABOR IN BENEFITS TO NEEDY MEMBERS.

In the Cigar Makers' Official Journal of recent issue a summary is given of the amounts of money paid in benefits to members by the organized craft during the last thirty years. The amount is striking in its magnitude and gives an impressive illustration of the advantage of trades unionism to those who are in the movement and to the country at large in relieving distress and providing for temporary wants in the case of hosts of industrious workers who would without this aid be thrown at times on the charity of the communities in which they live.

The gross sum paid in benefits from the time when the system was adopted, November, 1879, is $8,935,765.51, the amount for 1909 alone being $562,960.92. The chain of provision for the relief of members in need includes strike, sick, out of work, and death and total disability benefits, and loans to traveling members. The different grounds on which relief is granted cover almost every possible case of need, and the sum involved in providing for them is very large. Yet the cigar makers make no boast of the great benefaction they bestow and seem to regard it as only a matter of course—a necessary incident of their existence as an organized craft.

Thus modestly and unostentatiously do the labor unions of the country go on in their good work, taking care of their members who happen to meet with reverses and disaster, saving them from the cold and upbraiding hand of charity, sustaining and encouraging them until the clouds pass away, and helping them continually to better conditions of life. Yet they are condemned by the thoughtless or the vicious as unholy organizations, conspiring against the best interests of the country, and working no end of evil.

Another most gratifying fact shown up in this summary is an increase in the membership of the cigar makers' unions in the country, aggregating 21,348 during the last eighteen years, 3,940 of which was the gain for 1909. Throughout the greater part of that year the conditions of trade were very unsatisfactory, but the unions went on taking in new members and adding to their numerical and financial strength. Their enterprise and constancy of purpose in the face of great difficulties are worthy of the highest commendation.—Minnesota Union Advocate.

At a conference between the Knights of the Royal Ark (Detroit Hotel and Saloonkeepers) and the Detroit Federation of Labor, held on August 11, 1910, an agreement was entered into, whereby the Knights of the Royal Ark agreed to recommend, suggest and request its members to purchase, as far as possible, only union-made goods, and to employ union labor exclusively, and to recognize only the cards issued as trade union cards by the American Federation of Labor. In consideration of this, the Detroit Federation of Labor agreed to recommend, suggest and request its members to patronize, support and protect the members of the Knights of the Royal Ark in their various enterprises.

Union 74, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The books and accounts here not in good order. Benefit cards and vouchers all on file and the vouchers are usually endorsed. Ledger indexed and correctly posted, but not to date. The Financial Secretary has been considerably off color recently. Corrected the stamp account and deposited at time of examination in bank funds of union in possession of Financial Secretary, $120.00. Sections 175 and 176 worse than neglected. Some of this must not be repeated. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 9, 1908.....	$ 685.96
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1910.....	4,981.36
Expended over percentage in 1906-7-8-9.....	75.70

---------------------------------------	----------

This deficiency is amounts expended over percentage in 1908 and 1909 not replaced.

Union 84, Saugerties, N. Y.

Endorsed vouchers for expense have not been made out for years here, neither is the ledger indexed. These matters will be attended to for sure in the future; other than this the accounts were in good order; corrected a small difference in the stamp account. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 14, 1906.....	$ 439.64
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1910.....	1,866.80

Total	$2,306.44

Cash surplus Aug. 1, 1910.....	$ 2.95
--------------------------------	---------

This surplus is the same as at the time of last examination by Mr. A. Strasser, International Financier, June 14, 1906.

Union 144, New York City, N. Y.

The books and accounts here are really in excellent condition. Benefit cards and endorsed vouchers on file in the rotation in which the items are entered in the accounts. The benefits are all entered in separate ledgers; in the future these accounts will all show. Dues ledger page, ledger nicely indexed, but posted by entering each stamp instead of the amount on any given date. Entered item in expense for Aug., 1910, $4.40 to balance corrected differences in dues and international fees. Due to Secretary Brown on examination. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Jan. 31, 1908.....	$22,508.20
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1910.....	55,383.45

Total	$77,891.65

"Error in interest at bank" amounting to $10.00 corrected and will be reported as an Aug., 1910, receipt.

Union 175, Kingston, N. Y.

The books and accounts here are in very nice order. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense all on file. The vouchers except for a short time, are endorsed. Ledger indexed except for the same time. Accounts balanced at the end of the month; small correction in dues. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 12, 1906.....	$ 171.93
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1910.....	3,461.92
Due Int'l Union on examination.....	4.93

Total	$161.55

Deficiency of union Aug. 1, 1910.....	$ 5.60
---------------------------------------	---------

Union 327, Coxsackie, N. Y.

The books and accounts here show that Secretary Geo. Carter, Jr., No. 105024 paid himself $102.00 in illegal benefits. He also owes $1.20 error in 30c. dues for Aug., 1908. This leaves him owing $103.20 to the Union which the members will have to replace unless he does. How blind our members are at times. Of course this will never happen at Coxsackie again, and we all wish it had not happened this time. Mr. Carter was out of town so had no chance to make a settlement with him. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 1, 1906.....	$123.60
Receipts to July 1, 1910.....	520.85
Due Int'l Union on examination.....	103.20

Total	$747.65
Expense to Aug. 1, 1910.....	560.78
Balance would be Aug. 1, 1910.....	$186.87

Funds of Union—

Aug. 1, 1910, in Coxsackie Nat. Bank.....	$38.18
In poss. Treas. J. E. Brown.....	3.70
Total	$91.88

Surplus as per Mr. A. Strasser.....	8.21
Actual funds of Union	$ 83.67

---------------------------------------	----------

Union 334, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The books and accounts here are at present in very fair order and will be better sure. The result of this examination will most likely make the members think a few things. More attention given to the Union's affairs, to the payment of benefits, etc., would prevent such items as this, $64.66 due Int'l Union on examination appearing in the report and how much nicer, all around. Try it. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1905.....	$ 440.15
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1910.....	3,422.08
Expended over percentage in 1905 and 08.....	49.21
Due Int'l Union on examination.....	64.66

Total	$3,976.10
Expense to Aug. 1, 1910.....	3,493.20
Balance would be Aug. 1, 1910.....	$ 482.90

Funds of Union—

Aug. 1, 1910, in Adirondack Trust Co. Bank	$372.84
In poss. Treas. A. F. White.....	30.00
In poss. Fin. Sec. W. A. Phillips.....	20.94
Total	$ 423.78

Deficiency of Union Aug. 1, 1910.....	$ 59.12
---------------------------------------	----------

The $30.00 in possession of Treasurer Aug. 1 was deposited in bank Aug. 3.

Union 343, Malone, N. Y.

The books and accounts here were not so bad, very fair considering. Corrected the stamp and cash accounts. Instructed the secretary-treasurer how to balance his accounts at the end of each month. How to balance each member's dues account with every credit given, etc. Statement as follows:

Receipts from organization to Aug. 1, 1910.....	$1,218.85
Expense to Aug. 1, 1910.....	1,158.30

------------------------------------	----------

Funds of Union—

Aug. 1, 1910, in Farmers' Nat. Bank.....	$45.00
In poss. Sec.Treas. Jos. Walsh.....	15.55
Total	$ 60.55

Union 488, Middletown, N. Y.

The books and accounts here are in very nice order. The cash and stamp accounts are correct. In the future each credit in the ledger will balance every such due account. The ledger page will also at all times show the year date. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense and the treasurer's accounts were in good order. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 9, 1903.....	$ 589.94
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1910.....	7,006.08

Expended over percentage in 1905.....	11.47
Due to Int'l Union on examination.....	12.60

Total	$7,620.09
Expense to Aug. 1, 1910.....	6,642.08
Balance would be Aug. 1, 1910.....	$ 978.01

Funds of Union—

Aug. 1, 1910, in Orange Co. Trust and Sav. bank.....	$918.81
In poss. Fin. Sec. Wm. J. Hess.....	46.60
Total	$ 965.41

Deficiency of Union Aug. 1, 1910.....	$ 12.60

Union 426, Hibbing, Minn., suspended and fined Joe Kolberg (99884) $5.00 for letting himself become suspended.

Dans les écrits et les discours de quelques-uns des hommes du parti ouvrier, j'ai remarqué une tendance au découragement pessimiste, laquelle, à mon idée, n'est pas appuyée par les faits ni par les conditions tels qu'ils régissent le labeur organisé d'aujourd'hui.

Il est vrai que nous avons reçu pas mal de coups assez rudes de quelques tribunaux, de quelques juges, jugements adverses, lois faites par les juges eux-mêmes, procès pour dommages-intérêts, etc., et que nous avons eu un congrès qui nous était hostile au cours de ces dernières années, mais le nombre de nos membres a continué à augmenter et il augmente encore.

Il y a trente-cinq, quarante et cinquante ans, on considérait comme un crime de même chercher à s'organiser. Les membres des unions étaient arrêtés au nom de soi-disant lois contre les conspirateurs, de lois d'intérêt public ou de n'importe quelle loi, jugés, condamnés et mis en prison ne fût-ce que pour avoir demandé une augmentation de salaires. Ils n'attendaient, pas une grève, à cette époque; ils tombaient sur les ouvriers à bras raccourcis à la première occasion.

Autrefois, le labeur organisé était ignoré, humilié, insulté et méconnu; on dédaignait les ouvriers organisés comme s'ils étaient autant de hors la loi. Il existait des organisations de fabricants. Les tribunaux, les juges, les fonctionnaires publics, la police, les détectives Pinkerton et la milice étaient hostiles et s'acharnaient d'une façon inimaginable dans leur opposition; quant au public en général, il regardait la persécution avec indifférence ou même avec approbation.

Les salaires étaient minimes, les heures longues, les conditions du travail épouvantables et les travailleurs n'avaient pour eux aucun droit qui pût être respecté.

En dépit de tout cela, le mouvement des associations ouvrières a insensiblement augmenté en puissance, force, utilité et en nombre et il a aujourd'hui le respect et la confiance d'une grande partie du public.

L'attaque désespérée que nous subissons en ce moment dans laquelle les tribunaux, les juges, le congrès national, les présidents de la république et autres ont été mêlés et s'y sont prêtés, n'est vraiment qu'un compliment marqué que l'on fait à la stabilité, la valeur, l'efficacité et l'utilité du mouvement actuel du labeur. Elle témoigne en faveur de la rectitude du mouvement, justifie nos tactiques et nos chefs et promet de grandes choses pour l'avenir.

Le passé du mouvement ouvrier, qui, malgré la plus ardente opposition et la plus acharnée persécution, a surmonté et vaincu tous les obstacles du dedans et du dehors, prouve que nous combattons avec succès et triompherons de toute opposition, quelle qu'en soit la forme dans l'avenir. Il justifie l'optimisme en ce qui concerne les temps futurs et est une garantie de victoire. Les méthodes, les plans, le travail et les tactiques du passé, changés seulement en ce qui est nécessaire pour s'adapter aux conditions nouvelles suivant ce que l'expérience et le bon jugement le peuvent conseiller, donneront certainement le succès et l'organisation finale de tous les travailleurs, si toutefois on veut bien y adhérer encore à cours des luttes futures.

Le seul danger, et il n'est que temporaire, que puisse nous menacer, c'est l'impatience, le découragement et le manque de foi dans le mouvement qui pourront se glisser dans l'esprit que quelques uns de nos membres au cours des présentes attaques.

Le même courage indompté, la même persistance, la même détermination qui ont caractérisé les hommes d'action dans le passé, sont encore avec nous et nous pousseront en avant malgré tout opposition et ceci aussi sûrement dans l'avenir que dans le passé. Le mouvement des organisations ouvrières a fait augmenter les salaires, a fait réduire les heures de travail, amélioré les conditions sanitaires de l'atelier, de la mine et de l'usine, a aboli le système du "truck" diminué les maladies, allongé la vie de ses membres, a mis les ouvriers debout sur leurs pieds et face à la bonne direction et en lutte pour d'autres droits et il a obtenu d'autres innombrables avantages.

Le passé parle par lui-même et prouve que le mouvement des associations ouvrières est sur le droit chemin et justifie l'optimisme, l'espoir et la confiance. La foi, l'honnêteté et une détermination inflexible nous mèneront au succès final.

Le jeune homme né unioniste qui entre dans une union est, au début, plein d'enthousiasme et d'impatience. A mesure qu'ils vieillit, il ne perd pas son enthousiasme pour l'union, mais il conquiert son impatience. Il apprend que les injustices de la vie ne peuvent être réparées en un moment.

Le type qui a été hors de l'union presque toute sa vie ou qui n'assiste à une réunion que rarement, est justement celui qui veut dire aux autres comment l'union devrait être dirigée. Et si la meeting n'adopte pas sa manière de voir, il déclare tout net que les autres ne sont que des gâcheurs, des charlatans ou des imbéciles.

Les lois actuelles de l'Union Internationale sont le résultat de plus de quarante-six années d'expérience et représentent la sagesse combinée de la majorité des membres par l'intermédiaire de l'initiative et du système référendaire appliqué à la fabrication des lois et du vote individuel.

De temps en temps, nous entendons quelqu'un qui demande: Au fait, qu'est-ce que l'union a donc accompli jusqu'ici? La réponse, la voici: Elle a augmenté vos salaires de $3, $4, $5 par M., et prenez votre paye en cigares, nourritures et vêtements, à $8, $9 et $10 par M., avec, en plus, des salaires réduits en argent comptant une fois par semaine.

Un état parfait au point de vue économique ne peut être amené que par les efforts d'un système d'associations ouvrières. Un état social meilleur suivra certainement un meilleur état économique. Commencez par le bas pour construire et allez ensuite vers le haut. L'union ouvrière fera ce travail.

Si la moitié du temps et de l'énergie qui sont gaspillés à présent par de certaines gens du mouvement ouvrier à combattre des hommes et des femmes de leur parti même, étaient employés à des efforts sérieux pour mieux construire le monument commun, que de bienfaits n'en résulteraient-ils pas pour la majorité!

Personne n'est assez savant ni assez vieux pour apprendre quelque chose de nouveau.

Lorsqu'un homme en arrive à penser qu'il sait tout, c'est un signe certain qu'il est un ignorant et un mauvais conseiller.

Les injustices accumulées par les siècles ne peuvent être remédées en un jour, une semaine ou une année. Le travail demande du temps. Le mouvement des associations ouvrières est encore jeune. Laissez-le faire. Il réussira.

Rappelez-vous que l'autre type est un être humain et qu'il a des opinions qu'il pense être aussi importantes que les vôtres. Un peu de tolérance envers les autres ne peut que faire du bien à la cause commune.

Si une institution humaine est corrompue, la chose à faire est réformer ses parties constitutives et une des manières de le faire, c'est de commencer par soi-même.

L'impatience, les décisions hâtives et malavisées, les grèves venant mal à propos, font plus pour retarder la croissance du mouvement des associations ouvrières que tout le reste ensemble.

Lorsque vous êtes dans le doute, ne dites rien jusqu'à ce que vous ayez découvert les faits.

Coraje—Fuerza—Caracter.

El espíritu de desasosiego, junto con un deseo sincero de obtener mejores y más favorables condiciones para el trabajo, existen de nacimiento en las mentes y los corazones de casi toda la humanidad y lo mantienen vivos los más entusiastas y los más audaces.

Bueno es para los trabajadores que esto sea. Cuantas veces las masas pierden la esperanza y la ambición y cesan la lucha, la familia humana principia a retroceder.

Esto es verdadero en todos los caminos de la vida, pero muy especialmente lo es en el movimiento de las uniones obreras.

En nuestras uniones tenemos el radical, el entusiasta, el joven y el anciano, hombres de experiencia, los sin esperanza, los impacientes, los que tienen fe y los que no la tienen, y muchas mentes con muchas diferentes opiniones en ellas.

La gran labor es armonizar todos esos elementos en pugna los unos con los otros, de una manera que nos permita progresar de una manera permanente y substancial pue sea beneficiosa para la mayoría.

El jóven, inexperimentado entusiasta, aunque sus intenciones sean buenas, súmamente buenas, arriesgo todo en un solo esfuerzo, mientras que el más anciano, hombre de mayor experiencia y tino, a la vez que es un unionista igualmente bueno y leseeo igualmente de alcanzar el mejor resultado, pero disfrutando de un juicio más maduro, cuenta las consecuencias y pesa todas las probabilidades de éxito. No entiendo él arrojarse hacia una destrucción casi segura corriendo riesgos de 100 por 1 en contra de él. El conoce ya por experiencia el tiempo, el dinero, el trabajo y los sacrificios que han costado la edificación y el mantenimiento de la unión internacional y no tiene el menor deseo de arriesgar su destrucción sobre las meras probabilidades problemáticas de un naípe. Hombres de ese temple son los verdaderos conductores y son ellos los que han hecho posibles las uniones.

El entusiasta es tan necesario como el anciano, el veterano de corazón fuerte y de juicio más maduro: el despierta a los "dormilones" y a los sin esperanza, los arroja en la lucha y el resultado es que se obtiene gran ventaja, SI LA MAYORIDAD SIGUE los sanos consejos de los más conservativos.

El hombre de juicio que tiene honestas tendencias y el coraje de sus opiniones, aconsejará siempre que se tome lo que se tiene hoy seguro y lo que contiene una probabilidad de mejoramiento para mañana, ó cuando sea oportuno. Se necesita más coraje para proceder así, que para hacer el bravacho y hacer papel en público, representando las prevenciones y las pasiones de los miembros los más acalorados. El camino, el sendero publicado por los unionistas de sano juicio y de madura experiencia conduce al mejor resultado para la mayoría. En una huelga amargamente peleada en un ramo competitivo como el nuestro, el hombre de experiencia, de sano juicio, de conocimientos, honradez y de suficiente coraje para ponerse de pie y hacer que cuenten con él, es una bendición para el movimiento, un crédito para sí mismo y el movimiento de las uniones obreras y vivirá siempre en las memorias agradecidas y en los corazones de los miembros y en la historia también de nuestro movimiento.

Éxito Comparativo de la Unión.

No obstante la tenacidad empleada por los adversarios y por los enemigos de nuestra Institución, en combatirla y en desacreditar nuestros métodos, ello es que el crédito de la Unión Internacional va en aumento, mientras los sistemas de otras escuelas y de otras asociaciones se desacreditan más cada día.

Ese resultado de anverso para nosotros y de reverso para nuestros detractores tiene su explicación en los propios resultados de las actuaciones respectivas.

Ellos impelen a los hombres a pelear sistemáticamente, mientras nosotros les aconsejamos prudencia y cautela.

Al fin de cada lucha, como consecuencia de los respectivos métodos, salen ellos maltrechos, desmoralizados, peleando entre sí; mientras que nosotros salimos en situación de haberlos respetar porque aún en la derrota salvamos el punto fundamental de nuestra doctrina, la "Unión."

Cuando los obreros que nos combaten se empeñan en una huelga contra sus patrones, y son vencidos como sucede con frecuencia, estos se reintegran pronto del capital que perdieron durante la contienda.

Los amos saben que la desmoralización mas absoluta reinará en sus trabajadores durante algún tiempo, y aprovechan la ocasión para recuperar lo que dejaron de ganar y lo que perdieron.

Saben que esos obreros son mordidos por la vívora de la discordia que en ellos produce siempre la derrota, y operan a man salva en los precios y en las condiciones del trabajo, haciendo retrogradar esas condiciones a situación degradante de miseria esclavizadora.

Sucede esto porque van a la lucha desconociendo por completo la intensidad de las fuerzas respectivas.

Ardorosamente se lanzan al combate engañados, creyendo en la debilidad del enemigo y orgullosos de la gran potencia de la propia fuerza. Luego el despertar es horrible; las diatribas suceden a las recriminaciones. Como que todos son víctimas del propio engaño cada uno echa la culpa a los otros y en lo sucesivo se ocupan en odiarse mutuamente, en tanto que todos juntos engordan la bolsa del burgués, como llaman al amo en tono agresivo.

Tiene además un grave contratiempo para los trabajadores el empleo sistemático de la fuerza para recabar mejoras en los sueldos y en las condiciones del trabajo.

Cada vez que se declara una huelga, en cualquier localidad que sea, quedan amenazados numerosos intereses que guardan relación con el ramo ó ramos donde el movimiento se efectúa; ahora bien: Todos esos intereses lesionados hay que considerarlos como presuntos enemigos, y lo serán efectivos si no abrigan la convicción de que los huelguistas son gente comedida y sensatas, con las cuales en cualquier momento pueda tratarse.

La violencia sistemática en todo tiempo creó antipatías contra los que la emplean y débese a esas antipatías la mayor parte de las derrotas que sufren los obreros en su lucha eterna contra los capitales. ¡Cuántas veces hemos tenido en la mano, antes de comenzar una huelga, algo más de lo que luego se ha obtenido al son de los clarines de aparatosa victoria. . . . ¡Y cuántas otras en medio de la pelea, cuando todavía no habían huido de nuestro lado todas las simpatías, se nos han ofrecido ventajas apreciables que hemos despreciado para suspirar por ellas despues de la derrota!

Nuestra Institución no incurre en defectos semejantes, y los evita siempre que tiene poder para ello.

Ella procura que se la respete sin infundir miedo a nadie. Quiere ser respetada por la importancia de los intereses que defiende y representa. Ambiciona ser querida de todos los obreros y nunca odiada por ninguno. Hasta pretende ser mirada como garantía de orden, en que producen las energías sociales en el continuo batallar de las pasiones humanas. ¡Extremar la pelea hasta caer exámine a los pies del amo que será implacable irritado con el veneno que inocular el aguijón de la lucha, cuando ésta es enconada? Eso no entra en las prácticas de la Unión Internacional de Tabaqueros de América.

Nosotros preferimos arreglos amistosos en los cuales se obtengan algunos beneficios antes de pelear, porque la experiencia nos ha demostrado que nunca se rezarcen los trabajadores de las pérdidas que sufren durante una prolongada huelga. En este sentido, siempre será aplicable el adagio español que dice: "Vale más un mal arreglo que un buen pleito."

Seguimos creyendo, ahora más que antes, que a medida que vamos avanzando en el curso del tiempo, es mayor el ambiente de civilización que se respira; y, hombre civilizado quiere decir, ser que razona, que persuade; individuo que está tanto más lejos de la barbarie cuanto menos propicio se muestre a la guerra.

Inspirados así, en esa creencia que nadie osará desvirtuar, y parapetados en el éxito evidente que a la postre producen las prácticas juiciosas que seguimos sin interrupción, van pasando los años sin que jamás una caída nuestra ponga los intereses del trabajo a los pies del amo para que los pisotee.

Nuestras caídas no son caídas. . . . Cuando mucho, podrán calificarse de interregnos reparadores, en los cuales, si se rinden parias, es para reponer energías; no para degradarnos en la disolución.

Como toda institución humana, la nuestra ha tenido alternativas de florecimiento y de desgracia. En los momentos de prosperas bienandanzas ha mostrado su alteza de miras y su seriedad, no traspasando los linderos de su concreto programa:

En los días oscuros, en los críticos periodos en que las adversidades se han cernido sobre ella con intentos asoladores, nuestros LEADERS no han perdido la serenidad de juicio, y, atravesando las nebruras de las traiciones si las hubo, y las fuertes trincheras del asedio enemigo, han sacado incólume a la superficie del éxito la esencia de la organización; el principio activo de toda entidad colectiva. La interesante idea de que la Unión es tan necesaria a la existencia moral del obrero, como el pan que come lo es para el mantenimiento de su vida física.

De ese modo, con un organismo cuyo espíritu democrático es superior al que puedan ostentar otras asociaciones mas jóvenes, la muestra ha podido resistir las rudas acometidas de enemigos y adversarios, saliendo más potente de cada prueba, de lo cual es muestra evidéntísima el número de 55 mil afiliados que existen hoy en sus filas.

Dosavadný postup uniového hnutí, jež překonalo všechny překážky, byť i zdánlivě nepřekonatelné, dokazuje, že konečně překonáme a ovládneme každou opozici at' již druhu jakéhokoli. To oprávnuje nás k optimistickým vyhlídkám do budoucnosti a značí úspěch. Methody, plány, práce a zásady minulosti, jež se změnily pouze do té míry, aby mohly čelit měnivým poměrům, jak zkušenost a zralý úsudek opravňuje, zajistí přivedou úspěch a konečnou organizaci všeho členstva, pakli že k nim v budoucnosti bude náležitě inuho.

Jediné nebezpečí, a to jenom dočasné, jež na nás může přijít, jest netrpělivost, zbabělost a nedůvěra v hnutí v řadách členstva.

Ta samá neochabující ardnatost, vytrvalost a odhodlanost, jež tak charakterizovala muže práce v minulosti, jest stále ještě při nás a povede nás ku předu v budoucnosti tak jistě jako až dosud, vzor vši opozici.

Uniové hnutí zvýšilo mzdy, zkrátilo pracovní dobu, zlepšilo zdravotní poměry v dílnách, továrnách a dolech, zrušilo truck system, zmenšilo choroby, prodloužilo život svému členstvu, postavilo dělníky na vlastní nohy směrem k pravému cíli a bažící po větším množství a docílilo bezpočetných jiných úspěchů.

Výsledek mluví sám za sebe a dokazuje, že uniové hnutí jest na pravé dráze a oprávnuje k optimistickým nadějím a sebedůvěře. Důvěra, poctivost a neoblomná odhodlanost povede nás ku konečnému vítězství.

Zdravý rozum, rozvaha, odhodlanost a věrnost jsou tím největším majetkem, které máme v dělnickém hnutí.

Skutky mluví hlasitěji nežli slova. Lidstvo jest lépe známo podle jich skutků, nežli podle toho co o sobě sami povídají.

Nic se nedocílí nerozumným bouřením. Co my potřebujeme a co počítá, jest stavění.

Pomozte stavět unii a ona se postará o vás a vaši rodinu jak společensky tak i hospodářsky.

Nebud' pomluvačem, bud' povzbuzovatelem. Povzbuzuj svoji unii, nejlepšího to přítele jakého jsi kdy měl.

Nikdo nemůže říci křivého slova proti náležitě vedené unii.

Zkušenost jest bez odporu naším nejlepším učitelem.

Činím to nejlepší jak jen dovedu to nejlepší co můžu a chci tak činit až do konce. Pakliže dobře skončím na konci, co bylo proti mně řečeno nepadá nijak na váhu. Pakliže skončím špatně, neomluví mne ani deset andělů.—Abraham Lincoln.

Mladý zrozený unionista když vstoupí do dělnického hnutí, jest pln nadšení a netrpělivosti. Pokrokem stárí nikdy neztratí důvěru a nadšení v unii, avšak překoná svoji netrpělivost. Pozná že chyby celého věku nemohou být odstraněny v okamžiku.

Chlapik, který stál mimo unii po celý skore život aneb který málokdy navštěvuje schůze, obyčejně chce namluvit jiným, jak se má unie vésti a pakliže ve schůzi neuznají jeho náhledy, prohlásí, že všichni jsou bůdleri a hlupci.

Přítomné zákony Mezinárodní Unie jsou výsledkem čtyřiceti šestileté zkušenosti a reprezentují společnou moudrost většiny členstva cestou iniciativy a referenda, na niž jsou zákony zbudovány, a jednotlivého hlasování.

Tu a tam slyšíme otázky, co kdy unie učinila. Odpověď jest, že zvýšila mzdu z $3.00, $4.00 a $5.00 za tisíc a vybírání výplaty v doutníkách a grocerii na $8.00, $9.00 a $10.00 za tisíc a vyplácení hotovými každého týdne.

Dokonalé hospodářské poměry zavedeny mohou být pouze snahou uniového hnutí. Lepší společenské poměry zajistě budou následovat zlepšené životní poměry. Stavte od základů. Dělnická unie vám pomůže.

Kdyby polovina času a energie, které teď jsou vynaloženy jistými lidmi v uniovém hnutí potráním sebe samých v našich vlastních řadách, věnovány byly zbudování organizace, došlo by se velkých výsledků.

Nikdo není tak chytrý a tak starým aby se nemohl přiučit něco nového. Když někdo tvrdí o sobě, že zná všechno, jest to jistým znamením, že jest nevzdělanec a špatným rádcem.

Po staletí nashromážděná bezpráví nemohou být oddělena během dne, týdne neb roku. Vezme to čas. Uniové hnutí jest mladé. Dejte mu příležitost. Dodělá se úspěchu.

Pamatujte si, že ten druhý jest také jen člověk a že má náhledy, o nichž si myslí, že jsou tak důležité jako tvoje. Trochu snášenlivosti jednoho k druhému mnoho pomůže.

Pakliže nějaká lidská instituce jest koruptní, jest nejlépe zreformovat pochybné části a hlavně však by měl každý začít reformovat sám na sobě.

Netrpělivost, nerozvážné skutky a stávky zastaví více postup uniového hnutí, nežli všechny ostatní příčiny dohromady.

Pakli jste v pochybnosti neřkejte ničeho, až se přesvědčíte.

Der junge, gleichsam geborene Union-Mann ist voll Begeisterung und Ungebulb, wenn er in die Arbeiterbewegung eintritt. Wenn er älter wird, wird er zwar nie seinen Glauben und seine Begeisterung für die Bewegung verlieren, aber doch seine Ungebulb. Er versteht dann, daß das Unrecht langer Zeiten nicht im Handumdrehen beseitigt wird.

Wer die längste Zeit seines Lebens außerhalb der Union stand oder nur selten in eine Versammlung geht, möchte gewöhnlich vorschreiben, wie die Union zu leiten sei, und wenn man mit seinen Ansichten nicht eins ist, nennt er wohl gar die übrigen Doolers, Schwindler oder Dummköpfe.

Die gegenwärtigen Geseze der International Union sind das Ergebnis von über 40jähriger Erfahrung und sind die zusammengetragene Weisheit der Mehrheit der Mitgliedschaft durch das Initiativ- und Referendum-System der Gesezgebung und des persönlichen Stimmens.

Es kommt vor, daß man einen fragen hört, was die Union denn eigentlich vollbracht hat. Die Antwort ist, sie hat die Löhne erhöht von $3, $4, $5 per Tausend, und Zahlung in Zigarren, Groceries und Waaren, auf $8, $9 und $10 per Tausend und Baargahlung der Löhne jede Woche.

Ein vollkommener ökonomischer Zustand kann nur durch die Gewerblichkeitsbefreiung erreicht werden. Bessere soziale Verhältnisse werden sicherlich auf einen verbesserten ökonomischen Zustand folgen.

Mit dem Bauen fängt man vom Grunde an. So machen es die Gewerkschaften.

Wenn die Hälfte der Zeit und Kraft, die gewisse Leute in der Arbeiterbewegung daran wenden, Männer und Frauen in unseren eigenen Reihen zu bekämpfen, dem Aufbau der Organisation zugute käme, wäre uns ein gut Theil weiter geholfen.

Keiner ist zu weise oder zu alt, um was Neues zu lernen. Wenn ein Mensch dahin kommt, daß er alles zu wissen glaubt, verrät er sich um so sicherer als unwissender und schlechter Berather.

Das angesammelte Unrecht der Jahrhunderte kann nicht in einem Tag oder einer Woche oder einem Jahre rechtgemacht werden. Die Gewerkschaftsbewegung ist jung. Man muß ihr Zeit geben. Sie muß Erfolg haben.

Bedenke, daß jeder andere eben auch menschlich ist und Ansichten hat, die er für ebenso richtig hält als deine. Ein wenig duldsam sein gegen andere, das hilft!

Wo immer eine menschliche Einrichtung verderbt ist, da ist es weise, ihre Bestandtheile zu bessern, und ein Mittel dafür ist, mit sich selber anzufangen.

Ungebuld, übereilte und schlecht überlegte Handlungen und Streiks halten das Wachstum der Gewerkschaftsbewegung mehr auf als alles andere zusammengekommen.

Wenn du Zweifel hast, sage nichts, bis du die Thatfachen kennst.

Reife Weisheit, gesundes Urtheil, Muth und Treue gehören zu den größten Tugenden der Arbeiterbewegung.

Handeln spricht lauter als Worte. Die Menschen sind nach ihren Handlungen zu beurtheilen und nicht nach dem, was sie von sich selber sagen.

Nichts wird erreicht durch den thörichten Versuch, niederzureißen. Was wir brauchen, und worauf es ankommt, ist das Aufbauen.

Hilf am Aufbau der Union und sie wird helfen, für dich und die Deinen zu sorgen, sozial wie auch ökonomisch.

Sei kein Störenfried. Sei ein Mittler. Vermittler für die Union, den besten Freund, den du je findest.

Keine lebende Seele kann ein wahres Wort gegen eine richtig geleitete Union sagen.

Erfahrung ist immer noch der größte Lehrmeister, den wir haben.

Ich thue das Beste, das ich kann, das Allerbeste in meinem Vermögen, und dabei will ich bleiben bis zum Ende. Wenn dies Ende mich rechtfertigt, wird alles, was man gegen mich sagt, gar nichts bedeuten. Wenn aber das Ende gegen mich zeugt, würden zehn Engel, die für mein Recht zeugten, daran nichts ändern.—Abraham Lincoln.

Was die Gewerkschaftsbewegung erreicht hat, und wie sie es angesichts der stärksten Gegnerschaft und unbarmherzigen Verfolgung erreichte und alle Sündenrassen innen und außen nieder machte, beweist uns, daß wir jede Gegnerschaft, wie uns die Zukunft sie auch bringen mag, erfolgreich bekämpfen und schließlich bemeistern werden. Es berechtigt zu frohem Optimismus und bedeutet Erfolg. Die Methoden, Pläne, Arbeit und Grundsätze der Vergangenheit, nur den veränderten Verhältnissen angepasst, wie Erfahrung und reifes Urtheil es vorschreiben, wenn auch fernerhin befolgt, werden sicherlich Erfolg und die schließliche Organisation aller Arbeiter bringen.

Die einzige Gefahr, und auch die nur zeitweilige, die uns treffen kann, ist die Ungebuld, das Ver-zagtheit und der Mangel an Vertrauen zu der Bewegung in den Köpfen und Herzen mancher.

Der gleiche unbegreifliche Muth, die Ausdauer und Festigkeit, welche die Männer der That in der Vergangenheit auszeichneten, sie sind noch da und werden die Bewegung vorwärts führen trotz aller Gegnerschaft, so sicher in der Zukunft, wie sie es in der Vergangenheit gethan. Die Gewerkschaftsbewegung hat die Löhne erhöht, die Arbeitsstunden verfürzt, die sanitären Verhältnisse der Werkstätten, Fabriken und Gruben verbessert, das „Trud“-System abgeschafft, Krankheiten vermindert, die Lebensdauer ihrer Mitglieder verlängert, hat den Arbeitern geholfen, in der rechten Richtung auszuweichen und für mehr zu kämpfen, und sie hat zahlreiche andere nützliche Dinge erreicht.

Diese Leistungen sprechen für sich selber und beweisen, daß die Gewerkschaftsbewegung auf dem rechten Wege ist, und sie berechtigen zu optimistischer Hoffnung und Zubericht. Vertrauen, Ehrlichkeit und feste Entschlossenheit werden uns schließlich den vollen Erfolg bringen.

212. Superior 100.00	275. Aberdeen 100.00
214. Bluffton 100.00	276. Plattsmouth 100.00

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

The Constitution, twentieth edition, contains an error. The amendment of Union 97, Boston, reference accepting cards from foreign countries, took the place of the old law. Through mistake both the amendment and the old law are included.

If you hold any loan cards of no further use send them to this office.

Before granting or accepting retiring cards secretaries and members should consult Sections 76 and 77 of the Constitution.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and in addition send in such card, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

If secretaries when ordering supplies will place the order on the regular blank, it will greatly simplify the work here and avoid unnecessary delay for those who order the supplies.

DON'T FORGET.

Nominations for international officers must be made before November 1st and reach this office before November 8th. See Sections 13 and 14. Avoid the fine provided for failure.

NOTICE.

We are repeatedly asked whether it is necessary in the event of death to issue a card and send it to this office. The request for cards of deceased members only applies where members have been accepted by card, and especially where cards show a loan account, as the account must be checked up and closed. No card need be issued to or for any member except he retires absolutely, when the Absolute Retiring Card is issued, or if a 20-cent beneficiary member wishes to change to another union's jurisdiction, then a transfer card is issued. Or if a 15 or 30-cent member wishes to travel then a Blue or Loan card is issued in accordance with length of membership. But in no case need cards be issued to members simply because they are members, as that is a needless loss of time and in the aggregate entails considerable useless expense.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

The amendment adopted to Sections 76 and 77 does away with the issuance of retiring cards to all who continue to pay dues as beneficiary members.

Retiring cards are only for those who pay up and actually terminate all connection with the union in so far as the payment of dues is concerned.

Members who transfer from the 30-cent list to the 20-cent beneficiary membership list are simply changed from one class to another and deducted from one and added to the other.

Members who have not paid 30-cent dues for three years and quitting the trade under Section 76 and wishing to qualify for Section 77 as a beneficiary member should be kept on without any other change than to make a note of the intention on the ledger page. If such member desires to travel to another jurisdiction he should be given a transfer card and his intention to qualify as a 30-cent beneficiary member written on the transfer card. Such beneficiary members are not entitled to any benefits except sick benefits after one year's membership and whatever death benefits their term of membership entitles them to.

NOTICE TO OFFICERS AND MEMBERS.

In printing the nineteenth edition of the Constitution, an omission occurs in Section 77, on line 7. A comma and the words "and local assessments" should follow "International assessments." The sentence to read: "All International assessments, and local assessments levied for labor agitation purposes." This amendment as published in another place is correct.

Items for the Journal should be placed on separate slips of paper—not the backs of reports, etc.—in order to insure prompt publication, and should reach this office not later than the 10th of each month if intended for current publication.

NOTICE—How to duplicate Loan Cards.
It frequently occurs that new secretaries through error or lack of knowledge, transfer the amount a member "has coming" instead of what he owes.

In duplicating a card, figure up all the member has borrowed and subtract all he has paid, and if there is a balance against the member transfer to new card in red ink and figures and letters the amount due the International Union. Also enter on new card all that may be essential that you find on the old, then sign and seal it. Send the old card to the International office.

DECISIONS OF PRESIDENT

M. L. O'Brien appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Appellant claims he lost his due book and became mixed up when he received the duplicate. The appeal was sustained.

M. London appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

M. Oppenheimer appealed against 251 New York for sending a delegate to the New York Federation of Labor. The appeal was not sustained.

W. Hern appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal was sustained owing to a misunderstanding on Hern's part.

E. G. Travis appealed against 129 Denver for refusing to allow him to make cigars after his day's work as letter carrier. The appeal was not sustained.

C. J. Schlitt appealed against 395, Waterbury, for refusing to accept a card of a member who had not served three years and who was not making cigars at the time. The appeal was not sustained.

J. E. Gill appealed against 336, Tampa, for refusing to replace him on the strike list. Mr. Gill drew his card and left the city, but returned. The appeal was not sustained.

M. Federovitz appealed against 144, New York, for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

W. R. Sartor appealed against 111, Des Moines, for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

M. Rakosky appealed against 407, Norwich, reference fine of $50 and withholding the labels. The appeal was not sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 414, Winnipeg, Man., to fine Frank Shatters $50 for working in the strike shop of Thomas Lee, and using his influence on other members. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 322, Joplin, Mo., to fine the following members $25 each for working in the unfair shops of Leon Boucher and A. E. Spriggs: Nathan Block, No. 86961; Geo. Walters, 86473; W. L. Burris, No. 4778; Ed Carlisle; No. 80039; Geo. Gray. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 76, Hannibal, Mo., to fine Charles Ayler, No. 1859, $15 for working in an unfair shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 186, Flint, Mich., to fine Chas. H. Smith, No. 6645, an additional $50 for quitting a job in a union shop and going to work in a closed shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

In the September issue H. Wardell was published as having been fined $50 by Union 414, Winnipeg, Man. The name should have been H. Nordell.

Approved the application of Union 172, Davenport, Iowa, to fine Louis James La France, No. 9146; Herman Gossage, and Grover Gossage each $25 for quitting union jobs and scabbing. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of Union 32, Louisville, Ky., to fine August Ott, No. 85763, $25 for working in an unfair shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative, 6; negative, 1.

Notice: Mr. Fred Scott, No. 82732, wishes it known that the Fred Scott, No. 106440, fined $50 for scabbing at Albia, Iowa, is not the Fred Scott, No. 82732, initiated by 200, Galesburg. He asks that this notice be given because he worked in Iowa off and on for eight years.

ORGANIZERS' REPORT.

Akron, Pa., Oct. 5, 1910.

Union 64, Lebanon, after having secured an increase in wages of 50 cents per thousand in Meackle's factory, also was the cause of the S. R. Moss annex factory being compelled to raise their jobs 25 cents, from $4.75 to $5 per thousand to hold their hands. This local has made a substantial increase in membership. The following unions have been visited since last report: York, Lancaster, Rothville, Ephrata and Akron. A fair increase in membership during the month by Reading, Lancaster, Lebanon, York and Ephrata. Gilbertsville, under jurisdiction of Reading, was visited and three members added.

Some of the large firms have located annex factories in additional towns. Rumors in almost every town have one or more firms seeking to locate there, and the citizens and business men striving to get this and that firm to locate a shop in their town. They all want factories. Deplorable as it may seem, little attention is paid to what should be the most important consideration. Will the firm pay the same price in our town that they have been paying in their original shop or shops. Just so we get shops. Who cares for the cigarmakers in other localities? Who cares about the prices they are going to pay? We will work the cheapest. I do not hold that many expressions like these are made. But what is actually taking place is positive proof that this is the condition that prevails. Many firms have started factories during the last ten years in other towns and paid less than in their former shops. But it is not necessary to go back ten years; ten months will do. A number have started additional shops, where they could get cigars made cheaper this year. Build up the towns, is the cry. But where is this to end? This policy of who can work the cheapest in order to build up the town is the order. Another argument is what we want is more shops to give steady work. This term defined means: Work from 6 in the morning until 8 and 9 o'clock at night, and die an early death of consumption from overwork. That is one of the prices paid in the scramble to work cheaper to get factories to build up the towns. That makes widows and orphans. More fruit for the manufacturers. Widows and orphans' necessity will make them still work cheaper. It is high time that the cigarmakers everywhere throughout these districts, union and non-union, declare that they will not work in a factory that is seeking to locate in their towns, unless they pay at least the same rate of wages that they paid in their original shop or shops. I do not hold that every manufacturer is continually starting new shops to get work made cheaper. But there are few exceptions.

I. B. Kuhn, Organizer.

ORGANIZER'S REPORT.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 1, 1910.

Acting in accordance with instructions received from the International President, I proceeded to Winnipeg, Man., to investigate and take action in respect to certain complaints regarding reported illegal use of our union label.

After attending to the matter in hand, and investigating conditions as they at present obtain in Winnipeg, I found things in a very bad state. Recent controversies with the employers had turned out disastrously for the union, so that to-day, with the exception of two small shops just starting, there is only one union factory left in that city.

To aid in recovering something of the ground lost, an agitation was started, and in company with Mr. S. Bateman, secretary of the union, we visited and addressed an average of four meetings a night during my stay. I have advised our people to continue this agitation, and also to see that the cigarmakers' delegation attend regularly the meetings of the central body, something which has hitherto been sadly neglected. Owing to this state of affairs, the central body simply refuses to help people who refuse to help themselves. It all rests with our people in Winnipeg, if they will continue the agitation, and by attending the meetings of the central body, enlist their sympathy and support, all may yet be well; if not, nothing will be accomplished. It is up to them.

After leaving Winnipeg I visited Grand Forks, N. D., and East Grand Forks, Minn., situated on the Red River and central in a good farming community. There are three small factories here. East Grand Forks is wet and West Grand Forks dry; the union label is better shown in East Grand Forks and in better demand than across the river. Advertising is done here by the Northwestern Union Label Conference. I have advised our people here and in Crookston to supplement this by trying to organize a central labor union in Grand Forks. We have good material here, men who are willing to work.

I next visited Crookston, Minn., a good town, having large lumbering and agricultural interests. The union label is well in evidence and in good demand, active work is done by the members, the advertising being mostly furnished by the Northwestern Label Conference. Union 331 has about sixty members scattered over the largest jurisdiction I have yet met with, some places under their jurisdiction being as much as 500 miles away. The secretary, Mr. Geo. Brunner, ought to get a long distance telephone.

From here I went to Brainerd, which is also an agricultural and lumbering center. There is a good showing of union label goods, home-made goods having the call.

Our people here appear to be somewhat troubled over the outcome of recent orders from the Indian department placing certain areas of the state under prohibition regarding the sale of liquor. I understand that fear of the effect of this prohibition being applied has caused certain cigar manufactories to work up their stock preparatory to removing from these districts. My understanding is that the ultra temperance people are generally blamed for stirring up the Indian department to this line of action.

I next visited Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., large and prosperous looking cities, situated on opposite sides of a fine harbor on Lake Superior.

Duluth is well organized, and judging by the showing of label goods, there is considerable response to the continual agitation waged by Union 294. They have been assessing themselves for advertising purposes, and have a permanent sign in good position on the main street, and on theater curtain and programs, and sign on base ball grounds. If the agitation is continued, Duluth will be an A1 place for union goods.

I was agreeably surprised at the very good showing of union label goods in Superior. I understand that it is not the intention of Union 212 to let well enough alone, as the saying is, but, on the contrary, are going to advertise the label more extensively.

During my stay in Superior, it was my good fortune to address the Trades Assembly in company with Mr. E. G. Hall, our Worthy Sixth Vice President, and other members of our craft. A good feature of the assemblies of Duluth and Superior is an exchange of fraternal delegates. It is also worthy of remark that our members in this section take a leading part in the assemblies and in the labor movement generally, which is as it ought to be, and it helps.

Chippewa Falls was my next stopping place. Here I found the label well shown and in good demand, advertising done by the Wisconsin State Label League.

Eau Claire was my next visit, a city of about 20,000, with varied industries and quite a busy place. We have thirty-eight members here. The label is well shown, and is in good demand in some districts and not in others. To counteract this the local union is advertising, having a running assessment for that purpose. They are at present advertising by means of newspapers, posters and slides in motion picture shows, and are considering putting up an elaborate electric sign over the river in view of the main street. I understand it is also the intention to rejoin the label league of Wisconsin. If advertising will do the trick, this union is going to give it a whirl.

Yours fraternally,

W. V. Todd, Organizer.

CORRESPONDENCE

GOMPERS' REVIEW.

New York, Sept. 20, 1910.

The number of students who have undertaken to study the economic and social advancement in the condition of the workingmen has recently considerably increased. Many of them are devoting their attention to the splendid work accomplished by the Cigar Makers' International Union. All of them marvel that so much is being done in the interests of the members of the craft when there is taken into consideration the small payments made by the members in the way of dues. When they are shown the hundreds of thousands, aye, the millions of dollars expended by the International Union in defending and promoting the interests of the members of the craft and the expenditures of vast sums of money in trade protection, in unemployment, in sickness, in traveling, and in case of death, and when it is explained how little is expended for administration, as compared with the payments of benefits paid as contrasted with the payments and benefits of insurance companies of all kinds, the general exclamation is of real wonder and astonishment.

The fact that within these last few days I have received several inquiries upon this subject, leads me to communicate a word through the columns of the official journal, not merely upon the particular points already named, but also upon the sociological aspect of the whole question, for of course those students and investigators are engaged more in data and statistics than in the sociological or humane aspect of the entire question.

I suppose there are quite a number of members of our own trade who scarcely realize the changed conditions which prevail in the trade to-day from those which existed 25 or 30 years or more ago. In the 60's and 70's it was the usual practice in and around the city of New York for cigar manufacturers to furnish "stock" to the cigarmakers, for say one or two thousand, demanding a deposit of almost double in value of the tobacco furnished. The cigarmakers took that stock home, made the cigars in their own rooms, and then when completed, would "turn in" the cigars, often to find a condition something like this: Fault would be found with the work, whether justified or not, and the manufacturer would refuse to take the cigars which would be left upon the hands of the cigarmaker, who would have to dispose of them as best he could, too frequently to the grocer, the butcher, the baker, the saloonkeeper, or what not—anything to secure a return of some money. The manufacturer having made a good bargain in disposing of his tobacco, did not care to have the cigars. It frequently happened that when the cigarmaker took stock home, and then would bring his cigars to the place from which he got the stock, he would find the place locked and he would be left with the cigars on his hands.

With the more stringent internal revenue laws "the turn-in-jobs," as that system was called, was done away with, and the employers had to have some sort of a factory, but the "factory" was very peculiarly conducted. In the first instance the cigarmaker had to go to the internal revenue office and obtain a "permit," for which he was charged 10 cents. If he worked a year, a week, a day, or an hour, for that employer, as soon as he obtained a job in another factory, he had to renew his application for a permit and again pay 10 cents.

Then came the development of the tenement house system; that is, the employer would lease a series of large tenement houses, let two or three rooms to the cigarmaker and his family at exorbitant rents. On the ground floor, or in the near neighborhood, were saloons, groceries, and other stores in which the workmen were compelled to buy the then necessities of life. The years of tremendous agitation and work for the abolition of the tenement house system can never be told, but it was finally abolished, not by law, but by the aggressive campaign and the grit of the members of the Cigarmakers' International Union. Then there was the truck system, with all its ills, and the long hours of labor, and the prison made cigars all to be contended with and abolished.

The gigantic strike of the cigarmakers of 1877 in New York, which lasted more than 21 weeks, was remarkable as a contest and results. There were three hundred cigarmakers organized before the strike began, and yet there were fully 40,000 dependent upon not only the organized 300, but upon the voluntary contributions of the then unorganized cigarmakers of the country, who were appealed to, and with good results. The principal demand of that strike was to establish a bill of prices of $6 low. By this demand we can realize what the wages were. The strike was not won as a strike, but it had the effect of establishing that minimum, and better than all, it was one of the great factors that aroused the cigarmaker of the country from their lethargy whereby the spirit of organization was revived.

The strike of Cincinnati, Milwaukee and other places—the splendid agitation of our local unions, the agitation for the union label, the first union label known to the world—all helped to give the members of our craft new courage and new hope.

And then began the agitation to regulate the hours of labor of our craft. In 1884 the ten-hour day was established, and then the nine-hour day, and on May 1, 1886, or nearly 25 years ago, the eight-hour day became the union standard of our craft.

The results not only in wages and hours of labor, but in the life and health and the homes of the cigarmakers, the increased general intelligence, independence and character of our fellow-craftsmen—all these have made wonderful strides and progress.

Of course, it is difficult for the members of the International Union, who have become such within the past 20 years, to realize the miserable conditions which formerly obtained in our trade conditions which were utterly demoralizing and degenerating. Indeed, it is with difficulty that one recalls the conditions which prevailed, and the humane, thinking man almost shudders when the pictures are recalled to him. Our International Union not only by its splendid achievements, but by its practice, its laws, its methods, its policy, has done wonders. It was one among the first to establish the eight-hour day; it established the initiative and referendum in the making of the laws and their ratification as well as in the nomination and in the election of its officers. It is perhaps one of the most democratic organizations in existence. In truth, its existence depends upon the full consent and good will of the governed, for the members govern themselves.

And the good influences of our International

Union have not been confined to the membership and to their families, nor limited to the communities in which they live. The influences of our organization have become continent wide and international. There is scarcely a city or town or state but in which the members of our craft are in the front ranks of the labor movement and in all progressive reform movements in the interests of the workers, as well as of the people generally. In city central bodies, in state federations, and even the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, it is gratifying to find that our international union is abreast with the best thought and activities of the labor movement of America.

If these reminiscent thoughts of the bygone time—thank our lucky stars, or better still, thank ourselves that these times are past—as I say if these reminiscences will be of some information to our fellow craftsmen, if they will instill into them and into us all, more devotion to our great International Union and to see to it that this great institution shall be of still greater benefit as the days and the years go on, I shall feel amply compensated for recording them.

Faternally yours,

Samuel Gompers,
Member of Union 144.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 8, 1910.

The strike in Peoria is still on, and it looks like an all winter fight. The bosses seem to believe that they can freeze us out. They are affiliated with all of the petty little local trade combinations, and the local coal combine has raised the price of coal 45 per cent in the last year and the cost of everything else has been practically doubled in the last two or three years. Rents are unreasonably high; food stuffs, clothing, furniture, and in fact everything that goes to make up a workingman's home has gone soaring up and up until they are out of sight or nearly so—yes, everything that goes to make up a workingman's home has gone up except his wages.

The cigarmaker's wage has steadily declined for the last twelve years for the reason that the bosses took advantage of the hazy, vague language of our old bill of prices, and by imposing shop conditions, stock conditions and "boss" conditions they forced our members' wages down—down to a point where it was impossible to make a living. If the employees complained, they were told in terms more forcible than polite, especially by the firm of Sprenger Bros., "If you don't like it you can go over to Lewis' scab shop." I am sorry to say that some did "go over to Lewis' scab shop," and they went direct from Sprenger Bros.' shop. In fact, Sprenger Bros.' shop became a scab breeding ground for Lewis' scab shop. I only mention these facts so you can understand how intolerable the conditions must have been, when men that had been "born and raised" in a union shop would deliberately quit a so-called union job and go to scabbing for a dollar and a half less on the thousand, and at the same time have to work from ten to fourteen hours per day.

This is the third attempt that Sprenger Bros. have made to run a scab shop. Eighteen years ago old Joë Sprenger tried it and held out for thirteen months, but he was forced to give in to save himself from bankruptcy. Less than five years ago young Joe Sprenger tried (with the old man's money) to do the same thing by means of the bunch breaking and roll up system, bringing girls from Davenport, Iowa, for that purpose. He ran nine months when the girls struck against his shop conditions, and he was compelled to give up the ghost. Old Joe has had the night mare ever since. The cigarmakers' union laid heavy on his stomach. You see that he had to take the lease held by young Joe on a three-story building, in the heart of the city off his son's hands, and that didn't serve to sweeten the old man's temper. So ended attempt No. 2.

In the strike now on we have the whole Sprenger family to fight; old Joe, young Joe, Brother Billie, several brothers-in-law, a sister-in-law or two and button hole relations galore, and they all seem to be of one mind (which don't amount to much), that they can imitate Lewis and make success by fighting the C. M. I. U.

Eighteen years ago Lewis declared war on the C. M. I. U. in general and local 118 in particular. Lewis is known among his personal friends and acquaintances as a good mixer and all round good fellow. He is a good advertiser and Sprenger Bros. are exactly opposite.

At one time the union had Lewis just about all in, down and out, but when we thought we had him very near to a finish he, fortunately, got mixed up in a railroad wreck, which netted him $3,000 in cold cash. This, to a struggling buck eye boss, was a princely sum, and that was not all: About this time a certain Judge Gray, of Havana, Ill., came to his assistance. Gray induced some of the money men of Peoria to do all in their power, in a financial way, to assist Lewis in his efforts to succeed in spite of the union.

A man by the name of Barker a multimillionaire and president of the local street car company, was particularly active in his support of the infant industry that was seeking to get a foothold in Peoria. Barker's motive was not entirely unselfish; several efforts had been made to organize the street car men, and, of course, Barker was determined to do all in his power to discourage the cause of organized labor, and this, he figured, was an opportunity that he could not afford to overlook. Barker, with his powerful financial influence, easily coerced other interests to take up the fight, so that every traveling salesman out of Peoria, whether he peddled groceries, hardware, soap or booze, was compelled to handle Lewis' cigars as a side line. Be it understood, too, that Lewis was what Samantha Allen would call a "Jiner." He belongs to almost everything from the Citizens' Alliance to the A. P. A. He belongs to the Travelling Men's Protective Association, and that fact was of assistance to him in getting the support of the "drummers." At one time Lewis had no less than sixty-five members of this organization alone, to whom he was paying commission for spreading his goods far and wide all over the West and Middle West, thus bringing his scab cigars into competition with every fair cigar made or sold in all that territory.

Thus did Lewis' business increase by leaps and bounds, until to-day he is turning out, approximately, a million cigars a month. Lewis owes his success to the T. P. A. S., the A. P. A., the Citizens' Alliance, the Business Men's Association and kindred organizations.

Because of the fact that the C. M. I. U. at that time had less than thirty thousand members and to the further fact that Local 118 had been almost exhausted in their long struggle with Sprenger Bros., and the other bosses of Peoria, we were in no condition to follow Lewis' goods into the new territory, which he was thus opening up. We were, however, able to drive him out of the local market. Lewis does not sell enough cigars in Peoria and its suburbs to keep ten men working steady. Lewis now sells his scab cigars through wholesale groceries, wholesale drug stores, and other jobbers, and through these wholesale houses he can be reached—and he will be reached.

Sprenger Bros.' chances for success are as follows: First, the Citizens' Alliance; second, injunction against an active boycott; third, the fact that they hold bank stock in one of Peoria's leading banks, and the further fact that they are interested in a wild cat gold mining proposition of which they were in on the ground floor. They also own some real estate that could be sacrificed under stress of dire circumstances, and they own leaf tobacco which may or may not be paid for, and, lastly, they have the support of the Citizens' Alliance. Don't forget this last asset.

We estimate the total properties held by these people to be valued at $25,000, the income of which must support no less than three families of Sprengers.

This firm had no outside trade to speak of, and we have driven them out of the best trade in the city. They must be content with small orders from grocers, Greek and Italian fruit stands and 3-cent lunch rooms, also a few scab saloons and drug stores that won't handle union cigars if they can help it. In their efforts to imitate Lewis they are inducing the wholesale groceries of Peoria to handle their goods; but if we are given the proper support by the members of the C. M. I. U. we can make the wholesale groceries drop Sprenger Bros. like a dog would a hot potato.

The strike is now in the seventeenth week, and we have not lost a member. The members working are paying 10 per cent of their wages to the strike fund without a murmur, but it is a heavy burden for some to carry, as many are past middle age with families to support. These older boys are, of course, not as fast as they used to be. We had but few traveling members with us, but what few there were readily gave up their jobs to local members that had large families to support. When this strike is over, if any of those traveling members return to Peoria they will be received as loyal trade unionists.

Fellow members of the C. M. I. U., we are going to win this strike, but we will have to have money to do so. Local unions in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and as far west as Los Angeles, Cal., can help us by keeping a lookout for Lewis "Single Binder" and Sprenger Bros. "Gate Post." Hit 'em with a maul. Do a little knocking all along the line on any cigar that comes from Peoria that does not bear the union label. Our members that have given up the summer's work and are now looking old Winter in the face, must be supported. If they could give so much you should be able to give up a few cents. We must also keep up the agitation, which will take money. We have business agents in the field steady.

The advertising that we have done has created an increased call for the union label, with the result that many outside union cigars have found their way into Peoria, but mostly of the $25 per M. kind.

It would be a shame and a disgrace if the members at large would let Local 118 go down to defeat and turn the city of Peoria over to the scabs, a city that has a contributory population of over 100,000 souls, within 5-cent car fare of the heart of the business center—that has fifteen railroads connected with every trunk line running north or South, East or West, besides being connected by interurban electric lines with all of the principal towns of Central Illinois.

Is it worth fighting for? We think so; what do you think? Five cents per member now might do more good than one dollar per member later on. Peoria deserves a better fate than to be turned over to scabs. "By your works ye shall be known."

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 8, 1910.

The village of Red Hill, Pa., or Borough, as they call it here, with a population from 1,200 to 1,500, has two cigar factories, which employ over 350 cigarmakers, males and females. One factory is at present building a three-story brick addition fifty feet square. The work in this village is what some call shaper work; one mold containing ten bunches and two molds containing ten bunches each. It is for all purposes hand work, and passes in this way to the consumer. One manufacturer recently advanced the price 50 cents per 1,000 to the maker, because cigarmakers are scarce in this section. The object was to induce the people working in the other factory to quit work and return to their former employer.

A large percentage of the cigarmakers employed in this section are the sons and daughters of the surrounding farmers. This can be seen at a glance when they go to their homes for the noonday lunch; the husband with his shirt sleeves rolled up to his elbow, without coat and vest, and his wife beside him in similar fashion, both walking briskly.

The time it took one couple to leave the factory, eat their lunch and return to work was about 22 minutes. In the hotel it took the boarders who worked at the cigar trade about 12 minutes to finish the meal; there was plenty and a large variety of vegetables and fruits on the table.

Coming as they do from the farms, they are very anxious to acquire a home of their own, with a patch of ground on which they can raise all kinds of vegetables, and with a chicken coup in the rear of the building. The long hours of labor are natural to them, having had that training on the farm where the hours of labor are from sunrise till sunset and sometimes longer. The public meeting we held here was fairly attended; it was the first cigarmakers' meeting ever held in this village. The superintendent of one of the factories, Mr. Vonderhelt, who worked years ago in Boston, Mass., was present.

We had another good meeting at East Greenville, Pa., where about 350 cigarmakers and packers are employed. There appears to be a promising field for a future harvest. This union has some members who deserve credit for tenacity and sticking qualities; the membership is increasing.

We held another fair meeting at Sonderton, Pa. As soon as the hand bills, calling upon cigarmakers and packers to attend, had been distributed, notice was served by the foremen of two factories that night work would be resumed on Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week, which means a day's work of over 14 hours, and is clearly in violation of the law, so far as it concerns the employment of female labor.

As the meeting was held on Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, the object of resuming night work was obvious.

It was intended to hold a meeting at Emmaus, Pa., but had to be dropped for the time, because the fifteen-hour day, from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. had been put in operation.

I am more firmly impressed than ever that the first necessary step for the improvement of the moral, social and financial condition of the female cigarmakers in this State, as well as in other States, should be legislation which would insure the reduction of the hours of labor, the absolute prohibition of night work and better sanitary arrangements in every direction.

We have enforced the blue label laws in this State; with the same energy displayed we can enforce factory legislation, which will secure a larger measure of success and more far reaching results. To this assertion I challenge contradiction. Yours fraternally,

A. Strasser.

P. S.—My last letter in the Journal contains a typographical error. It should have been the contractor of Pittsburg was fined $50 for violation of the eight-hour law.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 1, 1910.

A great deal is being written and said about the need of labor legislation at this time. The labor paper that does not contain from two to a half dozen articles on this subject each issue is behind the times. I do not wish to appear in the light of being opposed to discussion along these lines, but I ask pardon if I be permitted to take issue with some of the writers who are apparently so deeply in earnest on the subject. They seem to think that legislation is the panacea for all industrial evils, and that the Utopia and promised land of the wage-earner can only be reached by the enactment of so-called "labor laws." I do not for one minute question the sincerity of these people, but I do most emphatically question their judgment. In the first place these doctrinaires apparently do not understand the history or progress of the labor movement. If they did, I am certain they would go a little slow on this legislation program. For the special edification of those who are so ardent in their desire for "more laws," I wish to state that the labor movement in America (or anywhere else) has never received one concession from the employing classes, never bettered their condition one iota, by statute law. If you dispute this, you political faith curists, specify. "Show us!" We certainly are from Missouri on this point. The wage-earners of both the old and the new world have made some advances in the direction of industrial emancipation. They have made some progress. But in every instance it was through the force of organization. No government ever handed them anything but tyranny and oppression. The condition that the proletariat enjoys today in this old planet was made possible by the sacrifices and struggles of the men and women who had the courage to brave the storms of adversity and the cruel antagonism of public opinion. They knew what they wanted, and they strove for it like men and women. They did not truckle to this or that ruler or politician. United action on the part of those who toil will bring results. Take the very best labor laws you have, and of what use are they to the men and women of labor? Even those who are always urging us to ask for more labor laws admit that these same laws will avail nothing without a healthy sentiment is created to see that the laws are enforced. Why go to all this trouble? Why don't you strive to educate the toilers? Show them how they are being "buncoed" or worse. Once let the working people understand their true condition, and you will need no politician or other doctrinaire to show them the remedy.

The trouble with most labor writers is that they begin to prescribe a remedy before they have properly diagnosed the disease. Getting active in politics may or may not be a good thing for the workers. But getting busy in the union, factory, mine and mill is to my mind a much better thing to do. If there is anything that the working people need to-day it is to be made more self-reliant. They should learn to look out for themselves. I have no objections to a union man going into politics. I expect to get into it myself. But I must take issue with those well-meaning friends of labor who put all their faith in the ballot box as a means of obtaining better conditions for the men and women of toil. A union card is better than all the political platforms that were ever written. The best ticket to vote is the union label.

To All Affiliated Unions, Greeting:

You are hereby notified that in pursuance to the Constitution of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, the third convention of this department will be held in Aschenbrodel Hall (Central Labor Union headquarters), 3535 Pine street, St. Louis, Mo., beginning at ten o'clock Thursday morning, Nov. 10, 1910, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the convention has been completed.

Thomas F. Tracy,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24, 1910.

To the Officers, Members and Friends of Organized Labor, Greeting:

The time is fast approaching when our members and friends will, of necessity, because of weather conditions, be called upon to make purchases of gloves of every description.

Affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and with this department is the Glove Workers' International Union of America, an organization that has been struggling for some time to better the hours, wages and working conditions of the men and women engaged in that industry. In some sections of the country, and particularly in Gloversville, N. Y., the manufacturers have antagonized the union in its effort to organize their fellow workers.

Notwithstanding the intense opposition this organization has met with in this and other places, it has maintained its organization, which, while small in numbers, has insisted upon its right to organize and maintain decent conditions. In accomplishing this it has also been able to have the label of its organization adopted by several manufacturers throughout the country. Enclosed you will find a card containing a list of the manufacturers who are using the Glove Workers' label upon their product. The card also contains a fac-simile of the label of this organization. The time to assist this organization in furthering the sale of gloves made under fair conditions bearing the label is NOW.

Your organization is urgently requested to appoint committees to wait upon dealers in your locality, bringing this matter to their attention, and giving them the information where gloves (both dress and working) can be obtained.

The organization of Glove Workers consists to a large degree of women workers, and they should be encouraged and helped. One important way in which the assistance they desire can be obtained is by insisting that when purchasing gloves of any character or material that the Union label of the Glove Workers' International Union shall be attached thereto.

Central Labor Unions, Local Departments, Women's Union Label Leagues, Local Unions, and all other friends are urgently requested to give the subject-matter of this communication their active support and assist in building up and strengthening this organization.

Yours fraternally,
Thomas F. Tracy,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 4, 1910.

Union 15 protests against the amendment proposed by Union 217 in the August Journal for the following reasons: It excuses the 20-cent dues paying members from paying the local assessments levied by local unions for label agitation, as you will see by referring to section 77, lines 7 and 8, which read after the comma: "And local assessments levied for label agitation."

We call your attention to the fact that those words that Union 217 proposes to strike out were proposed by Union 14 and adopted a few years ago by a referendum vote.

Now, we would have no objection if the 20-cent dues paying members were not equally benefited by local advertising of the label. We know that they receive from $3 to $5 more per 1,000 on all the cigars they manufacture.

If there was no demand for the union label in this city, they would have to sell their 5-cent cigars for $17 to $20 per 1,000, instead of $25 and $30, as now, and 10-cent cigars in proportion.

We hold that a 20-cent dues paying member, employing one to six men, receives more benefit from the label agitation than the 15 and 30 cent dues paying members, and so do the foremen.

We hold that all those that want to enjoy the music ought to stand their share for the fiddler.

Mr. Al. Byrd, Secy. Union 356, Palatka, Fla.:

Dear Sir—Replying to yours of the 5th, in which you state that you have four branch factories from Tampa now operating in your city, and in which you want to know if union members have a right to work in these factories, I have to say that the Joint Unions of Tampa, Fla., are on an authorized strike. No union man, of course, while the strike lasts, can work in the factories of Tampa, neither can any union man work in any branch factory established in any other place, nor can he work in any factory in any other place which turns in cigars for the strike-bound firms in Tampa. No union man has any more right to work in a branch Tampa factory in Palatka than he has to work in a strike factory in Tampa.

Yours fraternally,
G. W. Perkins, Int. Pres.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 8, 1910.

Mr. G. W. Perkins, Ins. Pres., C. M. I. W. of A., Monon Bldg., Chicago, Ill.:

My dear sir:—Please accept my resignation as a delegate to the conventions of the American Federation, representing the Cigarmakers' Int. Union.

My reasons for resigning are that I am not employed by organized labor, or am I working at the bench, hence I conform myself to the law of the International constitution, which governs same.

I desire to thank the officers and members of the International Union for their courteous treatment extended to me while acting as International Organizer, and Delegate to the A. F. of L. I shall always remain staunch and true to the principals of the trade union movement, and at every opportunity sing the praises of the Cigarmakers' International Union.

Very truly yours,
George R. French.

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 6, 1910.

Will you kindly publish the following notice in the Journal?

The following members owe this local private loans: J. M. Connors, No. 82864 ($4.00); J. H. Phillips, No. 108202 ($2.50), and are urgently requested to pay up or advise us at once why you are unable to do so, or the constitution will be enforced. Previous notice through the Journal has failed to elicit any response, and these loans are growing musty with age. Surely you have worked enough since the loans were granted to repay them, or, if not, an explanatory postal would have assured us the matter had not escaped your mind. This local, though small in number, has always been willing to lend temporary aid to worthy traveling members in need, but we do not advance the money as a gift, only a loan. We insist on a prompt settlement, so remit promptly, so other members can be accommodated.

Union 278, London, has just placed a fine of $100.00 and annulled the card of Joe Menendez for going to work in the closed shop of Brenner Bros. and for trying to induce other members to quit jobs in union shops to go to Brenner's to work. He has not only tried to get members in town to go to work there but has also written letters to cigarmakers in other cities. Secretaries and members should take note of this, as Menendez is working directly against unions, and things he says regarding jobs in closed shops are entirely untrue. Menendez is a Spaniard, about 5 ft. 4 ins. tall, dark complexion, clean shaven and freckled. He is a noted strikebreaker and a detriment to the craft, and a close watch should be kept on him by all.

CHICAGO, OCTOBER 15, 1910.

Some of the trade papers, some of the politicians in our own ranks and others who know little of the real situation have written and spoken volumes concerning the Tampa strike and the attitude of the International Union thereto, the most of which is pure rot.

THE TAMPA STRIKE.

The International Union does not rush into print during strikes or discuss its "war" policy in the newspapers or on the street corners. We always mind our own business, never seek for notoriety or try to make a "tin" hero out of ourselves during a strike.

The International Union was not responsible for the lockout nor for the attitude of the manufacturers. We are not responsible for any of the mistakes of commission or omission if any have been made by either side.

As soon as the lockout and strike started the International Executive Board sent two representatives to Tampa with instructions to act as peace makers, to try by all honorable means to get the contending forces together in an effort to bring about an honorable settlement of the difficulty.

They had instructions to arbitrate the dispute in compliance with our laws whenever an opportunity should present itself or whenever the manufacturers were willing to meet us half way.

There has never been a time since the trouble started but what the International Union stood ready to assist in bringing about a fair settlement. So far the manufacturers have refused any settlement except on their own conditions, which is practically unconditional surrender.

We not only had two representatives there all the time, but sent Mr. F. G. Hopp from this office there to make an investigation and to meet and talk the situation over with the men and employers. Mr. Hopp met most of the manufacturers and thoroughly explained the laws of the International Union and assured them of a square deal if they would consent to let the question go to arbitration by the representatives of the International Union. All to no avail.

Something of the conditions in Tampa were published in our editorial in last December's issue and the material facts were set forth in the circular we issued under date of September 20 last.

At the proper time and place we will further discuss this strike.

Before the smoke had cleared from the awful disaster which overtook the Times' building in Los Angeles, in which a score of human lives were sacrificed and before any one could possibly know the real cause of the explosion, Otis the owner, Post of Gripe Nuts fame, and several other bigoted trade union haters rushed into print with the assertion that the building was dynamited by organized labor.

Common decency would have prompted any fair-minded unbiased square dealing man or woman to have waited until an official investigation disclosed who the real perpetrators of this disasterly crime were.

The International Typographical Union has a long and honorable record, which is free from scandal and especially the use of violence in trade disputes. It had everything to lose and nothing to gain by destroying the building in question.

We do not know what caused the destruction of the building and do not propose even to say what or who did it.

The fact remains that it could have been caused by any number of means, such as gas or oil explosion. It should be remembered that they do not use coal for motive or heating purposes in Los Angeles. It could have been done by any one of the numberless enemies Otis has in and out of Los Angeles, who are not in the labor movement.

Organized labor condemns such methods regardless of who or what did it, and characterizes it as a dastardly crime if intentional, and a crime nevertheless if caused by preventable accident.

Some of the trade papers and others, if not directly, indirectly let the impression go out that the two men lynched in Tampa were striking cigarmakers.

MISREPRESENTATION.

The facts in the case are that J. F. Easterling, a bookkeeper for Bustillo Bros. & Diaz, one of the firms involved in the lockout, was shot by some unknown miscreant. Immediately thereafter two Italians, C. Flacorrota and A. Albano, were arrested, taken to the jail in West Tampa and while being taken to the county jail in Tampa were taken from the deputies by an alleged mob, which numbered about 50 people, and lynched.

Flacorrota was not a cigarmaker and Albano has not worked at the trade for a long time. He was an insurance writer. Neither were on strike or involved in the trouble.

A coronor's jury which investigated the lynching of these men brought in a verdict to the effect that the two men came to their deaths at the hands of "parties unknown."

Somebody knows who did the lynching and the truth may come out some day.

The United Cigar Manufacturing Company, a gigantic combination of non-union manufacturers, is if anything worse than the American Tobacco Co., the trust. It has many shops scattered through Pennsylvania, and in New York City. It pays as little if not less wages than its big brother, the trust. It, like its co-partner in the unholy effort to still lower the standard of wages, lengthen the hours of labor and degrade the general living conditions of its unfortunate workers will not employ a male if it can help it.

Its legitimate prey is women and its greedy purpose is to degrade, enslave and exploit female labor to the very lowest point of wages consistent with an effort to keep body and soul together.

This great institution and its few beneficiaries has grown immensely rich at the expense of unprotected, exploited female labor.

Its constant aim is to look for cheaper fields and cheaper help. No scheme or system is overlooked that will enable it to grind more dollars out of its helpless victims. What care they for degraded womanhood so long as they get the dollars.

These poor, helpless unfortunates can and should be organized, and their rights guaranteed and best interests advanced, and an effort in that direction is the noblest work in which man can indulge.

If some of our alleged friends would do a little work in that direction, instead of making doubting faces at those who do, they would at least show a disposition to help where, God knows, help is sadly needed.

Let us get down to practical work and organize the unorganized. They need it. At the same time we help our own position while trying, at least, to help others. History proves we can organize them. Let no man or woman shirk an imperative duty, a duty we owe to ourselves, to the trade and to a better, higher and nobler womanhood.

"Tobacco," a hostile trade paper published in New York, published a long screed in which it rehashes the old canard that the officers of the International Union started the Tampa "scrap" in order to organize the workers there so that their weekly dues could be sent to Chicago and handled by the hereinbefore mentioned International officers. According to the "stuff" handed out by this dopest a golden stream of all the way from $100,000 to $250,000 was to flow into the hands of the International officers.

As a matter of fact everyone possessed with an ounce of brains knows that the dues of the members are collected by local officers and held in the funds of local unions and that not a dollar of it goes to the International office except for the actual running expenses of the International Union.

No institution on earth is run cheaper than the International Union. These are facts well known to everybody, yes, including "Tobacco."

Nobody every accused "Tobacco" of being overburdened with real knowledge concerning the trade, but its accusations and published misstatements are so well known to be false to everyone else that we are almost persuaded that poor old "Tobacco" may have suspected that what it published and said editorially was not true.

Forty-four thousand 30c weekly dues paying members and counting the 15c and 20c members a membership of over 51,000 is the reply to those who ask if we are not going back.

GOING AHEAD DESPITE.

This question is sometimes asked by the misinformed young member who has heard the interested employer, the union hater, Post, Kirby, or last, but not least, the politician in our own ranks say that it is.

We can understand why the manufacturer discredits the activities, standing and strength of the International Union; it's natural that he should, and we can guess why the politician in our ranks says so.

Who is the greatest enemy to the cigarmaker? The boss from whom we may expect it or the politician in our own ranks who knows better?

Despite the wonderful improvement in the lives, wages, hours of labor, health, etc., of our members there are thousands of poor unfortunates still outside the ranks working under conditions that are a disgrace to mankind and our American institutions.

The man or woman, union or non-union, in or out of our ranks who derides, belittles, abuses or places a stumbling block in the pathway of the International Union, the only institution under existing conditions that has or can help the workers in our trade is a traitor to the sacred cause of trade unionism, to himself and to his fellow workers.

Many things of paramount importance to the labor movement have been accomplished in the last decade. Chief among them is the new declaration "Of no reductions of wages, especially during periods of industrial and commercial stagnation," which was successfully carried out during the last industrial flurry and materially shortened the depression.

The fearless and determined stand of Samuel Gompers, fully backed by organized labor, to maintain the constitutional right of free speech and a free press at all hazards comes near the top.

The practically unanimous determination to cut loose from old party ties and to support our friends and vote against our enemies was an important move forward.

One of the greatest was the fact that we maintained our membership and scale of prices during the late depression.

The spirit of conciliation, arbitration, tolerance, bear and forbear has been wonderfully advanced.

Thousands have achieved the priceless boon of the eight and nine-hour workday.

Fully 1,500,000 human beings have received an increase in wages.

A better understanding and unanimity of purpose has been developed in the organized labor movement.

We succeeded in forcing employers and capitalists to realize that the labor movement is here and here to stay, and that it has to be dealt with.

Employers have also demonstrated that their rights must be respected. These and many more are among the chief accomplishments of labor in the past ten years.

We read and hear a great deal about employers' liability and industrial accidents, which is right and proper, but very little about occupational diseases.

OCCUPATIONAL VS. INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS

The facts are that there are a great many more deaths from occupational diseases than there are from industrial accidents. This is true even if we count the railway accidents.

If, in 6 months, one man falls off a high building and is killed the papers note it and comment on the uncertainty of life and everybody regrets. If the same time and in the same space 10 or 20 men may have died in this same building from poor ventilation or other unsanitary conditions and not a word of comment is heard.

Several years ago 600 people were killed in the Iroquois theater disaster, Chicago, and a cry of horror went up which echoed around the civilized world. Four hundred or 500 people lost their lives in the Cherry, Ill. coal mine disaster and the demand for a more stringent employers' liability law was immediately heard.

Thousands of people die annually in Chicago and tens of thousands die annually in the United States largely from occupational diseases and scarcely a comment is made.

One hundred and fifty thousand people die annually in this country from tuberculosis, which is largely an occupational disease and preventable. Thousands die from other diseases, such as lead poison and many other causes due to insanitary work shops.

Many, many more die from occupational diseases which are preventable than are killed by industrial accidents that are preventable.

Give us by all means a proper employers' liability act, but at the same time we demand and should receive proper sanitary laws which will prevent the needless and horrible slaughter of thousands of human beings from occupational diseases.

Some idea of conditions prevailing in our trade before the organization of the International Union or before it began to assert its beneficent influence can be had by a perusal of the interesting and instructive article written by Samuel Gompers and published in this issue.

No one except those who personally witnessed the awful condition of the tenement house cigar workers can fully realize the frightful and inhuman conditions under which they were compelled to work.

As pointed out in the letter of Mr. Gompers the tenement house worker had to go to the warehouse, get the raw tobacco, take it to his alleged home, make it into cigars and return it to the manufacturers. He was charged with so many pounds and leaves and had no say in the weighing or counting. As a consequence he was cheated both going and coming, at both ends and the middle. He had to rent rooms from the manufacturer, for which he was charged double rent. He had to make a shop of his living rooms, and the whole family was pressed into service as strippers, makers, packers, etc.

He paid the shop rent of the boss, paid a handsome profit on the house in rent, worked for small pay at long hours and found an early grave as a reward.

Twelve thousand souls were working under this slave-driving, inhuman system at one time in the city of New York. The International Union abolished it.

It should be noted and may be said to the everlasting credit of the International Union that it refused to recognize this system even when the manufacturers, who were profiting so richly by it offered to unionize the help and pay the New York scale.

The system was rotten, inhuman, unfair, unjust to the workers and death dealing in its effect and we refused to recognize, indorse or have anything to do with it under any circumstances except to fight it, with the result that it was finally abolished.

This is only one of the many things to the credit of the International Union. What it has done in that and other directions can and will be repeated until the trade is thoroughly organized and every living human being connected with the industry is accorded fair treatment, living wages, decent hours and the life of the cigarmaker all that is desired.

The strike situation in Tampa is different from any other strike that has ever taken place anywhere else. Tampa is a one-town industry place. The cigar industry is practically the only big industry there, practically nothing outside of it except the building trades.

When the cigarmakers stop work for any length of time everybody else lays off, including all business places.

The situation has reached that stage when the public and citizens generally, outside of the cigarmakers, care nothing for the real merits of the case. They want to see the men resume work so that they can again do business. This applies to all business concerns.

The authorities from the mayor down, and the newspapers, want the trouble settled and are not particular how it is done. The newspapers have been against the strikers from the start.

Just as we go to press we have received dispatches that several members of the Joint Advisory Board have been arrested and placed under $3,000 bonds. One dispatch says that J. C. Johnston has been arrested, and another dispatch says warrants are out for him.

From my long experience in dealing with Tampa, and I have been here a great many times during the last fourteen years, I can say that no living soul can say, or even predict, what will happen next.

We have made arrangements with a union paper mill through a Chicago jobbing house to make all of the paper we use in a union mill and on which will be watermarked the union label of Papermakers' International Brotherhood. This issue bears the union label which is watermarked into and shows in every page. The label can be easily seen by holding the page up to the light.

The mill from which we have been obtaining our paper especially the Blue Label Paper has been union for a long time but has only recently watermarked the label into its product.

Through persistent asking we have finally succeeded in getting the label so that it will show in the paper used.

We have also bought a large quantity of paper for stationary use, envelopes and letter heads which we will use as soon as the supply now on hand can be worked up or disposed of. We can also furnish this union-marked stationery for local unions and at prices formerly charged.

One of the very best ways to get health and keep in good physical condition is to keep as far away from the doctor as possible, take plenty of outdoor exercise, sleep in a well-ventilated room all year round, eat slowly and thoroughly masticate your food. Hasty eating without proper masticating causes more illness than any other one thing. Every time you throw a piece of food into your stomach without properly masticating it you drive a nail into your own coffin.

Total products of cigars in the United States (for the month of August, 1910, and two months of the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1910): Month of August, 1910, 616,713,639; 1909, 517,154,359; increase, 99,559,280; two months ending August 31, 1910, 1,190,131,165; 1909, 1,026,762,041; increase, 163,369,124.

Anything done in pure spite usually acts as a boomerang and returns to hurt the perpetrators more than it does the intended victim.

Some manufacturers, hostile trade papers and others have said that the Tampa strike was started and kept alive by the few paid agitators, anarchists, etc. Recently the bosses' ultimatum that the men return to work on the bosses' terms was submitted to a referendum vote of the members and resulted in favor of returning to work about 15, in favor of continuing the strike about 4,000. Comment unnecessary.

Through the untiring efforts of the American Federation of Labor the two central bodies of Ohio have been finally united and are now working under one head and a mutual agreement reached satisfactory to both sides. This ends a bitter internal strife in the labor movement in Ohio, which will have its effect outside that state.

Most of the insurance companies and all anti-tuberculosis associations keep a printed list of all institutions which treat and care for tuberculosis patients. Application to these companies and institutions in your city or vicinity will give you information concerning the nearest and best institution of this kind.

Preserve the good and destroy the bad in the labor movement should be the aim of all loyal trade unionists, and which, if followed, will the more quickly lead to economic freedom and social liberty.

A doubting skeptic who does not fully believe in the trade union movement and is always making excuses and apologies for it is an unsafe counselor and advisor.

Strong men with the courage of their convictions are absolutely necessary for the protection, advancement and well being of the trade union movement.

The men with integrity, good judgment, faith, backbone, fairness and the true union spirit are the most valuable assets the trade union movement has.

We want an employers' liability act and we want a law that will help to correct the annual unnecessary slaughter from occupational diseases.

Good or fair union shops required years of labor to obtain. Beware of the chap who would destroy them without absolute and just provocation.

The paper on which this is printed was made by union men and bears the union label of the Papermakers' International Brotherhood.

Keep what we have got by union effort if we can with honor and be consistent with fair dealing and keep adding thereto.

Hear both sides, be sure you're right then go ahead with justice, fairness, firmness and square dealing as your motto.

Those who resent just and rightful criticism or a well-grounded kick are moral cowards and mental weaklings.

Don't forget that occupational diseases cause more deaths than industrial accidents do.

Everyone who "knocks" the union boosts the trust and all non-union manufacturers.

The spoken truth never permanently hurt any real movement, although it often not only hurts, but destroys individuals.

Construction, not destruction, should be the watchword in the labor movement.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

Union 275 of Aberdeen offers the following amendment to the International Constitution:

Strike out the following of Sec. 79 of the International Constitution commencing on line 8, page 23, of the 20th edition, as follows: "No member of the International Union shall be entitled to strike benefits unless he is a member in good standing for at least three months," and insert the following: "Any member in good standing shall be entitled to the above benefits, with the exception of members in a local union where the charter has been granted less than six months prior to the strike application. In such cases no member shall be entitled to strike benefits unless he has been a member in good standing for at least three months."

The amendment of Union 144, New York, as published in the August Journal, as follows:

Strike out of Section 81 all on line 13, after the word "decided," on line 15, and insert the following: "Unless the shop or shops involved shall have voted by secret ballot whether an application for strike shall be made, and if the vote is in the affirmative the same shall be referred to the Joint Advisory Board, who shall have the power to make an application for strike to the International Union without submitting the same to a referendum vote of the members affiliated with the Joint Advisory Board, but no application to strike shall be made unless a committee of the Joint Advisory Board first visits the firm to adjust the grievance." Section to read accordingly.

Received the endorsement of Union 336, Tampa; 213, New York; 316, St. Cloud; 44, St. Louis; 149, Brooklyn; 90, New York; 232, Sellersville; 13, New York; 129, Denver; 132, Brooklyn; 251, New York.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote. The amendment of Union 217, South Chicago, Ill., as published in the August Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 77 by striking out on lines 7 and 8 the comma and words after international assessments, which read, "and local assessments levied for label agitation."

Section to read as follows: "Sec. 77. Any member who has contributed full dues for a continuous period of three years quitting the trade, or becoming a foreman as defined in Sec. 64, or a continuous employer of one or more members, may be placed in the retired beneficiary class and continue to receive the sick and death benefit upon the payment of 20 cents dues per week and all international assessments. All persons in the retired beneficiary class shall be entitled to vote on all questions relating to sick or death benefits, or assessments they are subject to, but shall not be entitled to sick benefit while in a foreign country, away from the jurisdiction of the International Union. Any member failing to avail himself of this beneficiary privilege shall be granted, within thirty days, if clear on the books, an absolute retiring card, entitling the holder, upon his return to the trade, to readmission free of charge as a new member. The retiring card of any person, or the beneficiary membership of any person, violating the laws or working against the interests of the International Union, shall be annulled."

Received the endorsement of Union 102, Kansas City; 315, St. Cloud; 301, Akron; 44, St. Louis; 341, Neenah; 232, Sellersville; 13, New York.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote. The amendment of Union 129, Denver, Colo., as published in the August Journal, as follows:

Union 129, Denver, Colo., offers the following amendment to the International Constitution:

That an assessment of 25c be levied on all 15c and 30c members for the benefit of the locked out members of Local Unions in Tampa, Fla. Said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

Received the endorsement of Union 8, Hoboken; 135, Appleton; 314, Jackson; 213, New York; 294, Duluth; 412, Newport News; 44, St. Louis; 3, Patterson; 97, Boston; 165, Philadelphia; 290, Janesville; 102, Kansas City; 316, McSherrytown; 150, Sioux City; 69, Three Rivers; 336, Tampa; 266, Memphis; 118, Peoria; 409, Kewanee; 209, Coldwater; 42, Hartford; 89, Schenectady; 99, Ottawa; 228, San Francisco; 315, St. Cloud; 174, Joliet; 167, Owosso; 301, Akron; 72, Burlington; 437, Baker City; 248, Jacksonville; 202, Portland; 393, Cadillac; 306, Pueblo;

UNION NOTES

By Union 97, Boston: Label Committee has secured letters from leading men of the city boomer our product. This means in Boston union made goods. Go thou and do likewise.—You have approved of Tampa application; now furnish the ammunition, i. e., the funds.—Why not centralize your efforts in reducing the hours of female labor.—The skilled mechanic can reduce his hours of labor through organization.—Vote for congressmen and state legislators who will favor labor bills. Vote for executive officers who will sign them when enacted.—When all are organized hours reduced, child labor abolished, sanitary conditions in work shops, sweat shops a thing of the past, the goal will be in sight.—Give a marriage dowry of one hundred dollars to any female on her marriage and you will organize them.—There are many questions that can only be decided by a convention.—We need if not uniform legislation at least uniformity in legislation.—New England conference doing good work.—The President ought to be on the road all the time.—Organized labor should be represented on the Board of Trade of Chamber of Commerce in various cities.—Label Committee visited all buildings having cigar stands and ascertained where and how many had non-union goods and has interested leading bankers and Chamber of Commerce, and will follow this with a circular to all the tenants, and when you consider that there are 500 in one building you may get an idea of work done.—Label Committee has done some very effective newspaper advertising.—Executive Board succeeded in breaking up a dual organization of teamsters. "He who would divide the labor movement is no friend of organized labor."—Never in the history of the world has so many articles, lectures, etc., been devoted to the conditions of the masses as at present.—Break up the congested districts in our large cities.—Attend your meetings.—Have you forgotten the "Old Age Pension."—Why not raise the death benefit to $1,000 and get a reserve fund of $100,000 by an assessment.—Why not insure the children?

Any secretary holding the card of John Toeshlag (8851) please collect $1.50 and forward to Mr. John Gimbel, secretary of Union 32.

At a regular meeting the action of Union 486, New Westminster, B. C., was reversed owing to extenuating circumstances in the case of W. J. Meek (111564), who was suspended here last June, as published in the June Journal.

Union 51, Holyoke, Mass., would like W. E. Connor (84743) to show cause in writing or in person before our next regular meeting, why he should not be fined $8.00 board bill which he left unpaid.

Union 454, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, would like to hear from Fred Gintz (72091) reference board bill.

The secretary of Union 9, Troy, N. Y., would like to hear from John Gates.

Union 38, Springfield, Ill., writes, "Union No. 38 has cut out meal tickets but will grant private loans on all full and blue cards, at the office of the Wright Hotel, 7th and Washington Sts., before or after working hours. Cannot be seen at shop, and positively no due books recognized."

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 161, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of regret and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—A. Herpich (64404), who died Sept. 6th. Funeral taken charge of by Kroeger Verein, interment at Riverside Cemetery.

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—Peter Lorenson (9692), who died Sept. 25th; also Carl Scheffer (55004), who died Sept. 29th; also Harry A. Paine (7229), who was murdered in this city Sept. 23d. His body was shipped to his home at Rochester, Minn. The murderer is still at large and evidently was not a cigarmaker. The motive for the crime no doubt was robbery.

Union 269, Nashua, N. H.—Martin Tierman (31404), who died Sept. 10th. Remains taken to Vermont for burial. Members accompanied body to the depot.

Union 72, Burlington, Ia.—Andrew Schwimo, who died Sept. 12th. Union attended the funeral in a body.

Union 120, Muscatine, Ia.—Louis Korneman (116399), who died at Los Angeles. Funeral took place here and the union attended in a body.

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—A. Herpich, No. 64404, who died Sept. 6th, funeral taken charge of by Kroeger Verein of which he was a member; quite a number of our members attended. Interment Riverside Cemetery.

S. G. Bengeladorf, No. 7352, who died Sept. 30th, funeral in charge of family. A committee from the Union attended funeral. Interment at Mount Nebo Cemetery.

H. Hall, No. 84342, who died Oct. 3rd, funeral in charge of family. Pall bearers were selected from shop where he last worked by request of the family. Interment at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Le Numéro de septembre du "Federationist," l'organe officiel de l'A. F. of L., contient une splendide revue de l'état passé et récent du mouvement des associations de métiers, par environ cinquante unionistes de métiers; c'est là un magnifique tribut à la force, à l'utilité et à la solidarité du mouvement des associations de métiers de notre temps.

Les lettres couvrent plus de quarante pages du journal et l'espace dont nous disposons ne nous permet même pas de mentionner les résultats merveilleux placés au crédit de toutes les unions.

Les lettres cependant, démontrent le fait que sans aucune exception les unions sont plus fortes, au point de vue financier et numérique, et qu'elles sont mieux armées pour une salutaire activité, qu'en aucun autre moment de l'histoire du mouvement unioniste.

Pas une seule note discordante ne se fait entendre dans aucune des lettres; toutes se basent sur des faits enregistrés et toutes respirent le même esprit très remarquable d'espoir, de foi dans le succès final. Ces lettres émanent toutes de fonctionnaires d'unions: elles démontrent des faits et ne sont ni plus ni moins que des documents signés.

Tout membre de l'Union Internationale devrait se procurer et lire le numéro de septembre du "Federationist."

L'histoire du passé n'est utile qu'en ce qu'elle sert de mesure pour jauger le progrès accompli jusqu'au présent et qu'elle prophétise de succès dans l'avenir.

Il est extravagant de proclamer que l'histoire ne fait que se répéter, excepté sous une forme modifiée. Chaque génération devient plus intelligente que la précédente. Les masses en savent plus long aujourd'hui qu'autrefois et sont mieux à même et plus capables par conséquent d'obtenir ce qu'elles désirent.

Si nous n'employons pas nos connaissances dans la bonne direction et si les choses tournent mal, c'est en grande partie notre faute.

Le plan de conciliation volontaire et d'arbitrage prend des racines profondes dans les unions de métiers qui réussissent le mieux et n forme aujourd'hui partie intégrale. L'Union Internationale des Typographes possède un système complet d'arbitrage qui est en plein travail de rendement. Les fonctionnaires disent que, bien qu'il y existe toujours une petite minorité pour critiquer, la majorité est satisfaite des résultats qui, dans la plupart des cas, donnent ce que l'union demandait.

Consacrons nos efforts à travailler en vue du bien-être du plus grand nombre. Le monde n'a pas été fait en une minute, et la multitude de maux, d'épreuves et de tribulations qu'il comporte ne peut être balayée en un jour. Si vous ne pouvez obtenir ce que vous voulez aujourd'hui, essayez encore demain.

Dans les conditions actuelles, la règle de l'honnêteté doit prévaloir; toutes fois que le labeur est devenu ou sera arrogant, il rencontrera la défaite.

PROGRESISTA Y CONSERVADORA.

Hay una clase de enemigos de la Internacional que no deja de hacerle daño, y se lo hacen precisamente por fingirse amigos. No todos ellos son personas de mala fe sino que muchos son individuos buenos; solo que, cortos de alcance intelectual, recurren a medios indiscretos para defender a nuestra Institución de la malquerencia de otros.

Donde mas se emplean esos medios a que quiero referirme es entre los elementos del exterior, entre los extranjeros, para hablar mas propiamente.

He oído mil veces, esta frase; "Es la Unión Internacional demasiado conservadora." Y despues de sentar esa premisa agregan quedando satisfechos de su parto: "Para nuestro espíritu progresista es demasiado estrecho ese molde; vamos a pertenecer a ella por amor a la causa del trabajo, no porque satisfaga nuestras aspiraciones.

Así diciendo y así pensando, penetran en nuestro recinto para perturbarlo, para encarecer el ambiente que respiramos, para oponerse a todo nuestro credo; para imponernos sus creencias y sus procedimientos.

Por que, conviene advertir que si alardean de liberales y de tolerantes, lo son tanto como lo era uno de mis abuelos, et cual fué devoto sincero de la política que desarrollaron en sus respectivos países, Enrique VIII y Felipe II.

En la de tolerantes se le distingue en seguida.

Ellos dicen: "Le permito a Ud. que piense como pienso yo de lo contrario puede Ud. pensar como quiera, pero es Ud. un traidor a la causa del trabajo."

En cuanto a lo de liberales, lo son tanto que nada les está vedado; penetran hasta en el sagrado de la conciencia, y para dirigir y gobernar no conocen otros métodos que los de garrotazo y tente tieso y ¡Viva la libertad!

Pero me voy dando cuenta de que hacen bien en decir que no caben en tan estrechos moldes

Es nuestra Institución una entidad seria justamente conservadora, al que de reflexivo progresismo.

¿Como van a encajar en sus moldes la irreflexión y el convulsivismo crónico, aunque se cubran con la máscara de amor y de progreso?

La verdad es lo que es y no deja de serlo porque se la encubre ó se la desfigura con ropajes convencionales.

Pero, tratando el asunto como debe tratarse en estas columnas, debemos contestar a esas conclusiones de los adversarios ó enemigos indicados, que la cosa es a la inversa de lo que ellos suponen. Los moldes de la Unión Internacional son amplios, amplísimos y su doctrina es progresista.

El centro sobre el cual giran sus aspiraciones es tal, que no cede en radicalismo a las teorías de los sociólogos mas distinguidos: La Unión Internacional de Tabaqueros de América, se organizó por que sus miembros creen que es absolutamente indispensable la organización de los obreros para llegar a la emancipación del trabajo.

Dentro de este criterio, y comprendiendo que dista mucho aun de nosotros el dichoso coronamiento de la gran obra emancipadora, emplea gran parte de su tiempo y de sus energías en recabar para sus miembros la mayor suma de ventajas posibles, dentro d un sistema social como el que vivimos, el cual ofrece campo todavía, por más que se diga a los métodos persuasivos.

Nosotros no hemos llegado ni con mucho a cierto estado de perfección como el que se anuncia, en cuyo reino solo dominarán las armas y la fuerza devastadora como preparativos para llegar a la posesión de la felicidad definitiva. Cuando a él lleguemos, quizás seremos tambien soldados de la fuerza y elementos del terror pero mientras tanto, déjesenos conservar los métodos anticuados de discutir antes que pelear, empleando como buenos agentes de la propaganda el fecundo raciocinio y la palabra escrita y hablada.

Si con esta sistema no hiciéramos grandes hazañas, tampoco por nuestra causa, ni por incitaciones nuestras, se cubrirán de luto los hogares obreros ni menos engañamos a las mazas haciéndoles creer en la existencia de un valor heroico que quizás distamos mucho de poseer

Nuestra Sociedad no conduce a los trabajadores a lo desconocido, sino que las guía a lugares accequibles donde cada individuo encuentra lo que se le ha prometido si cumple sus deberes sociales.

Ella no dice al socio: "Te daré las estrellas ni otras cosas imposibles;" sino que le da en todas circunstancias previstas lo que debe darle; lo que le ha prometido, lo que le corresponde.

Proceder de otra manera sí que sería engañarle y eso no debe hacerlo ninguna sociedad seria y la Unión Internacional de Tabaqueros lo es.

Claro que los elementos excesivamente inquietos no están en su centro cuando penetran en el seno de ella; pero eso no estriba en la supuesta estrechez de nuestra organización sino en la demasiada, en la nociva movilidad de esos elementos que se agitan sistemáticamente para perturbarlo todo improductivamente, ó con daño, la mayor parte de las ocasiones.

Nuestra organización no fué creada para perturbar por sistema, sino que lo fué para encajar las justas aspiraciones de los obreros hacia los linderos de lo posible, dentro de la actual organización de la Sociedad humana. Si ha cumplido ó no su misión, si la está cumpliendo aún, dígalo el catálogo de mejoras que ha hecho introducir en las condiciones del trabajo, y que hoy gozan los trabajadores de las cuales no gozarían tal vez si nuestra internacional no existiese.

Nosotros hemos abalido los vales, signo fiduciario particular conque los fabricantes de casi todo el país pagaban el trabajo a sus operaciones, cuyo signo solo tenía valor en determinados establecimientos controlados ó establecidos por los mismos fabricantes, y no precisamente para favorecerlos con la baratez de los artículos de nuestro consumo, sino para hacer que la ganancia del ama fuese mucho mayor con perjuicio notable de sus obreros.

De los talleres hemos excluido a los chinos, porque es notorio el gran daño que esos trabajadores causan a la industria que asaltan precisamente porque trabajan demasiado barato.

Tambien, y por la misma causa de la baratez, hemos hecho desaparecer la costumbre de dar trabajo a las casas de vecindad.

Las horas de labor las hemos reducido a ocho y los jornales se han elevado desde un diez a un 100 por 100

Si solo hubiésemos hecho esto que acabo de decir en el transcurso de nuestra vida social, ya ello sería bastante para que tuviésemos derecho al agradecimiento de los trabajadores y al respeto de todas las personal sensatas.

Pero además, conociendo esa nuestra labor y toda la que se deriva de nuestra actividad social, nadie tiene razon para declarar que la Internacional de Tabaqueros es una Institución de caracter exclusivamente conservador.

Ella tiende a conservar lo que ha conquista-do, pero es notorio que antes ha realizado las conquistas.

De manera sea, que es conservador de lo que conquista; y si lo es ademas en relación con las ideas excesivamente radicales, culpese a los intereses creados por esas mismas conquistas, cuyo espíritu de conservación reclama temperamentos moderados en el desenvolvimiento cotidiano de los asuntos sociales.

T. M.

Nejsou-li dějiny minulosti k ničemu jinému dobré, měly by aspoň vzbuzovat důvěru v budoucnost v hnutí mezinárodní unie.

Pohled do minulosti ukáže, že v St. Louis, Mo., v roce 1876 neorganizovaní doutníkáři dostávali v některých případech pouze $2.50 za výrobu tisíc doutníků. Obvyčejná cena toho času byla od $4.00 do $5.00 od tisíce, kterážto částka se vybírala v doutnících. Jeden člen, který tam byl té doby, pravil nedávno, že napočítal skoro sto lidí čekajících v řadě v pondělí ráno před doutníkářskou továrnou, čekající na příležitost, aby se mohli dostat dovnitř a požádati o $4.00 práci.

Ač byli dělníci nuceni vybrati si svoji výplatu v doutnících, bylo jim počítáno $25.00 za tisíc, avšak byli nuceni prodati je v otevřeném trhu někdy za pouhých $13.00 tisíc. Byli tudíž okrádáni na obou stranách. Dostávali hladově mzdy za výrobu, pak jim byla počítána plná cena, když je dostávali za mzdu a konečně byli nuceni vzhledem k veliké soutěži prodati je za polovinu, co za ně museli zaplatit.

Bez organizace, bez uniové pokladny a bez jakékoliv podpory vystaveni byli dělníci na milost zaměstnavatelů tehdejší doby.

Dnes Unie 44 v St. Louisu dostává nejnižší mzdu $10.00 a skoro žádní neunioní doutníkáři v městě. Co bylo docíleno zde, možno docílit všude jinde s řádnou organizací. Poměrně ty samé nízké mzdy, dlouhé pracovní hodiny a nepříznivé poměry existují všude, kde není buď žádná neb jen slabá organizace. Minulost, pakli se porovná s přítomností, opravňuje k důvěře a posiluje víru v schopnost mezinárodní unie, že docílí ve všech místech to, co dokázala tam, kde jame organizování.

Duch nepokoje, spojený s poctivou snahou k docílení lepších a příznivějších poměrů pracovních, jest vrozen v myslích a srdcích všeho člověčenstva a jest stále povzbuzován těmi nadšenějšími a srdnatějšími.

Jest dobře pro dělnictvo, že tomu tak jest. Kdykoliv massy lidu ztratí naději a citlivost a přestanou zápasit, nastane pochod na zad.

Toto jest pravdou na všech stezkách života, jmenovitě ale v uniovém hnutí.

V našich uních máme radikála, nadšence, mladíka i starce, lidi zkušené, lidi beznadějně, lidi netrpělivé, lidi, jež mají víru pochybovače a mnoho jiných lidí s mnohými různými náhledy. Jest to veliký úkol sblížit tyto odporující si živly v takovém způsobu, abychom šli ku předu takovým krokem, který by přinesl nejvíce dobra pro největší počet členstva.

Mladý nezkušený nadšenec, ač míní dobře a má nejlepší úmysl, vsází vše na jednu kartu, kážto starší a zkušenější, ač právě tak dychtící pomoci hnutí a docílit co největších výsledků, počítá na následky a dobře uvažuje možnost zradu. On se nechce hnát do téměř jisté záhuby s možností 100 k 1 proti sobě. On zná ze zkušenosti čas, peníze, práci a sebezapření, jež stálo vybudovat a udržet Mezinárodní unii a nechce se vydávat v nebezpečí zničení ji obratem ruky. Tito lidé jsou pravými vůdci, kteří umožnili trvání unie.

Nadšenců jest právě tak zapotřeby jako starých pracovníků se srdcem na pravém místě a zdravým úsudkem, on povzbudí ty váhavé a beznadějně k činnosti a veliké dobro z toho pochází, když většina následuje moudré rady těch konservativnějších.

Muž se zdravým úsudkem, jenž jest nakloněn k poctivosti a má odvahu jíti za svým přesvědčením, bude vám radit, aby jste vzali, co můžete dostat dnes s nadějí na získání více zítra, neb kdy bude k tomu příležitá doba. Vezme to větší odvahu takto jednati, nežli plavati s proudem předpojatých a vznětlivých členů.

Cesta ozářena zdravým rozumem pravých unionistů a podporována jich dlouholetou zkušeností vede vždy k tomu největšímu dobru toho největšího počtu.

V tvrdošíjně stávce v soutěživém řemesle, jakým jest naše, jest zkušený muž se zdravým rozumem, vědou, správností a odvahou dobrodružným pro naše hnutí, který vždy bude žiti v blahé paměti členstva a dějinách našeho hnutí.

Organizovaná práce musí konečně pomocí unionového hnutí ovládati hospodářské poměry. Jest tedy naší povinností nejen vůči nám, nýbrž vůči našim potomkům, abychom stavěli moudře a do brě. To nejlepší při unionovém hnutí jest, že zlepšením našeho vlastního postavení zlepšujeme i poměry pro budoucnost.

Snažme se docílit toho největšího dobra pro ty nejširší vrstvy. Svět nebyl stvořen v minutě, a ty nekonečné překážky, zkoušky a útlaky nemohou být odstraněny během jednoho dne. Pakli že nemůžete dostati to, co chcete dnes, pokuste se o to zítra.

Pomozte dítkám z dílen a uveďte je do školních světnic a na hřiště a pomozte otci v ten samý čas, aby se dostal z hřiště a získal zaměstnání a tak mohl poctivě užít sebe a svoji rodinu.

Žádná instituce na světě nemá tak nakloněna k spravedlnosti jako organizovaná práce. Ona dlouho zkoušela, byla odkopnuta, pohaněna a hnána k zoufalství, a divem jest, že není více pomstychtivá, nežli za jakou ji naši nepřátelé vydávají.

Pakli že schůze nejsou takové, jaké dle vašeho úsudku mají být, navštěvujte je a přičiňte se o odstranění zla, které dle vašeho náhledu v nich panují. Povídání neb hlasování na rohu neb v dílně nepomáhá.

Za dnešních poměrů musí panovat spravedlnost v unionovém hnutí. Kdekoli toho není musí se vždy počítat s porážkou.

Věda, pakliže náležitě použita, vede k vyšší, lepší a vznešenější existenci. Pěstujte svoji mysl, avšak při tom nezapomínejte na svoji příspěvkovou knížku a ceník.

Unionové hnutí bylo pravým základem veřejného školního systému. Věda jest tím největším majetkem, jaký vraty lidu kterékoliv země mohou vlastnit.

Die September-Nummer des „Federationist“, der offiziellen Zeitung der A. F. of L., enthält eine ausgezeichnete Wiedergabe des vergangenen und gegenwärtigen Standes der Gewerkschaftsbewegung von etwa fünfzig Gewerkschaften und ist ein großartiger Tribut für die Stärke, Nützlichkeit und Einheitlichkeit der Gewerkschaftsbewegung unserer Zeit.

Die Briefe nehmen über 40 Seiten des „Federationist“ ein, und es fehlt hier an Raum, all die großen Errungenschaften aufzuzählen, die den Gewerkschaften zugeschrieben werden.

Die Briefe bringen es aber klar zum Ausdruck, daß die Gewerkschaften ohne Ausnahme finanziell und numerisch stärker und besser für ein nützliches Wirken vorbereitet sind als jemals vorher in der Geschichte der Gewerkschaftsbewegung.

In all diesen Briefen nicht ein einziger Mißton; alle fußen auf unumstößlichen Thatsachen und athmen denselben bemerkenswerten Geist der Hoffnung, Zuversicht und der Voraussage schließlichen Erfolges. Diese Briefe sind alle von Gewerkschaftsbeamten geschrieben und spiegeln Thatsachen wieder, und es sind unterzeichnete Dokumente.

Jedes Mitglied der International Union sollte sich die September-Nummer des „Federationist“ verschaffen und sie lesen.

Die Geschichte der Vergangenheit ist nur nützlich, um daran den bis auf die Gegenwart gemachten Fortschritt zu messen und den Erfolg für die Zukunft vorherzusagen.

Es ist thöricht zu sagen, daß die Geschichte sich wiederholt, es sei denn, man fügt hinzu, in veränderter Form. Jede Generation wird intelligenter als ihre Vorgänger. Die Massen wissen heute mehr als je zuvor und sind besser vorbereitet und folglich fähiger, sich zu verschaffen, was sie brauchen.

Wenn wir es nicht verstehen, unser Wissen recht anzuwenden, und wenn die Sachen schief gehen, wird es theilweis unsere eigene Schuld sein.

Der Plan freiwilliger Vermittlung und des Schiedspruchs fängt an tiefe Wurzeln zu schlagen bei den meisten der erfolgreichen Gewerkschaften. Die International Typographical Union hat ein umfassendes Schiedsgerichtssystem, das sich fortwährend bewährt. Die Beamten sagen, wenn es auch an Kritik bei den Wenigen nicht fehle, die Mehrheit doch mit dem Erreichten wohl zufrieden sei, die der Gewerkschaft fast immer das Verlangte einbringen.

Die Zeit wird kommen, da alle Gewerkschaften gezwungen sein werden, freiwillige Schiedsgerichtliche Gesetze für die Beilegung von Streitigkeiten anzunehmen. Die Arbeiter wollen mehr, und das ist nur natürlich und recht, aber es muß eine Trennungslinie geben. Wenn die interessierten und direkt betroffenen Parteien die Linie nicht finden und sich über sie nicht einigen können, ist es manchmal besser, nicht immer, sich an eine dritte Partei zu wenden.

Gewerkschaften erfüllen Kopf und Herz ihrer Mitglieder mit Vertrauen, Muth, Zuversicht, Treue, Achtung, Urtheil, Billigkeit, Hoffnung, Ehrgeiz und Disziplin, die doch eine bessere Mannheit und bessere Bürger hervorbringen. Mannheit und gute Bürger aber machen ein Land groß.

Ueber Organisationen.

Das Bestreben, eine Gewerkschaft zu organisiren, ist bestenfalls nicht gar so leicht. Die Gleichgültigkeit und hoffnungslose Stellungnahme der Unorganisirten, verbunden mit Furcht, macht die Aufgabe doppelt schwer.

Unsere Erfahrung in dieser Hinsicht ist dieselbe, wie die aller anderen Gewerkschaften, und wenn es zum Vergleich kommt, wird man finden, daß wir hinsichtlich der Zahl der Organisirten uns wohl mit den besten von ihnen messen können.

Trotz der vielen Hindernisse, die uns entgegenstehen, und die nicht im Wege der meisten Gewerkschaften sind, sind wir so gut organisirt, wie die besten von ihnen, und weit besser als viele andere.

Unser Arbeitsgebiet steht in Konkurrenz mit Frauen und Kindern — das „Bunch“ und „Roll-up“ System herrscht hier — und obendrein haben wir es mit einem der mächtigsten Trusts der neueren Zeiten zu thun.

Wir haben heute in unseren Listen etwa 44,500 Mitglieder, die 30 Cents-Beiträge zahlen, was zusammen mit den 15- und 20-Cents-Mitgliedern unsere Zahl auf über 51,000 bringt.

Die Selbsterhaltung ist das erste Naturgesetz, und es ist auch die Pflicht der International Union und aller örtlichen für ihre eigenen Mitglieder der zuerst zu sorgen. Dies geschieht am besten, wenn wir nichts unversucht lassen, die Unorganisirten zu organisiren.

Die Unorganisirten mit ihren niedrigen Löhnen und billigen Arbeitsmethoden sind eine fortwährende Gefahr für die Organisirten, und je schneller sie organisirt und ihre Löhne erhöht werden, desto besser für alle, die es angeht. Dies läßt sich thun; es wird auch gethan werden; wie bald, das hängt von der Stellungnahme der Gewerkschaften ab, die es am meisten angeht.

Wir fahren fort mit der Organisationsarbeit in ganz bestimmter Richtung und nach systematischen Plänen, die uns durch Erfahrung als die besten bekannt sind, um das Ziel zu erreichen.

Wir haben einen Stab gewissenhafter, rastloser Organisatoren, die ihr Bestes thun, und wir versuchen um die beste Mitwirkung und Hülfe aller Mitglieder bei der Arbeit unter den Unorganisirten. Inzwischen können alle Mitglieder die besten Interessen der Organisirten vertreten und fördern, indem sie überall für die Union-Einflechte wirken.

Wenn die Front einer Armee sich zu weit von ihrem Nachzug entfernt, läuft sie große Gefahr. Das Gleiche gilt für Gewerkschaften auf einem Gebiet der Konkurrenz.

Ein Aufbau nach richtigen Grundsätzen, ist das Ziel aller ehrlich gesinnten, treuen und wohlmeinenden Gewerkschaftler. Nicht niederreißen, aufbauen heißt es.

Je mehr die Massen verdienen, desto besser für Handel und Wandel, den Arbeiter, den Kaufmann und für die Gesellschaft überhaupt.

Was viele am leichtesten können, ist das Fehlerfinden — wieviele von uns haben doch die Angelegenheit!

Von den Millionen von Arbeitern des Landes, wie klein ist noch die Zahl derer, die in den Reihen der organisirten Arbeit stehen! Und doch ist jede Verbesserung der gegenwärtigen im Vergleich mit den vergangenen Arbeitsverhältnissen den Mühen und Opfern der braven Männer und Frauen zu verdanken, aus denen die Gewerkschaften des Landes bestehen, und die immer dabei sind, das Los des Arbeiters zu verbessern und die arbeitenden Massen der Erde einer höheren und besseren Lebensführung entgegenzubringen.

Jeder Fortschritt und jeder Vortheil, der durch das Streben der organisirten Arbeit erreicht wird, kommt den Unorganisirten zugute, die doch das größte Hinderniß für das Vorwärts der Bewegung gewesen sind.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

The Constitution, twentieth edition, contains an error. The amendment of Union 97, Boston, reference accepting cards from foreign countries, took the place of the old law. Through mistake both the amendment and the old law are included.

If you hold any loan cards of no further use send them to this office.

Before granting or accepting retiring cards secretaries and members should consult Sections 76 and 77 of the Constitution.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and in addition send in such card, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 161, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

If secretaries when ordering supplies will place the order on the regular blank, it will greatly simplify the work here and avoid unnecessary delay for those who order the supplies.

NOTICE.

We are repeatedly asked whether it is necessary in the event of death to issue a card and send it to this office. The request for cards of deceased members only applies where members have been accepted by card, and especially where cards show a loan account, as the account must be checked up and closed. No card need be issued to or for any member except he retires absolutely, when the Absolute Retiring Card is issued, or if a 20-cent beneficiary member wishes to change to another union's jurisdiction, then a transfer card is issued. Or if a 15 or 30-cent member wishes to travel then a Blue or Loan Card is issued in accordance with length of membership. But in no case need cards be issued to members simply because they are members, as that is a needless loss of time and in the aggregate entails considerable useless expense:

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

The amendment adopted to Sections 76 and 77 does away with the issuance of retiring cards to all who continue to pay dues as beneficiary members.

Retiring cards are only for those who pay up and actually terminate all connection with the union in so far as the payment of dues is concerned.

Members who transfer from the 30-cent list to the 20-cent beneficiary membership list are simply changed from one class to another and deducted from one and added to the other.

Members who have not paid 30-cent dues for three years and quitting the trade under Section 76 and wishing to qualify for Section 77 as a beneficiary member should be kept on without any other change than to make a note of the intention on the ledger page. If such member desires to travel to another jurisdiction he should be given a transfer card and his intention to qualify as a 30-cent beneficiary member written on the transfer card. Such beneficiary members are not entitled to any benefits except sick benefits after one year's membership and whatever death benefits their term of membership entitles them to.

NOTICE TO OFFICERS AND MEMBERS.

In printing the nineteenth edition of the Constitution, an omission occurs in Section 77, on line 7. A comma and the words "and local assessments" should follow "International assessments." The sentence to read: "All International assessments, and local assessments levied for labor agitation purposes." This amendment as published in another place is correct.

Items for the Journal should be placed on separate slips of paper—not the backs of reports, etc.—in order to insure prompt publication, and should reach this office not later than the 10th of each month if intended for current publication.

NOTICE—How to duplicate Loan Cards. It frequently occurs that new secretaries through error or lack of knowledge, transfer the amount a member "has coming" instead of what he owes. In duplicating a card, figure up all the member has borrowed and subtract all he has paid, and if there is a balance against the member transfer to new card in red ink and figures and letters the amount due the International Union. Also enter on new card all that may be essential that you find on the old, then sign and seal it. Send the old card to the International office.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES.

The attention of candidates is directed to the laws governing the nomination and election of international officers and delegates. Section 11 provides that the president and vice presidents must be located at different places, and that members in order to be eligible have to be continuous members in good standing for not less than five years prior to the election. I also call attention to Section 15.

Section 16, to which your attention is directed, provides that those who are candidates must send a letter within twenty days accepting the nomination, and in said letter give their views of the methods and aims of the International Union, and that the letter must be limited to not more than five hundred words, these letters to be published in the December and January issues of the Journal.

Section 172 of the Constitution provides that a member holding a manufacturer's license cannot hold any office either in the International or the local union. Official notice was sent by letter to all eligible candidates.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 250, Belleville, Ill., to fine Fred Assman $25 for working in an unfair shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative—6. Negative—1.

Approved the application of Union 172, Davenport, Ia., to fine Fred Ziebarth, No. 22719, $25 for quitting a union job to go scabbing. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. Negative—0.

Approved the application of Union 46, Grand Rapids, Mich., to fine Dan De Wege, No. 8232, $50 for working in a scab shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8. Negative—0.

Approved the application of Union 51, Holyoke, Mass., to fine C. Galine, No. 4258, $25 for scabbing in the shop of Joseph Gavnette. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. Negative—0.

Approved the application of Union 49, Springfield, Mass., to fine Mrs. Maggie Sliffka, No. 22767, $50 for working in unfair shops. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. Negative—0.

Approved the application of Union 3, Paterson, N. J., to fine Charles Ging, No. 85374, $20; Jacob Segel, No. 72142, $25, and George Haycook, No. 57214, $25, and suspend them for owing from twenty-five to forty weeks' dues each, as well as assessments and fines imposed in the last six months. Following is the vote: Affirmative—4. Negative—2. One member approved the suspensions but not the fines.

Approved the application of Union 414, Winnipeg, Man., to fine Max Herman $25 for working in the closed shop of G. F. Bryan. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. Negative—0.

Approved the application of Union 456, Albia, Ia., to fine Fred R. Hughes, No. 21057, $100 for leaving a union shop and going to work in a scab shop, also talking against union principles. Following is the vote: Affirmative—6. One member approved a fine of $50.

Approved the application of Union 278, London, Ont., to annul the card of and fine Joseph Menendez, No. 9308, $100 for going to work in the closed shop of Brenner Bros. and also trying to induce other members to do likewise. Following is the vote: Affirmative—4. Two members approved the fine, but not the annulment of the card.

Approved the application of Union 339, Santa Barbara, Calif., to fine Fred Hackman, former financial secretary, $50 for allowing himself to become 49 weeks in arrears in dues, also to place against him $50.35 deficiency found against him. The following is the vote: Affirmative—7. Negative—0.

Approved the application of Union 297, Canton, Ill., to fine Dallas Founts $25 for working in the non-union shop of Saville & Rafferty. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8. Negative—0.

CORRESPONDENCE

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 20, 1910.

Fellow Craftsman: At the last meeting of Local Union No. 46 of Grand Rapids, the subject of a universal label for all union-made goods was informally discussed, and a committee appointed to draft a letter to our Official Journal embodying the sentiments of our local union, and to secure an expression of opinion from other locals or individual members on this subject.

We are well aware that this move may sound like treason to our Blue Label and especially so to the "old guard" who spent so much time and money in placing our label in the position it now occupies, but we believe the advantages of this idea to be far greater than any possible objection which may be urged against it, for the following reasons:

First of all, it would have a tendency to bring the workers of different trades in closer contact, and establish a sympathetic bond of understanding among those so engaged.

Too often, at present, too little thought is given by the worker in some other trade of the moral obligation due the union cigarmaker in the way of patronizing union made cigars.

We find in this locality that the average unionist is too indifferent to patronize the blue label to the extent he should, and that in spite of the fact of a large amount of label advertising each year.

We believe that a universal label would do away with a vast amount of this indifference, as such a label would be not only our label but his label as well, and experience has taught us that all trades demand their own label at least.

Another reason is that such a label would eliminate the confusion resulting from a multiplicity of labels as we find it at present.

The number of labels in use almost force one who wishes to patronize them to carry a label encyclopedia and even then the intending purchaser is not familiar enough with some of them to be sure he has the genuine label.

As the chief requirement of a label is to be a distinguishing mark to show that articles bearing it have been made by union labor, it would seem much simpler to have all organizations involved agree on one such label and then advertise it to the limit. A third reason is the greatly reduced cost of advertising such a label.

The cost of advertising such a label broadcast all over the country would be but little. If any more than is now spent annually by the Cigarmakers' Union alone, and the result could hardly fail to be immeasurably greater, and as the cost could be further reduced by dividing it among the different organizations represented, we would actually save money by such a course and at the same time receive vastly more benefit. Of course, such action could only be accomplished by the united efforts of the various label organizations, but if the idea is practical, the sooner we get together and instruct our delegates to the A. F. of L. to work and vote for such a measure, the sooner we will enjoy the results.

Think it over fellow workers and let us hear from you in the next issue of the Journal.

Jos. Van Tongeren,
W. Duffy, Committee.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 1, 1910.

In reading the article in our official journal in the July issue written by Brother John T. Smith of Kansas City, relative to the conditions that existed in the cigar making industry in the early days of our organization, the thought occurred to me if the members who joined our organization during the past decade fully realized that practically the same condition of affairs as stated by Bro. Smith existed in other sections of the country, and particularly in the New England States where my observations have been the greatest. From the standpoint of organization in the cigar making industry, the conditions there today are second to none in any part of this country, having at the present time located there some forty-eight unions, with an approximate membership of 4,187.

But what a difference from twenty-five years ago. After the disastrous strike in Boston in 1879, because of the lack of organization and experience, the conditions in the trade were deplorable. Union No. 97 was organized in May, 1883, with a little handful of members. If my memory serves me right the number of members at the time of the organization being thirteen.

Plenty of men willing to work but no jobs for them, and those who had work were always on the anxious-seat because of the uncertainty of their permanent employment. No established scale of wages, each shop paying what they pleased, and no established hours of labor, everybody working as long as they pleased.

While there was one factory at that time, the largest in operation in Boston, who paid $12.00 for making a 5-inch Normandie cigar, the usual price in other shops was $9.00 and $10.00 per thousand. $5.00 jobs usually a 5-inch mold scrap cigar were in abundance, and men glad to get an opportunity to obtain one of them.

Hours of labor galore, and when Saturday came around, if the cigarmaker had earned $10.00 for the week after working twelve hours a day he considered himself very lucky if he received $5.00 in money, and the rest was either owed to him or taken out in cigars.

I distinctly remember one instance in a shop in which I worked with four or five others, who are still members in Union No. 97, when at Christmas time, all being anxious to earn a few extra dollars if possible, to buy a few nick-nacks for friends and members of our family, worked nights for a period of over two weeks, the shop being lighted by ill-smelling kerosene lamps. Everybody was jubilant because of the kindness (?) of the boss in allowing us to work in the atmosphere of that place. On this particular year Christmas fell upon a Monday, and in anticipation of receiving the money that was due us, we quit work on Saturday at 12 o'clock, expecting the boss to arrive at any moment to pay us off. After hanging around the shop until 5 o'clock Saturday evening, the boss turned up with the same old story that we had been receiving, collections bad, and no money to pay off with. After considerable argument, at 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, he offered us his note for some two hundred dollars, the amount due the half dozen who were working there for back wages, and the weeks of work which we counted. Anybody will realize the impossibility of such a transaction, not only at the time when the note was issued, but on account of the lack of experience of the young men, who were working in this place, in business transactions. We were without our wages. But along with time came the results accomplished by the union in organizing the trade, establishing a uniform scale of wages, a uniform scale of working hours, first to nine, and then to eight hours per day, and at the present time I doubt that out of a possible membership of two thousand in Union No. 97, that more than fifty of them work more than forty-five hours per week, and the permanency of their employment was never better than it is at the present time.

Those who are connected with that movement to better the conditions of the cigar making industry know of the influx of the tenement house cigars from New York City, the machine shops in Providence, R. I., and the products of the Yankee Star factory in Acton, Mass., where cigars were made for as low as $3.00 per thousand.

The $5.00 jobs have gone in this locality never to return again, and the prices for making have been gradually raised from that price to $10.50. The $9.00 and $10.00 Normandie jobs have gone, never to return again. $16.00 now being paid for this job.

The truck system has been entirely eliminated. Wages are paid weekly in cash, and any man who would allow his wages to stand would be severely disciplined by the union. And in view of all these facts some of the latter day recruits to our organization claim that no progress has been made, and these conditions applied not only in the territory I speak of, but applied generally.

Who of us have heard our late Vice-President Jerry Cronin tell in his inimitable way the story of the cigarmaker who worked in Binghamton, N. Y., and was a victim of truck system. Working for a considerable period of time for an employer, boarding at the hotel that the employer selected for him, whether to his liking or not, and receiving very little money at the end of the week in excess of the amount that the boss paid for his board bill, he allowed his wages to accumulate until the boss owed him about $75.00, and being desirous of leaving town and going to another place, and needing the money, he approached the boss and made a demand upon him for the amount due him, and as in other cases the boss said he had no money with which to pay him. The result of this was a dicker between the man and the employer for a horse that the employer owned. The man agreed to take the horse for the balance of his wages that was due him, and this being agreed to, a clean receipt was taken. The cigarmaker proceeded to the stable, put the bridle on the horse, and went down the street with him, looking for a prospective customer, but before he had gone a very great distance the horse dropped dead on the street; not only this, but he being the owner of the horse which he accepted in lieu of his wages, the health authority demanded $5.00 of him for the removal of the dead horse from the public highway.

This story was told my our late Vice-President as being vouched for many times by cigarmakers knowing the full history of this transaction. Who knows but what the terms used in our trade "live horse" and "dead horse" may have arisen from this incident.

Let me say that our young members who do not know the full and complete history of the Cigarmakers' International Union, the obstacles it has had to overcome, the achievements that it has made by benefiting members not only in hours, but wages and conditions as well, that it would be wise for them before crying that we have not made any progress, they at least learn from some of its older members the history of our organization, and I believe that they will readily see that no organization of working men in this country has made the substantial progress that the Cigarmakers' International Union has made during the history of its existence.

Thomas F. Tracy.

Akron, Pa., Nov. 10, 1910.

The borough of Perkasio, Pa., with a population of less than 3,000, people has seven cigar factories employing over 550 cigarmakers. The principal factories employ approximately the following number:

Juan Portuondo	90
Boltz & Clymer	80
Hillbroner & Jacobs	80
Roig & Langsdorf	160
Jacob Langsdorf	75
The Opera House	35
Sig. Mayer & Co.	38
Total	558

The females employed in the above factories average over 40 per cent of the total. There is also a school for apprentices, not included in the above.

All manufacturers in Perkasio, excepting Sig. Mayer & Co. paid recently an increase of 50 cents per thousand.

The manufacturers of Sellersville and Quakertown followed suit and raised wages 50 cents per thousand. One manufacturer in Quakertown, Pa., by name of Steigewolt, refused to pay the increase, but after one week's strike agreed to comply with the demands of the striking cigarmakers.

Otto Eisenlohr & Bros. raised wages in all factories, which includes the so-called "Belt," fifty cents per 1,000. They are now paying $7 per 1,000 for their nickel cigars, for which the small dealer has to pay $34.30 net.

Trade is extremely busy at present; plenty of jobs open and no cigarmakers to take them. If there ever was an opportunity in Pennsylvania to better the condition of the workers financially, it is here now. All that is needed is to make a demand for better wages and the manufacturers would have to pay the same.

The manufacturers have increased the hours of labor from two to three hours per day, and the workers, both male and female, being poorly organized, have accepted the bait and fallen headlong into the trap. Some factories are now working over seventy hours weekly. The physical strength which they inherited from their ancestors on the farm, is gradually vanishing, and a new type of village-born children is springing up. Their faces and make-up remind me in many cases of the worn out cotton operatives in the New England states. The long hours of labor and the particles of tobacco dust flying in the air are bound to fill the lungs sooner or later with that deadly disease called the "White Plague." There is no escape from it under present conditions.

In my former letters I pointed out the necessity of securing shorter hours of labor for females and children by factory legislation. This will be a stepping stone in the right direction; the strong arm of the state is required to remove abuses which are a dark spot on our so-called civilization. The history of factory legislation is briefly stated as follows:

The first ten-hour law was passed in Great Britain in 1846, following an agitation for over a generation for better conditions in the factories.

The New York Tribune, edited by Horace Greeley, advocated similar laws in the United States, after the passage of the act by the British parliament. But no immediate result was visible.

In the state of Massachusetts the agitation for a ten-hour day commenced in 1835, continuing for a period of thirty-nine years before the law was passed in 1874. Other states followed gradually and reluctantly; some of the laws passed are a piece of patchwork, establishing the principle of shorter hours and nothing else. The southern states are the most guilty parties in this direction. The United States census, now in preparation, will show, I predict, an alarming increase in the employment of female labor in all branches of industry where muscular labor is not absolutely necessary. This important issue has been neglected, and the large employers of labor, always on the alert for the protection of their interests, have taken advantage of the situation.

The American Cigar Company employs almost exclusively female labor in all factories, with the exception of Tampa and Key West, where male labor predominates.

The Cigar Trust, masquerading as the so-called "United Manufacturers," employs approximately sixty-five per cent female labor.

I therefore reiterate again the necessity of legislation for shorter hours of labor and the absolute prohibition of night work for all female employees and the prohibition of child labor under fifteen years of age in any cigar factory.

Yours fraternally,
A. Strasser.

Ybor City, Fla., Nov. 5, 1910.

We wish to express our gratitude to all members for the great assistance rendered in this our greatest fight for existence.

In any section of the country where so vast an amount of capital is invested in one industry that industry becomes too powerful. Then if that industry contributes 85 per cent of the income of the entire locality a cessation of work will naturally cause a local panic. Add to this an unscrupulous and an utterly conscienceless local press which, by suppression of facts, exploitation of every falsehood, misrepresentation and downright prevarication have created an antagonism against us, and you have the cause of the situation in Tampa today.

A large part of Tampa's big business men have shown more than once that when their income was affected they would not hesitate at lawlessness to gain their point.

This collection of excellent gentlemen is now organized into a so-called "Citizens' Committee" and have paraded the streets in automobiles, armed with pistols and rifles, clubbing and threatening strikers in their frenzied efforts to drive them back into the factories.

An assault was made on the Labor Temple and six union officials seized and thrown into jail, after knocking cigarmakers on the head with pistols, breaking windows, etc., at the Labor Temple. All men arrested were absurdly charged with murder, conspiracy, etc., but were ordered released at the preliminary hearing. Three of them, however, were re-arrested on some equally absurd charges and their bond fixed at $6,000 each, which was obtained, but on learning that other warrants on any other charge that happened to be thought of first would be immediately issued, we gave up hope for the present of getting our comrades out of jail.

The city and county governments are absolutely at the beck and call of the noble "Citizens' Committee," and the governor has refused to interfere.

There are warrants out for others and we, the J. A. B. dare not meet at a known place, and are forced to hide out and meet at a different place each night to escape persecution. With all this 95 per cent of the cigarmakers of Tampa are today more determined to win than ever.

Let us again remind you what it will mean to win this fight, and what it will mean to lose it. Don't forget this is a straight out union fight for union recognition.

As long as we can find the means to prevent absolute starvation we will stick, and to stick means to win, for the manufacturers are not going out of business before granting our just demands, and the labor market to run Tampa's factories does not exist outside of Tampa. Although the landlords have combined against us to eject strikers who have not the rent money, we will find some way of housing our members and Tampa will yet be one of the strongest union towns in the country.

Joint Advisory Board.

A NOBLE RECORD.

Gloversville, N. Y., Nov. 5, 1910.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the true aim of organized labor and also those who would crush the spirit of unionism, the following is a list of benefits paid by the international unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. for the year 1909:

Death benefits	$1,187,043.51
Death benefits, members' wives...	49,200.00
Sick benefits	731,955.15
Traveling benefits	51,967.87
Out-of-work benefits	484,028.49

Mr. G. W. Perkins, 320 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Perkins: Yours of the 28th received and in answer to same I extend to yourself and the Cigar Makers' International Union many thanks from our organization for your moral assistance in being the first international organization to have its official magazine made on union label paper. While there are several organizations that are now using stationery of water-marked label of our organization, yours is the first organization using this paper in your official magazine. You even got the best of our organization in this matter and in the November issue of our Journal I will strive to give to the Cigar Makers' International Union credit that they so justly deserve in being the first to assist a sister union in creating a demand for union label product.

With best wishes, I am,
Fraternally yours,
J. T. Carey, Pres.-Sec.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Owen Sound, Ont., Nov. 1, 1910.

Madison, Wis., is something of a leaf to-bacco market. It is also district headquarters of the American Tobacco Co., leastways I was so informed by one of their agents. It is also a university city; university students as a rule have little use for unionism or the union label, and the students at Madison are no exception to the rule.

There is a considerable display of trust and other non-union goods in some parts of the city, in other parts the union label is in evidence. The necessity of more advertising is apparent and I am informed that it is the intention of Union 182 to do more of it. Our delegates to the central body attend well to their duty and that of itself contributes greatly to label agitation. Increased label agitation will make decreased sale of non-union goods in Madison.

It is a treat for a union cigarmaker to walk down the main street in Janesville, Wis. The union label on cigars is surely in evidence everywhere; every member of Union 290 must be a label pusher to accomplish such results.

At the time of my visit the Janesville Booster Club were doing things in the way of boosting the city. Our people were interested in devising ways and means of turning the campaign to some account in boosting our union label. What we have we'll hold in Janesville if we keep up the same gait.

Our members in South Bend, Ind., are doing considerable in the way of label advertising. A large sign on Main street, advertising slide in Auditorium theater, calendars, envelopes, blotters, etc., supplied by the State league are some of the forms used. Then, too, our people here take a great interest in the general labor movement of the city and district, with Mr. Suchanek and the secretary Mr. La Point. I attended and addressed with them an organization meeting of the carpenters of the city. I found the label in fair demand, although non-union goods were pretty much in evidence.

If any one questions the adverse effect of local option on our trade he should go to Coldwater or Adrian, Mich., now in the dry belt. To our people it means a vastly decreased trade and memberships, a trade switched from the hotel or saloon, where we had a fair fighting chance for the trade, to the drug and cigar store, where the trust and cheap non-union concerns get in their work. In connection with local option campaigns, does any one know where the money comes from to carry on the campaign? It has been suggested that concerns having no interest in the temperance movement, except that local option switches trade where they can get the lion's share, are large subscribers to the local option campaign fund; I wonder if there is anything in the suggestion. It appears to me that I have heard something like this before.

Our people in these places are doing all they can to counteract the effect of local option but it is uphill work. A Michigan state label league would help some, especially where the unions are small in membership. Detroit seems to be a dumping ground for trust, so-called independent, and other non-union products, which are handled by all sorts and conditions of trade. It was something of a surprise to me that the hardware stores did not keep them in stock. To meet this state of affairs Union 22 maintains a regular assessment for label advertising, and a business agent to the same end.

Windsor, across the river, has two small factories, and is under the jurisdiction of Union 278, London, Ont. The label is well shown and is in fair demand. I have recommended to the Canadian blue label league the placing of a large display sign at a point, near the Ferry dock. The men now employed here are keen on label agitation and are hopeful for a revival of the central labor body here as a help to that end.

At the last session of the Canadian Parliament, a commission to investigate the need of technical education was appointed, Mr. James Simpson of the Toronto Typo's being the labor representative. The Commission have been holding sessions throughout the Dominion. So far the consensus of opinion seems to be in favor of purely technical, as against trade schools, although many employers of labor undoubtedly favor trade schools.

Chatham, Ont., has one factory non-union. The proprietor cannot be trusted to run a union factory, because of our past experience in dealing with him. Several attempts have been made to run union buckeyes here but for some reason or another have so far failed to make good. Dealers here make a fair display of union goods, for which there is considerable demand.

There is one factory located in Owen Sound employing women principally. I had an interview with the proprietor, who seems to be much impressed with the value of the union label; at the same time he has bench machines and apprentices that he would like to hold on to; however, he desires further information in re union wage scale and apprentice rules, etc., which will be furnished him, but from what I can gather of his way of doing business, his factory is a school for learning the cigar making. They do not sell many cigars in the city, which is a dry one. Union label goods are well displayed and in fair demand, for there is considerable union sentiment here. Local option is on trial in this place; several, if not all the hotelkeepers have been repeatedly fined for violations of the law; bootleggers and blind pigs abound, showing pretty conclusively that public opinion is strongly divided as to the value of the law.

Lebanon, Nov. 5, 1910.

York.—Union 242 is pushing the work of getting members and while the progress being made is not what would be hoped for, yet they are adding members at almost every meeting. They have some very able and earnest workers on the organizing committee who are making a house to house canvass for members.

Lancaster.—There has been no let-up in the splendid work by this union, and the progress made during the first three months of the 50-cent initiation plan will be doubled during the present three months, judging from the progress made during October.

Quakertown.—Local 402 has added 30 members during the last three weeks. A mass meeting of cigarmakers and packers was held and there was a good turn out of the non-union people. Night work in the shops did not prevent the success of our meeting.

Norristown.—Union 446 is involved in a strike, embracing the hand work 10-cent goods department of the Gresh factory against a reduction of job from $12 to $11, and are putting up a good fight and deserve to be crowned with success and the support of sister unions, especially in these districts. This has been a small local, but they are now adding members.

Shaefferstown.—This town is under the jurisdiction of 64 Lebanon, nine miles in the country, away from the railroad, yet it is a large cigar town. A mass meeting was held, with a fair attendance of non-union cigarmakers, notwithstanding night work in most of the shops and a severe snowstorm raging. Union 64 is getting some members in this place. There is a great demand for cigarmakers over the first and ninth districts, and agitation is carried on to strengthen and add to the membership, and conferences were held at Lancaster and Reading in July and August of delegates from the locals of the two districts with a view of securing an increase in wages. Publicity was given in the papers in this section and the trade papers that the cigarmakers' unions wanted an increase, and last but not least, a letter was sent to all firms in Lancaster, signed by the president of Union 257, who was also the chairman of the conferences, asking for an increase in wages for all cigarmakers. The result has been that four days later one of the firms granted the increase asked for in Lancaster, and at the same time granted the increase in all their other shops. Other firms in the first district also granted an increase at this time of 50 cents. This was followed by the cigarmakers in the United Cigar Company at Lancaster signing a petition and presenting it to the firm asking for an increase. This firm also granted the increase in Lancaster and at the same time gave an increase in their factories located elsewhere in this section. This was followed up by the cigarmakers (urged on by members of the unions) in other factories, especially in Lancaster and the first district, presenting petitions to the firms signed by all union and non-union cigarmakers, asking for an increase in wages, which was granted in 90 per cent of the factories in Lancaster and in the first district under the jurisdiction of Unions 171, East Greenville, 232 Sellersville, and 402 Quakertown. In the latter place one firm employing 56 hands, refused to grant the increase and the entire force struck and remained out eight days, when the firm sent for the committee and granted the increase. Union 402 gave the strikers every assistance and encouragement. These increases are the direct result of the agitation by the unions throughout the districts, assisted by the non-union cigarmakers, who believe in united action at least to the extent of asking for an increase. Surely this is a demonstration of united action, even though only temporary, and many of the cigarmakers and packers are joining the unions. They clearly see that by united efforts results are attained and that permanent united action under the protection of the International Union is the logical course to pursue.

Yours fraternally,

I. B. Kuhn.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER.

New York City, Nov. 5, 1910.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz:

No. 87, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The books and accounts of this union are in fine condition. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. Endorsed vouchers on file in the rotation in which the expense is entered in the accounts. While Secretary Orr had the books the stamp account is correct. The secretary and treasurer balance their accounts continuously. Statement as follows:

No. 90, New York, N. Y.

Books and accounts in fair order. Entered item in current month's receipts to cover several errors in dues, etc. Had considerable bother verifying some sick benefit. Numerous errors in entering dues in ledger. In large unions changing officers frequently doesn't improve matters. Vouchers for expense endorsed by whoever receives the money on file in the rotation in which they are entered in the accounts. Benefit cards properly endorsed and on file. Secretary and treasurer balance cash accounts four times each month. Statement as follows:

No. 392, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This little local was only recently organized. I visited them especially to assist in getting their books and accounts started correctly. Found affairs in very good order. Everybody had their dues paid to date. The Sec'y-Treas. never had any experience with "Our" books before, but being bright, honest and willing, there is no doubt but he will manage their affairs nicely.

A. B. Duckworth is requested to write to the secretary of Union 375, Anaconda, Mont.

Notes by Union 97, Boston.—"Are you always doing something new?" a member of a sister union asked one of our officers. The answer was: "Of course; we have to keep abreast of the times." "Well," he said, "what are you doing now?" He was informed that we had interviewed various prominent men in all walks of life on our home products, secured letters from them on the quality of our products, then we published abstracts from these letters in all the daily papers. After this our committee called on the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and asked for permission to exhibit our product in their rooms. This request has been referred to the board of directors who, we believe, will grant the request. Then we called on the employers, asking them to exhibit their goods in a glass case with prices on each kind of cigar. They agreed to this and we expect to be able to make a fine showing. All manufacturers were given an equal opportunity.—Having received notice that the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education would hold their convention in Boston, and that the local committee would tender them a banquet at one of Boston's best hotels, our committee saw the secretary of the local body in reference to home industry, resulting in the assurance that Boston-made cigars would be served—no cigar to cost less than 25 cents.—Sitting every Monday evening, our label committee devotes their every effort to increase the sale of union-made cigars.—The executive board of our union meets every Wednesday evening at headquarters at 6:30 to consider carefully every question having for its object the welfare of our craft or the trade-union movement, each member expressing his opinion on the question before the board as to its wisdom and its effect. At the regular meeting, if required, they then are able to explain their action. All matters of interest are placed on our meeting notice.—On Sunday, Oct. 30th, we held a public protest meeting in Faneuil Hall, under the auspices of the Boston Central Labor Union, against the action of the civic authorities of Panama and the citizens' committee who were violating the laws of their own state. The hall was filled and the morning papers gave us a column notice. Mr. O'Brien, president of the C. L. U., presided, and among the speakers were Mr. Duncan, first vice-president of the A. F. of L., all the arrangements being made by a committee from the executive board.—Label committee have mapped out some difficult work for the winter, but 97 is equal to the emergency.—New England Conference has been quite an assistance in label advertisement.—We do not want to appear egotistical, but with the same will, force and determination as always has been shown by our local in furthering the interests of the blue label, all the unions of our craft can do as well.

LOCAL FINES

Note.—Fines below $5 are not published in the Journal. See Sec. 195.

Sec. 197. Members having been fined by local unions shall pay such fines on the following basis: $10 or less, 10 per cent of weekly wages and benefits paid by the union, or amounts more than $10, 15 per cent, aside from payments on loans, as provided by the constitution.

Union 144, New York, N. Y., fined Jacob Klinkousteln, No. 18117, $10 for selling non-union cigars while working in a label shop.

Union 258, Bloomington, Ill., fined Wm. M. Caplinger No. 113386, $10.00 for allowing himself to become suspended.

Union 157, Rockford, Ill., fined J. C. Black, No. 21497, $5.00 for allowing himself to be suspended. Also $5.00 fine for amount of board bill.

Union 228, San Francisco, Calif., fined the following members $5.00 each for allowing themselves to become suspended for non-payment of dues: E. Gaffke, No. 4935, Pedro Buelna, No. 118002, F. Dunward, No. 5148, G. P. Gallardo, No. 8668, W. Siedel, No. 103863, B. Zobti, No. 57388, and J. Goldstein, No. 55118.

Union 348, Corning, N. Y., fined E. R. Saxton, No. 4697, $10.00 for self-suspension and non-payment of error account of $8.17, when he was secretary of Union 348.

Union 182, Madison, Wis., fined Martin Ellingson, No. 73039, $10.00, for allowing himself to become suspended.

Union 162, Green Bay, Wis., fined John Balza, No. 8411, $5.00 and requested him to deposit $25.00 for six months for faithful use of the label in the future. Mr. Balza was found guilty of misuse of the label, he having an apprentice and putting the label on his work when he was not entitled to an apprentice, not employing any journeymen.

A. B. Kamp, No. 114187, and J. M. Greta, No. 26342, were each fined $5.00 for allowing themselves to become suspended. By Union 315, St. Cloud, Minn.

Union 304, Racine, Wis., fined J. F. Follett, No. 84762, $10.00, for conduct unbecoming a union man.

Union 168, Oshkosh, Wis., fined C. Franklin, No. 65566, $4.00, for leaving an unpaid board bill behind him when he left town.

Union 3, Paterson, N. J., fined John Rickers, No. 2967 and Frank Hass, No. 16500, each $5.00 and E. R. Kroetzsch, No. 64530, $10.00, and also suspended them for owing from twenty-five to forty weeks dues each, as well as assessments and fines imposed in the last six months.

Union 7, Utica, N. Y., fined Frank M. Hart, $10.00, for working against the interests of the union.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

The following are the only alterations or amendments to the constitution adopted since the Detroit (1896) convention, and not published in the 21st edition of the constitution:

By Union 77, Minneapolis, Minn.:

Amend Section 219 of the Constitution by adding: "And if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

Section to read as follows: "Each local union shall have the right to propose, through the columns of the Official Journal, amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal, containing such amendments and report to the International President. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined $5. But no union shall be fined for not taking action on a proposed amendment, unless the same has been submitted by the International President by circular. Any amendment receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a vote of local unions within thirty days, and if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

By Union 316, McSherrytown, Pa.:

Amend Sec. 67 by adding after the word "adoption," on the last line, the following:

"And except in the 1st and 9th districts of Pennsylvania, where the initiation fee for applicants for membership shall be 50 cents for a period of three months, beginning the first day of the month following the adoption of this amendment."

"That should the results in increased membership from the operation of this amendment justify an extension of time, the International Executive Board is hereby empowered to extend the time for an additional three months, or such additional periods as they may deem necessary."

Sec. 67, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Union 460, San Juan, P. R.:

Amend Sec. 210, by adding the following:

District of Porto Rico.

A. The District of Porto Rico shall embrace the entire Island and all Local Unions of the Island, who shall elect a "Joint Advisory Board."

B. The "Joint Advisory Board" shall adopt rules of procedure, calculated for the best welfare of the Unions in Porto Rico, but not conflicting with the International Constitution.

C. The basis of representation shall be decided by the Unions in Porto Rico, but shall not be less than one delegate for each Local Union.

Sec. 210, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Local 71, of Elgin, Ill.:

Amend Section 106 by inserting between the word "loans," on line 11, and the word "loan," on line 14, the following in place of the present words:

"Members in the payment of private loans must pay cost if money has to be remitted to another union. They shall be entitled, at their own expense, to a postal receipt to be mailed to the union having been granted the private loan."

Section to read accordingly.

By Local 9, of Troy, N. Y.:

Amend Sec. 166. Section to read as follows: "Local unions shall, wherever practical, organize State, or Province, or District Label Leagues for state or district label agitation. Each local union in a state or district where a league exists, or thereafter be formed, must be a part thereof."

Same to take effect at once if adopted.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendments of Union 275 of Aberdeen, as published in the October Journal, as follows:

Strike out the following of Sec. 79 of the International Constitution commencing on line 8, page 23, of the 20th edition, as follows: "No member of the International Union shall be entitled to strike benefits unless he is a member in good standing for at least three months," and insert the following: "Any member in good standing shall be entitled to the above benefits, with the exception of members in a local union where the charter has been granted less than six months prior to the strike application. In such cases no member shall be entitled to strike benefits unless he has been a member in good standing for at least three months."

Received the endorsement of 102, Kansas City; 158, La Fayette; 4, Cincinnati; 312, Livingston; 337, Key West; 315, St. Cloud; 56, Leavenworth; 41, Aurora.

The amendment offered by Union 15, Chicago, Ill., in the September Journal:

That an assessment of one dollar ($1.00) be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members, to be paid in four weekly installments in aid of the locked out union cigarmakers of Tampa, Fla. The proceeds of said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

Received the endorsement of Union 9, Troy; 315, St. Cloud; 14, Chicago; 232, Sellersville; 82, Louisville; 491, Huron; 217, So. Chicago; 34, Chippewa Falls; 275, Aberdeen; 291, San Jose; 12, Oneida; 228, San Francisco; 168, Oshkosh; 179, Bangor; 404, Austin.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment offered by Union 248, Jacksonville, Fla., in the September Journal:

That an assessment of 25 cents be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members each month to give assistance to Tampa unions, and the assessments to continue until the International Union of America has fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars in the treasury to be used for such strikes as Tampa has now, and it shall be handled by the International President and Executive Board, and when said funds be exhausted to twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars that the assessment be renewed until the amount is replaced in said fund. The President and Executive Board shall send aid immediately to said union that is in trouble, like the one in Tampa, to be used for non-benefit members.

Received the endorsement of Union 455, Galena; 32, Louisville; 491, Huron; 312, Livingston; 72, Burlington; 345, Kansas City; 217, So. Chicago; 34, Chippewa Falls; 499, Trinidad; 228, San Francisco; 51, Holyoke; 179, Bangor; 4, Cincinnati; 404, Austin, and 46, Grand Rapids.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

Local 318 offers the following amendment:

That an assessment of 10 cents be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members to aid the striking cigarmakers of Union 118, Peoria. The proceeds of said assessment to be distributed under the supervision of the International President.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2, 1910.

The Brotherhood of Leather Workers, while unsuccessful in their effort to gain the universal eight-hour day for their craft, have demonstrated the power of organized effort by establishing the nine-hour day throughout the United States, and while the manufacturers most hostile to our organization disclaim any influence whatever of the Brotherhood having caused them to grant the reduction in hours to their employees, yet the fact remains, and if not, why at this time should they experience a sudden change of heart, when they have for all time past worked their employees long hours and at low wages?

The facts are, the men would be working ten hours, and in the busy season twelve and fourteen hours, if there was no organization to stand in the way.

Undaunted, and with a determination to secure the eight-hour day, the Brotherhood of Leather Workers on Horse Goods will meet in convention at Chicago, Nov. 15, 1910, for the first time in a period of six years and outline a policy to be pursued not only in furtherance of this purpose, but to make such constitutional changes to combat the methods of the employers as may seem advisable.

No other cause than the influence of the Leather Workers in the granting of the nine-hour workday can be made tenable and we submit to the readers for their decision to give credit where credit is due.

Despite the efforts of employers in our line to disrupt and destroy the organization, we are still on the job and far from being dead; in fact we will demonstrate that we are very much alive, and shall assert our right to consideration in the selling of our labor, which belongs solely to our members, to give or withhold as they see fit.

Fraternally,

W. E. BRYAN,

General President,

International Brotherhood of Leather Workers on Horse Goods.

Cigar Makers' Official Journal

ISSUED MONTHLY.

G. W. PERKINS, Editor and Publisher.

Entered as Second-Class Matter, Nov. 28, 1894, at the Post Office at Chicago, Ill., under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription price $1.00 per year. Single copies ten cents. Advertising rates furnished on application.

CHICAGO, NOVEMBER 15, 1910.

The constitution provides that all members nominated for officers of the International Union and delegates to the NOMINATIONS FOR OFFICERS AND DELEGATES American Federation of Labor shall be published in the November issue of the official journal and that the president shall separate the eligibles from the ineligible. As the nominations do not close until November 8, and as we have no means of knowing whether those who have been nominated will contest the election, it is a difficult matter to properly classify and separate the eligibles from the ineligible. If any of the first or five highest on the printed eligible list decline, it, of course, lets in the next highest. The same applies to those nominated for delegates. If any of the 25 highest in nomination decline, the next highest will become eligible, and official notice sent them. All those who were eligible have received official notice and if any change occurs by reason of the foregoing stated causes, then those rendered eligible thereby will immediately receive official notice and their names placed in the eligible list and so noted in the December Journal.

Something doing in Tampa. About the middle of October things commenced to happen in Tampa, Fla., the city of cigars, which is ruled by a self-appointed so-called citizens' committee, and lawlessness run riot, but not by

IT HAPPENED IN TAMPA, FLA. the striking cigarmakers.

On October 21st a circular was sent to all local unions as follows:
Fellow Workmen:

The situation in Tampa is extremely critical. All is confusion there. Wires are down between Jacksonville and Tampa. I, however, received the following telegram:

(1) "Oct. 18, 1910.—Johnston arrested with part of J. A. B. Union closed. Great outrage." (Signed) Edw. Stanley, Jr.

(2) "Oct. 18, 1910.—Bradford, Bartlum, Russell arrested, $3,000 bonds each and a warrant issued for Johnston and others." (Signed) F. Crittenden.

(3) "Oct. 18, 1910.—Bradford and eight others in jail held without bail, wire instructions." (Signed) J. C. Johnston.

(4) "Oct. 19, 1910.—For God's sake send attorney. Very urgent. Answer." (Signed) Edw. Stanley, Jr.

To which I replied as follows, by wire:

(1) "Oct. 18, 1910.—Edw. Stanley, Jr.—I have instructed Johnston to secure counsel for Bradford and others. Do you know whether this has been done? Wire me and write fully the exact condition of affairs."

(2) "Oct. 18, 1910.—F. Crittenden.—I have instructed Johnston to secure counsel for Bradford and others. Do you know whether this has been done? Wire me and then write fully."

(3) "Oct. 18, 1910.—J. C. Johnston.—Absolutely necessary that Bradford and others be furnished with proper counsel. If counsel cannot be had at Tampa we must get one somewhere else. Care must be used in selecting counsel and some understanding reference charges. Write and wire me fully." All signed G. W. Perkins.

(4) "Oct. 19, 1910.—Edw. Stanley, Jr.—Will send attorney soon as possible. Have you a local attorney? Write me fully."

I have not received a single written line since the 16th. Mr. Johnston got away and is now in telegraphic communication with me. I expect to get his written report this morning. I have already written him authorizing him to secure an attorney at Jacksonville if he can, who will properly protect our interests.

This morning I received a telegram from Edward Stanley, who is secretary of the J. A. B., which is dated at Jacksonville, in which he says "Secretaries of the unions and members of the J. A. B. in jail, others hiding. Citizens' Committee closed hall (which is headquarters of the local unions there), seized books when we were paying the members, 14 break strike (which I interpret to mean that 14 returned to work). Men firm, send attorney and give me instructions necessary by wire."

This telegram indicates that Stanley is in Jacksonville. I received a telegram from R. Torres, secretary of Union 462, West Tampa, as follows: "Oct. 20.—I am here, full particulars by mail." (Signed) R. Torres. This telegram indicates that Torres has left Tampa. I ought to receive written communications from Johnston and others in Tampa and am expecting them every minute.

About $25,000 which has been ordered to Tampa from various unions will apparently be tied up, as the officers, except of Unions 440 and 493, to whom the money was sent as far as my information goes, are either in jail or have left the city. I am now trying to establish a base of supplies and make such arrangements as will prevent further interference with our funds.

Under these circumstances money sent to the present officers, except 440 and 493, probably would not reach them. Just as soon as I can succeed in establishing a base or find out to whom money can be sent, I will immediately let you know, and then the money can be forwarded according to instructions you will then receive.

The citizens of Tampa are united against the continuance of the strike. Tampa is a one industry town and the trouble had reached that point where the commercial interests and the business men are affected. A large number of citizens and business men have been sworn in as special policemen. About 100 automobiles have been pressed into the service and business men and citizens said to be fully armed, are patrolling the town on foot and in these automobiles. They have sworn to protect those who desire to return to work. The citizens are backed by the police and the city government from the mayor down.

To add to our troubles the wires are all down south of Jacksonville. Telegrams to Tampa have to be sent by mail from Jacksonville, and not one of the numerous telegrams I have sent to Tampa have been answered by a single man to whom I sent them, hence I do not know whether they have been delivered or not.

I do not say that you should not send money to the present officers. However, the dispatches and information I have indicate that the officers are all in jail or have left the city. I again say that the moment I can get information as to what officers are there, or can succeed in establishing a base somewhere else, you will be immediately notified. I have instructed Mr. J. C. Johnston, our representative, to secure lawyers in Jacksonville, and to have him proceed to Tampa to protect our interests at the earliest possible moment. Counsel for the International Union has gone to Tampa and every thing possible to protect our interest is being done.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS,
International President.

The foregoing conditions were caused by the determination of the manufacturers to open their shops and the determination of the citizens' committee to force the strikers back to work whether they wanted to or not.

The officers of the union there were locked up on trumped up charges and the halls closed for the sole purpose of intimidating and preventing the officers from paying the strikers their regular weekly strike benefits.

However, the manufacturers and the citizens' committee probably did not take into consideration the International Union and its ability to care for and protect its members.

The International President immediately sent Eugene Clifford, counsel for the International Union, to Tampa with full written and verbal instructions. Lawyer Jennings of Jacksonville was also sent to Tampa to assist in the defense of our members who had been illegally sent to jail and to otherwise protect the interest of the International Union and all members thereof.

Order was quickly restored and took the place of the reigning confusion. In the meantime J. C. Johnston was instructed to return to Tampa, and he did so.

The men under arrest were given a preliminary hearing and all discharged on the first count or charges. They, however, had been arrested on warrants charging them with being accessory before the fact to the murder of J. S. Esterling some time previous.

On these charges all except three were discharged, and they were again charged with other offences and at last accounts were still in jail. These members were members of the J. A. B. and we believe held no office in any of the local unions. However, their interests are being cared for. In the meantime the financial officers of the unions were permitted to go from the jail to the offices under guard to pay off the strikers, so that part of the scheme failed.

Those who have not had a hearing or been discharged will or should have their trial the 18th inst.

The high handed illegal outrageous action of the citizens' committee in refusing the members or unions the right to meet in their own building and halls was finally overcome and the unions are now meeting as usual.

Despite the high handed outrageous action of the perpetrators of the crimes committed against our members and the unions whose nearest rights were trampled under foot with an audacity that would make a Russian Cossack turn green with envy, our members remained firm and the plot against them failed. At last accounts less than 100 people have returned to work. The lesson taught the manufacturers and our own members there of the power, strength and resourcefulness of the International Union and the determination to use it when occasion requires will never be lost regardless of how the strike may terminate.

There never has been a strike in the whole history of the International Union where we had to fight against greater odds and in which we had greater obstacles to overcome than the one at Tampa.

The members there have shown splendid fighting qualities and a determination to stick that challenges admiration.

They have been taught as they could be taught under no other circumstances that the International Union is their friend, and we feel sure that they appreciate this fact now if they never did before.

We received a communication from the Joint Advisory Board, a part of which is as follows:

G. W. Perkins, International President: "I must say that you have taken rapid action in protecting us and wish to congratulate you. The men are praising the International Union more than ever and understand at last the value of our organization."

The so-called trade papers continue their policy of misrepresentation concerning the Tampa strike and of all that happens there and of those who are directly or indirectly involved.

It is easily to be seen that these papers shape their policy and "news" of strikes, unions and officers thereof to conform to the counting room or cash register.

These papers live on the advertising and they get that from the manufacturers. The International President and the International Union have been persistently and consistently attacked, bullied and cajoled, but have nevertheless been minding our own business and shaping our course to best serve the best interests of our members and the cause of unionism.

Anybody can knock and insinuate, but none can or dare make deliberate statements of a questionable nature.

Trickery, abuse and misrepresentation may bring temporary advantage in the shape of a few dollars; it however deceives no one, not even those for whom it is done.

Fairness and square dealing are the qualities that win respect, at least in the long run.

The impatient, thoughtless and enthusiastic often say trade unions are not progressive enough.

TRADE UNIONS SAFE. The facts are that trade unions are, first, safe and then, second, progressive, especially those which are successful.

History proves this beyond successful dispute. Suppose we would have followed the advice of the alleged progressive who is progressive in thought only and lacking in practical action and had joined the I. W. W., who are now defunct or practically so. Suppose we had taken their advice and cast our lot with the Knights of Labor, long since dead and buried. Suppose we had followed the lead of the alleged progressives and rushed blindly into wild cat sympathetic strikes which proved monumental failures, what would have become of our funds and our union? Sympathetic strikes are all right in correlated trades such as the building trades. But in other trades where there is no agreement as to going back suppose we rush out for one certain trade and that trade goes back the next week, how are the other trades which have broken their agreement and struck against employers who were in no wise responsible for the original strike, going to get back?

Under these conditions we would have confusion many times multiplied and would go the way of other so-called "broad progressive" movements—into the discard.

The time will come when a sympathetic strike will be possible in all trades but until that time is reached and a perfect understanding had with the other trades, with reference to returning to work only when all go back, such strikes are worse than folly, they are monumental blunders.

The Int. union has been successful because it has first been safe and practical, and secondly progressive. This applies to all other successful trade unions.

The very strength and usefulness of the Int. union lies in the fact that it is safe and practical and always progressive when it can be so without endangering its very existence.

The Int. union has accomplished more for its members than any other union, under like handicaps, in this or any other country. It will continue to prosper as long as it continues first, its safe and sane course, and secondly is progressive thereafter.

Considerable confusion and a great deal of unnecessary work was caused by the issuance of a bungling circular by a certain union in the nomination of officers and delegates. In the circular issued setting forth a full ticket and asking support for it, one of the proposed candidates was placed in a city in which he does not live, and in which place there is no one by the name mentioned. In another instance they proposed a candidate who is now, and has been on the 20c retired list for some time, and consequently not eligible under the law. In another instance they misspelled the name of one of the proposed candidates.

Notwithstanding the bungling interference of this union with the right of self-government, and its attempt to influence and dictate the nominations and the confusion created thereby we have taken the intent of the union making the nomination, and have credited all with all nominations received, regardless of the place mentioned. For instance, in one case where one of the candidates proposed by the union sending out the circular, and in which the proposed candidate was mistakenly credited to a city in which he does not live, and who received nominations under the same name but credited to two cities, we have bunched the nominations and given him credit for all nominations received. This is in keeping with the determination to administer the election and all laws in the broadest sense, always being fair to all concerned, regardless of whom it may effect.

Trade unions are broader in their conception and more far reaching in effect than any other institution in the world. They are narrow only when it is necessary for them to be so for self preservation. They come nearer being a cure for all the social and economic ills that beset the workers than any other institution but they are specially at present for the uplift and betterment of the workers economically and industrially.

They are broad and practical because they admit to membership all workers regardless of sex, color, creed, or calling or of their political affiliations.

They are progressive because they raise wages, shorten the hours of labor and otherwise improve the moral, material and intellectual welfare of the membership today; they do it now.

The activities of trade unions are not limited to one special thing nor is its membership limited to those who embrace a certain political belief.

Its mission, object and accomplishments are far reaching because as it improves the economic condition of the worker his social and political condition will improve as sure as day follows night.

Despite the lies, knocks and misleading insinuations of the trade papers and some others concerning the attitude of the Int. union in the Tampa strike the facts are that there has never been a time since the strike started that the Int. union has not stood ready to assist in negotiating a fair and honorable settlement of the strike.

The rock bottom facts are that at no time have the Manfrs. been willing to talk making an agreement with the union.

"The Guyer hat factory at Philadelphia will open up as a union factory on Monday morning, the 14th instant. As you know, this was the factory that caused the big lockout of a year ago, and I think it will have a good effect in bringing back some of the factories that are still outside of the organization."

The foregoing is good news, showing as it does a splendid victory for the hatters.

If the open shop fanatics had kept their hands off the Tampa strike it would have been settled long ago. The so-called citizens' committee were led into this trouble by the machinations of the open shoppers. Business men of Tampa who foolishly mixed in this affair have nobody but themselves to blame.

The work of compiling the nominations, separating the eligibles from the ineligible and classifying those who were eligible, but declined, was intricate and required time and caused the delay of the Journal, as well as other important work in the office.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of regret and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—Peter J. Klee, No. 92648, who died October 31st, and John Trabbold, No. 47822, who died October 9th.

Union 20, Decatur, Ill.—W. C. Rakow, No. 32510, who died Oct. 6th, and Don Wiegand, No. 33379, who died October 27th. Members of Union 20 attended the funerals in a body.

PRIVATE LOANS

Sec. 196. Local unions shall have the right to suspend members for non-payment of local indebtedness, and hold traveling cards until such indebtedness has been paid. See Sec. 106 also.

The following unions request the collection of private loans from the respective persons, and return same to union making the request.

Members owing Private Loans to Union 80, Danville, Ill., prior to July 1st, 1910, will please remit same immediately, as we need the money on hand for the travelers coming through. The constitution will be enforced for failure to comply with this notice.

The following members owe Private Loans to Union 32, Louisville, Ky. As there are other members we would like to assist, we request that these members remit. John H. Slunn, No. 63743, $3.70; Wm. J. Henshall, No. 33511, $5.00; Robt. J. Sears, No. 67740, $3.50; W. H. Gregg, No. 38260, $4.00; Walter Instman, $2.00; and Louis Godfrey, $2.00.

Union 325, Spokane, Wash., will suspend members owing Private Loans over one year old. Must hear at once from Sam Thompson, Roy Anger, Fred Sechman, Chas. Eastberg, Patsy McCauley, Frank Nocatny, Thos. Delaney, John Purcell, Wm. Kurzner, Otto Driese, W. W. Balfour, A. M. Knutsen, Clyde Lawrence, E. Johnson, John Sykes, Louis Hempel, Thos. Tuttle, Jas. Murphy.

Union 5, Rochester, N. Y., wants to hear from all members owing private loans. Others cannot be accommodated if you do not pay.

Union 487, Baker City, Ore., writes, "All members owing private loans to Union 487, prior to July 1st, 1910, will please pay same at once as we need the money." Also Sam Thompson, please write.

Members owing private loans to Union 395, Waterbury, Conn., are hereby requested to settle up. Otherwise the Constitution will have to be enforced on the same.

Union 206, North Adams, Mass., will not grant any more private loans until some of the members who owe same pay up. Local fund is exhausted. Now then, gentlemen, just show us how many of you believe that the other fellow on road is entitled to a little assistance as well as you were. We have about 150 names of members on our list who owe this union from $.75 to $20.00 for private loans, for six months and over. Surely some are working.

Members owing private loans to Union 488, Gloversville, N. Y., will please pay up as the winter is coming on and others will be through who will need assistance.

Secretary holding card of Franklin Torres No. 7194 please collect Private Loan of $5.00 and forward to F. H. Herman, Secretary Union 471, Americus, Ga.

Union 315, St. Cloud, Minn., writes "If Ben J. Koenig No. 11246, does not pay private loan of $4.75 due Union 315 within the next thirty days he will stand suspended. The loan has run for almost two years."

Secretaries holding cards of Joseph Shanley, Walter Rich No. 3979, Wm. Pape, 12978, Alfred Vezollas, 85767, C. O. Peles, 52420, Chas. Daniels, 3936, Alonzo McGlasson, 63443, Vincent Miller, 12527, H. A. Hay, 80616, Conrad Dreese, 75509, please collect private loans and remit the amount to Secretary Union No. 154, Lincoln, Neb.

Union 486, New Westminster, B. C., requests secretaries holding cards of the following members owing private loans to kindly collect from them and remit to Union 486: A. H. Meyer (29021), $2.00; Chas. Wolff (113603), $2.00; Guy Bruce (108085), $2.00; E. Beckwith (114937), $2.00; E. B. Watson (66964), $2.00.

Union 118, Peoria writes: "The following members will take notice, pay up, as we need the money and we need it very bad, or else action will be taken: No. 6375, Albert Wonasek, $21.50; No. 82864, J. M. Connors, $25.00; No. 113295, Geo. R. Gray, $2.00; No. 11661, Eug. Caron, $6.00; No. 12527, Vincent Miller, $1.50; No. 7581, Phil Hans, $2.50; No. 96411, Chas. E. Lantz, $2.00; No. 86915, John K. Archer, $7.70; No. 43727, A. B. Calender, $5.30; No. 21079, Louis Samulson, $4.00, and several others who own loans for three months or more."

Local 49, Springfield, Mass., suspended B. F. Parson (81612) for failure, after repeated notices to him to pay private loan of $50.00 granted him in November, 1908.—Wm. J. Murphy, Secretary No. 49.

Members owing private loans to Union 475, Fitchburg, Mass., will please pay up as there is no money in the private loan fund.

Union 375, Anaconda, Mont., requests all members owing private loans to pay up or action will be taken.

The Progress of Savings Bank Life Insurance in Massachusetts.

For the average man, the life insurance, which protects his family against the misfortunes which will follow his death, is one of the great necessities of life. The wonderful developments of the life insurance business in this country show that the people recognize this fact. All unionists are agreed that the great necessities of life should be furnished to the people at a minimum of cost and that all profits and undue expense be eliminated. Therefore, from the beginning the Trade Unionists of Massachusetts have been interested in the plan for Savings Bank Life Insurance, because the essential idea of this movement is to furnish life insurance and old age pensions at actual cost. Under the law all profits go to the policyholders; there is no expense for soliciting business as the banks are prohibited using money for this purpose, and inasmuch as the commonwealth of Massachusetts makes a large appropriation to pay the general administration expenses, the actual cost of operation is very low.

The law which established this movement was secured with the active co-operation of the Trade Unionists, and the plan has been endorsed by the American Federation of Labor and by the Massachusetts State Branch. A year ago there appeared in this publication a detailed account of the successes of Savings Bank Life Insurance, but our readers will be glad to know of the progress that has been made since then. One unique provision of the law is that agencies may be established in mills and factories so that policy holders can easily pay their premiums at the office of the company for which they work. Under this plan more than eighty agencies have been arranged for in the leading manufacturing plants of the state. In this work the local unions have been of great assistance. In some instances where employers have been reluctant to establish an agency, the union of that locality has requested that an agency be established for the benefit of the men and in such cases this request of the union has been acceded to.

The law is also broad enough to permit local unions to become agencies for the Insuring banks, and the unions of the state are beginning to awaken to the opportunity thus afforded to them to be of larger assistance to their own members. Such an agency has been established by the International Union of Steam Engineers, Local No. 16 of Boston; recently an application for an agency has been received from Amity Lodge 700, International Association of Machinists of Springfield.

With the insurance departments in the Whitman and Brockton Banks succeeding so well, other savings banks of the state have appointed committees to consider the advisability of establishing insurance departments, and the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, with far sightedness, is aiming at the education of the next generation by conducting an active campaign in instructing the students of the high schools of the commonwealth in the principle and methods of savings bank life insurance. The growth of the movement is evidenced by the fact that at the present time there is about $1,400,000 of insurance in force and the following figures recently issued by the banks make the growth of the movement during the last year:

A report issued by the Insurance Department of the People's Savings Bank of Brockton, covering receipts for the month of October, 1910, shows that during that month there was received from the policy holders as premiums $2,960.40, as against $2,075.12 for the month of October, 1909—that is, a gain of 42 per cent. The report of the Insurance Department of the Whitman Savings Bank shows premium receipts during October, 1910, of $3,456.59 as against $1,975.46 for October, 1909—that is, a gain of more than 74 per cent.

Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Savings
Insurance League, 161 Devonshire street,

Larges Certainement.

Les unions de métiers son plus larges dans leurs vues et plus avancées dans leurs résultats, que n'importe quelle autre institution au monde.

Elles ne sont étroites de vues que lorsqu'il leur faut absolument l'être dans un but de préservation.

Elles sont plus près d'être une panacée de tous les maux sociaux et économiques qui accablent l'ouvrier, que n'importe quelle autre institution, mais pour le moment, elles se spécialisent plutôt dans l'élévation et l'amélioration des ouvriers, au point de vue moral et économique.

Elles sont larges de vues et pratiques, parce qu'elles admettent comme membres tous les ouvriers, sans égard au sexe, à la couleur, aux croyances religieuses ou à leurs opinions politiques.

Elles sont progressives, parcequ'elles augmentent les salaires, réduisent les heures de travail et d'autres manières encore, améliorent les conditions morales, matérielles et intellectuelles de leurs membres de ce jour; et cela, elles le font au jourd'hui.

Les activités des unions de métiers ne se limitent pas à une seule chose spéciale, de même que leurs membres ne se limitent pas à ceux qui se conforment à une certaine opinion politique.

Leurs missions, leur but et les résultats qu'elles atteignent sont avancées, parce qu'ils améliorent la condition économique des travailleurs et que, par conséquent, l'amélioration de leur état social et politique suivra inévitablement, de même que le jour suit la nuit.

Aucune institution dans ce monde n'a de plus honnêtes inclinations que le travail organisé. Il a souffert longtemps, reçu des coups de pieds de tous côtés a été calomnié et poussé au désespoir. Ce qu'il a de plus étonnant, c'est qu'il n'ait pas gardé plus de rancune que celle que certains de ses ennemis lui attribuent.

Si l'histoire du passé ne fait rien d'autre, elle peut et doit inspirer confiance dans l'avenir et la stabilité de l'Union Internationale.

Un coup d'œil jeté dans le passé montre qu'à St. Louis, Mo., en 1876, les cigariers non organisés travaillaient pour même $2.50 par M pour faire des cigares. Les jobs supérieurs étaient à cette époque de $4 et $5 par mille, et prenez votre paye en "cigars-truck." Un membre qui était là à cette époque disait dernièrement qu'il compta jusqu'à près de cent hommes faisant la queue le lundi matin devant une fabrique de cigares, attendant une opportunité d'entrer et solliciter un travail de $4.

Tant que les travailleurs étaient forcés de prendre leur paye en cigares, ceux-ci étaient tarifés au taux de $25 par mille, mais ils devaient les vendre en marché ouvert pour aussi bon marché que $13 par mille. Ils étaient volés des deux côtés. Ils étaient payés des prix de famine pour faire les cigares, ensuite, on les leur vendait à des prix inouïs quand ils les prenaient comme salaire et ensuite forcés, à cause de la concurrence, de les revendre pour la moitié de ce qu'ils les avaient payés.

Sans organisation, sans trésorerie d'union et sans bénéfices, les ouvriers étaient à la merci de leurs patrons et des circonstances.

Aujourd'hui, l'Union 44, St. Louis, a un "bill" qui est d'environ $10, et il n'y a pour ainsi dire pas un seul non-unioniste dans la ville. Ce qui a été fait dans cette ville-là, peut être accompli ailleurs. Les mêmes salaires relativement réduits, les mêmes longues heures de travail et autres conditions contraires existent dans toutes les places où il y a peu ou pas d'organisation. Le passé, quand on le compare au présent, justifie l'espoir et inspire la confiance et la foi dans l'Union Internationale pour faire finalement dans toutes les villes ce qui a déjà été fait dans celles où nous sommes organisés.

Les unions de métiers inspirent la confiance, le courage, la foi, la fidélité, le respect, le bon jugement, l'honnêteté, l'espoir, l'ambition et la discipline dans les coeurs membres, toutes qualités qui ne peuvent produire que des hommes et des citoyens meilleurs. La virilité chez les bons citoyens, voilà ce qui fait les grands pays.

Si les meetings ne sont pas ce que vous pensez qu'ils devraient être, assistez quand même aux meetings et faites ce que vous pourrez pour corriger ce que vous dites aller de travers. Un discours ou un vote au coin d'une rue ou dans l'atelier ne comptent pas.

Enfaticamente Si.

Las uniones de artesanos son más anchas en su concepto y más adelantadas en sus alcances que cualquier otra institución del mundo. Son de concepto estrecho solo cuando han de serlo para su propia preservación.

Se acercan más del panaceo de todas las enfermedades sociales y económicas que cualquier otra institución, pero en el presente, se aplican principalmente a la elevación y al mejoramiento de los trabajadores, económica e industrialmente.

Són anchas y prácticas porque admiten como miembros todos los que trabajan, sin consideración, de sexo, color, creencias ó opiniones políticas.

Son de progreso, porque alzan á salarios, reducen las horas de labor y de otras maneras además, mejoran el estado moral, material é intelectual de los miembros que hoy día las componen; y eso lo hacen ahora mismo.

Las actividades de las uniones de artesanos no se limitan á una sola cosa especial; tampoco son sus miembros limitados á los que abrazan una creencia política especial.

Su misión, su objeto y sus alcances son considerables porque como mejoran el estado económico del obrero, su estado social y político seguirán tan seguro como el día sigue á la noche.

V pravdě rozsáhlé.

Unie řemeslnické jsou ve svých pojmech obšáhlejší a ve svých následcích dalekosáhlejší nežli kterákoliv instituce na světě. Jsou zúžené pouze v případech, kde jest to nevyhnutelné v zájmu sebezachování. Přibližují se k rozluštění společenských a hospodářských záležitostí obklopujících, blížeji nežli kterákoliv jiná instituce; zvláště dnešního dne jsou zaujaté pro povzneseání a zlepšení dělnictva hospodářsky i průmyslně.

Jsou obšáhle a praktické, poněvadž připouští k členství všechny pracovníky bez rozdílu pohlaví, pleti, vřny neb povolání aneb politického příslušenství.

Jsou pokrokové, poněvadž zvyšují mzdy, zkračují dobu pracovní a jinak povznášejí morální, materiální i intelektuální stav nynějšího svého členstva; činí tak nyní ustavičně.

Činnost řemeslnických uníí není obmezena na jednu speciální zvláštnost, aniž se obmezuje na členstvo jistého politického přesvědčení.

Jich poslání, účel a vymoženosti jsou dalekosáhlé, poněvadž povzneseání hospodářského stavu dělníka následovati bude jeho povzneseání sociálního a politického tak jistě jako že po noci přichází den.

Umfassend in der That.

Die Gewerkschaften haben einen größeren Gesichtskreis, gehen in ihrer Wirkung tiefer, als alle andern Vereinigungen, die es gibt. Eng beschränkt sind sie nur dann, wenn es um der Selbsterhaltung willen sein muß.

Sie kommen dem Ideal eines Allheilmittels für die gesellschaftlichen und wirtschaftlichen Uebel, unter denen die Arbeiter leiden, näher als alles Aehnliche; und besonders gegenwärtig üben sie die tiefste Wirkung aus für die Höher- und Besserstellung der Arbeiter, wirtschaftlich und industriell.

Sie sind umfassend und praktisch, weil sie alle Arbeiter aufnehmen, ohne Rücksicht auf Geschlecht, Farbe, Glaube oder Gewerbe oder politische Parteizugehörigkeit.

Sie sind fortschrittlich, weil sie die Löhne erhöhen, die Arbeitsstunden verkürzen und auf andere Weise für die Besserung der sittlichen, materiellen und geistigen Wohlfahrt ihrer Mitglieder sorgen, und zwar thun sie es jetzt und hier.

Die Thätigkeit der Gewerkschaften ist nicht auf ein besonderes Etwas beschränkt, noch schließt sie von ihrer Mitgliedschaft solche aus, die sich nicht zu einem gewissen politischen Glauben bekennen.

Ihre Aufgabe, ihr Zweck und ihre Errungenschaften sind weitreichend, denn auf die Besserung der wirtschaftlichen Stellung des Arbeiters muß die seiner sozialen und politischen so sicher folgen, wie der Tag der Nacht folgt.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

The Constitution, twentieth edition, contains an error. The amendment of Union 97, Boston, reference accepting cards from foreign countries, took the place of the old law. Through mistake both the amendment and the old law are included.

If you hold any loan cards of no further use send them to this office.

Before granting or accepting retiring cards secretaries and members should consult Sections 76 and 77 of the Constitution.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and in addition send in such card, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

If secretaries when ordering supplies will place the order on the regular blank it will greatly simplify the work here and avoid unnecessary delay for those who order the supplies.

NOTICE.

We are repeatedly asked whether it is necessary in the event of death to issue a card and send it to this office. The request for cards of deceased members only applies where members have been accepted by card, and especially where cards show a loan account, as the account must be checked up and closed. No card need be issued to or for any member except he retires absolutely, when the Absolute Retiring Card is issued, or if a 20-cent beneficiary member wishes to change to another union's jurisdiction, then a transfer card is issued. Or if a 15 or 30-cent member wishes to travel then a Blue or Loan Card is issued in accordance with length of membership. But in no case need cards be issued to members simply because they are members, as that is a needless loss of time and in the aggregate entails considerable useless expense.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

The amendment adopted to Sections 76 and 77 does away with the issuance of retiring cards to all who continue to pay dues as beneficiary members.

Retiring cards are only for those who pay up and actually terminate all connection with the union in so far as the payment of dues is concerned.

Members who transfer from the 30-cent list to the 20-cent beneficiary membership list are simply changed from one class to another and deducted from one and added to the other.

Members who have not paid 30-cent dues for three years and quitting the trade under Section 76 and wishing to qualify for Section 77 as a beneficiary member should be kept on without any other change than to make a note of the intention on the ledger page. If such member desires to travel to another jurisdiction he should be given a transfer card and his intention to qualify as a 30-cent beneficiary member written on the transfer card. Such beneficiary members are not entitled to any benefits except sick benefits after one year's membership and whatever death benefits their term of membership entitles them to.

NOTICE TO OFFICERS AND MEMBERS.

In printing the nineteenth edition of the Constitution, an omission occurs in Section 77, on line 7. A comma and the words "and local assessments" should follow "International assessments." The sentence to read: "All International assessments, and local assessments levied for labor agitation purposes." This amendment as published in another place is correct.

Items for the Journal should be placed on separate slips of paper—not the backs of reports, etc.—in order to insure prompt publication, and should reach this office not later than the 10th of each month if intended for current publication.

NOTICE.—How to duplicate Loan Cards:

It frequently occurs that new secretaries through error or lack of knowledge, transfer the amount a member "has coming" instead of what he owes. In duplicating a card, figure up all the member has borrowed and subtract all he has paid, and if there is a balance against the member transfer to new card in red ink and figures and letters the amount due the International Union. Also enter on new card all that may be essential that you find on the old, then sign and seal it. Send the old card to the International office.

NOTICE AS TO FINES.

Section 174 provides that all fines, except those imposed for failure to attend regular meetings, or for failure to do committee work, or attend authorized meetings in the interest of the union label, must be turned into the general fund of the union, whether such fine was imposed by a local union or International Executive Board.

DECISIONS OF PRESIDENT

F. Kemler appealed against Union 129 Denver, for suspending him for failing to repay a private loan. Mr. Kemler pleads lack of employment, hard luck and other extenuating circumstances, and has now paid the loan. The appeal is sustained and the member restored to his previous membership.

H. W. Spies appealed against Union 25 Milwaukee for holding his card for a fine of $25.00. The Constitution provides that cards can only be held for local indebtedness and that fines may be endorsed on the card. The appeal was sustained.

No. 4 Cincinnati appealed against 35 Dayton for granting labels to a manufacturer with whom it, Union 4, was having trouble. The appeal was sustained.

Leo Maciejewski appealed against Union 22 Detroit, for suspending him. Appellant showed that he gave the money to pay his dues to a friend and then went home for a visit. The friend unbeknown to Maciejewski failed to turn the money over to the secretary. The appeal was sustained.

H. B. Sander appealed against 185 Paducah for suspending him for non-payment of percentage on fine. The appellant shows that he was not working at the time. The appeal was sustained.

H. Metter appealed against 294 Duluth for fining him for failure to parade on Labor Day. The appeal was not sustained. However, owing to extenuating circumstances I recommend that the fine be rescinded.

John B. Balster appealed against 1 Baltimore for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Appellant shows extenuating circumstances, which are agreed to by the union. The appeal is sustained without reflection on the secretary or the union.

P. Elserman appealed against Union 1 Baltimore for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Appellant shows extenuating circumstances which are agreed to by the union. The appeal is sustained without reflection on the secretary or the union.

H. J. Fangman appealed against 1 Baltimore for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

Ed Prasse appealed against 395 Waterbury for fining him 50c for failure to attend a meeting. The appeal was not sustained.

W. B. Blakenship appealed against 133 Richmond for fining him $50.00 for scabbing. The appeal was not sustained.

A. J. Parr appealed against 33 Indianapolis for compelling him to pay a running assessment of 50c payable in 25-cent installments. The assessment was levied August 18. Mr. Parr's card was not deposited until August 20. Hence, under the law and many decisions, the decision in this case is that Mr. Parr has to pay only that part of the assessment which fell due after his card was deposited, or one 25-cent assessment.

L. F. Nickels appealed against 129 Denver for fining him 25c for failing to attend meeting. The appeal was not sustained.

E. H. Smith appealed against 52, Elmira, for fining him $25 for working in a closed shop. The appeal was not sustained.

A. E. Baldwin appealed against 129, Denver, for fining him for failure to attend regular meetings. The appeal was not sustained.

N. Cohen and several others appealed against J. A. B., New York, reference division of the pay to bunch makers and rollers. The appeal was not sustained.

A. Genereux appealed against 97, Boston, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained. The member, however, must be placed on the 90-day list, dating from the time of his suspension, during which time he will not be entitled to benefits of any kind.

L. E. Fallon appealed against 97, Boston, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

A. C. Cordova appealed against 97, Boston, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances, the appeal was sustained.

Louis Lupien appealed against 106, Ogdensburg, for fining him for failure to parade on Labor Day. The appellant is given the benefit of the doubt, and the appeal is sustained.

A. E. Schmickley appealed against 35, Dayton, for throwing out nine legally cast votes, on the first ballot, which were cast for a candidate. The appeal was sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 87, Brooklyn, N. Y., to expel from the union and fine J. H. Nottage, 50012, $100 for scabbing and working against the interest of the union by refusing to come out of the factory of S. I. Davis when ordered by the J. A. B. The following is the vote: Affirmative, 7; negative, 1.

Correction.—A mistake was made in last month's Journal in publishing C. Gaine, No. 4258, as having been fined $25 by Union 51, Holyoke, Mass., for scabbing in the shop of Joseph Gavenette. The name is Eli Lalime.

CORRESPONDENCE

Vancouver, B. C., November 14, 1910.

Local 357 of Vancouver held their Sixth Annual Blue Label Masquerade Ball on Friday, November 11th. It was a magnificent success. The attendance was 625. The costumes were varied and expensive. The prizes were appropriate and the awarding of them acceptable to all. The orchestra, lead by a cigar maker, was declared the finest ever rendered, and it certainly must have been, for all stayed until the home waltz was played at 3 o'clock.

We hold these annual dances for the advertising we get out of them. Here is where the advertising comes in. First, the daily papers announce in the social columns the ball. Then we send 2,000 invitations out, each one of which is a neat little add. Then the window cards attract the attention of the public. Second, the ball itself is a grand add, for all the patrons enjoy themselves and leave with a small souvenir cigar with a card attached bearing "Smoke Union Made Cigars." Third, the daily papers give us a write-up announcing the prize-winners, and the public readily read it. So anyone can see the good a large, well-conducted dance is from an advertising standpoint.

Try it yourselves and if you need particulars write to Local 357 and we will gladly furnish it.

Robert J. Craig.

The Proceedings of the Thirtieth Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at St. Louis, Mo., will be ready for distribution in a few days, at 25 cents per copy, $20.00 per hundred.

The book contains the reports of the president, secretary, treasurer, executive council, and all committees, and matters of an important nature. Send in your orders early, before the edition is exhausted.

Frank Morrison,
Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 7, 1910.

The Union Label League of Denver, which Mr. W. D. Henderson, No. 64741, initiated by Union No. 93, Omaha, Neb., January 26, 1897, was secretary, also editor of the Label Bulletin, has preferred charges against Mr. Henderson for the embezzlement of $500 of the funds of the league and requests our union to locate him if possible. The matter was brought up Union No. 129, Denver, Colo.

To all locals; Greeting:

Edmund Schnur, Secretary.

Oshawa, December 3, 1910.

Take Allendale, the home of numerous railroad employes, difficult at all times to meet on account of the irregular attendance at meetings, nevertheless the demand for union label goods is constantly growing, and much the same can be said of Barrie as far as the label is concerned, not that there are no non-union goods sold but that union brands seem to have the call. Buckeye after buckeye has started here, but for some reason or another have failed to get a foothold. It maybe that the concentration of trade in the hands of a few big corporations, with their ability to buy and sell to the best advantage, spells the doom of the buckeye everywhere. However that may be, it is a mooted question if such a state of affairs is to the benefit of the worker at the bench, or otherwise. In any event one can see that this concentration in trade is constantly going on and the little fellow being frozen out.

Orillia, though a local option town and all that, is certainly going ahead fast. This may be accounted for in part by being favored by nature with an almost unlimited supply of water power, owned by the municipality, and which is operated in the production of cheap electric power, and which same has attracted and is attracting many and varied industries here.

Bracebridge, Huntsville and Gravenhurst are to some extent summer resorts, and usually fair markets for cigars. In most places outside the hotels the label is fairly well shown, but deliver us from our friends, its absence from the brands shown in the hotels is very very noticeable.

My visit to the good town of Lindsay disclosed nothing new. Organization has not flourished here to any extent, the workman apparently preferring to remain as he is, perhaps not desiring to make trouble between himself and his real, kind, good boss.

We have not done very much advertising here. Despite this there is a fair show of union goods and some demand.

Peterboro is by far and away the first place in industrial importance in the province east of Toronto. It has some very large industries, one of which employs fifteen hundred hands. We have one cigar factory here under the jurisdiction of Union 27, Toronto. Many union brands are on sale here, and there seems to be a fair demand, which could be increased by more advertising. I have recommended to the Canadian Blue Label League the placing of a large display sign on or near the bridge across the Otonabee River at Ashburnham, where tourists and other visitors pass by the thousands to view the wonders of the lift lock canal, which is a very great wonder except to those favored few who know its political value.

Port Hope may or may not have local option. All depends upon the viewpoint of the citizens. One of them who runs a large factory warns the ultra temperance folks that his factory is likely to close down as his help like their beer, and if they leave he does not know where he can get men to work under local option conditions.

Union molders and other trades create a fair demand for union goods, and the label is fairly well shown by dealers.

Yours fraternally.

W. V. Todd,
Organizer.

UNION NOTES

Union 278, London, Ont., holds money from the strike assessment for Harry Thompson (6962). G. Pennecotte (98937), Wm. Mathews (50437), W. Colby (72273), Wm. Hooper (103322). Send your addresses to the Financial Secretary of Union 278.

Secretary holding the card of A. Schulz (15356) please collect $5.00 board bill and also $5.00 fine for leaving town without paying the same.

Will secretaries holding the cards of John Fischer and J. H. Phillips kindly notify Local 233, Sedalia, matters of importance, and these members will find it to their advantage to advise us if they see the notice.

NOTICE.—Wm. Mead (10910), Secretary of Union 469, Bakersfield, holds $1.00 due you, for payment of private loan which you did not owe.

Secretary of Union 206, North Adams, Mass., would like to hear from Mr. William Van Patten (21).

Secretary holding the card of Walter Colby (72272) please notify Secretary of Union 27, Toronto.

Mr. George Smith (93485) please communicate with the Financial Secretary of Union 429, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Business of importance to you.

Any secretary holding the card of Antonio Pedroville (16715) please collect $8.45 unpaid board bill and forward to the Secretary of 282, Bridgeport Conn. If not heard from by the next regular meeting there will be a fine imposed upon him.

Union 228, San Francisco, will not recognize any members coming here without their union cards.

Union 354, Key West, Fla., in a letter dated Nov. 29th, says they have given $981.70 to the locked out Tampa strikers, that they have paid 10 per cent of the weekly wages since the lockout started and shall continue to do so until it is finished.

Union 279, Plattsburgh, N. Y., has a running assessment of 10 cents a week to help out the strikers in Tampa, Fla.

Union 129, Denver, at their regular meeting on December 6th levied an assessment of $4.00, payable in eight weekly installments of 50 cents on all 15 and 30-cent members in aid of the Tampa strike. We have just finished paying a $2.00 assessment levied for the same purpose.

Donations previously acknowledged from the various unions for S. C. Kaufman, $171.90. Since the Oct. issue of the Journal we have received from Union 77, Minneapolis, $1.00; 53, New Orleans, $1.18; 334, Saratoga Springs, 60 cents, and 240, Norfolk, Va., $3.00, making the total received to date $177.68. Mr. Kaufman is still in Hot Springs, Ark., and the latest reports that we have from him are not so favorable. He was in bed for several days, and says when he is able to get around again he will come back to Denver.

Secretaries holding cards of the following named members please collect for board bills and fines and remit to Secretary of Union 3, Paterson, N. J.: Gus. Richards (69378), $4.50; A. Aagesen (40713), $7.50; Jacob Mimring (9830), $10.50; Paul Brown (44692), $9.00; Fergus Fay (36621), $4.00.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 1st, 1910.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

208, Kalamazoo, Mich.

In case the present manner of handling the affairs of this union is continued, trouble such as was had with ex-Secretary McKinstry will be nearly impossible. At this date cash and stamp accounts are correct. In the future the ledger will be honestly posted and balanced with every credit given, and the accounts of the union balanced at the end of each month with the statement written in the day book. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1908.....$ 7,021.45
Receipts to Dec. 1, 1910..... 4,243.77

Deficiency of Union Dec. 1, 1910.....$ 640.34

Included in this deficiency is $392.01 still due from ex-Secretary Wm. McKinstry (29287) on account of amount embezzled by him. The total amount of this shortage was $528.01, on which he has refunded $136.00, leaving balance still due $392.01.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. CAMPBELL,
International Financier.

Int. Financier's report continued in next issue.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 275 of Aberdeen, as published in the October Journal, as follows:

Strike out the following of Sec. 79 of the International Constitution commencing on line 8, page 23, of the 20th edition, as follows: "No member of the International Union shall be entitled to strike benefits unless he is a member in good standing for at least three months," and insert the following: "Any member in good standing shall be entitled to the above benefits, with the exception of members in a local union where the charter has been granted less than six months prior to the strike application. In such cases no member shall be entitled to strike benefits unless he has been a member in good standing for at least three months."

Received the endorsement of 102, Kansas City; 158, La Fayette; 4, Cincinnati; 312, Livingston; 337, Key West; 315, St. Cloud; 56, Leavenworth; 41, Aurora; 491, Huron; 375, Anaconda; 341, Neenah; 445, Billings; 13, New York; 228, San Francisco, Calif.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 318, Chattanooga, Tenn., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

That an assessment of 10 cents be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members to aid the striking cigar-makers of Union 118, Peoria. The proceeds of said assessment to be distributed under the supervision of the International President:

Received the following endorsement of Union 404, Austin; 99, Ottawa; 69, Three Rivers; 431, Litchfield; 19, Sault Ste. Marie.

REPORT OF DELEGATES TO UNION LABEL DEPARTMENT OF A. F. OF L.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28, 1910.

To the Officers and Members of the Cigarmakers' International Union:

Gentlemen—We, the undersigned, delegates to the Third Convention of the Union Label Trades Department, submit for your consideration the following report:

The convention opened in Aschenbrodel Hall, St. Louis, Mo., on Thursday, November 10th, sixty-eight delegates representing thirty-nine national and international unions being present. Addresses of welcome were delivered by the President of the Missouri State Federation of Labor, President of the Central Trades and Labor Union, St. Louis, representatives of the Label Trades Department of the same city, and representatives of the Woman's Trade Union League. Reports of officers was then read, and so as to give our membership a clear and distinct understanding of the work accomplished and progress made during the past year, we embody in this report the report of the Secretary-Treasurer, which is as follows:

Report of the Secretary-Treasurer.

St. Louis, Mo., November 10, 1910.

I desire to submit to you for your consideration and deliberation the business transacted by this department for the twelve months ending September 30, 1910. In doing so it is my purpose to convey such matters of interest to our affiliated organizations as has transpired during the year. Of course, it will be understood that in submitting a report of this kind, that the matters therein dwell upon deal largely with the essential work of the department, and not to any great degree with minor details.

I feel confident that after the delegates have read the report and analyzed it that they will all agree that the results of the past year so far as the promotion of the sale of union-made products is concerned, has been greater than ever before in the history of the labor movement. However, it is not to be understood that we have anywhere near reached the results in the promotion of the sale of union-labeled products, and the patronizing of union establishments that we should, and this is because, perhaps, of the lack of interest of our members and friends, or because of their inability in the past to spread the information that is of so much importance and value to our movement as to where Union-made products can be obtained.

The history of the past has shown, in too many instances, this lack of information upon the part of our members and friends, but we are pleased to report that this condition of affairs has been to a large extent eliminated, and the department is now in a better position to spread this information to those who are interested than ever before.

It must be understood that a large part of the work devolving upon a department, constituted such as ours is, is the giving of the widest publicity of data as to where various products entitled to bear the Union Label can be obtained, and the names of the firms who are in agreement with our affiliated organizations, and use their respective labels. To the work which the Department has carried on in this direction for the past year, we will refer to later in this report.

It is beyond question that the results obtained by our affiliated organizations during the past year have been a source of gratification to our officers and members, and we feel confident that when our members and friends realize the advancements that have been made that it will tend to inspire them with renewed courage and energy in the work which we are called upon to perform in the future.

In this Convention it is hoped that the fullest and freest discussion will take place as to the best methods available to promote the sale of the Union-made articles, and the patronizing of Union shops and stores, for by pursuing this course and the exchanging of the ideas of the various delegates is bound to bring out new thoughts and new methods that will be of advantage to the organizations in interest.

I feel confident that the result accruing from the work that this convention will be called upon to perform will be of such a nature as will tend in the direction of bringing about a greater activity among our members and friends during the coming year than has obtained during the past year, even though such splendid advancements have been made during that period of time.

Affiliated Unions.

The Union Label Bulletin, as issued by the American Federation of Labor, contains fac-similes of labels, store cards and buttons of seventy different national and international unions. Each one of these organizations have been communicated with and an invitation extended to them to affiliate with this department. Copies of the proceedings of the past conventions, constitutions and other printed matter have been submitted to them along with this request.

Replies have been received from ten of the organizations to the effect that where the organization had a label appearing in this Bulletin, that it never was in use, and in other instances, relative to buttons, that they were only worn by the members and did not come within the meaning of Section 2, Article 1, of the constitution. These replies were received from ten different organizations, so that in reality there are but sixty labels, buttons or store cards in use, and some of them to a very small extent. Of these sixty organizations we now have in affiliation with this department thirty-nine National and International Unions, with a membership based upon their last reports of per capita tax as follows:

Local Unions affiliated directly with the American Federation of Labor and using the label of that organization.....	1,200
Bakery and Confectionery Workers.....	12,000

Making in all an approximate membership of 507,375 affiliated with this Department.

During the year the following organizations have affiliated with the Department:

Broom and Whisk Makers' International Union.

Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers and Brass Workers' International Union of North America.

Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers' International Union of America.

As you are undoubtedly aware, the Leather Workers on Horse Goods International Union were engaged in a prolonged struggle with their employers, endeavoring to establish the eight-hour work day. While this organization has not been entirely successful, still they have put into operation the eight-hour day in many cities throughout the country. The length of time in which they were engaged in this difficulty, and the numerous demands made upon them for financial assistance to support their members, practically depleted their treasury, and they were compelled to curtail their expenses in every manner possible, and because of this we have been notified that their organization was compelled to withdraw from affiliation, for time at least. It is hoped this organization will soon recover not only its former standing but an increase in membership and again re-affiliate in the near future.

The question of affiliation with the Department was considered at the last convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. The question of affiliation was endorsed by that convention and submitted to a referendum vote. This vote has not as yet been taken, but from reports received the indications are that that portion of this organization working upon products that are entitled to use their label will soon be in affiliation with us.

The question of affiliation was also considered by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters at their last convention. Vice-President Owen Miller appearing before the convention and addressing them upon that subject-matter. The matter was referred to their incoming executive board for their consideration. It is also hoped that this organization will soon be in affiliation with us.

With these two organizations affiliating, it would leave but one organization with any great numerical strength unaffiliated. The Hotel and Restaurant Employees International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America. A considerable correspondence has gone on between this organization and the department, but with no results as yet. It is intended to continue in this direction with the hope that we also may have this organization in affiliation with us within a short time.

Contract Prison Labor.

This evil is a standing menace to several of our affiliated organizations, and the department has been called upon in several instances to give whatever assistance it could in the direction of eliminating it. The organizations that are affected the greatest through the competition of prison-made goods are the Boot and Shoe Workers, United Garment Workers, Molders' International Union (stove and hollow ware industry), Broom and Whisk Makers, Coopers' International Union, Leather Workers on Horse Goods, United Textile Workers and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (in the making of chairs and furniture).

While many of the states have laws upon their statute books relative to prison labor and prison-made goods, they are usually enforced more in the breach than in the observance. Besides this it has been decided that where the prison-made goods of one state are shipped into another state, that they are subject to the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States, and cannot be legislated against by the state into which they are shipped, thus making it possible for the prison labor contractors to ship their goods into any state in the Union regardless of what the laws of any particular state may be governing contract prison labor.

Besides this complication, the laws in a number of the states are rarely, if ever, enforced. As, for instance, the laws of the State of Maryland provide that prison-made goods shall be so stamped in the Maryland penitentiary. Hundreds of thousands of shirts are produced yearly and placed upon the market with no designating mark to show that they were made by prison labor. In this same penitentiary shoes are made and sold that are stamped prominently with the letters P. M. These letters are so surrounded by others as to make it appear that the name of the brand of shoes thus made is the "Pride of Maryland." We might go on and quote numerous instances where the same condition applies. This notorious violation of the law is quoted for the purpose of demonstrating to the delegates and members of organized labor and friends the manner in which laws are evaded.

To obviate this condition a bill has been introduced in the present Congress, known as H. R. 12000. This bill releases the interstate commerce clause on prison labor products, and if enacted into law would give the various states the right to legislate and prevent the prison-made products of one state entering into another, thereby compelling each state to consume its own product manufactured under the prison labor contract system.

While we in the United States have not been to a large degree successful in our efforts to curtail the products of this nefarious system, the results obtained by our fellow-workers in the Dominion of Canada have been highly successful, and through their efforts in this direction the result has been that the Commissioner of Customs of the Dominion of Canada has on several occasions issued an edict declaring clothing, shoes, harness, brooms and other commodities made under the prison contract labor system and shipped into Canada by various prison labor contractors, confiscated immediately upon their arrival there.

During the past session of Congress the Department has been called upon on various occasions to appear before the committee having this bill under consideration, and in conjunction with the representatives of other labor organizations and interests, and the representatives of the various Prison Labor Reform Associations to argue in favor of the passage of this measure. This bill has been reported favorably to the House, and is now on the calendar, and an effort will be made to have the bill called up and passed during the coming session of Congress.

While it might be contended that a matter of this character might not directly come under the scope of the work of this department, still the fact remains that so many of our organizations being directly affected by the competition of prison-made goods, I deemed it advisable to give this subject-matter as much attention as time would permit.

I therefore urgently recommend to the delegates that this subject matter be brought to the attention of their membership, and an effort be made by them to have this bill enacted into law by their corresponding with their Representatives and Senators, urging immediate and favorable consideration of this measure, which is of so much importance to them.

Local Departments.

The last convention of the Department authorized the organization of and issuing of certificates of affiliation to Local Label Departments, where the same had the endorsement of the Central Labor Union in their various localities. The first of the year this matter was taken up and a circular letter issued to all Central Labor Unions, giving an outline of the purpose of these Local Departments, and the work expected that they could perform. An extended correspondence was held with many of the organizations relative to this subject matter, and the result has been that Local Label Departments have been organized and a certificate of affiliation issued in the following localities:

Philadelphia, Pa.	Fond du Lac, Wis.
Belmont, O.	Portoria, O.
Buffalo, N. Y.	St. Louis, Mo.
Portland, Ore.	Bellows Falls, Vt.
Minneapolis, Minn.	Booneville, Ind.
Boston, Mass.	Chattanooga, Tenn.
Toledo, O.	Los Angeles, Cal.
Eric, Pa.	Tacoma, Wash.
Utica, N. Y.	Onida, N. Y.
San Antonio, Tex.	Syracuse, N. Y.
San Francisco, Cal.	Washington, D. C.
Detroit, Mich.	Austin, Tex.
Hamilton, O.

The organizing of these local departments is still going on and a number of others are in contemplation. Conventions of State Federations of Labor have been visited, and communicated with relative to this subject matter, and there is no doubt but that during the coming fall and winter a number of other local departments will be organized and in affiliation with us.

From the reports received from these various local departments from time to time, it is evident that the agitation as carried on in the various localities, has met with considerable success. In dealing with this subject matter in my report to the last convention, I called attention to the fact that by the organization of these local departments, with

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 15, 1910.

The year just drawing to a close has been an eventful one in the remarkable rise and development of the International union. Trade conditions improved to a considerable extent, the membership increased and one of the greatest battles in its history has so far been successfully conducted.

For six months the Tampa lockout and strike with all its attendant startling episodes, has continued, and under conditions the like of which has never occurred in any other place.

During this affair the International Union has not made one false step, and remains unshaken, undisputed and steadfast in its declared policies, methods and upright way of doing business.

Fair to employers, yes, but never uncertain or hesitating in its devotion to and protection of its members, the International Union has not deviated from its laws nor shirked its duty in this crisis, regardless of comment or criticism.

The records have been preserved and after the trouble is over we will fully write and publish the underlying material facts and happenings in this most remarkable trade dispute.

Some of the trade papers and others continue the tactics of misrepresenting and misstating the Tampa situation. The difficulty started there originally by the Manufacturers' Association locking out the cigarmakers. After about September 20th the union made demands which practically make it a strike. There has been no time since the lockout and strike started that the Local and International Unions have not stood ready to meet the employers for the purpose of negotiating a settlement through mutual concessions, and there has never been any time when the International Union has not been ready and willing to submit the question to arbitration. The foregoing has been made clear to the manufacturers.

The International Union has had one representative all the time and two most of the time at Tampa, with instructions to do everything in their power to bring about an honorable settlement on a fair basis to all concerned, through conciliation, mutual concessions, or arbitration. All efforts on the part of the local unions or the representatives of the International Union to negotiate a fair settlement have been futile, owing to the fact that the manufacturers' committee refused to negotiate with representatives of the local unions or with the International president or with representatives of the International Union, notwithstanding the fact that they had been assured that all that we asked was a fair and honorable basis of agreement and settlement.

A self-constituted citizens' committee, composed mostly of people entirely outside of the cigar industry, many of whom were open shop fanatics and from the first advised against any recognition of the local unions or the International Union, their representative or representatives, are partly responsible for the prolongation of this strike and lockout.

Advices indicate that there has been no material change in the strike and lockout situation in Tampa, Florida. Reports here indicate that less than three hundred people all told are employed in the thirty-seven strike-bound factories owned or controlled by the Manufacturers' Association. Reports indicate that the members still out remain steadfast in their determination to remain out until an honorable and fair settlement of the difficulty is reached.

Mr. J. C. Johnston, who was the representative of the International Union since the difficulty started, was waited upon by a sub-committee of six or seven representatives of the citizens' committee, and according to his own statement was informed by C. C. Whittaker, a former city attorney, who acted as spokesman for the committee, that "We are a committee representing the citizenship of Tampa. We are here to tell you that there is considerable feeling against you in Tampa and we are of the opinion that if you stay here violence will be done you. We are not telling you this for your sake but because we don't want the fair name of Tampa reproached because you are killed or injured while here, and in order to avoid this we want you to get out and get out immediately." He concluded by saying, "It is up to you." Under the circumstances Mr. Johnston considered it wise and discreet to leave, and he did so. He was in no wise responsible for the lockout or strike, but acting under instructions, and in the fulfillment of his duties while there in the nature of a peacemaker he was doing what he could to defend and protect the undisputed rights of our members.

Trade unions are the greatest institutions on earth. Because they foster education, uproot ignorance and combine the workers in an indissoluble whole along lines upon which all can agree.

No working man or woman has ever yet denied that better wages, shorter hours and improved shop conditions are a good thing. And no sane man or woman has ever yet denied that these ends can best be obtained through the trade unions and trade union activity.

Many differ, and violently, on religion, politics, dress, what to eat—when we can get it—and almost everything else, but all agree on the matter of better wages, etc., and we assert without fear of successful contradiction that the trade union is the best means at our command to achieve the fulfillment of our desires in that direction.

Hence the upbuilding, strengthening and improved usefulness of our unions should be the first concern of all.

While the unions have accomplished wonders, especially in our trade, the only reason they have not done more for us and others is because the non-unionists for reasons best known to themselves will remain aloof.

For our own preservation, the good of others, and all eventually, we should lend every effort in an endeavor to build up our union and all unions. As the trade union movement is better understood by our own members and those yet to come and the general public, our unions will grow more rapidly and will meet with greater opposition by the entrenched cheap John manufacturers.

While our union is one of the very best, it is by no means perfect, and it will require the combined wisdom, good judgment, experience and integrity of all and the best of all to carry us over the determined opposition of unscrupulous employers, open shoppers and all around trade union haters.

No one should close his eyes to the fact that we will meet strong opposition and grave danger in the future, but with a continuance of conservative determined action, cool heads and good judgment, we will be able to successfully meet and overcome all obstacles.

This, however, means work, sacrifices, devotion and faith in our movement and in ourselves. Results so far justify all of this and all may look forward to the future with hope and confidence.

We have received numerous letters, threatening and otherwise, from jobbers, dealers and others in reference to the Tampa strike. To the last one of these letters we sent the following reply:

Chicago.

Your letter of the 20th, dated Jacksonville, Fla., owing to my absence from the city, could not be answered until to-day. In your letter you say that the people up in Chicago are keeping these lazy niggers and Italians out on strike, etc., etc. For your information let me say that the International Union, as such, does not inaugurate strikes and cannot end them. The right to strike or to declare a strike off when once started rests entirely in the hands of the local union. This strike was started by the cigar manufacturers of Tampa when they locked the workmen out. The cigarmakers of Tampa, Fla., consist of negroes, Italians, Cubans, Spaniards and Americans. I am of the opinion that the largest class are Cubans and Spaniards, and that only a small portion are negroes and Italians, with only a fair sprinkling of Americans. However, regardless of the nationality of these people, if they are good enough to make cigars for the manufacturers, which the dealers such as you buy, then they are good enough for us to organize. Aside from this, they are human beings, who have made their homes in America. The strike is continued in Tampa by the open shop fanatics who exacted a promise from the manufacturers that they would not recognize the union or negotiate a settlement with any representative of the union. The International Union has stood ready, ever since the strike started, to assist in negotiating a fair settlement. The manufacturers have refused positively to meet, talk with, or in any way negotiate a settlement or the basis of a settlement, with the representative of the International Union, and despite this you say that the International Union in Chicago is keeping this strike alive. I feel in making your assertions in your letter that you have simply listened to one side of the case.

Yours very truly,

G. W. Perkins,
International President.

Governor Gilchrist has made an investigation of the complaints lodged with him concerning the outrages alleged to have been committed in the sacred name of law and order in the city of Tampa and has published his findings in the papers. We will publish the statement he makes with the charges in a future issue.

A story was sent out of St. Louis during the A. F. of L. convention, claiming that Samuel Gompers, President of the A. F. of L., had stated that colored men ought not to be admitted to membership in the trade unions, or words to that effect. This canard was printed all over the entire country. Mr. Gompers promptly nailed the story as a falsehood, which denial was pretty generally published. However, the Tampa papers published the first story, the falsehood, but did not publish the correction or denial. The manufacturers in Tampa, Key West and Cuba even went a step further than the original falsifier, and circulated a story that the Cigar Makers' International Union was opposed to admitting colored people to membership. The story was industriously circulated in Key West and Cuba, where considerable funds were being raised for the Tampa locked out cigarmakers. We immediately sent the following cable message and letter to Mr. Menendez, and to our Secretary in Havana, Cuba:

"Nov. 30, 1910.—F. Menendez, 89 Salud street, Havana, Cuba: No truth to statement concerning colored people. They are welcome and always have been admitted to membership in the Cigarmakers' Union. We have thousands of colored people in our union."

"Dec. 3, 1910.—Mr. F. Menendez, 89 Salud street, Havana, Cuba: I immediately cabled you on receipt of your cable message in reference to the rumors afloat concerning colored persons being denied admittance into the International Union, and want to say, in addition to what I said in my cablegram, that this rumor was set afloat by some newspaper from some remarks made by Mr. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers did not make the remarks attributed to him by this paper. As a matter of fact, in his speech at St. Louis he did not say a single word against colored people joining the unions. He immediately sent out a denial and many of the papers corrected the erroneous statement. As far as the International Union is concerned, the color line has not been drawn since 1873. We have, since that time, always accepted people as members in the International Union who are colored. As a matter of fact, at one time William Jones, a colored man, was Treasurer for a number of years in the International Union. In fact he died while holding the position. We have thousands of colored persons in the union in all parts of the United States, especially in New Orleans, Mobile, Tampa, Key West, Jacksonville, Chicago, New York, and many other places."

If the human family is growing wiser and better mentally, and no one denies that it isn't, then future generations will know better what it wants and be better equipped to get it than we of the present generation. Under these circumstances it is the height of presumption for us to assert what form the future state shall take.

We can and should, however, always strive with might and main to improve, to better the present economic, social and political condition and status.

In justice to all concerned and so that all may know, let me state now that I have received several letters boosting certain candidates, including myself, with a request that they be published in the official Journal. I feel that if one was to be published that all should be published and as all have had an opportunity to express themselves in the constitutional space allotted in the Journal the fairest way is to let it go at that.

G. W. Perkins, Int. President.

Pure, spiritual thoughts cannot long dwell in a body stunted and made sick by preventable occupational diseases. We suggest to the up-lifters, ministers and reformers that a little more attention to an effort to obtain better sanitary work shops will go a long way toward making better men and women, physically, mentally and morally.

We need and must have laws which will safeguard and conserve human life and strength. We hear a lot about conservation of our natural resources, laws to protect cattle, pigs, etc., but very little about the conservation of human life that is annually sacrificed in unsanitary work shops.

The Tampa situation where the citizens' committee dominates is not unlike the old days in the Knights of Labor when the tinker, the tailor and candlestick maker were wont to make a fine "mess" trying to settle trade disputes which they knew nothing about.

Posterity will owe much of its greatness to the pioneer work of trade unions. Generations yet unborn will realize, understand and appreciate the great worth of the trade union movement better even than it is understood and appreciated today.

If experience shall be our guiding star, with action grounded upon justice, fairness and the square deal for all, with malice towards none, the pathway of trade unionism will lead more quickly to complete success for the toiling masses.

The probabilities are that if the open shoppers not connected with the trade in Tampa had kept their hands off the strike and lock-out would have been brought to an honorable settlement long ago.

Everybody agrees that the unions are a good thing; some say if, others but, some say under certain circumstances, but all sensible working men and women know they are a good thing for the workers.

A duty well done, regardless of what it may be, finds its reward in a clear conscience and a contented frame of mind that cannot be otherwise obtained by all the wealth in the country.

In making New Year's resolutions all unionists should include a resolve: To stick to the union, the due book, the bill of prices and to buy nothing but union made goods bearing the label.

The determined attitude and "stick" qualities displayed by the Tampa strikers must be a revelation to the manufacturers and the self-constituted so-called citizens' committee.

Every substantial social, political and economic advantage we enjoy today had its inception, growth in and is today fostered and safeguarded by the trade unions.

There is no angle to the well being of the workers that the trade unions cannot be of some service in achieving.

Trade unions stand between the money mad rich and the wealth producing, hard working masses.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all.

NOTICE.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions.

The amendment of Union 129, Denver, levying a 25-cent assessment on all 30-cent and 15-cent contributing members, in favor of the Tampa strike and lockout, has been adopted by referendum vote. This assessment takes effect on and after December 3d, and is payable within the prescribed limits.

NOTICE.

Dec. 19 the following monthly report blanks were mailed to all local unions:

- 12 fin. report blks.
- 12 label report blks.
- 6 O. O. W. and Loan report blks.
- 6 State of trade report blks.
- 15 supply order blks.
- 1 officer's report blk.

These will be addressed to the newly elected officers as far as possible. All old officers receiving same will immediately turn them over to the proper ones to receive them.

PRIVATE LOANS

Sec. 196. Local unions shall have the right to suspend members for non-payment of local indebtedness, and hold traveling cards until such indebtedness has been paid. See Sec. 106 also.

The following unions request the collection of private loans from the respective persons, and return same to union making the request.

Secretary holding the card of B. Souginnet No. 21757 please collect a private loan of $1.00 and send to secretary of 145, Williamsport, Pa.

Union 6, Syracuse, N. Y., wants to hear from the members owing this local private loans. We have nearly 200 names of members on our records that owe from $0.50 to $25.00, and unless these pay up we will not be able to help the poor fellows who are out in the cold and need a little help very much. Remember it is winter time, and a good many of the poor fellows need it for a bed these cold nights.

Members owing private loans to Union 28, Westfield, Mass., prior to July 1st, 1910, please remit same immediately as we need the money on hand for the travelers coming through. The Constitution will be enforced for failure to comply with this notice.

Notice to members owing private loans to Union 278, London, "Better pay up or you see your names in print."

The secretary of Union 332, San Diego, Calif. desires to hear from W. G. Hightower No. 10433 and John Hein, reference private loans.

Secretaries holding the cards of the following members please collect the amount opposite their names and forward to Union 275, Aberdeen, S. D.: Pat Gavin No. 24218, $20; Mike Murphy No. 26692, $8; H. Gold, No. 1306, $4. This union needs funds for the boys coming through here, so a collection of the above would be appreciated.

The following members owe private loans to Union No. 285, Fort Worth, Texas. All of them are of long standing and if these members don't pay up at once we will be obliged to take action against them: Frank Loftus 51750, $1.00; Geo. McCann 30808, $1.00; Jas. W. Oliver 82990, $9.00; Jno. E. Sampson 115684, $1.00; Jno. Dudding 29506, $1.00; Jno. Briant 114998, $1.00; C. F. Miller 102164, $1.00; Geo. Harrison 98431, $1.00.

REPORT OF DELEGATES.

delegates representing local unions, that greater results would accrue than formerly had under the system of a label committee comprised of a few members. Numerous reports received from these local departments show conclusively that this fact has been demonstrated in almost every locality. However, reports were received in several instances to the effect that local unions whose international unions affiliated with the department, have failed for some unknown reason to affiliate with the local department.

To carry on the work successfully in any locality it is absolutely necessary that our local unions affiliate with these departments, and assist in the work being performed by them, and to this end it is requested that the executive officers of our affiliated international unions will urge upon their local unions, not only the advisability, but the necessity of affiliating with local departments already organized, and assisting in organizing new departments so that the work to be performed during the coming year will bring greater and better results than have obtained during the past year.

Women's International Union Label Leagues and Trades Union Auxiliaries.

In the report to the last convention the importance of this organization was called to your attention, and the advantages to be gained by the organizing of Women's Union Label Leagues.

A circular letter was issued to all Central Labor Unions, urging that they give their assistance in the organizing of these bodies, and numerous replies were received from the same. The information asked for in the replies was immediately communicated to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Women's International Union Label League and Trades Union Auxiliary.

Reports have been received to the effect that in several instances locals of this organization have been formed and affiliated with their international body. While there has been some progress made in this direction, the results have not been as gratifying as they should be.

I again desire to call to your attention the immense results that can obtain in the promotion of the sale of Union-Labeled products and the patronizing of union stores through the organization of these women's label leagues. The influence for good that these organizations can accomplish can hardly be estimated, but as in everything else, it requires education and persistent action. It cannot be denied that while our members are often enthusiastic in the purchasing of Union-Labeled commodities themselves, still they show a greater amount of indifference as to whether purchases made by the members of their family are the products of Union Labor. We should endeavor to avail ourselves of the support that can be obtained through Women's Label Leagues, and endeavor to have the members of our immediate families become members of the same wherever organized, and assist in organizing new leagues wherever possible.

Farmers' Organizations.

The farmers' organizations can also be of great assistance to our organizations in the promotion of the sale of Union-made products among our members. During the year the National Union of Farmers held their convention in the city of St. Louis, Mo., and a number of representatives of the affiliated organizations were present, including myself, and several organizations had exhibits of Union-Labeled commodities.

This convention was a special one, and the representation therein was not as large as is ordinarily. The organization on this and other occasions has pledged itself to support and patronize the labels of various organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and while there is no specific information at hand, general information received is to the effect that in numerous instances the farmers' organizations are giving valuable assistance. Various organizations of farmers have official papers, as well as papers published by their state organizations. These papers are read quite extensively by the farmers throughout the country, and I am in receipt of a communication from Mr. M. Wesley Tubbs, Secretary of the American Society of Equity, in which he calls attention to this fact, and asked that our National and International Unions when advertising their label, endeavor to place such advertisements in various farmers' official papers, where it is intended they will reach large numbers of people who up to this time have been almost inaccessible, and that beneficial results will be accomplished. This matter is brought to your attention with the hope that such organizations as may be financially able will render such assistance in this direction as may lay in their power.

Method of Label Agitation.

The last convention of the Department directed that the Secretary-Treasurer should obtain from the labor organizations conducting the most active label propaganda, a summary of the methods that are in use with the object in view of bringing about some method that would lead to a uniform system of label advertising. Considerable investigation has been made both by studying the constitutions of the various organizations as to the provisions contained therein, and by following as closely as possible the official journals that are received at the office. So far as can be learned, there are no two organizations whose systems of carrying on label campaigns are identical. Constitutions of some organizations provide that whatever sums of money are expended in this work shall be under the direction and through the executive officers of the organization, and other organizations spend a goodly sum through their executive officers, but rely to a large extent upon the activity of their local unions in the way of levying assessments or realizing money in other directions. Other organizations provide in their constitutions that a stated sum per member shall be at the disposal of the various local unions for the carrying on of a label propaganda.

To carry on a "uniform system of label advertising" would mean that all such work would be under the direction of some one particular department or bureau. To accomplish this purpose it would be necessary in many instances to completely change the constitution of numerous organizations, and with the membership of the organizations jealously guarding what they consider their rights, and their finances as well, would not be liable to take kindly to such a proposition. A uniform system of label advertising can only come when a uniform label has been brought into existence, and this last question has been decided upon time and again by the organizations in interest, adversely.

The experience of those who have given thought and consideration to label agitation has invariably been that this work must necessarily be of a complex character. A system of agitation and advertising that would be applicable to one organization might be of absolutely no assistance or value to a half dozen other organizations. There is, however, one phase of label agitation and advertisement that I am firmly convinced is capable of bringing results, and that is the operation of moving picture machines under certain conditions. This subject was dwelt upon quite extensively in my report to the last convention, and the committee to whom this subject was referred for consideration indorsed the proposition.

The committee suggested that when the funds of the department would permit that the experiment be made. Because of the lack of funds it was impossible to take any steps in this direction, and that same condition still confronts us.

To operate and maintain one of these moving picture shows in a manner which will make it prove interesting to the audience and based upon figures received from the officers of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, who have maintained such a show for the past several years, the cost would average in the neighborhood of about $1,200.00 per month. With the present membership of the organizations affiliated with the department, which, as stated, is approximately $68,000, the entire income of the department would not be able to pay the expense of maintaining one of these moving picture shows. Of course, it will be realized that even for a period of three months it was inadvisable to take any steps in this direction during the past year. To obtain satisfactory results, competent persons must be engaged, and this it would be found very difficult to do when there was no assurance that not more than two months' employment could be given at the very utmost.

Notwithstanding the obstacles that seem to confront us in this direction, I am still of the opinion that this method of advertising and agitation is a valuable one, and that splendid results can be obtained, particularly in the smaller cities and towns where label agitation and publicity is so badly needed.

In discussing this subject with others, both verbally and by correspondence, it has been suggested that possibly ways and means might be devised whereby some of our affiliated organizations by voluntary agreement or understanding could enter into an arrangement whereby one of these picture shows could be put into operation, the expense to be borne proportionately by the organizations in interest and this department. If such an understanding can be arrived at, and by working the territory to be covered in conjunction with the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union, there is no doubt but that a considerable saving could be made in the way of railroad fares, particularly where large distances may have to be covered. I realize the difficulties in working out the plan along these lines that might be mutually satisfactory to all concerned, but offer this suggestion to the delegates to the convention for their serious consideration and action.

Another method of advertising and agitation that is being taken advantage of in a number of places, and particularly where local departments are organized, is the holding of label fairs. During the past year a number of these label fairs have been held in various sections of the country, and the department has been asked for, and given, every assistance that it was possible to give. Names of manufacturers in given industries who are using the Union Label upon their product was forwarded to the committee in charge, and they in turn requested manufacturers to install an exhibit. In some instances success was met with by having exhibits installed, and in others consignment of goods was asked for and sold either on a commission basis or else were purchased outright. These goods were placed on exhibition in fairs and sold to the visitors. In several instances the class of goods that were handled were those that our members and friends were unable to purchase from the merchants in their locality. It has been reported to this office that the result has been that dealers on numerous occasions have placed certain lines of goods bearing the Union Label upon sale that they had never dealt in before these label fairs were inaugurated.

This kind of agitation and advertisement should be encouraged wherever it is possible to do so. Business men are not prone to purchase Union-made commodities if they can induce the purchaser to take something without the label, which they claim to be "just as good." However, it is almost a daily occurrence when business men see that their trade is leaving them because they cannot furnish their customers with articles they desire, they see to it that these articles are placed upon their shelves, and so it would be with Union-Labeled products, if our members would insist upon taking nothing else but Union-made goods, the merchant finding trade liable to go somewhere else, he would be only too pleased to supply his trade with what they ask for and insist upon having.

Distribution of Literature and Publicity.

One of the most important parts of the work accomplished by the Department is that of first obtaining data as to where Union-Labeled products of all varieties can be obtained, and then giving this information the widest possible publicity.

To bring about this result, a list has been prepared and is now in use, containing the names and addresses of the secretaries of every Local Union connected with an International Union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, as well as all other unions affiliated with the Federation, and the secretaries of the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union, the Western Federation of Miners, the Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the Railroad Conductors, Women's International Trades Union League, and the Local Departments of the Building Trades Department, and the Metal Trades Department, in all a list containing approximately 27,000 local unions.

Since the first of January, 1910, five circular letters have been issued by the Department to these organizations, calling their attention to various phases of our movement, and the benefits to be derived from carrying on an aggressive campaign for Union labeled products and the patronizing of Union establishments.

Besides this, four circular letters have been issued and sent to Central Labor Unions dealing with various subjects that were of interest and value to the work being performed. A large number of other communications were issued applying to various subjects.

A circular was issued and distributed in large numbers, containing names of manufacturers in various industries who are using the Union label upon their product, and numerous requests have been received from merchants in various localities asking for copies of the same, which were furnished. The first issue of this circular was 10,000. Later additional data having been received, the matter was published in the form of a directory, copies of which are here, and these have been circulated to a very large number. It is the intention to revise this directory as often as possible, so that the information contained therein will be reliable and such additions as may arise from time to time be made a part thereof.

Besides the printed matter that has been issued from this office, we are indebted to the United Garment Workers, the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union, Glove Workers, Ladies' Garment Workers, International Typographical Union, Cigar-makers' Union, and others, for large quantities of advertising matter, which has also been distributed to local unions and others who have asked for information. Besides this, a large amount of organizing and other printed matter has been received from the office of the American Federation of Labor and enclosed in the various communications without any added cost. Together with the regular correspondence of the office, there has been issued during the nine months of this year, in the aggregate, about 175,000 pieces of mail.

When it is realized how little information applies in many instances as to the work of the label agitation, and where Union-made products can be obtained, from reports received, it is evident that this work of publicity as carried on during the past year has been of far-reaching effect, and results have been accomplished in many localities where in the past little or no interest was taken only at infrequent intervals. Printers' ink can accomplish wonders if applied in the right direction, and it is the intention, providing that it meets with the approval of the delegates to this Convention, to continue this kind of publicity work, endeavoring, if possible, to publish and distribute to all local unions throughout the United States and Canada a monthly letter.

The last Convention instructed that a circular letter be issued to all Central Labor Unions, calling attention to the label of the Piano, Organ and Musical Instrument Workers. This was the only specific resolution of that character and the instructions were carried out. Resolution No. 7, as adopted by the last Convention, and introduced by a delegate from the Stove Mounters' and Steel Range Workers' Union, was in the direction of endeavoring to establish a universal label in the stove-making trades, and instructions were given to use the best efforts to bring about an agreement between the organizations in interest. These organizations were communicated with twice, and an effort made to have their representatives meet to consider this matter.

It has been reported that while the representatives of the various organizations were together in St. Louis, preparatory to making a settlement with the Buck Stove and Range Company, that that matter was of such vast importance it occupied the whole time and they were unable to give this subject matter of Resolution No. 7 their consideration but it is hoped that they may be able to confer on this matter during this Convention.

Output of Union Labeled Products.

So far as my information goes, there has never been collected and distributed any data showing whether there has been an increase or decrease in the sale of the products of union labor during any given period of time. While the officers of each organization are in possession of information as applies to their own trade, this information is not generally known to other organizations, so that the result has been in the past that we have not had any definite information as to what extent the patronage of the Union-Labeled products has been in the aggregate. The same also applies to such places as display Union store or shop cards.

With the end in view of endeavoring to ascertain just what had been accomplished, a circular letter was issued to the officers of our affiliated organizations, and a blank form enclosed, asking them to supply the information as to how many labels or store cards had been issued for the year ending July, 1909, and for the corresponding year 1910, stating whether or not there was an increase or decrease during the latter year.

Replies were received from a number of the unions giving the information asked for, but in several instances it was requested that the information be not made public, and reasons stated therefor. Personally, having had some information as to progress being made, and anticipating in several instances favorable replies, I must confess that the result of the inquiry was not only gratifying as to the results accomplished, but was a matter of surprise as well.

Below is a list of organizations submitting replies showing the number of labels issued for the year 1909, and for the year 1910, and the increase:

	1909.	1910.	Increase.
Bakers and Confectionery Workers.....	431,661,500	494,873,000	63,241,500
United Garment Workers.....	39,897,326	45,868,674	5,971,348
Brewery Workmen.....	38,060,000	41,920,000	3,860,000
Cigarmakers' International Union.....	26,361,500	27,420,000	1,058,500
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.....	3,164,312	3,721,572	557,260
International Association of Machinists.....	458,000	651,500	193,500
Journeyman Tailors' Union.....	447,531	447,578	47
International Glove Workers.....	285,000
Metal Polishers, Buffers, etc.....	20,000	25,000	5,000

In the year 1909 the United Textile Workers' label was stamped upon hosiery, and in 1910 80,000 labels were issued that were attached to men's underwear and coat sweaters.

The Laundry Workers' Union shows a decrease in the year 1910 over the year 1909, but this decrease was caused by the fact that the members of the Laundry Workers' Union who were engaged in the making of collars and shirts were transferred to the United Garment Workers' Union of America.

Of the question of the increased product of articles bearing the Union stamp, it is extremely difficult to get any definite data as to the results accomplished. As, for instance, the Secretary of the International Typographical Union reports, "the number of labels made and shipped by this office during the past year is much larger than in preceding years." Some idea may be had as to the increased product bearing the Allied Printing Trades label by the increase in membership in the respective organizations in the printing trades, which increase in some instances has been of magnificent proportions.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' Union reports that during the year 1909 four factories were organized and granted the use of the Union stamp, the number of employees in the four factories being 900. During the year 1910 sixteen factories were organized and granted the use of the Union stamp, the number of employees of these sixteen factories being 3,566.

The only organization issuing a store or shop card that made a report was the Journeyman Barbers' International Union of America, who reported the number of shop cards issued for the year 1910 above the year 1909 was 507; thereby meaning that 507 shops were organized or re-organized during the year. Several other organizations made reports which will be brought to your attention.

In presenting to you for your information the above data, I feel confident that this information will be very valuable and worthy of the widest possible publicity, and the organizations in interest ought to be congratulated upon the results accomplished. There are those who are antagonistic to the whole general labor movement who are constantly proclaiming that the Union label is a failure, does not really represent anything, and that the purchasing of Union-Labeled products is on the decrease. These figures are an answer to such statements, and clearly and positively repudiate them.

I am seriously of the opinion that when the results of the past year become public property, and the information is in the hands of our members and friends, that it will inspire them to take on more courage and a greater energy during the coming year so that when the history of the sale of Union-Labeled products is reported next year, that it will show greater advances made in this direction.

Let me say that in submitting these figures to you for your consideration that it is not intended to convey that the Union Label Trades Department is responsible for the splendid gains that have been made during the past year. The labor movement of our time is like a wheel made up of numerous cogs, each one doing its individual part of the work accomplished. We do contend, however, that this Department is an important cog in the wheel of labor, and that through the publicity given to this branch of the labor movement during the year just passed, that the part this Department has taken in the work justifies its existence, and the bringing about of the affiliation of the organizations who are entitled to, and should be associated with us. I feel that with the splendid gains made as above stated, together with the ever steady increasing membership of our affiliated organizations, that we are to be congratulated upon the work accomplished during the past year, and I want to express the hope that during the year that is in front of us, steps will be taken in the directions as above mentioned, and that an improvement will be shown when the year rolls around.

Labor Press.

It is not necessary for me to state the many trials and tribulations that the Labor Press of our country are compelled to go through. The unselfishness of those who are connected with the Labor Press stands out boldly in every direction. Their lack of support is evident to all. In the work performed during the past year our heartfelt thanks should be tendered to the Labor Press for the assistance that they have given the Department. Communications, circular letters and other matters sent out from this office have been published practically verbatim and without one cent of cost to the Department. Of course, the finances of the Department will not permit of any advertising of our movement in the labor press generally, but for the cause that they work, many times at a sacrifice to themselves, they are worthy of the consideration and patronage of our organizations and their members, not only in their advertising columns, but in subscriptions as well.

Every union man to do his full duty should subscribe to the labor paper in the locality in which he resides. The cost is small, and would not be greatly missed by anyone. I recommend the labor press to you for your favorable consideration.

Money Returned.

The last Convention authorized the repayment of the money advanced by the various affiliated organizations when the Department was organized, in such sums as would not seriously interfere with the work of the Department. At the close of that Convention we were indebted to our various affiliated organizations in the sum of $555.00. I am pleased to report that this entire indebtedness has been liquidated, the money having been returned to the greater portion of the organizations direct, and in several instances credit was given to other organizations for per capita tax.

The income of the Department for the year ending September 30, 1909, is as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1909.....	$ 1,091.44
Income for year.....	10,093.98

Total income.....	$11,185.42
Expenses for the year.....	7,750.48

Leaving a balance on hand Sept. 30, 1910.....	$ 3,434.94
---	-------------

It will be noted in this report that the approximate membership in the affiliated organizations is 507,375, as against a membership of 420,000 in the report of the previous year, making a gain in membership in the various affiliated organizations of about 87,000.

A number of resolutions were introduced, among them being one requesting the endorsement of a new label adopted by the Coopers' International Union; another by the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, calling attention to the fact that the books, newspaper and writing paper can now be obtained bearing the union label (water mark) of that organization. Another resolution was introduced relative to the label of the Tobacco Workers, all of which were adopted.

Numerous plans were adopted in carrying on the work of the Department, and it was recommended that we continue sending out circular letters to all labor organizations, labor press, Women's Union Label Leagues, and other sources where good may be accomplished so far as the funds of the organization will permit.

It was decided that the Department continue its aid and endeavor to have a federal law passed relative to the Contract Prison Labor, and also recommended that such further assistance be given by the Department as may be possible in the furthering and promoting of Union Label Fairs.

The Convention referred to the Executive Board the matter of establishing and maintaining a Union Label Moving Picture Show. The Executive Board has decided that this phase of label agitation be given an experiment for three months between January and May, 1911, and arrangements are being made in this direction.

In submitting this for your consideration, we call attention to the number of Local Departments that have been organized during the year, and desire to impress upon our members the necessity of further organization of Local Departments in every locality. Experiences demonstrates that by this method of label agitation carried on in the various localities by Local Departments that greater results will accrue in the future than have in the past.

We also desire to call to your attention the table of figures and the accompanying statement showing the increase in the output of labels of the various organizations for the year 1910 as above the year 1909. That there is a great field for label agitation is evident to all, and this work must be accomplished largely by the activity of our members and friends in their various localities; hence we urge that greater interest be taken during the coming year in this direction.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mr. John B. Lennon, President, Journeymen Tailors' International Union; Mr. John F. Tobin, First Vice-President, Boot & Shoe Workers' Union; Mr. Owen Miller, Second Vice-President, American Federation of Musicians; Mr. J. W. Hays, Third Vice-President, International Typographical Union; Mr. Jacob Fischer, Fourth Vice-President, Journeymen Barbers' Union; Mr. T. A. Rickert, Fifth Vice-President, United Garment Workers; Mr. Thomas F. Tracy, Secretary-Treasurer, Cigarmakers' International Union.

In closing we submit that, notwithstanding critics, who for peculiar reasons see fit to criticize the department, that the work that the department has accomplished during the eighteen months of its establishment, justifies its existence and continuation and we express the hope that during the coming year greater and more beneficial results will be obtained than has been in the past.

Thanking you for the honor conferred upon us as being your representatives at the conventions of this department, we remain,

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

The following are the only alterations or amendments to the constitution adopted since the Detroit (1896) convention, and not published in the 21st edition of the constitution:

By Union 77, Minneapolis, Minn.: Amend Section 219 of the Constitution by adding: "And if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

Section to read as follows: "Each local union shall have the right to propose, through the columns of the Official Journal, amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal, containing such amendments and report to the International President. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined 5. But no union shall be fined for not taking action on a proposed amendment, unless the same has been submitted by the International President by circular. Any amendment receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a vote of local unions within thirty days, and if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

By Union 316, McSherrytown, Pa.: Amend Sec. 67 by adding after the word "adoption," on the last line, the following: "And except in the 1st and 9th districts of Pennsylvania, where the initiation fee for applicants for membership shall be 60 cents for a period of three months, beginning the first day of the month following the adoption of this amendment."

"That should the results in increased membership from the operation of this amendment justify an extension of time, the International Executive Board is hereby empowered to extend the time for an additional three months, or such additional periods as they may deem necessary."

Sec. 67, as amended, to read accordingly:

By Union 460, San Juan, P. R.: Amend Sec. 210, by adding the following: District of Porto Rico.

A. The District of Porto Rico shall embrace the entire Island and all Local Unions of the Island, who shall elect a "Joint Advisory Board."

B. The "Joint Advisory Board" shall adopt rules of procedure, calculated for the best welfare of the unions in Porto Rico, but not conflicting with the International Constitution.

C. The basis of representation shall be decided by the Unions in Porto Rico, but shall not be less than one delegate for each Local Union.

Sec. 210, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Local 71, of Elgin, Ill.: Amend Section 106 by inserting between the word "loans," on line 11, and the word "loan," on line 14, the following in place of the present words:

"Members in the payment of private loans must pay cost if money has to be remitted to another union. They shall be entitled, at their own expense, to a postal receipt to be mailed to the union having been granted the private loan."

Section to read accordingly.

By Local 9, of Troy, N. Y.: Amend Sec. 166. Section to read as follows. "Local unions shall, wherever practical, organize State, or Province, or District Label Leagues for state or district label agitation. Each local union in a state or district where a league exists, or thereafter to be formed, must be a part thereof." Same to take effect at once if adopted.

By Local 129, of Denver, Colo.: That an assessment of 25c be levied on all 15c and 30c members for the benefit of the locked out members of Local Unions in Tampa, Fla. Said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE.

Sec. 16. Within three days after the nominations have been closed the International President shall issue a circular letter to all the eligible candidates, notifying them of their nominations and the office to which they have been nominated. In the circular he shall also require the candidate to send a letter within twenty days accepting the nomination, and in said letter give his views of the methods and aims of the International Union. These letters shall not contain more than 500 words each, and shall be published in the December and January issue of the Official Journal, immediately succeeding the nominations. Should any candidate not send in the letter as prescribed therein, and within the specified time, his name shall be stricken from the list of eligibles for the election.

Agreeable to the foregoing constitutional proviso the following sent letters of acceptance, and are eligible candidates:

FOR INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 25, 1910.

Fellow Workmen:

In accepting the nomination for President by 368 unions, it is with deep appreciation for the honor conferred and confidence implied, especially so since given without personal solicitation through letter or circular.

All agree our aim is complete organization of our trade. The real question is what methods shall we employ.

Thirty-one years' continuous membership spent making cigars or as your executive (during which time I haven't worked at anything else), careful study of our union and the entire labor movement, observation and experience warrant the belief and assertion that our methods should be:

A convention. One seems necessary. I believe in the initiative and referendum, but occasionally some things can better be discussed in convention than publicly in our Journal.

All members should be active politically but free to vote as they please. The International union shouldn't be an appendage to any partisan political party. Political parties rise and fall; trade unions live on intact, and always will, if kept free from entangling alliances. Better social conditions follow improved economic conditions obtained through trade union activity.

A continuation of our magnificent benefits with old age pensions and fair plans to assist helpless members disabled through tuberculosis or kindred diseases.

An effort to accomplish more uniform scales of prices by convention or committee to investigate subject to referendum.

A plan to organize certain districts, formulated by convention or committee, subject to referendum, not interfering with declared policies of the International Union, nor injuring its present members. Complete success follows complete organization.

I am an evolutionary trade unionist without reservation or apologies, and have faith in the International Union's ability to accomplish our aims if sound methods of the past are continued.

Believing in doing practical, accomplishable things first, I fully endorse the past successful, conservative, fruitful methods.

Trade unions can and will broaden to meet the views of the majority.

Methods which abolished the truck system, raised wages 10 to 100%, shortened hours, increased life, decreased sickness, increased the membership to 51,000, need no apologies, and have my unqualified approval."

Whoever attacks these methods doesn't understand trade union philosophy.

The International Union while ranking foremost is not perfect. It can and should improve.

We shouldn't destroy what we have or injure any member by irrational efforts to reach the millenium through experimental unsound "methods."

Sympathetic strikes under unprepared conditions breed confusion, criminal squandering of funds and invite destruction.

I hope to see all unions in a position, acting under uniform, iron-clad agreements, able to put this principle into force, if then necessary.

Limited space will not permit other suggestions which occur to me.

I believe in self government, the will of the majority, enforcement of self-made laws, on a broad, humane, impartial basis, and that to succeed we must embrace only the known ideas, wants, hopes and aspirations of the majority, always teaching the doctrine of improved conditions, and striving fearlessly, impartially, impersonally, to promote the welfare of all present and future members.

Fraternally submitted,

G. W. Perkins.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28th, 1910.

Fellow Workers:

In accepting the nomination for President I do so, I trust, with a full sense of the honor conferred and the responsibilities involved.

With due modesty I present my record of twenty-three years continuous membership in the Union and activity in the general labor movement as evidence of my loyalty to the principles of unionism and the interests of the class to which I belong.

I recognize the fight that we as a union are forced to carry on, year in and year out, to preserve our very existence, as but a part of the great war between laborers and capitalists throughout the world—a war that must go on until capitalism and wage-slavery shall be overthrown.

The history of our union shows that we have been constantly compelled to face not only new conditions as cigar makers because of changes in the industry, but also entirely new situations, in common with all other workers, as a result of new phases in the class war. Our right to organize, strike, boycott and improve conditions generally we must fight for, win and defend not only for ourselves, but for the whole brotherhood of labor. The judicial power that was used to attack the label of the hatters and which looted the treasury of their union and held the members individually liable for damages, may be directed against us at any time; an injunction issued against the printers yesterday may be cited against us tomorrow, and the police will club striking carmen and our pickets with equal ferocity. This situation we must face fearlessly and intelligently. As all workers look alike to the capitalist, so all capitalists and supporters of capitalism must look alike to us. Whether they come with the olive branch of the Civic Federation pleading for industrial peace, or as candidates for office asking for our votes, they are enemies, and betrayal after betrayal of our cause, and defeat following defeat of each and every one of our purposes, will be the sad results of our failure to see through their disguise or detect their false pretenses.

But we cannot fail. The army of labor is not a figure of speech; it is a magnificent fact. Its organization becomes more perfect, its discipline improves and its power augments every day. Every contest increases our knowledge and makes us more enthusiastic in purpose and confident of victory.

In the cordon of great unions that go to make up this army the Cigar Makers' International Union has always held an advanced position. My most fervent desire is to see it foremost on the firing line in the great conflict now on, in which we fight for humanity itself and every hope of civilization. In the event of my election I shall endeavor, with the aid of my fellow-members, to achieve this desire and show to the whole world of labor that we are worthy of that proud position—a union which in its every act recognizes the solidarity of labor and exemplifies the truth that an injury to one is indeed the concern of all.

Fraternally yours,

H. C. Parker.

FOR FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT.

At the St. Louis A. F. of L. Convention.

November 16, 1910.

Fellow Members: You have nominated me for First Vice-President of our International Union, and I accept the honor with deepest gratitude. After having served our International Union for a long period of years, it is difficult to add to what I have often declared, both in regard to our own International Union, as well as the trade union movement in general.

Our organization has done so much, not only for our own members, but for our fellow craftsmen generally, that it can scarcely be appreciated except by those who knew the conditions which obtained before it became the effective instrument of improvement, twenty-five and more years ago. Long hours and low wages, with unsanitary shops and the truck and tenement house system, and all that these imply. Nearly twenty-five years ago the International Union established the eight-hour workday, and it has been in successful operation ever since. That shorter workday with higher wages, more healthful workshop, and the better homes and surroundings, have given renewed mental and physical health and instilled character, manhood and womanhood. The establishment of our system of benefits has afforded the Cigar Makers the opportunities for the exercise of their activities on every field of human endeavor for the common good.

I recall the fact that in the convention of 1877, at Rochester, when but seven delegates were present, I proposed the nomination and election of officers by the initiative and referendum, and was chairman of the committee at the Indianapolis Convention in 1893, which prepared and submitted to that convention the system now in vogue of the initiative and referendum.

There is no more progressive nor democratically administered organization in the whole world than the International Union, for in it the members really govern.

Of course, there is room for improvement. Indeed, improvement in our grand old International Union is being made and will be made as time may show it to be necessary. I am desirous and anxious to be helpful in bringing about whatever change and improvement time shall show to make for the good and to aid to the very fullest of whatever ability I may possess in carrying out the mission of our International Union. Ours is an organization of labor, a trade union, and devoting our attention to the work in hand, we shall constantly protect and promote the rights and interests of our fellow members until they shall come into the enjoyment of the fullest fruition of their great services to society.

Nineteen years I have been First Vice-President, and I have endeavored to faithfully and promptly perform the duties of that office. If the members shall honor me by a re-election, I assure them that no effort on my part will be left untried to perform the duties of the office in the future, and to render such effective service as may lay in my power to bring the International Union to its highest possible state of perfection, so that it may be of still greater advantage to you, my fellow craftsmen, my fellow workers, and for the common good.

Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers.

Flint, Mich., November 17, 1910.

To the Officers and Members of Cigar Makers' International Union:
Fellow Workers:

Having accepted the nomination for the office of First Vice-President I present to you the policies I will labor for in case of my election. I believe we should have at least two assessments a year of 25c each for the purpose of adding several more organizers and agitators to our list, who should wage a vigorous campaign in the unorganized districts. I believe we should own our own printing plant so that advertising matter of our label and organization purposes can be had at cost. Also for the printing of our Journal and labels, and the general work of the International office. Our official journal should be given a general overmaking, so as to conform with the average up-to-date journals of the day. It should deal extensively with the industrial and political phases of the labor movement. In case of my election I shall devote my every energy to the upbuilding of our International Union and the working class in general. I shall have no time for Civic Federation banquets or any other entertainments of the capitalists' class, which assist to lull the workers to sleep from their real class interests, but you will find me on the firing line to arouse the workers to their real class interests, so that a system of exploitation shall be ended. I shall labor untiringly with one great aim in mind—Emancipation.

Respectfully,
John A. C. Menton.

Springfield, O.

Fellow Members:

In accepting the nomination for First Vice-President, I know full well the responsibility attached to the office. But having our constitution as a guide there should be no hesitancy on the part of any member in accepted office in the C. M. I. U.

Being a firm believer in the constitution in its present form and needing but few alterations or additions to make it perfect for its mission, and so conservative as not to be attracted by any side issues or factors. Should there be any change it should be for the advancement of Trade Union principles, and not of any of the new isms advocated by some of our more radical members. This is I think sufficient to state my views.

E. L. Craver.

FOR SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT.

At the St. Louis A. F. of L. Convention, Nov. 14th, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for Second

Vice-President, I beg leave to state that it is my judgment that the methods and aims of our organization are to bring within its folds every person engaged in the cigar making industry who may be eligible to membership.

The history of our organization demonstrates beyond a doubt that by the policy pursued in the past in this direction we have been more than successful when we take into consideration the fact that when the International Union was organized as such we had but a handful of local unions, and a comparatively small membership, and when we realize that today our organization contains more than fifty thousand members, and that during the last two decades we have been successful in reducing the hours of labor from twelve hours per day to a uniform eight-hour day, and in many instances to forty-five hours per week, these facts bespeak for themselves the advantages gained.

Not only have we succeeded in reducing the hours of labor, but in every instance where this reduction applied an increase in the bill of prices has also obtained, as well as improved sanitary conditions in the shops.

Through our splendid system of organization, running concurrent with a fairly high system of dues, we have been enabled to establish a chain of benefits second to none in any labor organization in America. The Cigarmakers' International Union can make the proud boast that never in its history has one legitimate claim for any of the benefits provided for in our constitution been denied or payments refused. This fact has given confidence and courage to our members, with the result that they have an abiding faith in our organization and its ability to meet all claims upon it.

While it is recognized by every other organization of labor that our benefit system stands pre-eminently above that period by any other labor organization upon the American continent, there is still room for one other benefit justly deserved, the old age pension. I feel confident our members will soon realize the necessity of establishing the old age pension, and embodying it in our constitution. Those who have borne the brunt of the battle, and assisted in building up our organization to its present magnificent proportions, are entitled to the consideration of our young members.

Every success accomplished by our organization, and every step made in advance, is due to the sound policy pursued, traveling, as we have, along safe lines and in conformity with sound trade union doctrine.

Space does not permit me at any great length to discuss this matter further. I have been a firm, staunch and consistent supporter of the trade union policy as practiced by our organization since I have been a member thereof, some twenty-seven years, and if re-elected Second Vice-President I shall continue to use my best efforts and energy to build up and strengthen the organization that has done so much for its membership.

Yours fraternally,
Thomas F. Tracy.

Syracuse, Dec. 6, 1910.

Being notified that I was nominated as Second Vice President of the International Union by thirty-five unions, I shall comply with the constitution in regard to stating my views and aims of the International Union.

In the first place I shall thank all unions that placed me in nomination for said office.

In regard to methods and aims of the International Union, let me mention the last part (aim) first. My ideas have always been, since I joined Union 144 of New York in July, 1880, that the organization stands for entire emancipation of the cigarmaker's craft, and will strive and battle until this point is reached and the object accomplished.

Now as to methods and means we may differ with some of our members.

For years we have seen and been confronted with judges or other political powers trying with injunctions or other arbitrary powers (legal or not, as we may disagree) to destroy our efforts to better our conditions in an economic way, and they have been in a great many cases successful. This must or should lead us to think about something to meet this obstruction to our efforts of betterment. It has been noticed in Republican states Republican judges have tried to stop our progress; in Democratic states Democrats have done the same. This shows a common cause and desire, and on many occasions they have tried to beat one another.

To stop this abuse of legal or illegal power there is only one remedy in my opinion, and that is that we in our official Journal give all space possible to advise our members that it is necessary for them to elect men to our legislative bodies, and judges who administer our laws that are just and represent the producing class. With other words we should encourage and welcome all articles tending to discuss the class struggle (for such it is) in a fair way. We will never reach final emancipation, as our preamble says, by electing lawmakers and law interpreters that belong to the class of our bosses. We do not even admit them in our union.

In regard to our present constitution I will say that I should endeavor to enforce it as just and impartial to all members as I possibly could. All appeals and decisions should be treated and founded upon this basic guidance. If the constitution is not right or incomplete let the interested unions amend it. I do not believe that there is anything perfect to-day or ever will be as long as the human race is struggling for something better; therefore amendments will be necessary and should be considered in accordance with the value in approving general condition. I should be in favor of maintaining all our benevolent features for the present, or until dire necessity compels us to abolish one or some of them. I consider them one of our strongest points.

Although much more could be said on the subject, but hoping this to be sufficient to outline my policy to the members,

Yours fraternally,
Henry F. Waack.

FOR THIRD VICE-PRESIDENT.

Montreal, Can., Nov. 16, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination of 3d Vice-President, I wish to thank the many unions who have selected my name as their candidate to such an important office as that of Canadian representative on the International Executive Board. With such a large number of nominators, I must say it is with pride that I am again a candidate.

I am of the opinion that the International Union should seek some efficacious means whereby we could organize the people who work in the shops of the trust, and all those others who work in large cheap cigar centers, and I believe this can never be unless we have a convention. To my point of view, a convention is the only place where, and the only time when, we can suggest, discuss and have adopted such laws as would tend to redress many of the evils now confronting us. Those of us who have followed the evolution the trade has undergone in the last ten or twelve years, will admit that something will have to be done so as to place ourselves in position of coping with the present situation. The thought of the expense which would incur the holding of a convention should not have a place in our minds when our future is at stake.

I believe the interests of the International Union, as a body, will be best served by the continuance of the strictly Trade Union policy it has always followed. Outside of this, I am in favor of the movement which tends to have elected to the different parliaments of the country men out of the ranks of labor—holders of union cards. Yours fraternally,

A. Garlepy.

Hamilton, Nov. 21, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for 3d Vice-President, I will state my views on the constitution.

Well, sir, the laws are excellent in every respect, but in my mind the benefits might be changed a little. The traveling, strike, lock out and out of work are splendid, but I think there could be a change in the sick benefit, which to my knowledge has been the same for twenty-seven years, and in my mind it is hardly enough, according to the present cost of living.

I sometimes ask myself, "Why is it that a man joins other fraternal societies?" Just for the benefits. A man that only belongs to his Trade Union is not in it.

The death benefit is an excellent thing, but if you think it stops at fifteen years, what is the matter with keeping it going on the same, no matter how much of an increase it may be. The member at fifteen years is on the same level as those at twenty-five and thirty years.

What does our Union think of a pension to its old members? I, for one, would rather see it than to build a home.

With reference to our label. I cannot speak too highly of it, the only medium of advertising, and we should not stop where we are, for I can notice the difference in the last two years in our section of Canada, thanks to the Blue Label League.

Again thanking the members for my nomination, I beg to remain,

Yours respectfully,

Chas. J. Meaden.

Hamilton, Nov. 28, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Yours of the 11th inst., notifying me of my nomination for the office of third vice-president, received, and in reply permit me to say that I thankfully accept the same and kindly thank those who have placed and honored me with their confidence.

In accepting the nomination I desire to express my views on the aims and methods of constitution.

We aim to unite all persons, except Chinese, coolies or tenement house workers, who have served the full apprenticeship at the trade, for their mutual protection.

First—By maintaining a standard wage scale.

Second—By regulating the number and duration of apprenticeship.

Third—By shortening the hours of labor.

Fourth—By working earnestly for the general improvement of the trade, especially that work shall not be performed under unsanitary conditions.

We interest our members in one common brotherhood by upholding a democratic constitution under which no one has more power than another, and to further cement our union we provide our members with loans for traveling expenses, a weekly benefit when sick, an out of work benefit, a funeral benefit on the death of a member's wife or mother, and lastly a benefit of five hundred and fifty dollars ($550) to a member in good standing at death, all of which are in my opinion, noble features of our constitution.

Through our shop committees we endeavor to maintain these aims and by methods of conciliation desire to co-operate with all right thinking employers to elevate the trade, and finally as the stamp and seal of a living wage and a clean shop, we demand the affixture of the blue label.

The above are the views of one, who, if honored with election to the position of third vice-president, will make 't the aim of his life to carry to a full end.

Yours fraternally,

J. J. Murphy.

FOR FOURTH VICE-PRESIDENT.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 30, 1910.

In accepting the nomination for Fourth Vice President, it is with a deep sense of responsibility the duties of the office impose.

For a number of years the Cigar Makers' International Union has drifted with the tide on the sea of peace; no violent storms have been encountered, no obstacles serious enough to test the structure of the organization have been met. It is this feeling of security, to my mind, that should be reckoned with. If we allow ourselves to be lulled into repose, and not take advantage of every opportunity, we will eventually awake to realize that we are hemmed in by the subtle methods employed by the combinations of capital monopolizing the cigar trade. To successfully cope with the ever-changing conditions in the cigar industry, method must be used in keeping with the age. Let us not become imbued with the idea that we have reached the goal; on the contrary, let the aim be to ultimately organize the entire cigar industry and secure for the workers more pleasant surroundings, and a greater share of the wealth they produce.

While laboring to organize the trade, encourage the fair manufacturers to produce goods far superior to their competitors, thus increasing the prestige of the Blue Label.

To stimulate and systematize label agitation the International Union can well organize a bureau for the purpose.

To mobilize support in aid of a Local in distress, means should be provided that it can be done with greater despatch. Levying assessments at present in aid of a strike requires too much time. The International Executive Board should be given authority to initiate an amendment for submission to the membership, to be exercised in case of an emergency.

Steps should be taken to provide for the decrepit members. Likewise means should be adopted to more effectually combat the white plague. We owe it not only to the unfortunate members, but the burden of care should be lifted from the locals in a health-seeking climate.

The International Union should occasionally hold a meeting. Our competitors in the industry never fail to meet to devise the most progressive methods to secure advantages. If one progressive movement would emanate from a convention the funds would be well spent.

To keep the Cigar Makers' International Union always in the vanguard of progress, ever militant, ever striving to acquire for the members more of the comforts of life, a greater share of the world's goods, and to instill independence that men may be developed to continue the battle for right and justice, are the principles that give me pleasure to subscribe to.

W. H. Fitzgerald.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 20, 1910.

Fellow Workmen:

Being a candidate for the office of fourth vice president of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America, I herewith submit my views on trades unionism. In compliance with Sec. 16 of the C. M. I. U. of A., as a candidate for the office of fourth vice-president, I submit my views to the membership. The trades union serves best the interest of the workers in the present stage of industrial development. It is the only form of organization capable of dealing intelligently with the problems that confront the workers. It requires the special knowledge of the cigar maker to deal with the intricate questions that arise before them from day to day. The form of organization is determined by necessity and not by the desire of a few. The function of the executive board is administrative; their duty is to interpret the constitution in accordance with the best interest of the workers. As to the future, the members make the laws, and if what appears to be the present tendency of the labor movement towards political action by the workers should take some definite form, I would heartily co-operate with such a movement.

Yours,

T. F. Burns.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1910.

Fellow Workmen:

Having been nominated for the office of 4th Int. Vice President, I accept the nomination. In conformity with Sec. 16 Int. Constitution I desire to say, The aims and methods of our Organization are well contained in the preamble to the Constitution. The methods applied are agitation among the unorganized and frequent intercourse with other trades and callings connected in state and central bodies, thereby educating ourselves for the betterment of conditions among the working people generally, and receiving the assistance of organized labor in return by creating demand for union made goods, etc., thus enabling us to maintain our chain of benefits which have proved so great a help and benefit to the members and their families for years past and which every member is conversant with, and speaks for itself in success achieved. To my fellow-crafts men, in the event of being elected to the executive board, I shall endeavor to do my duty as I see it, in conformity with the constitution and proceedings of our Int'l body. Thanking those who have seen fit to consider me worthy of the position, and with my wishes for the success of our organization, I remain,

Yours fraternally,

John M. Hayford.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Yours of recent date notifying me of my nomination for 4th Vice President duly received.

In accepting the nomination I wish to state that I appreciate the high honor conferred on me, and in accordance with Section 16 of the constitution I beg to submit, in brief, my views of the aims and methods of our International Union.

Our preamble states that our aim is the final emancipation of labor. What does it mean? Emancipation from what and to what? Let us see.

A bitter struggle is being waged over the division of the products of labor between the exploiting, propertied class on the one hand and the exploited, property-less class on the other.

The struggle between wage workers and capitalists grows ever fiercer (the Tampa strike is but an instance) and has become the only vital issue before the American people. The wage working class, therefore, has the most vital and direct interest in abolishing the capitalist system. But in abolishing the present system, the working men will free not only their own class, but all other classes of modern society: The small manufacturer and trader, who is engaged in a desperate and losing struggle for economic independence in the face of the all-conquering power of concentrated capital; and even the capitalist himself, who is the slave of his wealth rather than its master. The struggle of the working class against the capitalist class, while it is a class struggle, is thus at the same time a struggle for the abolition of all classes and class privileges.

The private ownership of the land and means of production used for exploitation is the rock upon which class rule is built; political government is its indispensable instrument. The wage workers cannot be freed from exploitation without conquering the political power and substituting collective and democratic administration for private ownership of the land and means of production used for exploitation.

If that is what is meant by "the final emancipation of labor" then I willingly accept it.

As to the methods to be employed by the workers in their efforts to get more of the good things of life today, and ultimately to bring about a better order of things, the greatest need seems to be a more thorough organization of the workers on the industrial field.

In reference to our own trade I favor the amalgamation of all crafts working in the tobacco industry into one grand organization. I hold that more effective work could be done against the American Cigar and Tobacco Company, our common enemy, and the so called independent factories through the united efforts of the cigar makers, tobacco workers, cigarette makers, stogie makers and snuff makers.

I favor the holding of a convention to discuss this and other matters of vital interest to our members.

Fraternally,

Henry Kummerfeld.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Received your esteemed favor dated Nov. 11, in which I am notified that I have been nomiinated as one of the candidates for 4th Vice-President, to be voted for in the election for International officers, said election to be held the second Saturday, Feb. 11, 1911, and asking whether I accept the nomination, in reply to which I beg to state that I accept the nomination, and in so doing, I am fully aware that in the event should I be honored as the organization's choice to that responsible position, it means a faithful discharge of the duties required without fear or favor, and the exercise of impartial judgment.

As to the aims and methods of our organization, permit me to say that, judging by past experience and general observation, I believe that the fundamental principles of our International Union are correct and should always be kept in mind, as to them we owe our success and prosperity, not only collectively, but individually as well. I desire further to state that in my humble opinion, in view of the fact that we are in a state of constant evolution, subject to changes in conditions, it behooves us that we keep abreast with the times by the adoption of practical measures, from time to time, that will meet the emergency, fit the occasion and perpetuate our organization, of which we all feel so justly proud for what it has accomplished and will accomplish as time rolls on, in the cause of humanity. Again signifying my acceptance, and appreciating the honor of being one of the nominees, I beg to remain, fraternally yours,

Emil Levy.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 26th, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Having been nominated for the Fourth Vice-Presidency of the International Union, which I accept, I wish to state my views, as is required in regard to the constitution.

I think that the preamble covers all, and that is, the emancipation of the working classes. I believe in trade autonomy, and think politics should not be allowed in the meetings, and every member be allowed to choose his own party.

I believe in our beneficial features which are the greatest of any known trade, and has no equal in the world. I believe in the education of the unorganized, and believe the best way to do it, is by agitating our label; for while you are agitating the label you are educating the unorganized. I am in favor of holding conventions at specified times, if it be every 8 or 10 years, for it helps to put new life into the members which all the printing matter in the world will not do, as lots of our members never read the Journals. I believe in amending the constitution as time requires.

Yours fraternally,

Gustav Mechau.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 26, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Your notification of my nomination to the office of 4th Vice President at hand, and I give this as my acceptance of the same.

The aim of the C. M. I. U. is to create and use such methods as will give to the workers all those things that nature has placed on this earth, for not only its own members, but all who are willing and able to perform the necessary labor for its production.

The methods used in the transaction of our business are, I believe, the best to be had at this time. The present methods of agitation for the Blue Label are inadequate. There should be an international department which should have the power to distribute advertising matter and send agents to all parts of our jurisdiction to present to the public our aims and objects, and appeal for the support of all who toll. The present method is a waste of time and money.

I believe that the International Union should be given power to create an aggressive policy, and this should be carried out by the officers and members no matter what the cost may be. The working class is in a struggle for existence against the capitalist class, and it is a fight to the finish; either they will keep us their slaves or we will be our own masters. If elected I will do my best to serve the members of our International Union and my class.

Fraternally submitted,

T. A. Thompson.

FOR FIFTH VICE-PRESIDENT.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 29, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

I have before me the notice of Mr. G. W. Perkins, president of the union, dated November 11, 1910, notifying me that I have been nominated fifth vice-president of our organization.

It affords me great pleasure to send you this, my acceptance of the nomination, and I assure you I appreciate the honor which has been bestowed upon me.

My views as to the aims of our union are as follows: A universal eight-hour day in all shops, better sanitary conditions, more respect and fairer treatment from the employers, good wages, etc.

My view on the method of attaining our ideal is to keep up an educational campaign to teach laboring men the good of our organization and the benefits to be derived therefrom. As to the organization of cigar makers, they should be taught the benefit of the union, and the benefit of getting new members. For a workingman to join the union, pay his initiation fee and dues, does not make a good union man unless he understands the aims and objects of the union, therefore I say that it is just as essential to educate as it is to organize. We should all purchase union made goods, and urge our fellow workers to do likewise.

Also, in view of the fact that our organization is a commercial union, I think it would be wise and beneficial to always advertise, push and boost the "Blue Label."

Fraternally yours,

G. P. Bradford,

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In answer to your notification that I have been nominated for 5th Vice President by 29 Unions, will say I accept the nomination and wish to extend to the several unions my sincere thanks for the honor bestowed on me—and in compliance with Section 16 of the Constitution will give my views of the aims and methods of our International Union. The aim of the International Union as I understand it is to embrace all of the cigar makers as far as we are able into our fold, so as to form a complete organization for "amelioration and final emancipation of labor"—the methods to be pursued are many and space will not permit me to enlarge on some I have in view. Briefly let me say that the methods of the previous Int. officers were good ones, but new ones could be added that would (in my opinion) be of material benefit to our craft. I believe that our Int. Union should have its own printing plant to print all the label agitation matter to be distributed all over our jurisdiction, as well as print all other supplies that we use. By doing that we would be able to cope with the large trust concerns in getting out advertising matter that would be a credit to us and would attract attention, which the small locals with their limited means are unable to do, and we also would be able to get our advertising matter in places where they never see any now, and so in a measure would curtail the output of our enemy—The Trust. I believe the Int. Union should provide a home for the aged and sick members; all members should, in my opinion, bear the expense of keeping up our sick and needy and not let a few of our western locals bear the brunt of the expense. I think our organizers should give us, through the Journal, the benefit of their experience as regards the best methods to be pursued in advertising the label and anything else that would be of benefit to the locals, and in conclusion will say that in this age of keen competition, and where people are looking for the most for their money, the cigarmakers, as well as the cigar manufacturers who use the Union Label, should see that the goods which are recommended by our organization are as recommended, so that the Union smokers will purchase them (not simply because it's their duty to purchase cigars bearing the Union Label, but because they are as good as the best and better than the rest), and thus the label will be a sign of quality to union and non-union smokers alike. Fraternally yours,

H. Bogaske.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 24, 1910.

Fellow Members:

Having been nominated for the office of 5th Vice President of the Cigar Makers International of America I wish to express my views on the methods and aims of our Union. I was initiated by No. 286 on the 25th of May, 1889, and have been a continuous member since that time, and for about ten years of my membership I have been secretary of different locals about the country which has placed me in a position to observe the way the business of our Union is run. I am in favor of the columns of our Journal being open for the discussion of all questions leading to the betterment of our craft and labor in general, but not for members to vent their spleen in regard to their personal feelings against each other. Such actions I consider neither instructive or edifying. I do not believe in the introduction of partisan politics in our Union, for it is as impossible to have every member of the same political belief as it is to have one religious belief. But I think every member should observe the operations of the different political parties and cast their votes for the man or men who show by their acts where they stand on the labor question. I heartily indorse the administration of our present International President and should I be elected to the office I have been nominated for I will endeavor to act with fairness in all things.

Yours fraternally,

M. E. Forsyth, Local No. 450.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 30, 1910.

Having been notified by you of my nomination for the office of fifth vice-president of the Cigarmakers' International Union of America, I accept the nomination and in conformity with the constitution will give a brief outline of its aims and objects.

The Cigarmakers' International Union, like all organizations of labor, is founded upon a necessity. That while many employers are desirous of being fair and are ever ready to provide the best conditions possible for the employees, such employers through circumstances brought about by competition from the unscrupulous employer, those ever ready to feast and fatten upon the labor of others without fair and just remuneration for the product of such labor, are placed at a disadvantage and it is to provide against the encroachments of the latter class that creates the necessity for the existence of the International Union.

Experience has demonstrated that the individual or independent trade union cannot survive the struggle for justice and equity against the odds of the capital and the endeavors of those who would enslave those who toil. The International Union, being composed of its various locals and its excellent financial system and magnificent chain of benefits, forms a bailiwick of strength and solidarity, making it impregnable to the attacks of its assailants and providing, not only a safeguard and a protection for a standard of living wages, but an assurance in times of need and distress that the hand of brotherly care will be extended and want expelled.

To the everlasting credit of the Cigarmakers' International Union wages have been increased, conditions of employment made better, hours of labor reduced, health of the members and families improved, life prolonged and at least a portion of the world made better.

The laws of the International Union are made for the guidance of the officers in the conduct of their affairs, and personal opinions and prejudices should never warp the better judgment of those entrusted with the stewardship of our affairs.

Fraternally yours,

Fred J. Keefer.

Joliet, Ill., No. 29, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Yours of the 11th inst received and contents noted. I hereby accept the nomination and submit my candidacy for the office of Fifth Vice-President to the members of the International Union for their consideration.

I have been a member of the International for the past 30 years and have always given my time and whatever finances were within my power to the cause of the organization. I do not claim that I have done more than other members of the organization for the cause but I merely state this so the members may become acquainted with my efforts to better the conditions of our craft.

In believe in the initiative and referendum as in force in our organization, thereby giving the rank and file a chance to express their views on matters pertaining to the welfare of the organization, and the election of officers.

Yours fraternally,

A. E. Martin.

Fellow Craftsmen:

I received your communication, and in reply would say I accept the nomination for 5th Vice President, as I am eligible and feel that should I be elected that I am capable of filling the office, and I feel that our Union has been the mainspring in the emancipation of the tobacco workers, and I have always tried to advance the organization and will continue to try to do the same in the future if elected or not.

Yours fraternally,

Fellow Craftsmen:

Having accepted the nomination of 5th Vice President, my views are in regards to our organization: In the first place, our organization is all right on sick and death benefit; but I think our loan system could be changed so that our money loaned to traveling members could be returned quicker in our treasury, and not be outstanding from one year to another. In the following way any member of the Cigarmakers' International Union being a member for one year in good standing and clear on the books and being out of employment and wishes to travel, he shall receive enough loan to the nearest union, and he shall receive no more than $20 on his loan card, and when he receives employment he shall pay 10 per cent of his weekly earnings to the Shop Collector and receive no more loans on his card until he has paid back his $20. By doing so I think that the loaned money would have quicker returns to our Treasurer, and if he fails to pay his per cent he shall be fined 25 cents for each and every week while working. And I think our O. W. B. ought to be done away with, as I think it is a dead expense to our organization, and I do think that any member not wishing to travel should have the same privilege to draw a loan of $20 while out of employment and pay it back at the same per cent as the traveling member. As far as conventions are concerned. I do not believe in them, as they are only a dead expense to our International Union and only a pleasure trip to some, and do nothing while there. I think the International President shall have the power to name a committee of six, including himself, to draw up a constitution and submit it to the members, and if adopted it shall remain in full force for four years, as the way we are doing now we have a change in our laws every change of the moon, and half of the members don't know what our laws are. And I think our per cent allowed by the International Union to defray our expenses should be done away with and just allow so much for hall rent and postage, and pay all Financial Secretaries of Local Unions their salary out of the General Fund; that will do away with all deficiency.

C. Stoeckler, of Union 50.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 16, 1910.

Fellow Workmen:

Having been officially notified by the International President of my nomination for the office of 5th Vice-President of the International Union, I herewith accept the honor conferred upon me by the unions that have placed my name in nomination. Pursuant to the law requiring candidates to write a letter for the Official Journal expressing their views on the aims and methods of the Cigar Makers' International Union, I will say, first, that I favor what is commonly known as the old age pension under the supervision of the officers of the International Union. I am also a firm believer in the benefit that accrues to our trade through agitation for our union label, and think that some general system of label agitation and propaganda should be adopted under the supervision of the International body, in order to bring about uniformity of action and results in our label agitation.

A system of high dues being necessary for the maintenance and advancement of our movement, I am unalterably a high dues advocate.

I am not unmindful of the fact that our trade has undergone something of a change in the past twenty or more years, that working conditions are somewhat different in the industry. But I note at the same time that the relation of employer and employe have remained about the same, and we have improved our conditions as wage earners only to the extent that we relied on the influence and resources of our organization. For these and many other reasons it behooves the cigar makers of the present day to look well to their only defense, the Union. I believe that the Executive Board of the C. M. I. U. should have other duties than merely voting on appeals from decisions of the International President, etc., etc. In nearly all well regulated labor organizations the work of conducting the affairs of the organization, especially in dealing with great trade disputes and questions of policy of the organization, the Executive Board or Council of the body is charged with the responsible work of the Union.

I believe that our laws should be so changed that the Executive Board could be of assistance to the International President in looking after the affairs of the International Union. The Board could meet at stated times or as necessity required and take up the important questions affecting our trade. Such matters as the great lockout now on in Tampa, Fla., could perhaps be dealt with to advantage by an Executive Board assisting and advising the International President. I do not mean that I would clothe the Executive Board with any arbitrary power, nor that anything should be done that affected the craft in general that did not meet the approval of the majority of the membership, but I do believe that our International Union should be conducted along practical business lines, and that the International President should not be compelled to assume the entire burden of the work.

Thanking those unions that have placed me in nomination, and assuring the members that should I be elected that I will use my best efforts to fulfill the duties of office, I am,

Fraternally,

O. P. Smith.

FOR SIXTH VICE-PRESIDENT.

Minneapolis, Minn., November 23, 1910.

Fellow Members:

I accept the nomination for Sixth Vice-President with considerable knowledge of consequent duties if elected. I heartily appreciate honors already bestowed upon me. If successful, I will aim, as in the past, to do everything possible to promote the welfare of our organization, and the trade union movement in general. Our International Union has accomplished considerable the last decade, and I hope for greater achievements soon. Our organization has become a most potent factor in the field of labor and is recognized generally as the foremost of trade unions, and we should aim to keep it so.

The cigar industry is confronted with many problems for our membership to solve. We must initiate ways and means for promotion of labor's welfare. Capital is becoming more thoroughly organized. The various branches of industry, through their organizations, are co-operating solely for their own interests. Laboring men and women must understand that our only success is in organization. Our first duty is to exert greater efforts to enlist every cigar maker in the country.

The tobacco trust and other large employers of cheap labor depend upon extensive advertising to boost their product. Our organization should retaliate by advertising as generally as possible our emblem of fair wage and good working conditions—the Blue Label. Every local should contribute through label leagues, or similar organizations, to insure cooperation in purchasing and advertising at minimum price, thus promoting organization work. In Minnesota this has noticeably proven true.

There is no jobber of cigars in our three largest cities not carrying from two to ten brands of union cigars. Ten years ago here were but five carried by all jobbers in the state, and it may be well to note the cigars now handled are manufactured outside of Minnesota. This change is due particularly to co-operation of all locals in Minnesota through its state label league. I believe even better results have been made in other sections of the country. This work tends to help organize unorganized cigar districts, and there is no doubt general co-operation would bring better results.

Our chain of benefits, recognized even by our opponents as the very best, needs no comment. If possible we should add another benefit. I firmly believe we should create an old age benefit fund.

Attention should be paid by our local unions through state federations and local central bodies to general labor legislation. Efforts should be made prohibiting city and state government from purchasing the products of trusts, particularly the American Tobacco Company.

Employers in industries dangerous to life and limb are advocating workmen's compensation acts and industrial insurance. We should seek legislation providing for care of workmen subject to occupational diseases due to unhealthy conditions of employment.

I shall endeavor, if elected, to keep pace with the times, and act for the best interests of our International Union and the membership which has made it second to none. I shall attempt to be fair and just, and shall show special favors to none, but equal justice to all.

Fraternally yours,

E. G. Hall.

Jacksonville, Ill.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for sixth vice-president, I will say that I approve of the principle and aim of our organization, but I believe in applying methods better adapted to a changing industrial system.

Our methods were right for a time, but I am one who thinks that when we see that we have outgrown our methods, we should discard them, and not cling to them to destruction, and decry the efforts of those whose aim is to inaugurate methods under which true progress can be made in keeping with our preamble. I have noticed with regret a lack of interest on the part of members of our craft in the affairs of our union and the labor movement. This, I believe, is partly due to having no conventions. Take it home to yourselves. Suppose your own union had held no meeting for 14 years, what would become of the local interest? Compare unions that hold meetings regularly with those that do not. Which of the two are most progressive? It is easy to see.

I am in favor of conventions, not for the sake of rehashing stereotyped and worn out laws, but to get our representatives together occasionally so as to familiarize ourselves with conditions everywhere, and with a spirit of progress, ever onward, devise methods, and provide contingencies for the proper execution of our preamble. Above all I am in favor of carrying our organization into the field opened by the employer class, the trust factories, which in time may crush us unless we pull ourselves out of the rut. Trust methods in the cigar industry are in keeping with trust methods in all branches of industry. They are compatible with progress of the human race intellectually, industrially and politically. It is the cheapest and best method of production.

So let us broaden our views. Let us increase the scope of our activities. Let us go into the enemy's country. Let us adopt his methods.

I believe in a uniform international label advertising medium, abolishing the present obsolete expensive local effort, to assist in ameliorating present conditions.

The employing class has a correct understanding of the advantages of solidarity. The results show it. This class also desires the continuation of the non-cohesive spirit and action of our industrial organizations both economically and politically. In other words they reserve the right to understand and practice all the arts of industry, ownership and management with its political backing. They are a unit in this, while labor is not.

I am for a rejuvenation of the organized American labor movement, upon a basis of industrial unionism, having our membership learn the science of industry, the science of government, and with the teaching of the true conception of the historic mission of our class, accomplish the fulfillment of the spirit and letter of our preamble. Union wages and conditions now, but with abolition of wage slavery in view. This we owe to ourselves and to our children. With this understanding I accept and solicit your support for the office of sixth vice-president of the International Union.

L. P. Hoffman.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 8, 1910.

Your letter notifying me that I have received the nomination of sixth vice-president was duly received and in reply will state that I accept the nomination of sixth vice-president, and that I feel highly honored by receiving the same and that if elected will discharge the duties of that office to the best of my ability and in compliance with the International constitution. I have been a worker in the labor movement for over thirty years, and I think the Cigarmakers' International Union the grandest labor organization on earth. I only favor such changes in our laws by which the greatest good may come to the greatest number. I believe in high dues and our chain of benefits that we now have. I also am in favor that the International Union should in some way provide for our aged members either by pension or a home. I also think that our strike laws should be so changed that a member receiving strike benefit should be allowed to work at some other calling while the strike is on and not thereby be debarred from receiving further strike benefit. In regard to political action, I would say that every member of our great union in voting should always use his own judgment in casting his vote and vote only for that which will help to elevate the working classes. I also believe in the referendum voting system that we now have and that we ought to have a convention at least once in every five years. In regard to my past history in union affairs I will state that I have served my union in almost every capacity within its gift. I had the honor of representing Union No. 32 at the Detroit convention in 1896, was twice elected secretary of the State Federation of Labor of Kentucky and have been for years a delegate to the Central Labor Union and am now first vice-president of that body. I have been elected to the office of president of Union No. 32 no less than twenty times. Hoping that this letter will prove satisfactory, I remain

Yours fraternally,

L. J. Kieffer.

FOR SEVENTH VICE-PRESIDENT.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 24, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Your letter notifying me that I have been nominated for 7th Vice-President received and accept said nomination.

In accordance with Section 16 of the constitution my views of the methods and aims of the International Union are as follows: .

The aim of the Cigar Makers' International Union is to elevate those engaged in the cigar industry to the highest standard that can be attained.

It is therefore necessary that every effort must be made to organize the cigarmakers in the cheap districts in order to raise them to the level of the better paid cigarmaker. This in itself will have a tendency to do away with some of the unnatural competition which exists (assist the lowest paid cigarmakers to reach the standard of the highest).

Better work could be done with the Blue Label, but, unfortunately, there are too many of our members who claim its agitation to be useless, and are indifferent to its use. The label is the most important asset we have. Let the true Trade Unionist advocate its demand no matter where he may be. Let him give his thoughts to the fact that the greater the demand for the label the better his condition will be; this has been proven in the New England States.

The International Union should supply advertising matter gratis to the small unions who have only a few members and cannot conduct any kind of an agitation. Usually these are the cities that are flooded with cheap cigars, as there is nothing to combat it.

The International Union, always ready to assist its unfortunate members, should establish a sanitarium for those suffering with tuberculosis. Nothing demonstrated this more to me than when Mr. C. Weber, our ex-4th Vice-President, afflicted with the disease, was permitted to die in one of the city hospitals.

It would create new life in the organization and be a blessing to our members who are compelled to become inmates and do not have to apply for charity.

I am a firm believer in creating an old age pension after a man reaches the age of 70, or even 65 years of age. The manufacturers have no use for him and invariably he is compelled to sign the out-of-work book, which in many instances is disagreeable, as he must sign the book daily, regardless of weather conditions, and in many instances to pay car fare to get to the place where the book is kept. When a member reaches an age that it is impossible for him to obtain employment and has been loyal to his organization for thirty years or more, he should be entitled to some consideration by his fellow man. It is humane to take care of those who no longer can do so themselves.

Fraternally yours,

William Strauss.

Hartford, Conn.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In compliance with Section 16 of the Constitution, I herewith submit my views as a candidate for the office of seventh vice president.

In accepting the nomination for this office, tailed by the position, and, if elected, I shall try to apply our laws in all cases impartially.

In the past quarter of a century, our organization has made a steady and wholesome progress, having nearly doubled its membership, shortened the hours of labor, raised the standard of wages, and extended and strengthened our splendid chain of benefits. This has been largely due to the energy displayed by our local unions, who are unceasing in their work in promoting the use of our label. The organization of Blue Label Leagues has greatly aided in this line of work, and has made it possible for the smaller unions to do more effective work. The International Union, through its organizers, should encourage and promote this work, as our label is one of the strongest assets and a vigorous agitation of its use should be continuously kept up.

I believe we should have conventions at least once every five years, as there are many questions affecting the interests of our membership that can only be thoroughly and intelligently discussed in conventions, such as establishing a home for tubercular and indigent members, old age pensions, and numerous others which space will not permit me to discuss. I think even those who may disagree with me about having conventions must admit that every law we have, affecting the welfare and fundamental principles of our organization, grew out of and were perfected in conventions, and it is a question in my mind whether we have reached that state of perfection where we need no more conventions.

I believe there should be a change in the management of our official journal, by creating an office of editor and manager, who shall have full charge of, and devote all his time to the publication, under the supervision of the Executive Board. Such a change is necessary to make our Journal an educational as well as trade paper. The office to be elective at a reasonable salary.

In the last few years several bitter controversies have occurred over the action of some of our international arbitrators in the settlement of difficulties between employers and local unions. The contention has been the meeting of arbitrators with employers without the knowledge of the organizations involved.

I believe this is bad policy and should not be tolerated by the Executive Board, as it breeds nothing but distrust and contempt for those officers. When the arbitrators are sent anywhere to settle difficulties they should meet the employers with a committee of the organization involved and by their actions inspire confidence and trust. It is time enough when an organization refuses to meet employers for the arbitrators to notify them that they will meet the employers to bring about a settlement.

Eli Brunell.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26, 1910.

Fellow Members:

In response to the wishes of numerous local unions I feel constrained to accept the nomination tendered me for the office of Seventh Vice President. I appreciate and thank all locals who nominated me for various offices of the Intl. Executive Board, which I decline.

In accepting the nomination I am not unmindful of the responsibilities of this important position.

Organization being necessary for the amelioration and final emancipation of labor, it occurs to me that the International Union is its banner every person engaged in the industry we are pursuing, irrespective of color, creed, sex or present employment, whether hand, mold or machine workers, extending the bonds of fellowship to stogie makers and stemmers, thus solidifying the forces in our trade or directly allied therewith. I favor sessions of the International Executive Board to deliberate upon matters of interest to our union, empowering same to initiate measures and propose assessments, all subject, however, to endorsement of locals and referendum of the membership. Through such a medium a fund of $10,000 to $20,000 could be realized in thirty days or less for immediate relief and insuring an equal distribution of the burden. Present method exemplified in Tampa case (four months) too cumbersome, thus eliminating to a considerable extent unnecessary suffering, sacrifice and discontent.

Competition in our trade, fostered by extreme low and high price bills, is so prevalent and disastrous, making it difficult if not almost impossible to secure wages commensurate with present high cost of the necessities of life, it appeals to me that a district or universal wage scale (price bill), in a measurable degree at least, would afford more equal opportunity for improved living conditions. Several million dollars have been expended in benefits to our members and their beneficiaries; obligations of many more millions must be met. To accomplish this our members must have steady employment at wages which will render it possible to realize the aim and hope of the International Union. The assistance of all members is required to achieve the good all are aspiring for. Conventions should be held at least once every five years. A legislative body of such a nature can be conducive of much good, awakens the spirit of interest in the general membership, offers opportunity to elicit and exchange ideas beneficial to the members of our craft, our mutual interests thereby broadened, enlarged and conserved to a greater degree.

Constitution provision forbids any detailed expressions of views, hence in conclusion let me say in as much as the economic condition of the working people is largely regulated and controlled by the science of government (politics), I feel it essential to the welfare and uplift of the toilers that it behooves them as such aside from their economic organization (trade union) to encourage, support and promote and to unite in the independent political working class movement in order that our demands on the economic field may command the consideration due same, hasten the final emancipation of the laboring masses and establish the brotherhood of man.

Yours fraternally,

Phil H. Mueller.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 6, 1910.

Having been duly notified of being nominated for various offices, I desire to announce at this time that I accept the nomination for seventh vice-president.

My views as to the aims and objects of the union are expressed by the preamble of the constitution, which says organization being necessary for the amelioration and final emancipation of labor, etc., in order to ameliorate our lot we must endeavor to thoroughly organize our craft, not only along fraternal lines, but also as class-conscious wage work-improve our condition and educate ourselves in order that we may realize our final emancipation, i. e., the final abolition of wage slavery.

One of the first things that we must bring about, by an amendment to the constitution, is a convention, as we have not had one since 1896. Some radical changes have taken place in our trade in these fourteen years. These can only be properly discussed by representatives of our organization from various parts of the country.

In regard to benefits, we are not able to make many changes, unless we raise our dues, which is not advisable at this time. However, we can with our present dues introduce an old age pension which can be paid quarterly to old members the same as the government pensions.

The question of starting a home for our old and disabled members ought to be abandoned entirely. The maintenance of such an institution is something enormous. The Typographical Union furnishes us with some practical ideas along that line; neither does it appear practical to me from the ethical side of the question. Let us go to work and introduce an amendment to our constitution to secure for our old members a place in homes for the aged for a fixed amount, which we can do as an organization. These homes we have all over the country, leaving our members surrounded by their environments, instead of taking them thousands of miles away from their old homes.

In regard to many of our members traveling around the country promiscuously, we also should endeavor to make some changes, even if we must raise the out-of-work benefit to $4.50 per week. This would have a tendency to discourage a great deal of unnecessary traveling indulged in by many of our members. With the permanent offices we have in the large cities, these could be, as they should be, turned into employment bureaus. All jobs in the rural districts would be reported to these offices. We also ought to centralize our efforts more in regard to labor agitation matter by establishing at our International headquarters a bureau for this purpose, which would handle such advertising matter as is of a standard character. By doing this a great deal of money could be saved to our locals, and the bureau could be made self-sustaining. Our Official Journal could also be enlarged to make it compare with magazines of other trades by engaging an editor for it whose sole duty would be editing of the Journal, and he should be given a wider latitude than we now give him in its publication.

Yours fraternally,

John Reichert.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 25, 1910.

Having been kindly nominated for several of the International offices, I desire to thank those unions who so kindly remembered me. The greater number of honors being for Seventh Vice President, I will allow my name to be placed amongst the candidates for that office.

In regard to the aims of the International Union, would say IT IS A TRADE UNION, AND SHOULD ALWAYS REMAIN SUCH.

Being a business organization, all business should be conducted without fear or favor on between employers and our members should be handled as a business matter and the best possible results obtained, which may be justly had for the time and money involved.

The constitution should be carefully and strictly enforced. THE MEMBERS MADE THE LAWS FOR THAT PURPOSE.

The penalty of suspension for non-payment of loan should be stricken out by amendment, and in its place a fine for each week's failure to pay percentage, of say 25 cents, should be assessed by secretary without notice, and same should be entered at once on member's card with the loans drawn and counted in the $20 loan limit.

The out of work benefit laws should be so amended that superannuated members may draw benefit every week the whole year. The sick and death benefits should be carefully protected by strict enforcement of the law.

Party politics should be carefully avoided. Each member should think out for himself the best way to benefit the labor movement politically and act according to his convictions.

Personally I think this may be best secured by casting all parties to the wind and selecting men regardless of party lines who are pledged to assist to bring about legislation favorable to the labor movement.

Our International Union as such has an object in view, which is to assist our unfortunate brothers, to protect the weak, and to obtain the largest possible share of what is produced by our members; and if we attend to these duties as an organization we shall have quite enough to do without trying to mingle in the strife and discord incident to party politics.

One of the grandest objects of the International Union and one that is either consciously or unconsciously shared by all fraternal organizations who do not draw political or religious lines, is the promotion of the Grand Universal Brotherhood of man without regard to sect, creed or nationality.

While there is much more I would like to say, space limit prevents. I will for the present close.

Yours fraternally,

L. P. Sanders.

FOR INTERNATIONAL TREASURER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 21, 1910.

Fellow Members:

Another cycle in the career of our grand old organization nears completion, and the members will again exercise their prerogatives and by their votes choose those who are to conduct the affairs of the International Union for the ensuing 5 years; years fraught with great possibilities, if we are alert and prepared to grasp the opportunities as they present themselves.

Scanning the pages of the Journal, several letters of A. Strasser drew my attention, he now seems to see conditions as they confront us, so several quotations from my former letters will best meet those conditions. In 1895 I said "rapidly the time is approaching when the International Union, for its own protection, must change its methods, * * * take an aggressive step and 'beard the lion' of corporate greed 'in its lair' by opening factories in their recognized strongholds, the so-called 'cheap districts' and by the aid of persistent agitation of our blue label drive the greedy horde from their supposed impregnable positions."

keep our members in idleness when unavoidable strikes, lock-outs and industrial stagnation take place; when by changing our methods we could operate International union factories with the money wasted; and at the same time benefit the members and the organization, as they would create wealth instead of dissipating it; which would in time become a mighty and resistless power in our efforts to gain our aim," which shows what we missed.

Members have since advocated the same course, but the International union and members seem to have been in a comatose condition all these years; even Strasser has just waked up after he personally saw conditions as they confront us; he says, "Over 40,000 females are employed in the cigar industry and less than 5,000 are organized. This is one of the greatest problems we have to face in the near future; the sooner a solution is found the better." Had the members of the International union been awake and alert when we had the opportunity to march towards our aim, taken time by the forelock and opened International union factories some fifteen years ago, and then established jobbing houses as advocated at that time, that problem would need no solution now, as it would have solved itself, and we would by this time have become a great industrial co-operative union, and reaping the fruits of our labor, and now be in a fair way to attain our aim, emancipation. Emancipation—from what? Industrial emancipation under present conditions can never be obtained without wise political action by the workers; so in our onward march let us stand shoulder to shoulder politically as well as industrially, and the doom of the greedy tyrant Capitalism will be sealed, and Labor's Emancipation proclaimed. Thanking the members for their confidence in nominating me, I accept the nomination for International Treasurer, and if elected, pledge myself to perform the duties of the office to the best of my abilities.

Fraternally,

Gibson Weber.

Chicago, November 30, 1910.

Fellow Members:

Replying to yours of the 11th inst., in which you say I am eligible as candidate for the office of International Treasurer, I wish to say that I accept the nomination, with thanks to the locals remembering me. I also wish to say that I still believe the aims of Cigar Makers' International Union of America are to secure for its members the best possible wages and conditions obtainable. I believe this can best be brought about by thorough organization, and no effort should be spared to bring within our fold every cigar maker and packer who is worthy of membership in our organization. I have always believed that the success of the International Union in the past was largely due to our liberal system of benefits, and that adherence to the policies pursued in the past will assure success in the future.

Yours fraternally,

N. F. Lentz.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 17, 1910.

Fellow Members:

Of the different nominations I received for President, 5th and 7th Vice-President and Treasurer, I accept the nomination for Treasurer of the Cigarmakers' International Union of America, because I think I am better adapted for that office than any of the others. I do so office to the best of my ability in a trustworthy manner. As to the aims and methods of the International Union, my desire is to increase wages and uphold union principles. We should constantly strive to educate the younger members of our union by advocating true unionism. Organize all industries and by so doing achieve the very best conditions for our members. Do not struggle against one another, but co-operate. We should assist and co-operate with all other organizations and aim to assist them as much as possible, as it is partly through their efforts that we are successful. See that their label is on all goods that we purchase, as we expect them to look for our label when purchasing cigars. We should also use the most practical means to fight the trusts.

All the benefits guaranteed by our union should be retained, as they have been proven successful and should be sufficient grounds for every cigarmaker to become a member of our union. Last but not least, we should have a Cigarmakers' Home; not alone for members afflicted with tuberculosis, but all members unable to work. Show no favors, but treat all alike. Thanking the unions that nominated me for the different offices, I remain,

Yours fraternally,

Adolph Haupt.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 29, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination to the office of international treasurer, I do so with the firm determination, if elected, so far as in my power is possible, to have the international union keep pace with the times that it may be as it always has been, one of, if not the most progressive union.

The aim of the international union should be, as I believe, to secure for those employed in our business the best returns morally, physically and financially. Morally, by the members through their locals treating direct with the employers and not being compelled to submit to the tyrannies of petty bosses, being recognized as human beings and used as such in living up to agreements entered into, thus securing the respect of the employers and respecting ourselves.

Physically, by establishing short hours and having the opportunity at least to enjoy some time to ourselves not grinding in the shops from 10 to even 14 hours as in the olden days we hear so much about and some of our fathers experienced. This time can be used to advantage in cultivating our minds as well as building up our bodies.

Financially, by receiving the greatest amount in return for the amount of labor invested, that we may enjoy a few of the luxuries of life and not be compelled to subsist on the barest necessities.

Its aim should also be the caring of the sick and the assistance of all to those that refuse to submit to conditions that become unbearable.

The methods to do this I believe should be by a continual alertness to trade conditions, to be an opportunist, in other words, with the International Union back of us, the locals work out the conditions for the betterment of all and particularly the entire membership being interested and informing themselves on all questions which may arise.

In this way and in this way only can I see the International continue to improve by ever being alert. All for one and one for all.

Yours fraternally,

Wm. J. Murphy.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 21, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Yours of 11th inst. received notifying me of having received the nomination for International Treasurer by one of our Local Unions, and in answer will say that I will be pleased to accept the nomination for so important an office. As to a letter giving the views of candidates on aims and methods of the International Union, space in journal will not permit of lengthy letters when so many candidates will be expressing their views. However, will say our present method of levying assessments and supplying relief to members on strike is rather too slow and might be so amended as to furnish assistance before a strike is lost.

I have been a member of the Cigar Makers' International Union for twenty-five years, and if elected International Treasurer would administer the office to the best of my ability.

Yours fraternally,

Jos. Kokesch.

DELEGATES TO AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.

At the St. Louis, Mo., A. F. of L. Convention.
November 16, 1910.

To the Members of the International Union:

Fellow Members: In 1881 the members of our International Union honored me as its delegate to the Pittsburg convention of labor representatives to establish a Federation. There were only six international unions represented. I have been a delegate of our International Union to nearly every convention of the American Federation of Labor. As the delegate of our International Union I have been elected by the American Federation of Labor as its president.

The official reports to the St. Louis convention of the American Federation of Labor show that it has affiliated 120 International Unions, 39 State Federations, 632 City Central bodies, 431 Local Trade Unions and 216 Federal Labor Unions, whose membership reaches 1,644,444. Two Internationals with nearly 100,000 members are now applying for affiliation.

I cite these figures of the growth of our American labor movement not as all convincing in themselves, but to point out the fact that, notwithstanding we have in America greater obstacles to the progress and development of a concrete labor movement than in any other country in the world, yet we have made most wonderful strides. Our vast territory of thousands of miles; our varied population and languages, augmented each year by a million and a quarter raw recruits (immigrants) in the industrial field, are facts to be remembered when comparing the progress and achievement of our labor movement with that labor movement of any other country.

And this leads to the statement that, notwithstanding all these and other obstacles, the American labor movement has achieved for all our workers better industrial, material, and social conditions than exist anywhere else on earth.

Clear thinking trade unionists feel and know that improved conditions have broadened our vision, intensified our sympathies, enlarged our activities and elevated our aspirations for a higher and a better life and a common humanity.

Through the American Federation of Labor's determined policy, for the first time in the history of our own or any other country, we passed through an awful panic without the workers suffering reductions in wages, thereby establishing not only a new policy and philosophy, but also a new principle in political economy for all the world. The hours of labor have been reduced, and we demand a shorter work day; wage reductions have been resisted and we struggle for higher pay; we have protested against unsocial treatment and insist upon equality of opportunity and equality before the law.

While gratified at the advance made in all fields of activity trade unionists are unsatisfied and demand the best possible conditions for all workers.

Our Federation is part of the world's organized labor movement. We shall abolish international war and establish international peace and Brotherhood. To accomplish the purposes here briefly outlined is what the American Federation of Labor is doing, not by meaningless phrases, but by every day and every hour's energetic, constant and persistent effort.

Personally and officially I have no ties or associations which bind me other than the trade union movement, the American Federation of Labor. I propose to be true to the past by giving the best that is in me to the attainment of the cause of human freedom. In that battle men may have to endure suffering, but he would be a coward did he flinch in so just a cause.

I am honored by the nomination to the delegateship from our grand old International to the American Federation of Labor. I accept it and pledge my past as a guarantee for my future course.

Fraternally yours,

Samuel Gompers.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

It is with a deep sense of appreciation that I accept the nomination for delegate to the American Federation of Labor.

While serving as a delegate I have always given first consideration to the interests of the Cigar Makers' International Union, and beyond that endeavored to strengthen all labor organizations and promote unity and solidarity among the labor forces.

To receive from my fellow members an expression of confidence and approval such as contained in the nomination by 199 unions is gratifying beyond the power of words to express.

It does impose new obligations. And for this high honor conferred you may depend upon it I shall in the future at every opportunity strive, if possible, yet more diligently to advance the interests of the working class.

It is provided in the constitution that a candidate for delegate shall set forth the aims and objects of the American Federation of Labor and the methods to be employed to achieve them. Space forbids or I would here quote the entire preamble of the American Federation of Labor and also Article II of its constitution, which contains the objects of that organization. I would recommend that members procure copies of these documents and read them. The sentiments and purposes contained therein have my hearty approval.

In recent years a "political policy" has been adopted by the American Federation of Labor. It has for its purpose to unite the political strength of the workers for the advancement of their cause. The essentials of this plan has had my support for more than twenty years.

In the interest of the trades unions' cause I want to say I absolutely lack confidence in and mistrust Mr. Andrew Carnegie, Mr. Seth Low, Mr. August Belmont and a host of other capitalists who are active in the Civic Federation. Their past actions in labor troubles where they were interested parties, I think, justifies this position.

I am, therefore, opposed to trades unions being represented in or affiliated with the Civic Federation, either officially or otherwise. The Civic Federation is "an incubus upon the labor movement." The workers must control their own movements entirely and fight their own battles, making such progress and gaining such victories as their united wisdom and strength can achieve.

Fraternally,
J. Mahlon Barnes.

At St. Louis A. F. of L. Convention,
Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, I desire to say I believe the methods and aims of that body are Organization, Education and Legislation. It is obvious that the work of organization has been highly successful, beginning thirty years ago with a small, straggling membership, and in its affiliated organizations it has steadily progressed until it has now in affiliation 120 National and International Unions, 39 State Federations of Labor, 603 City Central bodies, 564 Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions, with about 1,700,000 members. This splendid membership speaks for itself as to the success achieved along the lines of organization.

As to the work accomplished along the lines of education, there is no sphere of human activity that the work has not entered into. Since the beginning of the American Federation of Labor it has been in the foreground in every movement for the betterment of the working people. Through it the members and friends have become sufficiently educated to have caused beneficent state and national legislation covering child labor, sanitary workshops, sweatshop and "truck" system. It has also helped legislation for the protection of the lives of members in shops and factories. Even at this time, it is carrying on an effective campaign for workingmen's compensation and industrial education, and is recognized by all leaders of thought as being the one organization always in the foreground in every movement of benefit and interest to the toiling masses.

It is also conducting with a considerable degree of success campaigns both federal and state for the passage of remedial legislation not only in the interest of organized workers, but for the welfare of the general public. Every opportunity to improve the condition of the working people is embraced, and though the results may not be apparent to those who cannot and will not see, still something is being gradually and steadily accomplished.

The conventions of the American Federation of Labor are really "The Parliament of Labor." Here men representing their various organizations, holding sometimes entirely diverging views, meet, become better acquainted, learn more and more of the real hopes and aspirations of the working people, and go forth from the convention with more earnestness of purpose and energy to fight the battle for right and justice.

I believe the American Federation of Labor to be truly representative of the organized labor movement of our country, and further believe that its successes have been because of the fact that the organization and its laws are well grounded, and that its success in the past as well as its success in the future depends entirely upon the policy that it has adopted, and carried out in the Trade Union movement, and if elected I shall endeavor to protect and safeguard the interests of the Cigar Makers' International Union, as well as help in every direction to further and extend the interests of the working people and the trade union movement as exemplified in the policy of the American Federation of Labor.

Yours fraternally,
Thomas F. Tracy.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 1, 1910.

In accepting the nomination for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, it is with a profound appreciation of the importance attached.

Mindful of the inception, growth and progress of the greatest federated body, aware of the rocks upon which similar organizations have been split asunder, I will, if called to occupy a seat in that august body, advocate the development of the principle of departments; to extend and improve those already in existence, with a special consideration for the label trades department, which comes so near home, and will eventually be a powerful factor in exploitation of the union label.

Will urge that jurisdictional lines between trade unions be more distinctly defined, and means provided to adjudicate differences promptly and finally, thus removing an insidious cause for strife and internal warfare between a number of crafts.

The political question is so correlative to the labor movement that it must be faced, and a plan to conserve, rather than waste, the ballots of the wage-earners should be encouraged. Events of the past few years demonstrate that we cannot escape this responsibility. The wage-earning masses will move in one direction politically, only in proportion, and not until thought and conviction crystallize on fundamental principles. We need not be frightened by the advocacy of doctrines that appear impracticable, but should rather invite the most free discussion, trusting that only what is sound will be accepted by the labor movement.

The affiliation of the American Federation of Labor with the International Secretariat is a movement bound to give breadth and scope, and enlist the organization in the world's work.

With all due deference to the pioneers in the movement, my convictions are that the labor movement is comparatively in its infancy, and until we restore to the workers their inherent rights, we must expect to encounter greater struggles, more powerful opposition, and should prepare for it.

W. H. Fitzgerald.

New York, Nov. 26, 1910.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for delegate to the A. F. of L. I desire to state that my sole object is to try, if possible, to help along in a change of policy which I believe is necessary for the success of the labor movement.

While I am opposed to industrial organizations, I am in favor of a more complete understanding between the organizations to the effect that the old adage, that an injury to one is a concern of all, will in the future be a reality instead of the laughing stock that it is now, namely, when contracts are signed with the employer in any industry that no single craft be permitted to sign up an agreement, unless the other crafts of the same industry be consulted, and are also successful in doing likewise, while today every organization is for itself and the devil take the hindmost.

Furthermore I am in favor that when a strike is ordered against any employer where more than one craft is employed, that all other crafts make common cause and go on strike, instead of working with scabs, and permitting the single organization to go down in defeat, as very frequently happens now, and to bring about this kind of coalition will be one of my chief efforts.

I am opposed to any labor leader having any dealings with the Civic Federation because it is only an institution to chloroform organized labor, composed of avowed enemies of organized labor, who do not even employ union men, yes, and who discharge them as soon as they find out that they have them in their employ, and these very non-union employers are placed upon committees to settle disputes between employer and employee, and what can be expected of such friends of labor? I leave to you to ponder over. In my opinion it is a spectacle fit for the gods.

And last but not least, I am opposed to the policy of the leaders of the A. F. of L., in which they request the union men to elect their friends and to defeat their enemies politically, because this policy has proven itself an ignoble failure, and invariably or always results in the election of the enemies and the defeat of the friends of labor.

I stand politically for the Socialist party, first, last, and all the time, as the only party of friends of labor, and that has been proven beyond a shadow of a doubt wherever they held office, and that when they introduced measures calculated to be beneficial to labor the other parties lined up for the defeat of the same.

Space will not permit me to discuss these matters more fully and to bring out the facts, which it would be my delight to do at this time, however my letter of acceptance is very plain, it is not my intention to mislead any member of the International Union, and if any member wishes to cast his or her vote for me under these circumstances, I shall be happy to have them do so, otherwise I would ask them to vote against me. I shall consider every vote cast for me to be a vote in favor of the above named policies.

M. Brown.

East Boston, Mass., Nov. 27, 1910.

Fellow Members:

In accordance with Section 16 I herein enclose my views of what I would strive to do as a representative of the International Union.

The Cigar Makers' Union was founded for the purpose of bettering the condition of those engaged in the making of cigars. I believe in putting in force these fundamentals, first, last and always; cutting loose from all compromising organizations, such as the Civic Federation or similar organizations, which are the creation of the enemy, used only for the purpose of blindfolding the working class so as they, the creators (the founders of the Civic Federation) may continue their exploitation.

I would do my utmost for the solidarity of labor, asking and appealing to them as members of the working class. The creators of all wealth to be not content with the crumbs which our masters throw us, but to close up the ranks, to battle upward and onward for the overthrow of our present system, to drive from our land the poverty, misery and degradation and the substitution of a saner and a more human system—Socialism.

Fraternally,

Patrick Mahoney.

New York City, Nov. 20, 1910.

Fellow Workers: In accepting the nomination so generously accorded me for delegate to the A. F. of L., I do so with an acknowledged sense of appreciation, first, of the honor; second, of the responsibility involved.

While accepting the nomination I desire to say, in my opinion the aim of the American Federation of Labor is to do the greatest good for the largest number. Upon this point all, I think, agree.

Methods to accomplish this is what concerns us most. The Federation should and does voice the sentiments of the majority.

International, National unions and other affiliated bodies stand in the same position toward the Federation that the individual does toward the Union of his craft, and to accomplish results it is just as necessary for Unions to affiliate with the Federation as it is for the individual to join the Union. Every reason we can give for joining the Union holds good in having our Union in the Federation, grounded as it is upon trades union principles, continuously revolutionary in character, its growth slow "but sure." To-day we can truthfully say there is no other Federation of Labor forces in any other country so strong, compact, voluntary in its nature yet powerful in its ability to bring results. The stability of our Federation can best be realized when we consider that in England (the cradle of Unionism) there are four divisions of the labor movement, and in Continental Europe, eight. The Federation being a delegate body, the best representative and delegate, I hold, is he who first understands his own Union and carries out as near as possible the known wishes as expressed in the principles and laws of the Union he represents. I believe in broadening to meet changing conditions, realizing that all permanent, good government rests upon the consent of the governed. Hence it will be my purpose, if elected, to present your ideas and wishes to the best of my ability. I believe if rational methods continue to apply in the future as they have in the past, that the Greatest Federation of Labor the world has ever known will keep on growing in strength and usefulness. I am as impatient as any man in the labor movement for advancement, but realize that the Federation can not go in any direction beyond the expressed ideas and instructions of the men in the ranks. If elected I shall advocate before the Federation that all unions adopt the high dues system and a chain of benefits. I hold, and shall urge, that all unions in or out of the Federation adjust their dues to create a formidable defense fund. Appeals for assistance and the misery following the wake of strikes will disappear; yes, even the strikes, when once we are properly financed. The A. F. of L. organizers can be made even greater agencies for good to assist in more complete organization, closer affiliation, and through state and local bodies form splendid. Inexpensive means to promote the sale of Union Label goods; to encourage Women's Label Leagues, where our sisters, mothers and wives, who spend the large part of our income, may be taught the necessity of purchasing Union goods, thus increasing the demand for the product of our own labor. If elected I shall insist upon the Federation giving all possible assistance in this important work.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. Campbell.

Kansas City, Mo.

Fellow Workmen:

In accepting the nomination as delegate to the American Federation of Labor so generously accorded me, I do so with sincere appreciation of the honor conferred as well as the responsibility inseparably associated with this responsible office. The experience I have been able to absorb as your delegate in the convention of the A. F. of L. warrants me in saying that the trade union movement, as exemplified, typified, and as it finds expression through its accredited delegates is evolutionary.

I subscribe to the doctrine that no government can long endure except that form of government which is formed, executed and maintained by the consent of the governed. Holding, subscribing to and endorsing these views the only logical conclusion is that the A. F. of L. must shape its course to conform to the hopes, aspirations and expressed will of the constituent bodies. While some may truthfully feel that the A. F. of L. should enact certain mandatory laws, the fact still remains that it can with safety adopt only such laws and policies which are in keeping with the ideas and expressed will of the majority of the unions affiliated. I hold that the A. F. of L. should advise, urge, coax, and insist that the American trade union movement shall occupy advanced ground upon all economic, social and political questions affecting the best interest of the producing masses, but I hold that it must at the same time keep pace with concrete, understood and expressed will of the majority of its component bodies.

To my mind the one who best represents is the one who first understands the wishes of his constituents and second fearlessly executes them regardless of personal consequence. I hold the prime necessity is first complete perfection of the highest type of effectual organization in local, central and international unions, and secondly its expression then through accredited delegates into concrete laws in the American Federation of Labor. If elected I should try to the best of my ability to ascertain and execute your will and secondly advise what in my judgment, founded upon experience gained, will best serve the interest of the toiling masses. I favor strict trade autonomy and a voluntary organization resting wholly upon the expressed hopes, aspirations, good will and consent of the governed.

Respectfully,

John T. Smith.

Boston, Mass., November 24, 1910.

Fellow Members:

Having been notified by our International President that I have been nominated for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, and, in accepting the nomination, I desire, in accordance with Sec. 12 (twelve) of our Constitution, to submit the following few words, giving some of the methods I think should be employed to obtain the aims and objects of the A. F. of L.

There are three very important measures that should be made paramount. Until they are obtained, they are as follows:

The injunction bill.

A national child labor law.

The eight-hour bill.

We should use every effort possible to organize the unorganized.

We should go into politics, but not party politics. Politics is the science of government.

Party politics is the science of graft and corruption.

We should have as organizers men and women who are not associated with party politics.

We should have as officers of the A. F. of L. men and women who are wage-earners. This not to apply to those who are holding office in trades unions.

We should advocate that trades unionists disassociate themselves from all political parties and to vote only as trades unionists and for those who will pledge themselves to vote for "Labor's Political Demands," giving to those having a paid-up union card the preference.

Fraternally,

Wm. Standcumbe.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 27, 1910.

Fellow Members:

Permit me to express my appreciation to the members and locals having nominated me as an International Delegate to the American Federation of Labor conventions.

I assure you I fully realize the responsibilities associated therewith.

The aim and object of that august body, in my humble opinion, should be the unification of all the forces of labor on the North American continent, for the avowed purpose of securing for the workers a more equitable share of the products of their toil, improved living conditions and increased opportunities for intellectual advancement of their class.

Through the inventive genius of man industry has become so thoroughly revolutionized that individual craftsmanship has almost become extinct. As a consequence such establishments require mechanics and laborers of various different callings and indispensable to properly operate same, the permanent employing of such workers makes it essential that all amalgamate under one International Union, as applies to a large degree in the mining and brewing industries, which system operate with considerable success and satisfactorily to the vast majority involved. Such a plan appeals to me as a sound, sane and rational scheme of trade union organization and contract agreeable to all engaged in the trade or industry, making an injury to one the concern of all, eliminating the farcical condition whereby one branch of union men in such industry remain at work while five or six other departments of the same industry or vice versa are out struggling to enforce recognition and compliance with their demands, resulting unnecessarily in great sacrifice and misery, and threatening the annihilation of the several organizations involved.

I favor a provision in the constitution of the A. F. of L. requiring of all affiliated organizations that the laws of such unions provide for a strike fund and a weekly allowance in strikes or lockouts of not less than $5 per week, which will largely increase the efficiency of many labor organizations.

In conclusion a word as to the political policy of the A. F. of L. I deem it the duty of the representatives to the American Federation of Labor to advocate, encourage and assist the trade unionist (aside from their economic organization) to promote and support an independent political working class movement whose aim and object is the collective ownership of all the means of production and distribution and the inauguration of industrial freedom.

Yours fraternally,
Phil. H. Mueller.

Danbury, Conn., Nov. 29, 1910.

In compliance with section 16 of the constitution notifying me of my nomination as one of the delegates to represent the Cigar Makers' International Union of America at the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, I will say in accepting the nomination that I believe in the motto of the mother organization, the A. F. of L.—workers of the world, unite. I also believe the A. F. of L. should retain the position it has held since its formation, that of a voluntary organization; and while I believe in trades autonomy I believe that no hard and fast lines should be laid down, but the workers should be given their choice as to what in their judgment is best for their industries in the several localities, should be given some consideration. I having been a delegate from the State Branch at Scranton, Pa., in 1901, and from the Central Labor Union of my city at St. Louis, Mo., in 1910, I find the question of jurisdiction the hardest to overcome of any in those two sessions.

In regard to representation in conventions, I believe that there should be a readjustment in the present representation at the conventions of the A. F. of L., and that the State and Central bodies should have at least one-tenth of the vote that the delegates representing National organizations have; for example, one vote for each thousand members and so on; and that State and Central bodies be taxed according to the number of members affiliated. This would give encouragement to State and Central bodies to be represented at all conventions of the A. F. of L., as many members feel that those delegates come closer to the rank and file of the membership and at present are seated with only one vote. The work of organization is most essential to the success of the A. F. of L., and should be pushed, as it is the first degree in the labor movement. After that is done they can take the second degree—education. Then, and not till then, can we hope to take up the third degree in the labor movement—political action.

Respectfully submitted.

John H. Riley.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 25, 1910.

Having been nominated for the position of delegate to the A. F. of L. by quite a number of unions, I desire to say that I most sincerely thank those unions for their expression of good opinion of me.

The A. F. of L. being a delegated body, made up from the representatives of all trades and callings, is the place where all branches of the trade union movement can bring their troubles, International, National or Local, and expect and find sympathy, and where each and all may consult together to formulate plans whereby all trade unions may, and will, assist each other, and whereby, when occasion demands, the entire power of the trade union movement of all trades and callings may be centered on one object, thereby making a force which cannot well be resisted, provided the object to be attained is right and just.

That the Cigar Makers' International Union may be able to obtain the moral assistance of all branches represented, and render by counsel and experience such assistance in shaping the policy of the A. F. of L. and assist other trades to the full extent of their power. Our representatives should be selected because of their ability to look after the trade union interest in general and our interest in particular. I think there are others more competent than I for the place, but as I neither seek office nor refuse to serve our members when they need me, I have allowed my name to be placed in the list of candidates.

Yours fraternally,
L. P. Sanders.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 29, 1910.

In compliance with the International constitution I hereby submit my views on the aims and objects of the International Union. We have demonstrated to the workers that organization is necessary to secure fair wages, shorter hours of labor and sanitary working conditions by the achievement of our Union. In our craft, as in all others where workers are organized, they enjoy improved working conditions. The International Union should maintain its leadership in the American labor movement; we have set the pace; we have added one beneficial feature after another and demonstrated the practicability of sick, death, traveling and out of work benefits in labor organization, and I hope we will soon have the courage to add old age benefits to our chain, thus increasing the protection to our membership against every possible emergency.

The policy of the A. F. of L. should be to organize the workers on the industrial field and all the resources at their command should be used to that end. The industrial form of organization should be adopted as fast as conditions will permit. All workers in a given industry should be in one organization; thus, if the cigarmakers, stogie makers, cheroot makers, packers and strippers were in one organization, our position would be strengthened in our contest with the Trust.

The workers should organize on the political field. The employers of labor know no party; they support the party that serves their interest. Labor should learn a lesson from the recent election. The financial interest of our country supported the party in power until it developed progressive tendency, which they regarded as inimical to their interest. The INTEREST agreed that a change should be made and the destiny of the people was entrusted to another party. Labor should cease to be a football to be kicked from one side to another, and support a party which represents Labor in the political field.

Your fraternally,
A. P. Bower.

Jacksonville, Ill.

Fellow Craftsmen:

I have been a member of the International Union since Jan. 10, 1885, and have watched industrial developments, particularly in recent years, and find that our unions are not keeping pace with this development, which is not the fault of our own union alone, but to the retarding conservative influence of the American Federation of Labor, an organization comprising two million of the best skilled mechanics, artisans and laborers in the country, not in a true spirit of solidity and fraternity, but in a mass of separate units of craft organizations, each acting in its own interest alone in its dealings with their employers, so that in some instances we have a number of various kinds of unions representing those employed by a firm or corporation, each making its own contract with the employer regardless of the others.

The policy of the A. F. of L. in the past has been such that in the case of strikes, one of the necessary weapons of our movement, no adequate system was followed in its conduct, or in its financial support, thus nearly always entailing defeat after an unnecessarily long period of idleness and suffering.

I believe in union wages, hours and conditions as amelioration, but am for the abolition of wage slavery as emancipation.

I am for a change in our policy, compatible with the development of industry.

I don't believe in our unions scabbing it on each other during strikes, nor do I believe in a voluntary financial support of strikes, nor even in our obsolete method of financing strikes.

Is there any excuse for the long drawn out idleness of the Hatters in their last strike, when our boasted two million members and their friends are all supposed to wear union label hats? Was there any excuse for the long period of idleness of the Miners the past summer, while a goodly portion of these two million members were working in affiliated occupations? Is there any excuse for the lack of financial support of the Tampa Cigar Makers in their present strike, on the part of the greater portion of these two million members? If it were not for the indomitable spirit of manhood and unionism in these 8,000 strikers, and their favorable economic environment as compared with their northern brothers, the meager support given them through our obsolete methods would be insufficient to keep them standing firm.

I am for making the A. F. of L. and all affiliated unions true defense organizations, more in keeping with the spirit which prompted their inception, and not as we have them now, wasting their time over jurisdictional disputes and passing unsupported resolutions.

I am for, and I hope the members of the International Union will select delegates to the A. F. of L. and officers of the International Union, who are possessed of this spirit of industrial solidity, so that a period of reconstruction can begin, and destructive methods be put an end to.

I accept the nomination for delegate to the A. F. of L.

L. P. Hoffman.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 14, 1910.

Fellow Workmen:

In pursuance to the laws of the C. M. I. U. that candidates for International office write a communication for the Journal expressing their views as to the aims and methods of the Cigar Makers' International Union, I submit herewith my own, in connection with my acceptance of the nomination as delegate to the American Federation of Labor.

I have been a member of the International Union continuously for over thirty years. I have watched the progress of our organization through the years of trial and sacrifice, and at this time I am more of a believer in the fundamental principles and policies of the Trade Union movement than I have ever been. We hear a great deal at this time about "changed conditions in our trade," and we are told that our policies must undergo a change to meet these conditions. In contemplating any change of policy in our organization, or in the administration of our methods, it is well to take stock. I am of the opinion that certain changes might be considered, but we must use extreme care, and any change of policy must not be at the cost of Trade Union principles. I believe the C. M. I. U. should at all times be progressive, but not radical; it should not be "ultra-conservative," but safe. I believe in maintaining and if possible strengthening our splendid and efficient beneficial features. I am in line with ex-President Strasser when he says, "The Trade Union is (or should be) the savings bank of the working classes. I most heartily subscribe to the policy of high dues and substantial benefits. I believe that the scope of our educational work should be enlarged and that we should always be found in the foremost ranks of true Trades Unionism. I believe that our policy should be such that we, by our untiring agitation for right and justice, would be an inspiration for all the toilers of our time. We must show by our every action in the labor movement that we are sincere; people do not care for what we say, but for what we do. In conclusion, I wish to state that if elected as your delegate to the future conventions of the American Federation of Labor, it will be a most cherished pleasure to carry out the wishes of the members of our great and noble organization, the Cigar Makers' International Union of America. No frills, no fads for me or from me, but straight cut, old fashioned "orthodox" Trade Unionism.

With kindest thanks to those unions that have placed me in nomination, I am,

Fraternally,

O. P. Smith.

Oneida, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1910.

Fellow Workmen: In accepting the nomination for delegate to represent the Cigar Makers' International Union at the A. F. of L. convention, I wish to thank the many locals that tendered me the nomination for fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh vice-president, I also wish to thank those that nominated me for delegate and to assure them that I appreciate the honor highly. My reason for declining to run for the executive board is because I believe the present board to be faithful and efficient. My idea of the aims and objects of the International Union as I see it are as follows: First, to organize the whole craft, and as we organize and educate to be ever mindful of the supreme object in view, the final emancipation of all the people. The fundamental principles of the Cigar Makers' Union need no comment from me, as all members are well acquainted with them. I am a staunch believer in our union. Having been a member for thirty years I have seen it grow in numbers; have seen it grow financially, and have seen it grow in efficiency until it is the wonder of all men who come in contact with it.

One of the most important things for the consideration of the cigar makers at this time is their label. We should bend all our efforts toward getting a more systematic and uniform plan for advertising our label, and should we have a convention in the near future I believe no more important question could come up for discussion.

The duties of a delegate representing the International Union are very important and should be so considered by all delegates. The delegate should at all times remember that he is there for the good and welfare of his organization and for that reason he should sink all personal ambitions and have an eye single for the benefit of his organization. As a trades union the Cigar Makers' Union is a success and I believe will go on to larger success. Look back a few years at the growth of our union in membership and in benefits, look at the administration of our affairs, all showing fine executive ability and efficiency to a high degree, and yet all so simple and comprehensive that we of the rank and file who wish to can very readily become conversant with the manner in which our business is conducted. Yes, it is an organization to be proud of. If elected I will perform my duty as I see it.

With best wishes, I am very truly yours,

W. R. Ferguson.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 5, 1910.

In accepting the nomination for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, I do so with appreciation and knowledge of the responsibility I assume.

If elected I shall strictly adhere to the principles of trades unionism and at all times guard the interest of the Cigar Makers' International Union, its members and our label.

I wish to state that it has been my conviction that the trades unions have done and will do more than any other agency to protect and advance the best interests of the wage workers, and that the rights to which the workers aspire will be better protected and eventually realized through the unity, solidarity and fraternity of the trades union movement as exemplified by the American Federation of Labor to-day, and in this movement the Cigar Makers' International Union stands second to none.

I believe in adding to the present methods of the labor movement, as knowledge backed by actual experience and good judgment may dictate.

Fraternally,

Henry F. Hilfers.

Fellow Craftsmen:

I accept the nomination of delegate to the American Federation of Labor and, in accordance with Section 12 of the Constitution of the International Union, which states that the delegate shall give the aims and objects of the American Federation of Labor and the methods which the candidates would advocate for the achievement of them. The aim of the American Federation of Labor is to bring all organized labor under its banner in order that labor may take concerted action upon all matters that they may be confronted with. It is also the aim of the American Federation of Labor to bring into the fold of organized labor those who are still unorganized, and by their organizers to inculcate them with the spirit of unionism and fraternity.

It has also been its aim to join the various local unions into international and national unions, organize state federations and local central bodies, and recently the formation of a number of trade departments. It has persistently fought for the reduction of the hours of labor to eight per day and the success of its efforts is incalculable. It has fought for the abolition of child labor and the abolition of the sweat shop. Year after year its aim has been to secure legislation in the interest of the whole of the working classes, and also endeavored to defeat legislation that was inimical to the welfare of the masses. It has always been its aim to protect and advance the welfare of labor.

The ultimate aim, I believe, is to bring into affiliation with each other every labor organization in existence, thus forming an international federation for the emancipation of labor, under the trade union banner.

The methods to accomplish all that is desired by the trades unions cannot be done by making and laying out certain plans.

The labor movement is evolutionary and the conditions of today will not be those of tomorrow. The federation is proceeding upon right lines by dividing the country up into districts and stationing men there to organize the unorganized into one grand labor movement. When this is accomplished the American Federation of Labor will have fulfilled the mission for which it was organized.

Yours fraternally,

Daniel Harris.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12, 1910.

Your letter of the 7th inst., informing me of my nomination for the office of delegate to the American Federation of Labor and my eligibility to become a candidate in so far as the nominations go, also calling my attention to Section 16, which requires candidates accepting the nomination to give their views of the methods and aims of the American Federation of Labor, has been received.

In compliance with said section of the Constitution I accept the nomination and will endeavor to briefly state my views. The American Federation of Labor is the outgrowth of the various impracticable methods to solidify the many organizations of labor in a compact movement to provide for more united action on the part of all for carrying on the great work in the interest of the toilers.

Through such a system of federation the various branches of labor have been brought closer together and each and all made to more fully realize the importance of the general advancement for the benefit of humanity. The American Federation of Labor does not abridge the right of any affiliated craft to exercise the fullest autonomy in conducting its internal affairs, but does seek through the granting of its certificates of affiliation to its various branches to regulate the jurisdiction covered or controlled by such branch and to enforce such regulation.

Too much cannot be said of the educational influence that is now exerted by the great National labor body, nor the influence that it has exerted since its coming into existence. We often hear it said that our present system of organization is wrong that we must provide a greater system of industrialism among the workers and that the trades' organizations instead of being confined to certain defined limitations must be permitted to expand and to accept in membership those who might be employed in certain vocations contingent to that of the membership, of such organization. This system of organization now exists to some extent in some organizations as, for instance, the Brewery Workers control all employees working in and around the breweries and the United Mine Workers control the membership of all workers around the mines, but with this system of industrialism each of these National organizations maintains the strictest autonomy in the conduct of its internal affairs.

It cannot be said that the American labor movement is perfect, but what great movement is? No great movement has made such rapid strides in the face of such great opposition as has the labor movement under the conservative policy pursued by the American Federation of Labor. Guided by wisdom, good judgment and an appeal to reason has always characterized the work and has brought the labor movement up to the highest standard.

With best wishes, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

Clarence Gaumer.

Peoria, Ill.

Yours of the 7th inst., received and contents noted. I will say in answer that I have not had time to go into a long statement of my position on the question at hand, but will say that I believe that the A. F. of L. should do all in its power to bring into its fold all organized and unorganized workers even though we would have to drop some of our fossilized ideas. Some things I believe: that we should own our own print shop and induce National and International unions to co-operate in getting out a journal that would reach every union man in North America; that we should own a home for our president; that we should have a sinking fund of at least one dollar per member to be used in case of a strike which the National or International union is not able to handle; that no one should hold office in the labor movement that holds a political office, either elective or appointive. I believe that one office to one member is sufficient. Farther, I believe we should endorse that political party or person that comes nearest to our views.

Yours fraternally,

W. E. Stacy.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Having been duly notified of my nomination for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, I herewith give you my views not only in the industrial, but also in the economic, political and social fields. In the industrial field, I believe that each individual is entitled to the full product of his or her labor. In the economic field, I believe that each individual has an equal right to the free gifts of nature among which are land, air and sunshine.

In the political field, I believe that each individual should have equal suffrage regardless of sex, color, or former condition of servitude.

In the social field, I believe that the values which are created by the public, are the proper sources for public revenues, leaving all individual earned values to the creators thereof.

Thanking you for the honor bestowed upon me, I remain for righteousness,

Michael Eckert.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In compliance with the constitution I submit my views, accepting the nomination for delegate to the A. F. of L.

1st. I hold the C. M. I. U. to be the acme of pure straight cut, and successful trades unionism.

2d. During the short period of its existence it has accomplished more genuine, and permanently beneficial results to its members than all the quack nostrums, put up by visionary doctrinaires and political mountebanks for the regeneration of the human race.

3rd. The philosophy of the C. M. I. U. is plain, logical and easy of comprehension to the general intellect of the masses, it has no fine spun theories or ponderous themes of political economy to contend with.

4th. The C. M. I. U. applies its knowledge to matter of fact everyday efforts, in ameliorating the condition of its members, by increasing wages, shortening hours of labor, better sanitary arrangements in workshops, as well as the abolition of child and sweatshop labor. To this every sane, practical worker must, and does agree; there is no room for strife and discord on such a platform.

5th. The C. M. I. U. also provides relief for its unfortunate, sick and unemployed members. It buries its dead, and leaves a handsome sum of money to their widows, and orphans.

6th. The C. M. I. U. in following the above lines is every day creating a better, happier, "Now," and by doing so, lays the foundation for a surer better morrow; the present concerns us the most, for we live today and are gone the next; the future belongs to the dead.

The above sums up the aims, ideals and real work of the C. M. I. U., also of the A. F. of L. and Trades unionism generally. I hold further that its basis is as broad as the Universe; that it knows no creed or dogma, no race or nationality, and stands second to none in its loyalty to liberty, tolerance, free thought, free speech and press. I also hold that it is elastic and readily responds to every crisis, or circumstance necessary to the welfare of wageworkers; that the pure straight-cut trade union is an instrument by which we can meet any emergency, whether it is of social, economic or political nature and that it has advanced the social, economic, and political status of wageworkers more than all other agencies combined, and last but not least, that it is the only real "class conscious" labor movement in the world, since it consists of nothing but wageworkers, is managed by wageworkers on a democratic system of government, and is not controlled or influenced from the top by a coterie of so-called intellectuals, consisting of "Shyster lawyers," "bogus professors," ministers, and ex-Priests without pulpits. In conclusion, I pledge myself to carry out the above, that I will not carry water on both shoulders and shall resist with all my force any attempt to attach the C. M. I. U. as a tail to some partisan political kite. Yours fraternally,

John S. Kirchner.

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of regret and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days.

Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill.—Ed Wilson No. 77957. As this party owed many private loans, secretaries will take notice and cease publishing same.

Union 445, Billings, Mont.—S. Ohland. Union attended funeral in a body. Remains taken to Oaks, N. Dakota, for burial.

Union 130, Saginaw, Mich.—Herman Eggert, who died Oct. 12th. Union furnished pallbearers and attended funeral in a body.

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—Fred Freitag, No. 16387, who died Nov. 22d.

Union No. 129, Denver, Colo.—Ricardo Rodriguez No. 119649, who died Oct. 15th. Funeral in charge of Union. Interment at Riverside cemetery.

Wm. H. Bailey No. 58126, who died Oct. 19th. The remains were sent to his home in Grand Haven, Mich., for burial. Mr. Bailey's death was decided by the coroner to have been caused by him shooting himself in the head at the Victor Hotel, 18th and Larimer streets, early in the morning of the 19th, but the remains were not discovered until about 11 o'clock that day. The case was such that the coroner decided it suicide without holding an inquest. The relatives, however, are not satisfied and have started an investigation.

Union 14, Chicago—Carl Gaertner, 65 years old, who died July 8, 1910; John Walker, 62 years, who died July 25, 1910; Peter F. Leary, 50 years, who died Aug. 3, 1910; Adolph Domke, 42 years, who died Sept. 27, 1910; Chas. E. Meier, 52 years, who died Oct. 3, 1910; Herm. Kohr, 50 years, who died Oct. 18, 1910; J. Arnold Barre, 68 years, who died Nov. 1, 1910; Ernst Stockman, 53 years, who died Nov. 8, 1910; Robt. Wehr, 58 years, who died Nov. 18, 1910; Edward West, 24 years, who died Nov. 23, 1910; Teresa Duschaneck, 6 years, who died Nov. 24, 1910; Louis Schroeder, 53 years, who died Dec. 1, 1910; Emil Roth, 60 years, who died Dec. 1, 1910.

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 6, 1910.

To G. W. Perkins.

Dear Sir: Cigarmakers Union 446, Norristown, Pa., wish to thank the following unions for the aid extended to them while on strike at the factory of W. K. Gresh & Sons:

Union 3, $5.00; 4, $5.00; 6, $3.00; 12, $5.00; 25, $2.00; 33, $5.00; 39, $2.00; 41, $2.00; 44, $2.00; 48, $2.00; 58, $5.00; 81, $2.00; 90, $2.00; 97, 10.00; 94, $1.00; 107, $3.50; 114, $4.00; 122, $2.00; 129, $5.00; 132, $2.00; 141, $3.00; 146, $1.00; 165, $25.00; 172, $1.00; 174, $1.00; 179, $2.00; 231, $1.00; 247, $1.00; 250, 2.00; 144, $5.00; 242, $5.00; 316, $2.50; 321, $1.00; 357, $2.00; 400, $0.50; 414, $1.00; 426, $2.00; 484, $1.00; 486, $2.00.

Los gremios de oficios son la más grande institución del mundo.

Esto porque protegen la educacion, desarraigan la ignorancia y reunen los obreros en una indisoluble masa sobre bases que son del agrado de todos.

Ningun trabajador, hombre ó mujer, ha negado jamás que mejores sueldos, horas más cortas de trabajo y condiciones sanitarias de tal leres mejoradas no sean una buena cosa. Ningun hombre, ninguna mujer de buen juicio ha negado jamás que estos propositos puedan más facilmente ser alcanzados per los gremios de oficios y la actividad de estos.

Muchos difieran de opinion, y con mucha violencia, sobre creencias religiosas, políticas, sobre el vestido en general, lo que ha uno de comer (cuando lo podemos obtener), y sobre casi todo en la vida, y sin embargo, son de la misma opinion sobre el asunto de obtener mejores sueldos, etc., y aseguramos nosotros sin temor de ser contradecidos de una manera decisiva que los gremios de oficios son el mejor medio á nuestra disposición para alcanzar los propósitos neustros en este sentido.

De lo arriba mencionado resulta púes naturalmente que el desarrollo, robustecimiento y mejoramiento de nuestras uniones han de ser la premlante preocupación de todos.

Aunque sea verdad que los gremios, hayan obtenido maravallas especialmente en nuestro propio gremio, la única razón por la cual no han alcanzado resultados más considerables todavia para nosotros y los demás, es que los que no pertenecen á las uniones por razones que ellos mismos tal vez conocen mejor, persisten absteniéndose de formar parte.

Para nuestra propia preservación, el bien de los demás y todo en general, nosotros deberíamos hacer todos los esfuerzos posibles para fortalecer á nuestro gremio y á todos los otros gremios. Como el movimiento de los gremios de oficios lo entienden mejor nuestros propios miembros y los que han de venir y el público en general, nuestros gremios han de crecer más rápidamente y han de recibir también Quelques critiques du mouvement des associations ouvrières prétendent que nous n'avons pas plus d'argent aujourd'hui, malgré le fait que les unions ont fait augmenter les salaires, que nous n'en avions avant. Cette déclaration premièrement n'est pas vraie; et deuxièmement, si même elle l'était, personne ne peut cependant nier que nous dépensons au moins de dix à cent pour cent de plus que nous ne faisons à l'avènement des unions et que leurs effets bienfaisants se fussent fait sentir.

La vérité est que non seulement nous vivons mieux et dépensons plus d'argent à présent qu'auparavant, mais aussi nous avons plus d'argent à mettre de côté pour ce proverbial "jour de pluie."

Il est peut-être vrai que la plupart d'entre nous, nous dépensons tout ce que nous gagnons, de toutes façons, mais qui voudrait retourner aux jours où l'on travaillait de longues heures pour un petit salaire, de préférence aux heures plus courtes et aux salaires comparativement meilleurs que nous recevons aujourd'hui.

Ceux qui ont atteint ou dépassé la cinquantaine savent, et disons-le ici pour le plus grand profit de ceux qui sont plus jeunes, que la moyenne des ouvriers vivent mieux aujourd'hui que la moyenne des patrons ou hommes d'affaires vivait il y a cinquante, soixante-quinze ou cent ans.

Ceux qui ont cinquante ans ou davantage peuvent se rappeler, d'après leur propre expérience ou leurs observations, qu'un piano, un tapis ou des meubles de luxe, et de la viande trois fois par jour, étaient choses totalement inconnues à l'ouvrier de cette époque.

Qui les a mises dans les demeures de la moyenne des ouvriers d'aujourd'hui, des ouvriers "organisés"? Tout le monde sait que ce sont les unions ouvrières.

Il est vrai qu'il y a encore place pour un monde de progrès et nous déclarons, sans redouter une contradiction qui ne soit pas réfutable, que les améliorations dans la vie et la condition des ouvriers suivront l'activité unioniste dans l'avenir aussi sûrement qu'elles l'ont suivie dans le passé.

Le vrai mot d'ordre est: Ne désertez pas! Marchez toujours avec le bon, vieux, substantiel mouvement des unions ouvrières. Prenons la résolution bien arrêtée de le fortifier, de le rendre plus énergique et plus utile encore. On peut le faire, on le fera.

Une revue soigneuse du mouvement ouvrier et des conditions actuelles du travail, fortifie la déclaration que nous avons toujours faite et que nous renouvellons et affirmons à nouveau: Que le labeur doit pourvoir à son propre salut et en puisant dans ses propres rangs. Il n'y a pas besoin de profondes pensées pour arriver à la conclusion sur la manière dont ce but peut être atteint. Tout le monde sait, excepté ceux qui sont aveuglés par les préjugés ou le manque d'expérience, que le mouvement ouvrier est le plan le plus simple, le plus absolument sûr et certain et le seul en un mot, d'après lequel nous devons continuer à travailler jusqu'à ce que tous les ouvriers soient complètement organisés. Alors les salaires augmenteront rapidement, les heures de travail se raccourciront, les conditions deviendront meilleures et nous serons à même d'absorber la part qui nous revient de la richesse que nous créons, sans égard à la forme de gouvernement sous laquelle nous vivrons alors. Tout le monde est d'accord sur le point que nous voulons de meilleurs salaires et des meilleures conditions d'existence et tout le monde sait que nous avons obtenues deux résultats grâce à nos unions. Nos conditions de vie et de travail déjà fort améliorées, nous les avons obtenues par l'activité des unions de métiers, et non autrement. Pendant que les partis politiques, les entreprises co-opératives, et bien d'autres plans visionnaires ayant pour but de hâter "l'ère nouvelle" des travailleurs se sont envolés en fumée légère, ont fait faillite, le mouvement des unions ouvrières n'a, au contraire, fait qu'avancer sans échec, augmentant sans cesse en nombres et en utilité tout comme nous avons toujours prédit qu'elles le feraient. Les unions de métiers ont vécu en dépit de l'opposition de nos ennemis naturels du dehors et de la tiédeur de ceux d'entre nous qui doutent et de la mauvaise volonté de ceux qui se plaignent tout le temps, et, ce qui vaut encore mieux, elles continueront à marcher de l'avant, tout comme par le passé. Les ouvriers n'ont jamais été trompés ni égarés par les avocats du mouvement unioniste.

Les unions ouvrières ont fait tout ce que ses défenseurs ont prétendu qu'elles feraient. Nuls faux-espoirs, nuls étincelants avènements de rêve n'ont été promis ni affirmés. Les défenseurs des unions de métiers ont toujours dit et disent maintenant encore, que la mouvement est forcément lent, évolutif, constructif, protectif et qu'il est le seul moyen par lequel tous peuvent s'unir pour obtenir de meilleurs conditions de vie et de travail. Les unions ouvrières sont composées de travailleurs SEULEMENT et est strictement un mouvement de classe. D'autres mouvements comprennent des capitalistes, et autres gens non-productifs, visionnaires ou hâtifs, qui ne savent pas où ils vont, mais qui croient cependant qu'ils sont en route, alors qu'ils ne sont en route que vers la discorde, la confusion et les nuages. Les unions ouvrières savent ce qu'elles veulent, comment elles peuvent l'obtenir, et chaque jour elles obtiennent des résultats, et marchent en vrais travailleurs, hommes ou femmes, épaule à épaule, la tête haute sur la route pacifique, mais SURE qui mène aux conditions meilleurs de travail et de vie. Serrez-vous autour du vieux mouvement ouvrier, déjà éprouvé dans cent batailles; c'est votre ami, votre espoir, votre ambition et votre salut final.

Nous avons récemment entendu un membre politique agissant d'une union déclarer que les unions ouvrières ne sont que des palliatifs et que malgré les unions, la condition des ouvriers n'était virtuellement pas meilleure aujourd'hui qu'il y a vingt-cinq ou trente ans. Plus grand mensonge ne fut jamais proféré; une plus grande injustice diffamation des unions ouvrières n'a jamais été émise.

Ceux qui étaient dans le mouvement des unions ouvrières il y a trente ans et ceux qui ont assez de cervelle pour absorber ce qu'ils lisent ou entendre dire, savent que les unions ouvrières ont virtuellement aboli le système dit "truck," les magasins de vol manifeste et les emprunts au contre-maitre à un taux usuraire.

Il y a trente ans, nous avions, dans la plupart des métiers, des payes mensuelles, et la pauvre victime qui empruntait le plus au contre-maitre au taux de deux à cinq pour cent, avaient les meilleurs "jobs," mais, hélas! ne voyaient jamais venir un véritable jour de paye. A la fin du mois, il recevait, il est vrai, sa paye, mais moins le gros pour cent et il devait naturellement recommencer à emprunter à tant pour cent dès le commencement du mois. Ces malheureux devaient faire leurs achats dans des magasins de la compagnie, ou s'ils ne voulaient pas des magasins de la compagnie, ils devaient s'adresser à quelque magasin qui (eût) confiance en eux, et dans les deux cas, ils avaient à payer des prix exorbitants. Si le mouvement ouvrier n'avait fait que cela pour les ouvriers, il aurait déjà droit à un beau monument de reconnaissance, au lieu de la montagne d'insultes qu'il reçoit quotidiennement des travailleurs qu'il a ainsi rendus plus heureux.

Les unions de métiers ont fait davantage. Elles ont haussé les salaires, diminué les heures de travail et d'une façon générale, amélioré la condition des ouvriers. La seule raison pour laquelle elles n'ont pas fait davantage, c'est la mas se abstentionniste de ceux qui ne veulent pas "en être."

Le fait est que les unions ont toujours fait de la politique, non pas de la politique en faveur de tel ou tel, ni pour obtenir un emploi ou un poste à un tel ou à un tel, mais toute sorte de politique susceptible d'amener un soulagement immédiat aux travailleurs. Chaque amélioration individuelle dans la condition des travailleurs d'aujourd'hui a été le résultat direct d'une agitation unioniste. Les lois sur le travail des enfants, les lois de protection des femmes, les inspections d'usines, les lois d'hygiène des ateliers, les sauvegardes contre les machines dangereuses, les vestibules fermés pour les tranéas, cent et davantage lois profitables et bienfaisantes et, en un mot, toutes les améliorations dans la vie des travailleurs qui ont été bienfaisantes, ont été le résultat direct de l'activité unioniste.

Tous ceux qui ont le jugement sain savent cela et le reconnaissent fort bien.

Algunos de los que critican al movimiento de unión de los gremios dicen que no tenemos más dinero hoy día, á pesar del hecho que las uniones han hecho alzar los sueldos, que el que teníamos ántes. Esta declaración, primeramente no es cierta, y segundamente, si aún lo fuera, nadie puede negar que á lo menos gastamos de diez á ciento por ciento más ahora que lo que se gastaba entre nosotros ántes que el movimiento principiara á hacer sentir su utilidad y su eficacia.

El hecho es que no sólamante vivimos mejor ahora y gastamos más dinero que ántes, sino que también tenemos más dinero que economizar para el proverbial "día de lluvia."

Puede ser que la mayoría gasta todo lo que gana, pero ¿quien quisiera volver á esa época donde se trabajaba más largo ganando menos plata, con preferencia á la época presente, donde se gana más trabajando menos, hablando, es verdad, comparativamente?

Los que han alcanzado la edad de cincuenta años ó más, saben, y digámoslo aquí para los que son más jóvenes, que el obrero mediano vive mejor hoy día que el patrón, mediano también, lo hacía hace cincuenta, setenta y cinco ó cien años.

Los que tienen más de cincuenta años saben, sea por experiencia propia, sea por observación, que un plano, una alfombra y muebles de lujo, y carne tres veces al día, eran cosas desconocidas para un obrero de aquella época.

¿Quien ha colocado esas cosas en la casa del obrero mediano, organizado, eso sí, de hoy día? Todo el mundo sabe que son las uniones los que lo han logrado hacer.

Es verdad que hay sitio todavía para un mundo de mejoras, y afirmamos sin miedo a que nos contradiga alguien, que el mejoramiento en la vida y en la condición general de los obreros seguirán la actividad de las uniones de gremios en el futuro como lo ha estado haciendo en el pasado.

Quédese Ud. firme, no hay otra palabra; siga Ud. con el viejo y sólido movimiento cerlo. Formemos la resolución de fortalecerlo, de aumentar su utilidad para nosotros. Eso se pueda hacer; y lo haremos!

Hace poco oímos decir a un miembro político de una unión que las uniones de gremios solo son paliativos y que a pesar de las uniones, la condición de los obreros es hoy día casi la misma que hace veinticinco ó treinta años. Nunca se ha proferido falsedad más grande. Nunca se ha proferido falsedad más grande contra el movimiento obrero.

Los que formaban parte del movimiento obrero hace treinta años y los que tienen suficientes sesos para asimilarse lo que leen ó oyen decir, saben que las uniones obreras han virtualmente abolido al sistema llamado "truck" a las tiendas de robo manifiesto y a la costumbre desastrosa de tomar fiado de los capataces.

Hace treinta años, en casi todos los gremios, se recibía el sueldo cada mes de un golpe y la pobre víctima que pedía prestado al capataz de á dos á cinco por ciento mensual, tenían, es verdad, el mayor puesto, pero nunca recibían verdaderamente al dinero que habían ganado por su labor. Cuando llegaba el día pago, allá iban los intereses usurarios, y por lo mismo tenían que pedir fiado al capataz cuando aún solo principiaba el mes. Esos desdichados tenían que comprar en tiendas de la compañía, ó en tiendas que querían tener confianza en ellos, y de ámbos modos, les cargaban precios horribles. Si el movimiento obrero hubiera hecho nada más que acabar con esos abusos, ¿no le parece á Ud. que merecería un monumento de gratitud, en vez de la suma de insultos que va recibiendo cada día de los mismos obreros que tanto ha beneficiado?

Pero ya sabemos que los gremios han hecho más. Han alzado á los salarios, han reducido las horas de labor, y, generalmente hablando, han mejorado la condición de los obreros. La única razón por la cual no han hecho más todavía, es que han tenido que luchar contra los nonunionistas.

El hecho es que los uniones de gremios siempre se han mezclado decuestiones políticas, de política sin partidarios, y nó para obtener una colocación á fulano ni un puesto á sutano, pero de la política que podía ocasionar una mejora inmediata de las condiciones de los trabajadores. Cada mejoramiento del estado de los obreros ha resultado de la agitación unionista. Las leyes contra la labor de los niños, las leyes para proteger á las mujeres, las de inspección de fábricas, las de talleres higiénicos, las de protección contra maquinarias peligrosas, las de tranvías con vestíbulo, en una palabra, todas las mejoras en la vida de los obreros que han sido de real ventaja, son el resultado directo de la actividad de las uniones de gremios. Todos los que tienen el juicio recto lo saben muy bien.

Una detenida revista del movimiento de las uniones de gremios y de las condiciones presentes del trabajo y de la vida, fortalece la declaración que siempre hemos hecho y que hacemos aquí nuevamente: Que los obreros han de stender á su propia salvación y que los medios de obtenerla, los encontrarán en ellos mismos. No hay que pensar con mucha profundidad para llegar á la conclusión sobre la manera por la cual este objeto se puede alcanzar. Todo el mundo sabe, con la excepción de los que ciegan las prevenciones ó la falta de experiencia, que el movimiento obrero es el plan más sencillo, más seguro y más cierto, que se ha re seguir hasta que queden completamente organizados todos los obreros. Entonces los salarios aumentarán rápidamente, las horas de labor se harán más cortas, las condiciones se harán mejores y podremos asimilarnos la parte que nos toca de las riquezas que producir nuestro trabajo, sin que tenga que ver nada en este perfeccionamiento la forma de gobierno bajo la cual trabajaremos. Todos están de acuerdo para desear mejores salarios y mejores condiciones de existencia, y todos saben que las mejoras que hemos logrado obtener hasta la fecha, lo han sido gracias á las uniones. Nuestras condiciones de vida y de labor ya se han mejorado much, y ese resultado lo han obtenido las actividades de las uniones de gremios. Mientras que los partidos políticos, las empresas coperativas, ó de terrenos, y muchos otros planes visionarios que tienen por objeto apresurar la llegada de la "era del trabajador" se han disuelto en humo, han fracasado por completo, el movimiento de los gremios, al contrario, ha seguido, adelantando sin cesar, aumentando siempre de volumen, lo mismo que de utilidad, como lo teníamos predicho. Las uniones de gremios han vivido á pesar de la oposición de nuestros enemigos naturales de afuera y aún de los miembros tibios ó estorbos de adentro, y, aún más seguirán ellos ganando, como hasta ahora lo han hecho. Nunca han sido engañados los obreros por los defensores del movimiento unionista.

Las uniones de gremios han hecho todo lo que sus defensores han predicho que harían. Ningunas esperanzas engañosas, ningunas perspectivas deslumbradoras, han sido prometidas ni abiertas por ellos. Los defensores de las uniones de gremios han dicho siempre y repitan hasta ahora, que el movimiento ha de ser lento, ha de seguir su natural evolución de edificación y de protección y que es el solo medio por el cual todos se podrán unir para obtener mejores condiciones de vida y de trabajo. Las uniones de gremios son compuestas de los UNICOS obreros y es estrictamente un movimiento de clase. Otros movimientos incluyen millonarios, gente que no produce, visionaria ó de poca paciencia, que no sabe donde vá, pero se imagina estar en camino. Verdad, está en camino, pero hacía la discordia, la confusión y las nubes. Las uniones obreras saben lo que quieren, como lo pueden obtener y cada día van obteniendo resultados y caminan como han de caminar los verdaderos obreros, sean hombres ó mujeres, espalda contra espalda, la cabeza alta y sobre la vía, harto sana, es verdad, pero SEGURA, que conduce al mejoramiento ónal de la vida y del trabajo. Quédense, pues, agrupados alrededor del viejo estandarte que tantas batallas ha visto yá; es su mejor guía, su única esperanza y en sus pliegos reposa la salvación final.

Některí kritikové uniového hnutí praví, že nemáme více peněz dnes, vzor tomu že unie zvýšily mzdy, nežli jsme měli dříve. Předně to není pravda a za druhé, i kdyby to byla pravda, žádný neupřít že v tom případě jsme vydali od 10 do 100 procent více peněz nežli dříve, čímž jest užitečnost a potřebnost uniového hnutí pádně a srozumitelně dokázána.

Co se skutečnosti týče, tu jest nezvratnou pravdou, že my nyní nejen lépe žijeme a více peněz vydáme, nýbrž že nám také zbývá nyní více peněz na tak zvaná "stará kolena."

Jest to třeba pravdou, že většina z nás utratí vše co vydělá, ale kdo z nás by chtěl jíti nazpět do těch časů, kdy dlouhé pracovní hodiny a nízká mzda byly našim údělem!—zajisté, že dáme přednost nynějším kratším hodinám a u porovnání toho lepším mzdám nyní placeným.

Ti, již dosáhli věku 50 let a více, zajisté ví— a řekneme si to na prospěch těch jež přijdou po nás—že průměrný dělník žije dnes lépe nežli průměrný zaměstnavatel neb obchodník žil padesát, pět a sedmdesát neb sto roků zpět.

Ti padesáti či více-letí si pamatují a mohou říci ze zkušenosti a pozorování, že piano, karpět neb drahý nábytek a maso třikrát za den nebylo "v módě," bylo neznámo v tehdejších časech v rodině dělníka.

Kdo dal dnes tyto věci do rodiny průměrného organizovaného dělníka? Každý ví, že řemeslné unie to učinily!

Jestě jest dosti místa na opravy, pravda, a my si také dovolujeme říci, bez obavy že náš náhled někdo úspěšně vyvrátí, že pokrok v žití a stavu dělnictva následovati bude uniovou činností i v budoucnosti, právě tak jak tomu bylo v minulosti.

Vytrvatí jest to pravé slovo; vytrvejme při našem dobrém, starém, nezdolném uniovém hnutí. Umiňme si je rozšířit, posílit—umiňme je zdatnějším nežli bylo dosud. Může—a bude jistě tak učiněno!

Nedávno slyšeli jsme jednoho politicky činného člena unie prohlásiti, že unie jsou pouze paliativní, t. j. že jenom zdánlivě bídu a nedostatek zmírňují a umenšují a že vzor své existenci stav dělnictva není prakticky o nic lepším nežli byl pět a dvacet neb třicet roků zpět. Větší bezpráví nebylo nikdy učiněno—žádná větší pomluva nikdy ve tváře uním nebyla vržena!

Ti, již byli v uniovém hnutí před třiceti roky jakož i ti jež mají dosti rozumu pochopiti co četli a slyšeli ví, že to byly unie jež odstranily systém výměry zboží, vyssávající stavy a lichvářské vypůjčování si peněz od formánů.

Před třiceti roky zavedeny byly ve většině řemeslech měsíční splátky a taková ubohá obět, kteráž si nejvíce od formana vypůjčovala a to při dvou až pěti procentech, ta měla nejlepší "džab" avšak nikdy žádnou výplatu. Když měsíce vypršel tu dostal takový ubožák své "tike-ty" nazpět—ovšem že ještě s odraženým úrokem a tu nezbývalo nežli začít se dlužít při tolik a tolik procentech na novo. Tito nešťastníci museli kupovati ve štorech patřících společnostem, někde kde jim bylo dáno na úvěr a v každém případě platili přehnané ceny. Již za to, že odstranilo tento nešvar, zasluhuje uniové hnutí pomník díků na místě urážek od dělníků jež z toho mají nyní prospěch.

Avšak unie dokázaly více. Zvýšily mzdy, zkrátily dobu pracovní a celkově zvýšily stav dělnictva. Příčina, proč nečinily více, jsou neunionisté.

Jest to známým faktem, že unie vždy se účastnily politické činnosti, ne stranické politiky nebo získat někomu politický žlab, nýbrž takové politiky, kteráž by přinesla okamžitou pomoc pracovnímu lidu. Každé jednotlivé zlepšení dnešního stavu dělnictva jest přímým následkem uniové agitace. Zákony o dětské práci, ženské ochranné zákony, inspekce dílen, zdravotní zákony týkající se dílen, záchranná opatření k nebezpečným strojům, uzavřené vestibuly na karách, sta jiných a více užitečných zákonů—zkrátka všechna zlepšení v životě dělníka jež byla více méně prospěšná, jsou přímým následkem uniové činnosti a snahy. Všichni spravedliví lidé to ví a uznávají.

Opatrný rozbor dělnického hnutí a dělnického stavu sesiluje naše tvrzení jaké jsme již v dávno minulosti prohlašovali a jež tuto znovu uvádíme: že dělnictvo si musí svoji spásu samo, a to ve svých vlastních řadách, vydobýt. Netteba žádné velké moudrosti abychom přišli tomu na kloub jak toho dosáhnout. Vyjímaje těch, kdož jsou zaslepeni předstílkou anebo následkem nezkoušenosti, každý ví, že unie jest ten jediný, absolutně jistý prostředek a plán, dle něhož musíme pracovat až veškeré dělnictvo bude dokonale organizováno. Pak půjdou mzdy rychleji nahoru, pracovní doba se zkrátí, poměry se zlepší a my budeme moci užívatí plný díl bohatství námi stvořeného bez ohledu na systém vlády pod níž budeme žít a pracovat. Každý uznává že chceme lepší mzdy a lepší životní poměry a každý ví, že jsme oboje získali pomocí našich unií. Naše zlepšené pracovní a životní poměry byly nám získány pouze uniemi a jejich agitací činností. Kdežto politické strany, kooperativní podniky, pozemkové projekty a mnoho jiných vedlejších zámyslů, majících za účel zrychlení příchodu "millenium" pro dělnictvo, rozplynulo se v dým, přinášejíce naprosto zklamání, hnutí uniové naproti tomu ustavičně pokračovalo, rostouc v počtu i užitečnosti, právě tak jak jsme vždy říkali že se bude dít. Unie zbijou dál vzdor opozici našich přirozených nepřátel na venek a vzdor těm vládným, pochybným, kopalům uvnitř—a co více, ony porostou stále. Dělnictvo nebylo nikdy klamáno aniž zaváděno uniovémi zastánci.

Unie vykonaly vše co jich zastánci slibováno že vykonají. Palesné naděje neb zářící prospekty neslibovány. Mluví uniového hnutí vždy tvrdili a tvrdí dodnes že hnutí toto jest pomalé, evoluční, konstruktivní, ochranné a jest jediným prostředkem jak možno všechny spojit k dosažení lepších pracovních a životních poměrů. Unie řemeslné pozůstávají z dělníků pouze a jsou přesně tříděním hnutím. Jiná hnutí zahrnují v sobě kapitalisty, nevyrabitele a vidinové, "brzo-bohaté" lidi, kteří nevědí kam se ubírají avšak myslí že jsou na pravé cestě a proto jsou na cestě zmatku, nesrovnalosti, zkrátka jsou ve vzduchu. Unie řemeslné však vědí co chtějí, jak toho dosáhnout a těší se příznivým výsledkům každého dne, krácejíce co pracují mužové a ženy, paže k paži, s hlavou vzhůru, po bezpečné a jisté cestě k lepším pracovním a životním podmínkám. Stájte při tomto osvědčeném, zjištěném uniové hnutí—jest vaším přítelem, vaší nadějí, vaší snáživostí, a vaším konečným vysvobozením.

Einige Kritiker der Gewerkschaftsbewegung meinen, wir hätten heute nicht mehr Geld, trotzdem die Gewerkschaften die Löhne erhöhten, als wir früher hatten. Diese Meinung ist erstens nicht wahr, und wenn sie zweitens wahr wäre, so könnte doch keiner leugnen, daß wir wenigstens von 10 bis 100 Prozent mehr ausgeben, als wir vor dem Dasein und der Auswirkung der Gewerkschaftsbewegung thaten.

Es ist Thatsache, daß wir nicht nur besser leben und mehr Geld ausgeben, sondern wir haben auch wirklich mehr für den sprichwörtlichen Regentag zurückzulegen.

Vielleicht ist es ja wahr, daß die meisten von uns doch alles Erhaltene ausgeben, doch wer möchte wohl die Tage zurückhaben, da wir lange Stunden für kleinen Lohn arbeiteten, statt unserer Zeit der kurzen Stunden und verhältnismäßig besserer Löhne.

Die ein Alter von fünfzig erreicht haben, wissen es, aber zum Nutzen der jungen sei es gesagt, daß der Arbeiter heute durchschnittlich besser lebt, als es vor 50, 75 oder 100 Jahren der Arbeitgeber oder der Geschäftsmann durchschnittlich that.

Wer hat im Durchschnitt das Heim des organisierten Arbeiters so bevoorthelt? Wir alle wissen, daß die Gewerkschaften es gethan.

Wohl wahr, noch ist eine Welt voll Verbesserungen zu schaffen, aber ohne Furcht vor Widerspruch sei es gesagt, die Besserung im Leben und in der Lage der Arbeiter wird der Gewerkschaftsthätigkeit auch fernerhin folgen, so sicher, wie sie es bis jetzt gethan.

Festhalten ist das Wort; laßt uns an der guten alten vortheilhaften Gewerkschaftsbewegung festhalten. Laßt uns daran gehen, sie aufzubauen, sie stärker und nützlicher für uns zu machen, als sie ist und war. Es laßt sich thun, und es wird gethan werden.

Wir hörten kürzlich ein politisch thätiges Mitglied einer Gewerkschaft sagen, daß Gewerkschaften nur ein Verschönerungsmittel sind, und daß trotz ihres Daseins die Verhältnisse der Arbeiter jetzt eigentlich nicht besser sind, als sie vor 25 oder 30 Jahren waren. Keine größere Unwahrheit wurde je geäußert, die Gewerkschaften sind niemals schlimmer verurtheilt worden.

Wer schon vor 30 Jahren in der Gewerkschaftsbewegung stand, und wer genug Verstand hat, zu begreifen, was er gelesen und gehört, weiß jedenfalls, daß die Gewerkschaften das "Truth"-System, die Ausbeuterläden und das Bucherbor-gen vom Vornann so gut wie abgeschafft haben.

Vor 30 Jahren hatten wir monatliche Zahlungen in den meisten Handwerken, und das arme Opfer, das am meisten vom Vornann borgte, zu von 2 bis 5 Prozent, hatte die besten Stellen, aber niemals einen richtigen Zahltag. Am Ende des Monats bekam er wohl sein "Schmiergeld" wieder, aber abzüglich der Procente, und mußte schon früh im Monat zu so und so viel Prozent wieder borgen. Diese Unglücklichen mußten in den Läden der Gesellschaft laufen und andernfalls da, wo man ihnen borgte, und in jedem Fall zog man ihnen das Fell über die Ohren. Wenn die Gewerkschaftsbewegung weiter nichts gethan hätte für die Arbeiter, verdiente sie schon ein Denkmal der Dankbarkeit, statt Verleumdung vonseiten der bevoorthelten Arbeiter.

Die Gewerkschaft hat mehr vollbracht. Sie hat die Löhne erhöht, Arbeitsstunden verkürzt und die Arbeitsverhältnisse überhaupt gebessert. Der einzige Grund, daß sie nicht mehr gethan, sind die Richtiggewerkschaftler.

Es ist Thatsache, daß die Gewerkschaften immer in der Politik mitgemacht haben, nicht in der Parteipolitik, aber um für jemand ein Amt zu holen, aber in jeder Politik, die die Lage der Arbeiter augenblicklich verbessern konnte. Jede einzige Besserung der heutigen Arbeitsverhältnisse ist das unmittelbare Ergebnis der Gewerkschaftsbewegung. Kinderarbeitgeße, Frauenschuhgeße, Fabrikunteruchung, Werthattgeße, Sicherheitsmaßregeln bei gefährlicher Maschinen, geschlossene Plattformen der Straßenbahnen, hundert und mehr wohlthätige Gesetze, und kurz, alle Verbesserungen, die im Leben der Arbeiter nützlich sind, sind das unmittelbare Ergebnis der Gewerkschaftsthätigkeit. Alle gerechten Menschen wissen und erkennen dies an.

Ein aufmerksamer Rundblick über die Arbeiterbewegung und Arbeiterlage bestätigt die Behauptung, die wir je und je gemacht und jetzt aufs Neue wiederholen: Daß die Arbeit sich selber erlösen muß aus ihren eigenen Reihen heraus. Keine große Gedankenarbeit ist nöthig, um zu sehen, wie das gethan werden muß. Alle wissen, nur die nicht, die blind durch Vorurtheil oder Erfahrungsmangel sind, daß die Gewerkschaft der unfähigste, unbedingt sichere und der einzige Plan ist, nach dem wir weiter arbeiten müssen, bis alle Arbeiter gründlich organisiert sind. Dann werden die Löhne schneller steigen, die Stunden sich kürzen, die Verhältnisse sich bessern, und dann werden wir auch fähig sein, uns unsern vollen Antheil des Wohlstands zu sichern, den wir erschaffen, ganz gleich unter welcher Regierungart wir arbeiten mögen. Wir sind einstimmig, daß wir bessere Löhne und eine bessere Lebenslage brauchen, und alle wissen auch, daß unsere Gewerkschaften uns diesem Ziel näher gebracht. Unsere besseren Arbeits- und Lebensverhältnisse haben wir einzig durch die Gewerkschaftsthätigkeit erreichen können. Während politische Parteien, Gegenseitigkeitsunternehmen, Landpläne und viele andere Lustschlobauten; die das goldene Zeitalter für die Arbeiter in der Eile schafften sollten, in Rauch aufgegangen sind, sich als Mißgriffe erwiesen, gibt es in der Gewerkschaftsbewegung nur ein beständiges Vordwärts, ein beständiges Wachsen an Zahlen und Nützlichkeit, wie wir immer vorausgesetzt. Die Gewerkschaften sind erstarkt, trotz der Gegnerschaft unserer natürlichen Feinde von außen und der Raumwärmern, der Zweifler und Kritiker von innen, und, was mehr bedeutet, sie werden noch mehr erstarken. Die Arbeiter sind noch nie von den Fälschpredigern der Gewerkschaften getäuscht und irregeführt worden.

Die Gewerkschaften haben alles gethan, was ihre Fälschprediger von ihnen vorausgesetzt. Keine falschen Hoffnungen und rosenigen Ausichten sind vorgegaukelt oder versprochen worden. Die Fälschprediger der Gewerkschaften haben immer gesagt und sagen es jetzt, daß die Bewegung langsam, entwicklungsmäßig, aufbauend und vorbeugend und obendrein das einzige Mittel ist, das uns alle einigen kann zu besseren Arbeits- und Lebenslagen.

Gewerkschaften sind nur aus Arbeitern zusammengesetzt und sind eine streng gesonderte Klassenbewegung. Andere Bewegungen haben Kapitalisten, Nichtproduzirende und Phantasten, schnellträumende Leute, die nicht wissen, wohin sie gehen, aber auf dem rechten Weg zu sein glauben, der sie ja dann auch in den Wirrwarr, die Uneinigkeit und ins Nichts führt. Die Gewerkschaften wissen, was sie wollen, wie sich haben laßt, und sie haben täglich ihre Resultate und marschieren wie Arbeiter, Männer und Frauen, Schulter an Schulter, die Köpfe hoch auf dem langsame aber sicheren Weg zu besseren Arbeits- und Lebensverhältnissen. Auf an die Seite der guten alten kampfgewohnten Gewerkschaftsbewegung; sie ist dein Freund, deine Hoffnung, deine Sehnsucht, und sie führt zur schließlichen Erlösung.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

The address of Jose Bustillo has been changed to 1504 Morgan St., Tampa, Fla., and all money collected on the Denver-Tampa Assessment should from now on be sent to this address.

When applying for retiring card read the Constitution.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

If you hold any loan cards of no further use send them to this office.

Before granting or accepting retiring cards secretaries and members should consult Sections 76 and 77 of the Constitution.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

NOTICE.—How to duplicate Loan Cards:

It frequently occurs that new secretaries through error or lack of knowledge, transfer the amount a member "has coming" instead of what he owes. In duplicating a card figure up all the member has borrowed and subtract all he has paid, and if there is a balance against the member transfer to new card in red ink and figures and letters the amount due the International Union. Also enter on new card all that may be essential that you find on the old, then sign and seal it. Send the old card to the International office.

DECISIONS OF PRESIDENT

J. T. Deverson appealed against 247 Blue Island for suspending him for non-payment of dues and percentage on loans. The appellant claims he paid the money to the town collector who, owing to Labor Day, did not get the money into the hands of the secretary until the following Tuesday. The member is given the benefit of the doubt and the appeal sustained, with no reflection on the secretary who simply did his duty.

John Seark appealed against the J. A. B. Chicago for refusing further labels. The appeal was not sustained.

Mrs. B. Thrasher appealed against 336

Tampa for refusing her lockout benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

G. P. Bradford appealed against 336 Tampa for refusing to suspend C. Saunders, and for paying him sick benefit while over the limit in dues. The appeal was sustained.

I. Hoffner appealed against 414 Winnipeg for fining him $25.00. The appeal was sustained.

T. O. Ball appealed against 112 Oneonta for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

A. Berran appealed against 1 Baltimore for suspending him. The appeal was not sustained.

Gus Lueck appealed against 129 Denver for fining him 25c for refusing to attend regular meetings. The appeal was not sustained.

John Dillon appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him. Appellant claims he was sick and in the hospital. The appeal was sustained.

M. Lavine appealed against 111 Des Moines for refusing him labels. The appeal was not sustained.

S. M. Ellman appealed against 346 San Antonio for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

M. Bachter appealed against the Label Committee of Brooklyn for fining him $25.00 and compelling him to deposit $100.00 for further use of the label. The appeal was not sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 1, Baltimore, Md., to fine and suspend Emil Fenz No. 112811, for applying for sick benefit while working for the American Cigar Co., but reduced the fine from $200 to $50. Following is the vote: Four approved the application as submitted; one voted for suspension and a $100 fine; two voted for suspension and a $50 fine; one voted for suspension and a $25 fine, and one voted "No" on the proposition. Hence the majority favor suspension and a $50 fine.

Approved application of Union 19, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to fine Wm. McCauley No. 119468 $38.50 for an unpaid board bill. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. One member approved if the union was security for the bill; if not, not approved.

Approved the application of Union 384, St. Augustine, Fla., to fine Ed. Carey, Geo. Pitts and Norman Nicker each $50 for scabbing. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8.

Approved the application of Union 32, Louisville, Ky., to fine Phil Mertz No. 70688 $50 for working in a factory where there was a strike. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. Negative—1.

Approved the application of Union 172, Davenport, Ia., to fine Mayme Boy No. 9136 $100 for taking a job in Haussen's strike shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative—5. Three members favored a fine of $50.

Approved the application of Union 144, New York, to suspend and fine Louis Sapir No. 27061 $50 for working in the Tampa strike shops. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. One member approved the fine but not the suspension.

Approved the application of Union 90, New York, to suspend and fine the following $25 each for working against the interest of the union and remaining at work in strike shops: Julius Muller No. 55145, Joseph Sandhaus No.

55869 and Hugo Endig No. 55642. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. One member favored the fine but not suspension.

Approved the application of Union 144, New York, to fine Benjamin Holland No. 21298 $25 for working in a Tampa strike shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8.

Approved the application of 196, Grand Island, to fine H. J. Boxx No. 25598 $100 and annul his card, for discharging union men and employing non-union men; also to fine Fred Voss $50 for refusing to join the union after he had served his apprenticeship; also to annul the card of Louis Guildner No. 188. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8.

Approved the application of 442, Cape Girardeau, to fine August Krieger 108261 $100 and annul his card, for taking a job in a non-union factory. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8.

Approved the application of 381, Watertown, to fine Louis Bergman $50 for misconduct and using slanderous language against the union and union men. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8.

Approved the application of 10, Providence, to fine M. Perlman No. 115593 $25 for making cigars for a scab manufacturer. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8.

CORRESPONDENCE

Washington, D. C., February 7, 1911.

To All Organized Labor—Greeting:

It is but fair to the present management of the Buck's Stove and Range Company that all organized labor and friends be thoroughly informed that the Company could not, by anything it could possibly do, put an end to the cases pending in the United States Supreme Court, in the name of this Company; that the Company offered to do anything in its power to end them, but the suits were continued in its name, at Labor's request, and for the purpose of obtaining a definite decision upon the points, involved which we deemed to be of the greatest importance to organized labor. We regarded any effort at the discontinuance of the suits before a judgment by the Supreme Court as a great calamity.

All differences between the Buck's Stove and Range Company and organized labor have for months been amicably and satisfactorily adjusted, and our fellow trade unionists and friends should in every way possible, show by their patronage and encouragement that we appreciate the value of fair dealing and friendship, and that just as we have proven our readiness and ability to defend ourselves from the attacks of our opponents, so must we show ourselves ready to assist our friends.

No matter what the outcome may be in connection with the cases now pending in the United States Supreme Court, which were started in the name of the Buck's Stove and Range Company, Labor is on the most friendly and cordial terms with the management of that Company, and one of the sincerest evidences of their friendship for us was their action in not withdrawing their former attorneys or appearance in the suits now pending.

It was at our request that they were not withdrawn as we wished to have the legality of our position tested and tried to a finish.

The continuance of the cases in the name of the Buck's Stove and Range Company places them in the position of appearing to prosecute, and their friendly action in not withdrawing their attorneys should be fully and thoroughly explained to all workers and friends. Justice and right demand that all be informed that the Buck's Stove and Range Company is entitled to the encouragement and patronage of all Labor's friends and sympathizers.

Please give all possible publicity, in every way, to Labor's present friendly relations with the Buck's Stove and Range Company.

Yours fraternally,

Sam'l Gompers,

President American Federation of Labor.

Attest:

Frank Morrison,

Secretary, A. F. of L.

New York, January 24, 1911.

Being one of the candidates for Delegate to the A. F. of L. and being amongst a number of others who have dared to make statements in the letters of acceptance against the Civic Federation, I take the liberty of answering the attack upon all who dared to even mention this "August Body" composed of the worst kind of labor exploiters, Public men, Lawyers, Clergymen and Labor Leaders.

Let us look at the Civic Federation as it really is from the standpoint of union men and then decide whether or not it is a body in the interest of labor and whether it is a body fit for our representatives to mingle with.

To begin with, Mr. Carnegie, a prominent member of the Civic Federation, in company with Mr. Frick, were the owners of the Homestead Steel works when in 1892 the strike broke out in said mills and when many of the union men were shot down on the highways and byways of Homestead by Pinkerton detectives, and I remember well the protest meeting that was called at Cooper Union at which the foremost labor leader of America denounced Mr. Carnegie and Frick for the murder of the union men, who had been driven to strike for more wages and more humane conditions and I also remember how mass meetings were called all over the land to protest against this daylight murder, and I also remember how circulars were issued to the various central bodies to protest against the acceptance of any money by municipal councils for the building of libraries by Mr. Carnegie because the money was reeking with the blood of the men that were in Homestead, and in spite of that fact, not only is Mr. Carnegie a prominent member of the Civic Federation, but he was even offered the presidency of the same, and one of the most prominent members of the trade union movement was on the committee to offer the presidency to Mr. Carnegie.

It is true Mr. Carnegie gives up a lot of money for public libraries, and also to establish universal peace, but what does he give to the widows and orphans of the men who lost their life for the cause of unionism?

Mr. Marcus Marks, another of the prominent gentlemen who make up the Civic Federation as president of the Clothiers' Association, used his power and influence with a large clothier in New York city who was running a union shop to give up the label and run an open shop, and the result that wages were decreased in said establishment and the men went on strike, with the result that the strike was lost, and the house has been running as an open house ever since, and of course this was all done in the interest of organized labor. Mr. Marks as a member of the Civic Federation is Doctor Jekyll, and as an employer is Mr. Hyde.

Mr. Marks positively refuses to allow his establishment becoming organized. What kind of an example does he set for other manufacturers to become fair employers? Mr. Marks poses as a philanthropist, but before practicing charity upon others why doesn't he employ union men and give them union wages so that they can live decently, why doesn't he give them union hours of labor, and thereby enable the men to spend more time with their families and incidentally prolong the life of the men who slave for him?

Mr. Marks has been a member of the Civic Federation for many years, and how is it that he cannot be convinced by the labor leaders to become a fair employer, and yet he is permitted to be a member of the welfare committee of the Civic Federation and every opportunity that affords itself you will find Mr. Marks trying to settle strikes, or disputes between employer and employe, why doesn't he practice what he preaches before he meddles in other affairs?

Mr. Vreeland, another prominent member of the Civic Federation, while acting on important committees of that body, was President of the Metropolitan Railway system of New York city and as such he caused the discharge of any man who dared join a labor union and the result is that no organization of labor can exist on any of the street car lines in New York city. Surely a fine example to bring about peace between employer, and employe, no danger of any trouble there, peace reigns all one sided, just as the traction magnates want it.

And last, but not least, comes our noble friend Mr. August Belmont, subway owner and past president of the Civic Federation. He also looks for peace, and the beauty of it is he has peace for the last seven years, for prior to that time the men were organized and Mr. Belmont as president of the C. F. was scheming all the time how to get peace, and this is how he got it:

In September or October, 1904, the men on his system demanded an increase of wages. It then being before election and Mr. Belmont being very much interested in the success of the Democratic party, somehow managed to prevent trouble at that time, but lo and behold in January, 1905, when the men insisted upon an increase of wages, Mr. Belmont had it all schemed out, and when the men went on strike to enforce their demands, Mr. Farley the well known strike breaker, had a ship load of strike breakers of the worst kind ready to take their places, the men were licked out of their boots, and the "arch peace angel" had peace ever since.

Permit me to say that the time has long passed when any of the "high priests" of the labor movement takes snuff all the rank and file must sneeze. Any member has a perfect right to find fault with some doings of the labor leaders, providing, however, that the fault-finding is based upon facts, but what I do want to resent is the pet names that some are in the habit of applying to any one who does not want to dance to their music. I for one absolutely refuse to be measured by their yard stick.

The members are told that those of the men who make these veiled attacks upon the Civic Federation are trying to strike a blow at the A. F. of L. in reply to which I want to say right here that this is an unqualified falsehood and only intended to belittle those that dare say anything against an official or find fault with them, surely we have not come to such a pitch that we only must say yes and amen to everything they say or do.

I personally stand for the A. F. of L. at all times and under any and all circumstances, having been a member for over 25 years of it through the affiliation of the Cigarmakers' Int. Union, and defy anyone to prove the contrary but it doesn't follow that because I am loyal to the A. F. of L. that I also must concur in every action of the men at the head of it.

Mr. Kirchner takes a fling at the Socialists whenever he can, and accuses them of trying to disrupt the trade union movement, to which at this time I shall make no attempt to reply, but want to mention here, that Mr. Tom Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, a year ago now, in his annual report to the convention roundly scored the Civic Federation, and that at this writing while the convention of the miners is on, a resolution was introduced to exclude any one from membership of the United Mine Workers who is connected with the Civic Federation.

I am sure that Mr. T. Lewis is anything but a Socialist. What sinister motives are behind Mr. Lewis's attack upon the Civic Federation, "Peace Angels" please answer.

Members of organized labor are asked to pay assessments to fight inhuman employers, and almost every weapon is brought into play to beat them, and these same employers are always scheming how to destroy organized labor, and for ten long years we find our most prominent leaders sit down at the banquet table with some of the most unscrupulous employers of labor, and for having courage to protest against these actions we are showered with all kinds of pet names, such as unscrupulous agitators and designing knaves. Well, so be it.

In conclusion I want to say that I am not opposed to a Civic Federation, but it must be composed of fair employers who have shown by past performances that they are doing something for the uplift of the toilers, but I am opposed to this Civic Federation as long as it harbors some of the most unscrupulous employers of labor within its body, and I will oppose it openly and publicly (and not under cover) though I be the only one to do so.

M. Brown.

The Tampa strike being over, let us hope the Union Cigarmakers will give the cheap Pennsylvania districts more consideration. There are many cigarmakers here who have contributed to the Union for from one to thirty years, and yet have never known what it is to work in a union shop. The wages here are very poor so that if a cigarmaker is out of work for a short time it often takes the food right out of the mouths of his family, and the hours are long, sometimes as bad as from six in the morning to nine at night. As to agitation work, halls are refused for this purpose, cigarmakers are threatened with discharge by the employer if they do not cease the agitation. Besides this the local unions are small and the members receive poor pay, therefore they cannot stand assessments for this purpose.

Now the question is—What are you who are enjoying the fruits of that which we have helped to create, willing to do to enable us to attain the same conditions that you have? Would a 25c assessment occasionally, or a 5c a month assessment on you that enjoy union conditions be too much to help us get the same conditions? This could be done in two years, with such a fund. We know that we could explain this at a convention so that you would understand conditions and realize that we must have at least $25,000 a year in order to accomplish our object in the cheap districts of Pennsylvania.

Edw. H. Nace, Quakertown, Pa.

WARNING!

To all International Labor Organizations and Affiliated Local Unions.

The Detroit Federation of Labor again desires to warn all tradesmen who might be considering the possibility of picking up some of the good things to be had in Detroit, according to the wholesale advertising being conducted by the Detroit Board of Commerce. We have men out of work here by the thousands, and still they want more. The fact is there is nothing here for those who come, only to join those who are already walking the streets. The alluring ads sent out from Detroit are misleading and are simply an effort to glut the labor market and thereby force wages down to the lowest possible point, and things are bad enough here without an influx of strangers. Please announce this in your official publication and oblige, Fraternally yours,

Detroit Federation of Labor,
Alfred J. Exton, Sec'y.

Boston, Jan. 23, 1911.

Henry Abrahams, Esq., Boston, Mass.

My dear Mr. Abrahams: I have your very kind letter of the 19th inst., and thank you and the organization for same.

It has been a great pleasure to have had the exhibit of such fine Boston made cigars and to give our members the opportunity to see the quality of material and workmanship which enters into their production.

I hope the exhibition will prove to be of permanent advantage to your industry, which is a most important one to Boston.

Yours very truly,
Bernard J. Rothwell,
President.

UNION NOTES

Union 323, Sheboygan, will not recognize any traveling members without their traveling cards, after this.

Secretary of 46, Grand Rapids, would like to hear from R. Wirtz No. 9570, and E. B. Watson, No. 66964, before the next issue of the Journal.

Fin. Secretary of 484, Meriden, Conn., will not grant loans during working hours. Members please take notice.

Union 77, Minneapolis, wishes to call the attention of unions to Louis E. Lund, No. 22470, suspended by 77, Minneapolis, as it has come to our notice that he is not of any benefit to us but rather a detriment. In Kokato, a jurisdiction town, we recently organized, he left all kinds of debts including a board bill, and from what we can learn of him, it is an old story with him.

Union 442, Cape Girardeau, writes: "The August Biennial of Cape Girardeau is a non-union shop and we as members of Local 442, advise union men to stay away from same."

Secretary of Union 132, Brooklyn, writes: "I will grant International Loans on Monday and Saturday evenings at Frohenhoefer Hall, 49 Ten Eyck street."

"Frank Reilly, No. 108285, left town, leaving an unpaid board bill of $13.70, and allowed himself to be suspended." By Union 138 Newark, N. J.

Alonso McGlasson, No. 63443, Union 365, wants to hear from you before the March meeting or you will be dealt with according to the Constitution. Last call.

Secretary holding the card of Robert Brandt, No. 101810, please notify Union 304, Racine, Wis.

Joe C. Kirchendorfer, No. 47731, left his card for $3.00 cash and $2.40 dues, seven months ago, which Secretary of Union 188, Seattle still holds. Any secretary knowing his whereabouts please write to the Seattle Union.

Any secretary holding the card of Frank Thomen please notify him to correspond with L. Marsh, 125 N. East St., Indianapolis, Ind., at once. Very important.

Secretary Union 46, Grand Rapids, would like to hear from E. B. Watson, No. 66964, and R. Wirtz, No. 9570, before the next issue of the Journal.

Thos. Vlean, No. 86484, is hereby notified to redeem his card from Union 224, Salt Lake City or suffer the consequences.

Financial Secretary of 283, Geneva, N. Y., requests E. Enwright and John Quinn to communicate with him.

The Secretary of Union 191, Morris, Ill., does business only at his Journal address, during working hours.

The Financial and Corresponding Secretaries of Union 247, Blue Island, Ill., can not be seen during working hours.

Secretary of Union 109, Aberdeen, Wash., wishes to hear from Jake Hartlieb. There is a grip his brother Ben left here.

Union 262, Dallas, Tex., writes: "Any union receiving the application for membership of T. P. Soria, please collect $2.00 board bill for Union 262 of Dallas."

Union 115 of Canton, O., has placed a $2.00 fine on J. V. Fallon (11285) for jumping a $2.00 board bill at the Melbourne Hotel, a hotel that would trust any cigarmaker. His blue card is also held by the secretary of Union 96, Akron, O. Secretary where he is working please collect same and forward to Albert Keller, secretary Union 115, Canton, O.

By Union 97, Boston.

When machinery was first introduced, labor did not profit by it because labor was not organized. Now what is termed scientific efficiency is to be introduced, this is here and by co-operating we can get some of the benefits that will accrue to the large corporation, if we fight it, we loose, as it will be said that organized labor is opposed to greater efficiency. This is labor's opportunity.—Today we desire a living wage and an 8-hour day.—We will get through the efforts of organized labor an ethical wage and a shorter work day.—We are interesting the railroad men in union made cigars.—We are watching all banquets to try and get Boston made cigars served.—Boston manufacturers are waking to their chances. What is needed is a real live man, lots of energy.—They are beginning to put Boston made cigars in the public buildings all bearing the insignia of honest toil.—Belgium cigarette makers will use a label.—If some of our organizations would give a marriage portion to their female members on marriage, they would be more successful.—We donated $50 to Carney Hospital.—Boston is talking of building a Labor Temple.—Never before in the history of the labor movement were the members of various churches so interested in the labor problem.—Unite and win. Divide and fail.—The thorough organization of first and ninth districts of Pennsylvania means a lifting up of the entire craft.—What are our sister unions doing for the Blue Label.—Don't forget superannuation benefit.—Insurance companies will again try to prevent us from paying death benefits in the commonwealth.—Henry Abrahams.

LOCAL FINES

Note.—Fines below $5 are not published in the Journal. See Sec. 196.

Sec. 197. Members having been fined by local unions shall pay such fines on the following basis: $10 or less, 10 per cent of weekly wages and benefits paid by the union, or amounts more than $10, 15 per cent, aside from payments on loans, as provided by the constitution.

Union 10, Providence, R. I., fined H. Catler No. 88398, $10.00, for allowing himself to become suspended and for making remarks that it would be cheaper for him to rejoin over than to pay his dues and assessments.

Union 41, Aurora, Ill., fined J. H. Froelich, No. 96643, $5.00 for jumping his board bill. Secretary holding card please collect or enter on card.

Union 351, Watertown, Wis., fined Wm. Sendelbach $10.00 for using slanderous language against the union.

Union 12, Oneida, N. Y., fined George Kinney, No. 646, $10.00 for allowing himself to become suspended.

Union 329, Santa Barbara, fined J. Doyle, No. 68589, $10.00 for soliciting orders for cigars for his employer, and delivering same with his employer; J. Doyle remarking at the time of delivery of said cigars that said cigars were best 10c cigars in city, while there were other local union 10c cigars on sale in show case of same place.

Union 89, Schenectady, N. Y., fined the following members each $5.00 for allowing themselves to be suspended for non-payment of dues, fines and assessments: Kanila Romanorsky, No. 78549; Frank Galaise, No. 3725; also Frank G. Payne, No. 108909, John Penders, No. 3721.

Union 228, San Francisco, Calif., fined C. B. Johnson No. 24004, $10.00 for making false statements at the time of his initiation.

Union 318, Chattanooga, Tenn., fined J. F. Ortaon, No. 21098, $5.00 for allowing himself to become suspended.

INTERNATIONAL FINANCIERS' REPORT.

Grand Island, Neb., Jan. 6th, 1910.

Since last report have examined the following unions, viz.:

No. 57, Champaign, Ill.

The books and accounts of this Union are now in safe hands, the future looks better here now than it has before in years. Statement as follows:
 Balance on hand March 1st, 1908.....$1,114.91
 Receipts to Dec. 1st, 1910.....1,835.65
 Expended over percentage in 1908.....44.75
 Expended over percentage in 1909.....6.04
 Due International Union on examination.....9.30

Total$3,010.65
 Expense to Dec. 1st, 1910.....2,696.32

Balance would be Dec. 1st, 1910.....$14.33

Funds of Union.

Dec. 1st, 1910, in 1st National Bank, Urbana, Ill.$280.00
 In possession Financial Secretary John Dempsey 14.10

Total$294.10

Deficiency of union Dec. 1st, 1910.....$20.23
 This deficiency is accounted for as follows:
 Amount International fund embezzled by ex-secretary, L. Kampelmann, No. 69661.....$14.19
 Union expended over percentage in 1909..... 6.04

Total$20.23

No. 93, Omaha, Neb.

At present the accounts here are in good order, part of the vouchers are missing most likely because of the manner in which the ex-secretary finished. Statement as follows:
 Balance on hand Jan. 1st, 1910.....$864.21
 Receipts to Jan. 1st, 1911..... 808.27
 Expended over percentage, 1909..... 9.06

Total$1,681.54
 Expense to Jan. 1st, 1911$1,300.20

Balance would be Jan. 1st, 1911.....$381.34

Funds of Union.

Jan. 1st, 1911, in Merchants' National Bank$133.00
 In possession of Secretary F. W. Hulett 78.53

Total$211.53

Deficiency of union Jan. 1st, 1911.....$169.81

This statement does not include any amount expended over percentage during 1910.

No. 155, Mount Pleasant, Ia.

The accounts here were some mixed owing to not properly understanding how to balance funds of the union at the end of the month. Am in hope there will be no more trouble, as I tried to explain how to balance accounts; also how to balance the members' dues accounts with every credit given. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand May 1, 1910.....$221.74
 Receipts to Dec. 1, 1910..... 64.50

Total$286.24
 Expense to Dec. 1, 1910..... 119.23

Balance would be on hand Dec. 1, 1910.....$167.01

Funds of Union—

Dec. 1, 1910, in First Nat'l State Bank.....$159.95
 In possession Secy. Ralph Waible..... 6.64

Total$166.59

Deficiency of union Dec. 1, 1910.....$.42
 This is the same deficiency as found at time of previous examination.

No. 193, Jefferson City, Mo.

The secretary-treasurer, owing to an accident, lost most of the vouchers for expense. Other than this the books and accounts are in good order. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Dec. 1, 1908.....$ 19.96
 Receipts to Dec. 1, 1910..... 427.30

Total$447.26
 Expense to Dec. 1, 1910..... 423.89

Balance on hand would be Dec. 1, 1910.....$ 23.37

Funds of Union—

Dec. 1, 1910, in First Nat'l Bank.....$10.42
 In possession Sec.-Treas. Jos. W. Kuehn 12.95

Total$ 23.37

No. 196, Grand Island, Nebr.

The books and accounts here are really in very nice order, but trade conditions are awful. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Sept. 1, 1907.....$ 365.07
 Receipts to Jan. 1, 1911..... 1,503.95
 Expended over percentage in 1907..... 28.28
 Expended over percentage in 1909..... 24.79
 Due International Union on examination..... 16.12

Total$1,938.21
 Expense to Jan. 1, 1911..... 1,669.41

Balance would be Jan. 1, 1911.....$ 268.80

Funds of Union—

Jan. 1, 1911, in First Nat'l Bank.....$174.07
 In possession Secy. C. C. Lightner..... 25.54

Total$ 199.61

Deficiency of union Jan. 1, 1911.....$ 69.19
 The amount due International Union on examination is an amount expended over percentage omitted in International accounts. The entire deficiency is amounts expended over percentage.

No. 207, Carthage, Ill.

From present appearances the books and accounts of this union will be in competent hands. The last two financial secretaries were not quite up to the mark—lacked experience and more—not dishonest, but incapable. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand May 1, 1910.....$284.58
 Receipts to Dec. 1, 1910..... 191.90
 Due International Union on examination..... 5.40

Total$391.88
 Expense to Dec. 1, 1910..... 26.55

Balance would be Dec. 1, 1910.....$365.33

Funds of Union—

Dec. 1, 1910, in Hancock Co. Nat'l Bank$326.50

In possession Fin. Secy. Roy Bell..... .26

Total$326.76

Deficiency of union on Dec. 1, 1910.....$ 88.57
 Included in this deficiency is 30-cent dues not accounted for by ex-Secretary Chas. Brown, $13.80.

Same for the secretary who retired this month, December, 1910, Roy Bell, $5.40. Both of these gentlemen are requested to refund these amounts immediately. Neither of these men were in the city at the time of this examination.

No. 353, Louisiana, Mo.

This being a new charter, called on them to make sure that they got started right. Found the first month's business nicely balanced. Ledger indexed, etc. Bank account to be started right away. Very nice condition. The officers have the ability and apparently the disposition to conduct the union's affairs as they should be. Statement as follows:

Receipts from organization to Dec. 1, 1910.....$18.00
 Expense 1.80

Balance would be Dec. 1, 1910.....$17.20

Funds of Union—

Dec. 1, 1910, in possession of Treas. W. E. Berry$17.20

Stamp account also balanced correctly.

No. 358, Fremont, Nebr.

The books and accounts at this time are in very nice order. So long as the present secretary holds office this will continue. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Sept. 1, 1907.....$ 393.88
Receipts to Jan. 1, 1911.....1,177.60
Over percentage in 1909.....24.63
Due International Union on examination.. 6.06

Total$1,602.17

Expense to Jan. 1, 1911.....1,310.15

Balance on hand Jan. 1, 1911.....$ 292.02

Funds of Union—
Jan. 1, 1911, in First National Bank

Deficiency of union Jan. 1, 1911.....$ 30.02

Reno, Nev., Feb. 4, 1911.
Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

These statements do not show any amounts expended over percentage during year 1910.

No. 129, Denver, Colo.

The members here frequently insist upon borrowing for local purposes from the International fund. A bad habit, and must be stopped. The books and accounts are really in fine condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. The ledger is a splendid illustration of how one may be kept. Since Mr. Sanford has been secretary there is hardly a question to ask regarding the standing of any member but what may be answered by referring to the ledger page, no matter if it be an appeal to the International Union; nothing entered but what is properly dated. There is a question regarding six weeks' sick benefit paid to J. D. Chern (102785), ledger page 20. This amount was not included in this statement, neither was the amount expended over percentage during year 1910. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 1, 1908.....$ 3,510.04

This deficiency is out of work benefit paid to one who had not been a member two years. The amount expended over percentage during 1910 is not included in this statement.

No. 291, San Jose, Cal.

The books and accounts here are in fine condition, all benefit cards and vouchers on file. Ledger correctly posted, accounts always balanced at the end of the month. This union mailed a draft on Oct. 10th, 1910, to Tampa that payment has been stopped on. A new draft will be mailed at once. Received this information at the bank today, Feb. 2nd, 1911; no fault of the officers of San Jose, as they did their part. Statement as follows:

No. 307, Reno, Nevada.

The books and accounts here are at present in very nice order. There was a surplus in 20 and 30c dues. There had been a difference in the bank account, but at the time of examination this had been made all right. Sec'y Lorke was not responsible for this difference. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense all on file. Statement as follows:

REPORT

Of the Agents and Arbitrators in the Tampa Strike,
From December 15th to the End of the Strike,
Which Was About January 28, 1911.

Tampa, Florida, Feb. 7, 1911.
On December 13th, 1910, we left Chicago for Tampa, arriving there on the 16th. It will be remembered that the agents that had been at Tampa before us had been ordered to leave the town by a committee of the Citizens' Committee that waited on them at the hotel, telling them that they, the citizens, would no longer be responsible for their safety; that they did not want the fair name of Tampa injured by having them killed or hurt in their city. We were informed of the above by Mr. J. C. Johnston, the agent ordered out. Knowing this, and not wishing to meet the same fate, our entrance to Tampa was kept very quiet. The Cigar Makers have a Labor Temple of their own; everything done at meetings or in or about this Temple becomes public property. Knowing that to go to this Temple meant to have the fact that we were in town published in the daily papers, we arranged to have meetings with Fifth Vice-President G. P. Bradford and members of the Joint Advisory Board at other places. At this time about one-half of the members of the Joint Advisory Board were not attending meetings, having knowledge that if they did they would be promptly arrested. After a few days things became quiet, meetings of the Board were held regularly, and we then attended meetings of the Joint Advisory Board. Nothing of any importance was done at those meetings, it being agreed by all that nothing could be done in the way of settlement of the strike on account of the Christmas holidays coming on. About the 30th and 31st of December the Joint Advisory Board and other members of the unions began to talk of holding a mass meeting and it was finally agreed to hold such meeting on Sunday, January 1, 1911 (New Year's Day). This meeting was broken up by the Citizens' Committee, headed by the Mayor of Tampa, the police and a lot of thugs, all armed with shot guns and rifles. About committee was continued picketing the shops, about twenty automobiles going around loaded with citizens with guns and rifles, protecting cigarmakers who had gone to work, and trying to get others to go to work. The union men or strikers were not allowed to go near any of the factories, as picketing on the part of the cigarmakers was not allowed. A little before this time, Mr. J. M. Gill, a member of the Joint Advisory Board and also editor of the Cigarmakers' paper, was arrested on the same charge as De La Campa, Russell and Barthum had been convicted on (conspiracy to prevent men from going to work). He is in jail at this time awaiting trial.

After consulting with the secretaries of some of the unions and members of the J. A. B., we thought to get a meeting between the Joint Advisory Board and the manufacturers and to this end, in company of Edward Stanley, called on the Mayor, also on Solicitor Rainey, informing them that our visit to Tampa was to assist, if possible, in bringing about a union settlement of this strike in a peaceful manner. Both of these men offered to assist us in any way they possibly could; the Mayor wanted to call a meeting of the Cigar Manufacturers at once, but when told by us that the members of the unions of Tampa were the only men that could settle, he was not so anxious. We then went to the Joint Advisory Board and asked them to appoint a committee to go with us to visit the manufacturers, telling them we wished to talk the matter over with them, hear what they had to say, and report what was said back to their meeting, and that we would not go to visit any of them unless given a committee to go with us. The matter was taken up at several meetings of the Board, and thoroughly considered, and each time we were informed that they would not allow a committee to go with us, as it was their opinion that if they sent a committee with us the manufacturers would take it as evidence of weakness on the part of the Joint Advisory Board; they also requested us not to go alone. We then asked to have a committee not members of the Board, selected from the cigarmakers, or to let us pick a committee to go with us. This also was not agreeable to them, and was not done. We were, however, informed by the Joint Advisory Board that if given an invitation by the manufacturers to call and see them, or any of them, we were at liberty to go and see them; we also promised if we received such invitation in time we would bring it before the Joint Advisory Board first. We never got such an invitation and never went to see the manufacturers, but held ourselves in readiness to go at all times. The Board at all times held to the position that the manufacturers knew where to send if they wished to communicate with them.

During our time in Tampa, two applications were made to the Joint Advisory Board, one for Lock-out Benefit in the Terra Del Fuego factory, which factory was slow in putting the men back to work after the Christmas holidays' lay-off; we asked them to appoint a committee to wait on the firm before acting on the application, which they did. We went with the committee and got a full explanation from the firm and application was withdrawn. The men went to work the next week.

In another shop, employing thirty-eight men, they had a selector working who was a cigarmaker belonging to Local No. 336, but was not or could not join the Selectors' Union; we went with a committee from the Board to see this firm; were informed that this man was hired in the capacity of man-of-all-work, was a friend of his and a man he could trust. Also that he would employ a regular selector as soon as he could. He asked for further time, which was granted by the Board. It is our opinion that if these cases were looked into and the Joint Advisory Board would try and settle them at home, that the applications to strike from Tampa would be much less.

When we arrived at Tampa, the strike had resolved itself into a position of waiting—one side waiting for the other to go broke. The Cigarmakers had the awful load of about 3,000 nonunion cigarmakers to support. This cost about between six and seven thousand dollars per week; this money had to be raised from voluntary contributions, after seven months' time (during which the number to be supported was much larger), the money began to run short the week of January 8th, 15th and 22nd. The Joint Advisory Board found themselves about $13,000.00 in debt and not much money coming in. They decided to call a joint meeting of the Board and the Executive Boards of the five locals of Tampa to consider the proposition of going back to work; this meeting decided to submit this proposition to the meetings of the local unions, meetings to be called at once; the vote was as follows:

Local No. 500 voted	522 for and 12 against.
Local No. 336 voted	197 for and 19 against.
Local No. 440 voted	58 for and 8 against.
Local No. 462 voted	253 for and 27 against.
Local No. 493 voted	71 for and 0 against.

Total vote 1,101 for and 66 against.

Before the joint meeting of the Board and the Executive Boards was held, members of the Cigarmakers began sending telegrams to Chicago, Key West and other points that the strike was over; this before the proposition was submitted to a vote.

On January 17th a meeting of Local No. 500 was held (a regular meeting), the proposition of going back to work was brought up and after a long discussion it was moved that the proposition of going back to work be submitted to a referendum vote of all unions; a secret ballot was taken with the following result.

In favor of submitting the proposition to vote....	35
Against submitting the proposition to vote.....	215
Blanks	8

The same proposition was up at the meeting of Local No. 336, held January 18th, with the following result:

In favor of submitting the proposition to vote....	8
Against submitting the proposition to vote.....	104

At this time the delegates from both the above locals were instructed by the Joint Advisory Board to go to their meetings and to talk and work against the proposition being submitted to a vote, knowing that the funds to support the nonunion men were away behind. At all times the members of the union were paid their benefit on time. Had the Cigarmakers all been members of the union, it is our opinion that this strike never would have happened; the men there seem to realize this, for on all sides they declare their intention of joining the union. They call the going back to work only a recess.

A summary of the whole affair may be of interest to all.

The trouble started when the cigarmakers of Tampa began to join the International Union in large numbers—the manufacturers, who had an organization of their own, known as the "Clear Havana Cigar Manufacturers' Association," trying to prevent the men from organizing, decided to lay off 25% of their men on the first Saturday and to continue laying off 25% each week until they were all laid off. This was done, and some time in the month of July the shops were closed. They made this move, knowing that men out of work and without money could not join the union; so in short, the lockout was caused to prevent men from organizing. A night or two before the strike was called off the manufacturers met a committee of citizens, consisting of three doctors, two cigarmakers and four other business men, with the following proposition:

The men representing the tobacco workers submitted a proposition as follows, as a basis of settlement on which the men should return to work in the factories:

That the manufacturers guarantee maintenance of the scale of prices adopted January 1, 1910.

That there shall be no discrimination against any of the men now on strike when they are taken back into the factories.

That the Tampa Clear Havana Manufacturers' Association guarantee that they will at all times pay as high prices for making of cigars, etc., as are paid in any clear Havana factory in Key West or in any other city in the state of Florida.

Assurance from the manufacturers that they will use their utmost efforts to prevent foremen or managers in the factories from imposing on employees by compelling them to board at certain restaurants, saloons, or discriminating or showing special favors in giving out positions in the factories.

Also that the manufacturers will strictly abide by the child labor law, which forbids employment in factories of children under the age of fourteen years, and have copies of the law conspicuously posted in all factories.

This was heard by the J. A. B., while it was not adopted or made a part of the settlement in any way, it being generally taken as defining the position of the manufacturers.

Then the men returned to work with no signed agreements but their rights to organize has not been interfered with. The men say they will continue to organize until every man is a member of the union, and in this way get union shops. To use the words of the secretary of the J. A. B., he says: "Although the manufacturers have not agreed to recognize us, we have won the union."

Looking at things as they are, in a fair and impartial manner, one cannot help but say that the long struggle of the boys has ended while not successful as a whole, it has been so in a great measure. All of which is respectfully submitted,

J. E. FARRELL,
C. B. MARSH,

Agents and Arbitration, Tampa Strike.

CHICAGO, FEBRUARY 15, 1911.

Under date of January 31st, we sent to all local unions a circular, as follows:

Chicago, Ill., January 31, 1911.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions:

Fellow Craftsmen: I received the following telegram: Tampa, Fla., Jan. 26, 1911.—G. W. Perkins, Chicago, Ill.: Strike called off. Members of five unions voted secret ballot, eleven hundred to go back to work, sixty-six no. Cause lack of funds to continue. They call it recess. The spirit of organizing very strong. The International Union loudly cheered at all meetings. Mass meeting to be held Sunday outside of city. I spoke at all meetings. Notify Llamblas. Board thirteen thousand in debt. They ask to have donations continue until this is paid. Send us instructions. (Signed) J. E. Farrell."

In addition to the foregoing telegram, the secretary of the Joint Advisory Board here received a telegram in which they also state that the strike is ended, and they say: "Men are more united than ever, and pledged to stick to the union. Almost all unorganized men joined union today, and we are all satisfied. Send assessments that have been adopted, that we may pay debts."

The debt of $13,000 referred to in both telegrams has absolutely nothing to do with the accounts of the International Union. It is money that the Joint Advisory Board spent in the effort to care for the unorganized and those not entitled to benefits. This debt, having been created by the Joint Advisory Board, should of course be paid. Local unions may continue sending the Denver-Tampa assessment there as fast as collected. The unions anticipated this assessment, and of course went in debt as a consequence, and for that reason it should be sent.

As soon as I receive written details of the settlement of the strike I will immediately send them to you in circular form. My understanding is now that while the manufacturers have offered the 1910 scale and have agreed not to discriminate against any of the men on strike, and to do what they can to prevent the boarding at restaurants evil, to enforce the child labor law, and to do certain other things alleged to be in the interests of the workers, yet there was no written or other agreement between the manufacturers and the unions as such. If this is true, neither the unions nor the manufacturers are bound by any agreement, and since we, according to all accounts, have succeeded in thoroughly organizing Tampa, and have thoroughly demonstrated the ability of the International Union to discharge all of its financial obligations, and at the same time have taught the manufacturers a lesson they will never forget, we are in a better position than ever before in the city of Tampa. I am of the opinion that it will be a long time before the manufacturers look for trouble again.

As soon as written reports reach here, however, they will be immediately sent you.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. Perkins,

International President.

Since the the issuance of the circular, in a letter dated January 29th, Mr. Edward Stanley, corresponding secretary of the Joint Advisory Board, Tampa, Fla., in part says:

"In my telegram I stated that we were satisfied at the manner in which the strike ended, but today we are more satisfied than we were when we sent you the telegram. Nearly all the non-union men are joining the union—those that have stuck to us during the strike and also those who have scabbed on us. Our fight in this long struggle was for the union, and although the manufacturers have not agreed to recognize us, we have won the union, as we are going back to work organized, but the manufacturers' fight against us was to prevent us from organizing."

(Signed) Edward Stanley, Jr.,
Corresponding Secretary, Joint Advisory Board.

The report of the representatives of the International Union does not contain any more definite information than that stated in the circular and quoted in the foregoing. We have written to the officers of the Joint Advisory Board and to each local union of Tampa, requesting a written detailed statement of matters as they exist today, but up to the time of going to press no written information has reached us.

We are publishing in this issue the report of the representatives of the International Union at Tampa. The strike and the situation as it now exists will be fully discussed in the next issue of the Official Journal.

Conciliation and arbitration as a means of settling trade disputes has been pressed home with greater force than ever by the Tampa strike, on the manufacturers as well as on the journeymen.

The Tampa cigar manufacturers and several other manufacturers in other places are agitating the proposition to start trade schools for teaching cigar making. This proposition sounds funny especially in view of the fact that the Trust and the United Cigar Manufacturers Co. run huge kindergarten shops in which alleged cigarmakers are turned out without numbers. These concerns employ vast numbers of girls who go to work as soon as the age limit is obtained and in many instances before. These little children are taught only one part of the business but by working under the bunch breaking and roll up system they turn out cigars. Not content with this rapacity and greed, want still more and the trade papers are hysterically boosting for trade schools to teach cigarmaking.

The Beveridge Anti-coupon bill is apparently dead for this session of congress and it might as well be for any real good it should have done if adopted. The Beveridge bill simply provided that no coupon or promise of a gift should be packed in or attached to any package of cigars, etc. This bill if approved would not have stopped the practice of giving presents so justly complained against. If it had passed the coupons would have been placed on the shelf and handed to each purchaser. A bill to stop this practice should contain a provision that no coupon or promise shall be attached to, packed within a package, or given away, or handed to a purchaser.

The United Cigar Manufacturers, a big non-union concern, operating shops in New York City and Pennsylvania, in which they employ largely women and children, and whose annual product nearly equals that of the Trust, recently issued a financial statement, in which it was said: "The net earnings for the year were $1,255,501.77." We estimate that this concern employs in the neighborhood of 10,000 cigarmakers.

In this issue we publish the report of Sam'l Gompers, president of A. F. of L. The report is replete with useful information, and is interesting and instructive and should be read by every member who desires to keep in touch with the general labor movement.

DOOLEY EXPLAINS THE OPEN SHOP.

"What is all this talk that's in the papers about the open shop?" asked Mr. Hennessey.

"Why, don't ye know?" said Mr. Dooley. "Really, I'm surprised at yer ignorance, Hennessey. What is th' open shop? Sure, 'tis a shop where they kape th' door open t' accommodate th' consthant stream of min comin' in t' take jobs cheaper thin th' min that has th' jobs. 'Tis like this, Hennessey—suppose wan of these freebarn Amerycan citizens is wurkin' in an open shop fer th' princely wages of wan large iron dollar a day of tin hours. Along comes another freebarn son-of-a-gun, an' he sez to th' boss, 'I think I could handle th' job fer ninety cints.' 'Shure,' sez the boss, 'an' th' wan-dollar man gits th' merry jinglin' can, an' goes out into th' crool would t' exercise his inalienable rights as a freebarn Amerycan citizen an' scab on some other poor devil. An' so it goes on, Hennessey. An' who gits th' benefit? Thruie, it saves th' boss money, but he don't care no more fer money thin he does for his roight eye. It's all principle wid him. He hates t' see th' min robbed of their indepindeince. They must have their indepindeince, regahrdrless of inything ilse."

"But," said Mr. Hennessey, "these open shop min ye minshun say they are fur th' unions, if properly conducted."

"Shure," said Mr. Dooley, "if properly conducted. An' there we are. An' how would they have thim conducted? No strikes, no rules, no contrahcts, no scales, hardly any wages, an' dam few mimbbers."—F. Peter Dunne, in Typographical Journal.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days.

Union 72, Burlington, Ia.—Julius C. Wagner, who died January 8th, 1911. Union attended the funeral in a body.

Union 232, Sellersville, Pa.—Geo. W. Stimmel, No. 77898, who died December 19th, 1910. Committee attended funeral.

Union 235, Los Angeles, Calif.—Mr. Frank Gill, who died January 31st. Committee from Union 235 acted as pall bearers.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS' REPORT

St. Louis, Mo., November 14, 1910.

To the Officers and Delegates to the Thirtieth Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

Fellow Trade Unionists: Thirty years ago, upon the urgent appeal of a number of earnest and far-seeing trade unionists, a convention was held in Pittsburgh, Pa. There and then the foundation for our Federation of trades and labor unions was laid. Upon that foundation a structure has been reared perhaps far beyond the vision of its builders. Soon after the establishment of our Federation, and after its purposes came to be understood, the toilers began to realize not only that it was eminently practicable but also that it had within its possibilities the elements to inspire hope and courage for the achievement of Labor's highest aspirations. By the years of devoted work of its adherents, and through its attainments, the Federation has earned the respect and the confidence of the workers who rallied to its standard and defended it against its traducers and would-be destroyers.

Twenty-two years ago the American Federation of Labor held an annual convention in this city. That convention reviewed the progress which had been made and it determined upon a well-defined policy for the inauguration of a shorter workday, to the end that an eight-hour day should be established.

The impetus and quickening impulse given to the labor movement and the great cause of justice and humanity for which it stands can only be understood and appreciated by the studious and by the retrospective view to be taken by the workers who will compare the situation and the condition of the wage-working masses then and now. The history of the movement can not be recounted here. So far as it is written, it may be traced in the official proceedings of our conventions, in The American Federationist, in the official trade journals and in the labor press. The unwritten history and some of its most important work lie in the archives of the offices of the organized labor movement, local, international and federated. That which is obvious to all is the progress which has been made in the physical well-being, in the mental, moral, political and social advancement of the toilers. This progress is evidenced in their higher character and more independent spirit, in their recognition of the identity in the interests of all wage-workers and in the solidarity of their feeling and action, together with their wider horizon of duties and rights, their broader sympathies for all mankind, and their determination to struggle on for the eradication of every wrong and the attainment of their every right to which they, in common with their fellow-men, are justly entitled.

Advancement also may be clearly seen in the tribute all pay to the ennobling work of our movement and in the better conception which our people have of the splendid achievements due to the persistent efforts of the organized labor movement of our time.

It may not be uninteresting as an indication of our movement's growth to call attention to the fact that at our first convention in Pittsburgh, Pa., only six international unions were represented, with a number of scattering locals. In St. Louis, twenty-two years ago, there were seventeen international unions with a few central bodies and locals. Note the list of delegates to this convention and the organization they represent, and, at a glance, the great progress made is apparent. This does not account for several hundred central bodies and local unions affiliated but unrepresented by delegates.

Organization and Growth.

For the fiscal year ending September 30, 1910, there were issued by the American Federation of Labor 334 certificates of affiliation (charters), as follows:

International unions	2
State federations	1
City central bodies	83
Local trade unions	152
Federal labor unions	96

Total 334

At the close of the fiscal year there were affiliated to our Federation:

International unions	120
State federations	39
City central bodies	632
Local trade unions	431
Federal labor unions	216

Total 1,438

The international unions enumerated have approximately 28,000 local unions under their jurisdiction. Attention is called to this fact, so that the error into which many persons have fallen as to the make-up of our Federation may be corrected. As its name implies, ours is a federated body of international, state, central and directly affiliated locals, the latter having no international unions of their own trade or calling. The international unions have direct jurisdiction over their own local unions or lodges situated throughout the continent. Applications from unions for affiliation are turned over to the international of the trade where one is in existence. During the past year our affiliated international unions report they have issued 2,157 charters to local unions, and thereby and by adhesion to existing locals have increased their membership for the year 218,229 members.

Our state federations and city central bodies are continually extending their sphere of usefulness and becoming of larger advantage to our fellow-workers. They are abreast of the times, improving every opportunity which presents itself, usually taking the initiative in securing reforms in the industrial, political, social and moral condition of the workers and all our people. Legislatively, they have secured advances too numerous to incorporate in detail in this report. Throughout the length and breadth of our continent the co-operation and spirit of fraternity and solidarity manifested by the members of the organized labor movement is a matter of commendation and deep gratification and must make for a constant growth through organizing the yet unorganized toilers.

Numerically, the membership of our affiliated organizations is near the highest figures in their existence. In 1907-8 we experienced a panic, during which, by reason of unemployment, a decrease in membership occurred. Within the past year a marked increase in both membership and organization is to be noted. In a report which I had the honor to submit to a former convention discussing the "law of growth" of the trade union movement I took occasion to say in part:

"In connection with this it may be well to call attention to the fact that there is a natural law of growth in the labor movement, a law that is not generally understood. When there is a falling off of membership, no matter how slight, our opponents point to it with satisfaction as an indication of disintegration or dissolution of the labor movement. The unthinking in our own ranks view it with alarm. The fact of the matter is that any temporary falling off in membership is due largely to the failure on the part of those organizations to adopt the means by which the members' best interests are safeguarded. After all, a better intelligence and a revived spirit of workmen soon demonstrate the necessity of organization to protect their best interests, and they soon return to their alma mater of the labor movement, the trade union. With this revived spirit the enthusiasm penetrates into the ranks of the unorganized, and these, together with the trend of events in industry and labor conditions, have their compelling force upon the minds of the wage-earners, who in constantly larger numbers join the ranks of the grand army of organized labor, to make common cause for the protection and advancement of all the wage-earners.

"Let pessimists and opponents take uncton to their souls for their mastership of the past. The present and the future are for labor, which in its organized, federated movement will stand as a protest against injustice and wrong toward any of our fellow-men, as the vanguard to proclaim and achieve the rights to which the toilers, the masses, are entitled."

The tide of events has changed. The time and opportunity for a more thorough campaign of organization are here, and, during the next few years, "we must take the current as it serves or lose our ventures." No effort should be left untied to bring the toilers within the protective and beneficent fold and influence of our trade union movement. Every labor organization, wherever located, should exert its uttermost efforts to continue organizing. Every dollar wisely expended in the propaganda of organization will yield its fruit in strength, power, advantage, wisdom and influence for good.

I would urge upon all our fellow-unionists, officers and members, the great rank and file, that greater and more persistent work of organization be planned and carried into effect.

Let every union member regard it as his mission to organize—to bring at least one fellow-worker into membership of his trade union. Let the slogan be: Organize, agitate, educate!

In the campaign of organization, in the great and diversified work which our Federation undertakes in the interest of the toilers, we have often felt the dire need of funds. A scrutiny of our expenditures will disclose that there is not a dollar devoted to any purpose but which makes directly for the workers' welfare.

It is urgently recommended that this convention adopt a slight increase in the per capita of affiliated organizations. I am convinced beyond all peradventure that with some additional funds at the disposal of your officers great good will be accomplished in the interest of the organizations and the workers generally.

Our Movement Not "Narrow."

"The narrowness of trade unionism." This phrase passes current, at full face value, in every camp and even in every group of "intellectuals." In going the whole round of the "isms," sociological, ethical, legal, political, reformatory, played-out popular crazes or "just-out" social panaceas, one will hear expressed by the leaders a sentiment that the trade unionists are hide-bound conservatives—because they decline to rush in a body to take the magic medicine for social ills offered by the particular "ism" advocated by the critic in each particular case.

It is a fact that trade unionism in America moves on in its own set and deliberate way. In so doing, it has outlived wave upon wave of hastily conceived so-called "broad" movements that were to reconstruct society in a single season. And it has sufficiently good cause for continuing its own reasoned-out course.

A full defense of trade unionism against the charge of narrowness would require many volumes, were each to be separately devoted to counter-statements and argumentation addressed to every critic advocating his own special "ism" as against trade unionism. But there is one broad bottom fact underlying all the criticisms of trade unionism based on its alleged narrowness. That fact is that trade unionism is not narrow.

The locomotive engine is not "narrow" because it is not fitted to run on high highways and byways and waterways as it is for railways, nor is the steamship "narrow" because it can not be made to run on land. But steam, the motive power, can be so applied that it is effective on both land and water. An engine is adapted to a special use; steam in its application is universal.

Similarly, a trade union is not a machine fitted to the work of directly affecting all the civic, social and political changes necessary in society. But it first of all teaches the working classes the power of combination. Thenceforward it disciplines them, leads them to perform tasks that are possible, and permits the members of any of its affiliated bodies to attempt any form of social experiment which does not imperil the organization as a whole. The spirit of combination has the immediate effects of self-confidence for the democratic elements in the unions, of growth in the loyalty of workman for workman, of constant progressive achievement not confined to restricted limits. It is therefore a motive power continuously and variously applicable as the masses move forward and upward in their individual and collective development.

The spirit of combination in the wage-workers has as a motive many points of resemblance to that of steam (or for that matter electricity) in the mechanical world. One of these points is that the machine to be moved must not be too big or too complex for the engine. Theorist social reformers beyond enumeration have in vain offered their utopian inventions to the masses because the latter, endowed with common sense, have, on due observation, refused to supply the needed wasteful power to make the inventions go. If they had done so for a time, they could but have exhibited the folly of going to greater pains and troubles than the present social machinery requires. The history of the United States is plentifully illustrated with millennial experiments, illusory for the reason that their maintenance in some way overtaxed their supporters, accustomed to making progress in the freedom and opportunity of America even as it is.

No other mechanism for carrying out the will of the wage-workers in the domain in which they can especially benefit themselves has equaled the trade union and the trade union movement in bringing desired results. No other has equally stood the test of time. No other has thrown anything like the light upon the state of mind of the masses with respect to their economic education. No other has been able to show how intensely practical the workingmen are—nor how devoted they can show themselves to a clearly defined principle, nor how ready they are to trust to their own leadership, nor how they invariably refuse, as a class, to embark in fiction-born utopian ventures. The trade union has been broad enough for all practical purposes.

And yet trade unionism is the soundest base yet laid for every project that gives promise to the working class for a firm and solid advance. Moving step by step, trade unionism contains within itself, as a movement and as a mechanism, the possibilities for establishing whatever social institution the golden future shall develop for the workers as the predestined universal element to be in control of society.

Politically, an invariable problem confronting the trade union movement is how to take action without binding itself to a hard and fast "ism," "ology" or platform. The best of these may quickly develop weaknesses imperiling the hard-won unity of the masses. As a matter of history, American labor organizations, national as well as local, have come to disastrous ending through converting themselves from trade unions, with clear principles and accepted methods and tried leadership, into political parties with vote-catching platforms, campaign methods and heroes of the passing hour for "standard-bearers." The lesson that has been heeded by the rank and file of the trade unions and has been learned by the veterans in the American Federation of Labor is to trust all the time to definite and time-tried trade union economic methods, and to the ballot only in so far as results are to be foreseen to a positive certainty. The political measures to be achieved must, beyond a doubt, form the cause for the workers' proceeding to vote together, but by the side of these measures the fortunes of parties and politicians fall to a subordinate, even a negligible place. From its present position the American Federation of Labor is enabled to throw out feelers all over the continent and ascertain in what respects and how far the ballot may supplement the established and familiar forms of union effort in promoting the well-being of the wage-earning class. The preference the rank and file express for certain public men in some localities comes not so much from interest in the men in question as in the public work they have performed or bind themselves to perform. The votes the organized workers give in support of certain radical parties in other localities is less an indication of an acceptance of platform theories than testimony that the immediate practical demands of these parties are in accord with the needs of the wage-earners and the communities concerned at the present hour. In any case, such activities of the trade unionists in public affairs give contradiction to the charge of narrowness of their institution—the union. They illustrate the fact of an adaptability to occasion and opportunity that in itself is the best evidence of breadth. More, it is a breadth both of view and spirit, consonant with a lasting security of position and with every possibility of continuous experimentation.

It was no narrowness of view, but a clear and comprehensive foresight of the results to be achieved through a change in the mechanism of our law-making, while remaining faithful to fundamental principles, that brought the American Federation twenty years ago to a support of the initiative and referendum and their collateral reforms in the general plan of restoring to the people the power that by the legerdemain of representative misrepresentation had been taken away from them. In all the states and cities in which these rightful and truly democratic methods have been adopted, great progress has been made toward a satisfactory permanent basis for gradual steps through administrative purity and general reform to the future society of unerring and universal justice, a progress greater than has been made through all those movements of the years which have been characterized either by spasmodic upheavals, usually under unstable leadership, or by feverish propaganda actuated through visions of utopias always illuminated by the most iridescent of rainbows.

The trade unions are the historically and naturally developed labor movement of our time, clime and conditions. Our federation of trade unions represents and voices the struggles, needs and the aspirations of the toiling masses of our continent. It helps to bear their burdens and make them lighter; it bears the scars and pain of battle and shares in glorious triumphs already achieved and makes ready for the brighter and better day now, tomorrow, and tomorrow's tomorrow. Nothing daunted, but straightforward and courageous, our labor movement, proud of its past, faces the future with an abiding faith and confidence that that future is ours.

A. F. of L. Departments.

The relations of the various departments to the American Federation of Labor have been of the most cordial, fraternal and helpful character. Every assistance possible has been rendered to the departments and their respective officers.

It is exceedingly gratifying to find that the departments have made such substantial headway. It is earnestly hoped that wherever possible further departments shall be created by and in full affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. Much will depend upon the consistent, cordial and loyal support which the departments now in existence will continue to give to the general policy of the trade union movement as understood and practiced by the American Federation of Labor.

It was in this city of St. Louis in 1888 that I had the honor to report to the convention of the American Federation of Labor upon the subject of industrial divisions or industrial departments. Because of its probable helpfulness as well as appropriateness, I quote the language submitted to the consideration of the delegates to that convention:

"The thought has frequently occurred to me whether in the near future the basis of our Federation should not be modeled upon a somewhat different basis from the present one, by having the various industries classified by the divisions of these industries, such as, for instance, the iron, steel or metal industry to have a convention of the representatives of all the trade unions in that industry; the building trades to have their convention of the representatives of the unions in their trade; the railroad employees theirs and so on, each legislating upon the questions that affect the general interests of their particular trades and interests; these industrial divisions to be in turn represented by their proportionate number of delegates in the convention of the American Federation of Labor and a representative of each industry elected a member of the executive council.

"The conventions of the industrial divisions might be held simultaneously in different halls, of course, but in the city in which the Federation would hold its convention immediately after their adjournment. The idea may not be practical for immediate adoption, but discussion of it can only lead to good results. One thing is certain, the autonomy of each trade and industrial division would thus be more firmly secured."

It is not because of any particular pride in outlining a plan of organization, now nearly verified, that this suggestion of twenty-two years ago is quoted. It is commended to your attention simply for the purpose of endeavoring to suggest that greater consideration be given to the entire subject of improving and making more effective the entire organized labor movement of America, the hegemony of which is generally conceded to the American Federation of Labor. I recommend that this convention authorize the selection of a special committee to give consideration to the subject of departments, the relation of the departments to the American Federation of Labor, how they can be practically extended and improved, to the end that the cause of labor may be the more effectively pursued and the promotion and advancement of the interests of the workers attain the greatest degree of success.

The reports of the progress made by the departments are in condensed form, made part of this report as appendices.

Canada.

The movement in Canada has shown greater progress during the past year than in any previous year in its history. Numerically, representation in the congress has increased by 40 per cent over the year 1909, while the balance in the treasury of the congress over that reported for 1909 was almost 50 per cent. The congress in its legislative capacity has also exceeded anything done in former years. It secured the appointment of a commission on technical education, with its ex-vice president as a member of it; amendments to the industrial disputes investigation act that further protected the interests of those affected by the act, and the exemption of trade unions from the combines investigation act. It offered such strenuous opposition to the Belcourt bill, which was designed to keep international officers out of Canada, that its promoter asked permission to withdraw it, which was permitted, although the senate threatened to "throw it out bodily."

In fact, says Secretary Draper of the Trade and Labor Congress, "the last session of the Dominion parliament may be said to have been a labor session, inasmuch as besides dealing with the above matters there were before it for consideration bills dealing with the following matters: Proportional representation; land line and wireless telegraphy on ships for the protection of sailors; to make election day a public holiday, and to do away with the election deposit; to provide for the fortnightly payment of wages on railways instead of monthly as at present; to abolish the senate; bringing cable companies under the jurisdiction of the railway commission, the railway companies, express, telegraph and telephone companies being already subject to the commission; bill for the legalizing of co-operative societies and other proposed legislation.

Needless to say these are largely attributable to the activity of the organized workers and of the Trades and Labor Congress representing them.

Apart from legislation, it is a pleasure to report that the sentiment in favor of international trade unionism is stronger than ever in Canada. Throughout the length and breadth of the land the wage-earners realize that their safety lies in the international bond, and despite the efforts of the employing interests to build up a so-called "national" movement, the trades unionists of Canada will continue to give their allegiance to their various international bodies.

Looking over the whole field, it can be said that never before was labor so well united and so ready to defend its interests as now. It views with sincere pleasure the growing strength of the American Federation of Labor. It rejoices in the victory for individual liberty achieved by the officers of that body in their fight with the Buck's Stove & Range Company. It watches with true fraternal interest the struggle in the United States for the betterment of the conditions of the workers and it is prepared to continue its affiliations until such time as the workers come into their own.

Porto Rico.

The first years of labor organization in Porto Rico witnessed a continuous struggle for the conquest of civil emancipation for the working classes. Through the healthy influence of the American Federation of Labor the organized workmen of Porto Rico are now achieving a worthy civil standing. The Free Federation of the Workmen of Porto Rico, American Federation of Labor, has sent two labor delegations to Washington this year to work for the demands of the people of the island. Last December one of the labor delegations, accompanied by your president and other representatives of the American Federation of Labor, called on President Taft and delivered to him a petition requesting American citizenship for the Porto Ricans and recommending other measures in favor of the people of the island in general and the toilers in particular. President Taft, on my suggestion, referred for investigation the whole question regarding Porto Rican affairs to a government specialist who has had experience in Porto Rico and besides sent a commission, which included the secretary of war, Mr. Dickinson, General Edwards of the bureau of insular affairs, and other officials to Porto Rico for the purpose of investigating conditions, with a view to drawing up recommendations for congress. A bill being introduced in congress by Mr. Olmsted of Pennsylvania providing for American citizenship for the islanders and for a political and civil constitution and a health law, and for thoroughly changing the governmental organization of the island, upon my cabled suggestion the Labor Federation sent a delegation to Washington for the purpose of having labor demands included in the bill. With similar ends in view, on invitation of Governor Colton of Porto Rico, the political parties and the Federation each sent a delegation to Washington to work together for the island's welfare. Assisted by the American Federation of Labor, the delegations succeeded in having embodied in the Olmsted bill the principal provisions recommended by the Federation of Porto Rico, credit being due for their advocacy to Congressman Wilson of Pennsylvania.

The main feature in which we are interested is the subject-matter of United States citizenship for the inhabitants of Porto Rico, and in the bill No. 23000—which was finally reported out of committee as a substitute for all other bills and which provides for a civil government for Porto Rico—is incorporated this section:

"That all citizens of Porto Rico are hereby declared and shall be deemed and held to be citizens of the United States."

The bill came up in the house June 15, 1910, and while being debated upon the floor Representative Wilson, of Pennsylvania, offered several amendments and succeeded in securing three of the most important provisions formulated by organized labor of Porto Rico adopted by the house and incorporated in the act as passed by the house. These provisions are:

"1. The establishment of eight hours as a day's work in all cases of employment by or on behalf of the government or any municipality of Porto Rico.

"2. The prohibition of employment of children under the age of 14 years in any occupation injurious to health or morals, or especially hazardous to life or limb.

"3. That a right of action to recover damages for injuries resulting in death shall not be abrogated, and that the amount recoverable shall not be subject to any statutory limitations whatsoever."

Representative Wilson also offered an amendment specifically directing the establishment of a department of agriculture, commerce and labor, but it was defeated. The pending bill provides that the legislature of Porto Rico may create a department of agriculture, commerce and labor.

Many other valuable provisions were included in the bill looking to the safeguarding of the public health; also stringent regulations governing sanitation and progressive measures for better educational facilities. The bill as amended passed the house June 15 and is now before the senate committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, of which Senator Depew is chairman and from which committee a favorable report is confidently expected at the forthcoming session of congress. Such a report would be materially helpful in securing its enactment into law.

Governor Colton, who accompanied the delegations to Washington, has been the first American official in Porto Rico who has ever taken up the labor problem intelligently and sympathetically. He believes that the paramount question confronting the island today is the raising of the native workers to a higher standard of living.

The sixth Labor Congress of Porto Rico was held last March. These congresses are held every two years. Fifty-five delegates, representing seventy-two organizations from all over the island, were present.

The unions organized during the eight months were twelve, with a membership of 1,239. The literature of every class distributed in Spanish reached over 200,000 copies.

Labor Day was most fittingly observed throughout the island. The celebration in San Juan included a civic parade which was photographed and is being now exhibited in moving picture plays in and out of the island. Porto Rican labor has sent more than $1,000 to assist the cigarmakers' strike at Tampa.

The island has made great progress during the last ten years of American government, but the toilers' share has not been in the same proportion, owing to the state of ignorance in which they were kept in the time of Spain's domination.

Governor Colton sent a special message to the Porto Rican legislature, which the representatives of organized labor of the island had urged him to do. It dealt with the subject of employers' liability. The house adopted it, but it failed of passage in the upper house. There are strong hopes of its early enactment. The governor issued a Labor Day proclamation full of intrinsic merit and urging the people to observe the day in its best sense as a legal holiday. The favorable attitude of the governor toward labor, and his knowledge of the subject, is due to the persistent work of the American Federation of Labor in Porto Rico, as well as in Washington, in advocating the rights of the people of the island. Indeed, the general consensus of opinion among all Porto Ricans is that to the work performed and the assistance rendered by the American Federation of Labor much of the economic, political and social progress is due.

At present Porto Rico has 130 local unions, with a membership of over 6,000.

In view of the splendid achievements in the interests of the Porto Rican workers made possible by the assistance of our American trade union movement, and because of the close identity of their people with ours, I strongly urge the continuation of every effort to thoroughly organize the wage-workers of Porto Rico.

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

In compliance with the directions of the Toronto convention, on November 27, last year, one week after its adjournment, I issued a circular to the officials of affiliated national and international unions calling for a conference, to be held in Pittsburgh, December 13, at which a course of action should be outlined, in accordance with the convention's adopted policy toward the United States Steel Corporation, and toward the workers engaged in their justified struggle with that corporation.

At this conference it was decided to recommend that each national or international union assign at least one organizer, and the American Federation of Labor as many organizers as possible, to assist the Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, all to proceed under the direction of the president of that union. Arrangements were made for financial contributions, and a recommendation adopted that the Tin Plate Workers' Association should amalgamate with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, the new body to be entitled the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers' Association. A special committee was appointed to lay before the president of the United States, the president of the United States senate and the speaker of the house of representatives the grievances of labor in the employment of the Steel Corporation, and, further, to demand a thorough investigation as to the legality of certain actions, as well as the existence, of that corporation. Special committees were also appointed to wait upon the governors of states and officials in counties and municipalities in which the corporation has plants, to protest against the wrongs inflicted upon the people in such communities and demand that these wrongs be righted.

On January 10 the special committee accordingly waited on the president and submitted to him in writing the charges against the steel trust. On February 18 and 25 conferences were had with the attorney-general, to whom the president had referred labor's charges. This was followed on March 22 by the formal presentation to the attorney-general in pamphlet form of "The Statement and Evidence in Support of the Petition and Charges Presented to the President of the United States Against the United States Steel Corporation by the American Federation of Labor," in the preparation of which your officials had been assisted by Hon. Frank S. Monnett, former attorney-general of Ohio, and Hon. A. G. Ballard of Gary, Ind. On March 28 the attorney-general sent us his reply, the gist of it being: "This department does not deem it expedient to take any action until the supreme court of the United States shall have decided the appeals now under consideration by it from the judgments of the circuit courts in the proceedings against the American Tobacco Company and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, respectively." These cases, the attorney-general explained, call for a "comprehensive construction and application by the court of the provisions of the Sherman act," under which the Steel Corporation must be proceeded against. The appeals referred to have not yet been decided.

Meantime, the entire corps of organizers who had reported for the work were actively engaged in the steel trust's territory. A diversion of effort and of public attention, however, was caused in February by a walk-out of several thousand of the unorganized workmen of the Bethlehem Steel Company, in revolt against conditions as to hours, wages and dangers to life and limb, the descriptions of which shocked the nation. Consequently, the United States senate allowed a resolution to pass, introduced at the instance of the American Federation of Labor, which authorized the federal bureau of labor to investigate conditions in the steel works at South Bethlehem. The investigation began March 17, its findings and those of independent investigators being from day to day made public in the press. On March 21 the steel trust, bending to public opinion, through its president, directed a limitation of Sunday work in subsidiary companies; on April 15 it announced an increase of 6 per cent in the wages of a majority of its employees, and on April 16 further announced its adoption of a system of accident compensation. While none of these concessions reach the level of either union demands or the standards of disinterested investigators, they are manifestly due to the militant activities of organized labor, evoking a widespread response from the unorganized workers in the industry.

Further incidents of the campaign for organization and inquiry into the status of the steel corporation were: Presentation March 30 by American Federation of Labor representatives of a bill of grievances to Governor Marshall, of Indiana, with a petition to investigate the Steel Corporation's subsidiary companies in that state; passage of a resolution in the house of representatives, inspired by the American Federation of Labor, directing the attorney-general to investigate the Steel Corporation; passage of a bill by the senate, also introduced at the request of the American Federation of Labor, directing the United States bureau of labor to investigate and report the industrial conditions prevailing in the iron and steel industry of the United States.

Public statements have been made, and it is otherwise currently reported, that the report of the bureau of labor will soon be forthcoming and that the same will receive the attention of the administration.

It is recommended that during the approaching sessions of the legislatures in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Alabama and elsewhere that the state authorities be urged to institute thorough investigations and proceedings against the corporation in so far as it is operating illegally and improperly within the state or states, and it is further urged that the investigation be extended to the industrial and economic conditions prevailing among the workers in the industry. In our time it is not enough that a great industry such as prevails in iron, steel and tin, which has practically become a monopoly, shall be operated within the letter of the law. Such an industrial concern owes to society and humanity a deeper and broader concern for the welfare of its workers.

Ladies' Garment Workers' Strike and Injunction.

This strike, breaking out the first of July and continuing for nine weeks, involved in the course of its progress as many as 75,000 men and women of the "cloakmaking" industry in New York city. From the beginning it was characterized by an unexpected spirit of enthusiasm, resistance and solidarity on the part of the workers. Previous to their cessation of work the vast majority of them had been unorganized. But their experiences had been such that the necessity for a union became so deeply impressed upon them that they decided to refuse to accept any terms that might place their organization in jeopardy. Before August 2, 800 small employers, employing 30,000 persons, had made settlements with the union. An attempt made at that date for a general agreement, through negotiations carried on by representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the counsel for the two sides in conflict, was not successful, but on September 2 the following terms were accepted by the union and the Employers' Association:

"Each member of the manufacturers is to maintain a union shop, a union shop being understood to refer to a shop where union standards as to working conditions, hours of labor and rates of wages prevail, and where, when hiring help, union men are preferred, it being recognized that, since there are different degrees of skill, employers shall have the freedom of selection as between one union man and another, and shall not be confined to any list nor bound to follow any prescribed order whatever."

The conditions secured by the workers are substantially as follows: Electric power free; no work at home; discipline of any manufacturer proved guilty of discrimination among his employees; six days' work a week and a cash weekly pay day; all sub-contracting within shops abolished; nine hours work a day, five days a week and five hours the sixth day; the price of piece work agreed upon by a committee of employees and their employers; double pay for overtime.

Treasurer John B. Lennon was at the outset of the strike assigned to assist on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, and was later joined by Organizer M. Grant Hamilton. Our local organizers were also concentrated on the work, and on request I paid several visits to New York to assist at mass meetings and at the conferences. The general executive board of the union, at its quarterly meeting, September 28, in a resolution after conveying to individual representatives of the American Federation of Labor their deep sense of gratitude for the services rendered in the course of the strike, recorded this minute:

"We all feel that the co-operation of the American Federation of Labor in this strike has done a great deal toward helping us to achieve such a complete and brilliant victory."

An incident toward the close of the strike was the issue of an injunction by Judge Goff, of the New York city supreme court, which put before the American people the novel and undoubtedly fallacious principle that to strike for the so-called "closed shop" is illegal. An immediate effect of the injunction was to arouse a greater determination than ever in the workers to win. While this judge's action in this case was not taken seriously, either by the press or the public, it served to indicate the necessity that exists for a statute restraining the abuse of power by judges, federal and state, particularly in the issuance of injunctions by which the liberties of the citizens, when these citizens are wage-workers, are outrageously invaded and denied.

It is not amiss here to call attention to the fact that if workmen may be denied by injunction, or by any other process, the right to leave their employment, either singly or in association, for the reason that they desire to secure the union shop; if they may be restrained by an injunction from striking in sympathy with their fellow-workers; if they may be enjoined from striking for any given reason whatever, the difference between the so-called free workmen and the workmen who must yield obedience to their masters—slaves—has disappeared. The only reason for slave-holding is to compel men to work in obedience to their masters will.

If workmen may lawfully leave their employment at all—may strike—and they exercise that right, giving no reason for their act, the judges issuing the species of injunction would not issue an injunction, if we may believe the terms of their injunctive orders. If, on the other hand, workmen give any of the reasons which I have enumerated for leaving their employment—that is, for striking—then these judges will issue injunctions. Attention is called to this absurdity, that the doing of the act—that is, leaving work without giving any reason therefor—is held to be a bar to the issuance of an injunction, but that giving any of the reasons cited for striking affords the grounds upon which these injunctions are issued. It follows that it is not for the act—the strike in itself—that judges enjoin, but for the reasons the workmen give for that act.

But what authority had Judge Goff for his action?

The United States supreme court said on January 27, 1908, in its decision on the Adair case (sometimes popularly referred to as the "Black-list" case):

"In every case that comes before this court where the protection of the federal constitution is sought, the question necessary arises, is this a fair, reasonable and appropriate exercise of the police power of the state, or is it an unreasonable, unnecessary and arbitrary interference with the right of the individual to his personal liberty, or to enter into those contracts in relation to labor which may seem to him appropriate or necessary for the support of himself and his family? Of course, the liberty of contract relating to labor includes both parties to it; the one has as much right to purchase as the other to sell labor."

Again, the court said:

"The right of a person to sell his labor upon such terms as he deems proper is, in its essence, the same as the right of the purchasing of labor to prescribe the conditions upon which he will accept such labor from a person offering to sell it. So the right of the employee to quit the service of the employer, for whatever reason, is the same as the right of the employer, for whatever reason, to dispense with the services of such employee."

I quote again from the same case. "It was the legal right of the defendant Adair . . . however unwise such a course on his part might have been, to quit the service in which he was engaged because the defendant employed some persons who were not members of a labor organization." After this ruling, the court emphasized its position by saying: "In all such particulars the employer and the employee have equality of right, and any legislation that disturbs the equality is an arbitrary interference with the liberty of contract which no government can legally justify in a free land."

The court in its final judgment on this case said: "This decision is therefore restricted to the question of the validity of the particular provision in the act of congress making it a crime against the United States for an agent or officer of an interstate carrier to discharge an employee from its service because of his being a member of a labor organization." And the court decided that the particular provision in the act of congress was unconstitutional. The court decided that an employer had the right to discharge a man because he was a member of a labor organization. The court decided that the right of that employee to quit the service of an employer for whatever reason is the same as the right of the employer for whatever reason to dispense with the services of such employee. In short, for the courts to permit to employers the free play of discharge must carry with it the corresponding free action of employees to work or not to work, for any cause or for no cause, as they see fit. This inherent right can not be successfully abridged, either by a legislature or by the congress. And yet within a period of one month judges of three courts in three separate states—Goff, in New York, against the Garment Workers, August 27, 1910; Richardson, in Massachusetts, against the Photo-Engravers, July 29, 1910, and Houghton, in Indiana, against the Machinists, August 27, 1910—issued injunctions and decided that if men leave their employment for reasons justifiable to their judgment it will be acting illegally. This, too, in the face of the highest judicial authority in our land, the supreme court of the United States.

The "Shirt-Waist" Strike.

This strike, which to so large an extent occupied public attention in the winter of 1909-10, brought to the consciousness of the nation a recognition of certain features looming up in its social development. These were the extent to which women are taking up with industrial life, their consequent tendency to stand together in the struggle to protect their common interests as wage-workers, the readiness of people in all classes to approve of trade union methods in behalf of working women and the capacity of women as strikers to suffer, to do and to dare in support of their rights.

The number of women engaged in the shirt-waist strike was at least 20,000. Previous to their going out they had little or no organization. Their employers at first regarded their unexpected cessation from work as nothing more than an affair of a few days, at the end of which they must return to their places in the workshops, defeated, sobered and ready to accept once more their accustomed routine and disheartening conditions. The employers were mistaken. The girls were willing to go hungry, and many of them did so; they braved the ruffianly police while peacefully picketing, went to imprisonment as a part of their duty to their comrades when sentenced by unsympathetic magistrates, skillfully and energetically aroused a sentiment in their favor in the community, and finally convinced their employers that they had learned the merits of combination for their plainly just purposes. It required twenty-three weeks to work their revolution in the shirt-waist industry, but it was accomplished. The bulk of the 450 shops of the trade in New York signed agreements with the union, and those which held out against formally signing generally accepted the terms for which the union had contended.

Under the agreement, wages were arranged in each shop, there being much variety in the character of the work done in the different shops. For overtime, price and a half and double price scales came into operation, in most cases for the first time. A fifty-two hour week was established for the industry, even for the non-union shops. A limit of two hours overtime was fixed. As there are about four months in the slack seasons of the year, it is desirable for the union to devise a scheme of extending the working seasons. Abolition of sub-contracting, the establishment of a fixed wage scale and the maintenance of hygienic work-place conditions are among the union purposes to be noted. It is a matter of congratulation to the women of the country that the organization of the shirt-waist girls of New York is now in good working order as a regular trade union, a local of the International Ladies' Garment Workers of America.

In connection with this subject, attention is called to the fact that after the strike's successful termination one of the employers brought suit against the international and the local union, its members and several of the public-spirited, non-wage working women who assisted the girls in the strike. The suit was brought for $150,000 under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law, the complaint as alleged being upon the same lines as that brought by Loewe & Co. against the United Hatters of North America.

Miners' Strikes and Others.

The members of the United Mine Workers of America at the last regular annual convention of their union declared for an increase of wages and for other improved conditions of their labor. The failure of many of the mine owners to agree with the representatives of the men resulted in a strike in the bituminous regions of more than one hundred thousand men, which lasted more than five months. It resulted in the full demands of the men being conceded.

In western Pennsylvania several thousand miners have been on strike for conditions more nearly alike to those enjoyed by their fellow-chaftsmen in the region and in the industry. These contesting miners were comparatively unorganized when they entered upon the strike. They became unionized soon after the strike was inaugurated. In view of the drain upon the funds of the United Mine Workers, in consequence of the great strike of a large part of its membership, that organization could not financially aid these other men to the extent both officers and members desired, yet every possible financial and moral assistance has been rendered. These men have made and are still making a splendid and heroic struggle for better wages and conditions, and for the right to organize for their protection and advancement. It is difficult to understand the awful privations these men, their wives and children have endured and are enduring in the endeavor to secure to them a standing in their relations with their employers which make for the consideration and justice to which these workers are entitled. They demand a voice in the determination of the wages, hours and conditions under which they shall dispose of their only possession, their labor power.

Numbers of organizations report that the largest gains and improvements in conditions have been received by conference and agreement.

Directly Affiliated Locals.

In regard to the struggles of our directly affiliated local trade unions and Federal Labor Unions, it is to be said that they have been unusually successful. A number have been engaged in protracted strikes, all of them but one proving successful. Even the one lost strike resulted in securing some improvement over former conditions and some relief from the conditions under which the workers suffered before the effort was made. With the experience and aid of our Federation's officers and organizers, these directly affiliated locals have been guided aright, and they have gained many advantages without the necessity of a strike. The fact that these locals have the advice and moral support of our Federation's officers and organizers, and if necessary the financial support of the American Federation of Labor, is regarded by the workers and their employers of sufficient potency to compel respectful consideration of labor's needs and rights.

In addition to general strikes there have been a number of trade contests in many parts of the continent, but these have been local in character. They have been quite as important as those specifically mentioned, but they have generally been confined to well directed efforts by organized bodies to obtain higher wages, shorter hours and better conditions. But better than all have been the improved conditions in respect to wages and hours which have been secured by the workers without the necessity of the cessation of labor through a strike or lockout.

In recent years a lesser number of international unions have been formed from directly affiliated unions than has formerly been the case. This is due largely to the fact that the directly affiliated local unions have urged that they are now under the immediate direction and advice of the Federation's officers and organizers, as well as to the fact that the American Federation of Labor has accumulated a considerable fund, to assistance from which they are entitled in times of stress. These benefits together with the prestige they enjoy of direct affiliation to the Federation are of great advantage to them in dealing with employers—advantages which they declare they would not otherwise have had for a long time. They assert that by reason of the inexperience of their own men when dealing with the industrial interests of their fellow-workmen, and in the administration of the affairs of an international organization, and on account of the time necessary for the accumulation of funds for the promotion and protection of their rights and interests, they would comparatively suffer in the meantime.

In several of the trades there is a sufficient number of organizations to form a national union, and I have endeavored, and our officers should continue to endeavor in the future, to have international unions formed whenever there is a sufficient number of local unions of a trade or vocation to institute such a body. Men learn more by their own experience than by the advice or leadership of others. These unions must be organized into national or international unions some time, and they should begin at the most convenient practical time.

Congress—Its Decadence and Renaissance.

In establishing the new nation the great statesmen who reared the structure of our republic conceived the idea of providing three separate, distinct and co-ordinate departments of government, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Each of these departments was designed to be within itself absolutely independent of the other, exercising supreme and exclusive jurisdiction in its respective sphere, and yet all were intended to be interdependent.

No similar experimentation with government had ever been attempted in other lands. This new plan was born out of the iron law of necessity. It was ideal in form, although somewhat cumbersome in operation when compared with the monarchical form, which it was designed to replace. The cardinal idea, the thought that inspired all, the intent that riveted the attention of those pioneers was to show the whole world that no one man was or could ever be wise enough or good enough to control the destinies and the welfare of other men. That cardinal point must be clearly understood for a comprehension of the basic principles upon which our republic was founded.

In connection therewith these early pioneers of the new government saw farther than merely exhausting their energies by making protests which were heard around the world; they coupled with those protests one of the most constructive features of self-government. The central thought was that the destinies of the people of then we nation should be left in the hands of the people themselves. For want of better machinery, with which the people might express their will, the old English system of expressing their collective will through representatives, our representative form of government, was established.

For years the fathers wrestled with this great problem of self-government. The spirit that had called forth the sentiments and principles of the Declaration of Independence struggled and contested for a popular government in all that that expression implies. The opposition, fearing to intrust the people with full sway, exerted their greatest efforts to limit the people's power. Yet all agreed upon one point, and that was that the source of all power, of all new legislation, of every vital principle of law, should rest in the hands of the people through their representatives in congress; aye, and by a two-thirds vote even over the veto of the president. In short, the congress, composed of the house of representatives and the senate, was charged specifically under the basic laws contained in the constitution to make provision for revenues and expenditures, to establish a fiscal system, and above and beyond all to form a code of law, in respect to which the executive and judicial branches of the government were and are required to yield obedience, these branches on this point being not co-ordinate, but subordinate. For example, the executive was granted no authority to create law; the judicial department was granted no prerogative to make law; the law was to be made solely and distinctly by the people's representatives in congress, and then it was designed that the judicial department should administer the law as it found it, and the executive should execute the law as it was clearly written and interpreted.

If present conditions were not so serious, it would appear absurd that at this late day such a restatement of fact and principle should be found necessary. But flagrant departures from the constitution in the recent past not only justify but compel criticism and protest. When others who should speak are silent, when others are willing to allow the vital principles of self-government to be either misapplied or betrayed, it is time that the men of labor should speak, directing the attention of their fellow-workers and fellow-citizens to the evils that threaten.

One of the greatest dangers now confronting the people and the people's government is the effort to overrule, to disregard, to treat with contempt that part of the government nearest the people—the house of representatives. This is not generally understood, but it is a fact nevertheless, and the character and the composition of the house in the last decade are chiefly to blame. For sake of party, of party harmony; for patronage, or its possible loss; for the sake of a re-election, the members have sat idly by, closed their eyes, refused to listen to the voice of duty, until such weakness has culminated in establishing the custom by representatives of "holding their tongues" for fear they might lose caste with the speaker whom they periodically and mechanically elected as their servant, yet to whom they have submitted as their master. For fear they might be considered fault-finders, for fear they might be called "irregular," for fear of their non-appointment on important committees, for fear they might lose the patronage the president has to bestow they have acted as though paralyzed. Fear! Fear! Fear! Always the ghostly apparition of fear haunts the lives of the average congressman, and while this un-American attitude prevails the privileges, the dignity, the unquestioned prerogatives of legislation, the bedrock basis of constitutional rights, the fundamental requirement of fearless, faithful representation that gave this nation birth—these precious, valued and holy elements of liberty are being gradually alienated from the house of representatives by the courts and by the presidents, and all that is now left of the power of the house is a theoretical recognition by the other departments that the house shall "hold the money-bag" and provide revenue for the operation and continuation of the government. That the house has not availed itself of even this power is current history patent to any observer.

House New Rule.

That the American Federation of Labor has made the people's fight their fight was demonstrated in the house of representatives on June 17, when it adopted the new rule under house resolution 808, which reads in parts as follows:

"Any member may present a motion in writing to discharge a committee from further consideration of any public bill or joint resolution referred to such committee," and "recognition for such motions shall be in order in which they have been entered . . . and shall have precedence over motions to suspend the rules and shall require for adoption an affirmative vote of the majority of the membership of the house."

Taking advantage of this new rule, that faithful and alert representative, Mr. W. B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, on June 24, moved to discharge the committee on judiciary from further consideration of H. R. 25188. The number of this bill on the new "discharge committee" calendar is 24.

Special attention is invited to these matters; first, because it indicates progress, and second, because it justifies the American Federation of Labor in its incessant struggle to regain and re-establish a fundamental principle in representative government which has so long been denied the people by Speaker Cannon and his cohorts.

It is therefore confidently expected that the anti-trust and the anti-injunction bills will be discussed by the house of representatives at the coming session of the present congress, instead of being smothered by committees, and if the present representatives and other congressional candidates have been definitely pledged on these bills during the campaign just closed, it may be reasonably hoped that they will be enacted into law before the close of the next session of the sixty-first congress. If so, the fight will have been worth while, and the most important step toward maintaining the original form of true representative government will have been won through the initiative and activity of the American Federation of Labor.

Summary and Status of Labor Legislation.

The following is the summary of legislation passed by the sixty-first congress in which labor is particularly interested:

Amendment to the employers' liability law and the creation of a commission to inquire into the subject of extending employers' liability and the establishment of compensation.

The law requiring the standardization of equipment, such as ladders, running boards, grab irons on cars of railroads.

The law requiring common carriers to report to the interstate commerce commission all accidents of whatever character, and the cause.

The law for the better enforcement of the child labor law of the District of Columbia.

The application of the eight-hour law to the construction of government vessels by private contractors.

The establishment of postal savings banks. The creation of a bureau of mining for the investigation of the causes of accidents in mines and their prevention, and the rescue of workmen when accidents may occur.

The following are several of the most important bills pending before congress, the enactment of which labor seeks:

The Wilson bill, H. R. 25188. This bill is intended to remedy the injunction abuse and to restore to labor the rights of which it was deprived through the interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law. It is now with the judiciary committee. Mr. Wilson offered a motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of the bill. Pending in the house.

The eight-hour bill, H. R. 15441, before the committee on labor, Mr. Hughes, of New Jersey, offered a discharge motion so that the bill may come before the house. Pending in the house.

The bill to regulate the labor of convicts, H. R. 12000. Ordered reported favorably by the committee to the house for passage.

The Spight and LaFollette bill, H. R. 11193 and S. 6155, for the protection of seamen and the prohibition of undermining of seagoing vessels, and the training of the youth for the American Merchant marine. Still in committee.

The locomotive boiler inspection bill, S. 236 and H. R. 9786, 9965 and 10699. Still in committee.

The forty-eight hour bill, S. 5900, H. R. 17996, being the eight-hour day or forty-eight hour week for postoffice clerks. Still in committee.

Bills to limit and regulate immigration. Before the various committees of the house and senate. Mr. Gardner, of Massachusetts, introduced a bill requiring the educational test. A discharge motion is before the house.

The Asiatic exclusion bill passed the house and is before the senate committee.

The creation of a federal department of labor ordered to be reported favorably by the committee to the house.

H. R. 19546 and S. 3731 are bills to accord to those engaged in the civil service the political rights exercised by all citizens. The bills are before the committees of the house and senate. S. 4675 and H. R. 2374 being industrial education bills. Before committee.

H. R. 19718 providing citizenship for Porto Ricans and other measures in the interest of labor and the people of the island. Bill still in committee.

The bill to secure to the official journals and our fraternal societies the second-class postal rates, H. R. 22239, passed the house and is pending before the senate committee.

Anti-Trust and Injunction.

In spite of our best endeavors it seemed impossible to obtain consideration by the house committee on judiciary of H. R. 3058, or as it was with labor's advice later reintroduced by Representative Wilson as H. R. 25188. The majority membership of the committee was composed of the most docile representatives whom Speaker Cannon could have possibly selected. His ingenuity in his choice of this most important committee was characteristic. It became the object of derision of the sixty-first congress. One of its members, Mr. Reuben O. Moon, of Pennsylvania, obeyed orders and introduced "the administration bill" H. R. 21334. It was a bill providing legal authority for the issuance of injunctions, an authority which does not now exist. The president at first urged him and the committee to report the bill, but party exigency evidently forbade it. On March 2, 1910, I addressed a letter to Mr. Moon, and on hearing from him in response thereto I sent to each member of the committee an identical letter, inclosing a copy of the letter I had submitted to Mr. Moon. I herewith submit both these letters as an appendix to this report.

To the identical letter I received formal acknowledgment from Messrs. Parker, Nye, Howland, Malby, Carlin, Henry and Denby, with assurances that the matter would receive their careful consideration. Messrs. Nye and Henry said they would oppose the Moon bill, both in committee and in the house.

President Taft, in an address at Passaic, N. J., on May 9, after discussing the provisions of the Moon bill, said:

"The great difficulty in respect to the matter is that if the bill is reported from the committee and put upon its passage in the house there will be a movement to introduce amendments in accord with the recommendations of the Federation of Labor, by which a jury trial shall be required in contempt cases and boycotts shall be made legitimate. It is feared that if such amendments were proposed they might pass and thus make the bill an obnoxious one. Whether a parliamentary condition can be created which will prevent the submission of such amendments or not is a question that I can not anticipate."

In other words, the president was apprehensive that if that bill which he favors came before the house of representatives amendments would be offered securing to the workers the right to which labor is entitled equal with all other citizens, and that these amendments would be adopted by the house. Further, he hoped that a parliamentary condition might be created to prevent labor's amendments being brought to the consideration of the house. Of course, it is a misstatement, more than likely an unintentional one, when the president declared that labor has asked for a jury trial in contempt cases. The president's misinformation upon this subject indicates clearly that he has not understood the provisions of the Wilson bill, H. R. 25188. As a reading of the bill will disclose, we have not asked anything of the kind. For convenience, a copy of the bill is made an appendix to this report.

The session being then well advanced, it was found impossible to obtain further attention, but a well organized portion of the house members was prepared to attack the bill if it came up and also to add to it as an amendment the Wilson bill, H. R. 25188. This information coming to the president, he relaxed his eagerness to obtain the passage of the Moon bill. He feared that if that bill came before the house the opportunity would come to carry the Wilson bill as an amendment and by that means extend to labor the legitimate relief for which it has been contending and to which he is aggressively opposed.

It might not be amiss to call attention to an occurrence in the early part of the year which showed an invasion by a court of the prerogative of a legislative branch of the government and a supine acquiescence and surrender on the part of the house of representatives. Each house of congress for convenience conferred upon one of its committees power to pass upon and determine matters which otherwise itself would have to determine. Justice Wright, of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, issued an order to the members of each of these committees of congress citing them to appear and show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued compelling the committees to perform a certain act upon which the committees had discretionary power. The committee of the house and of the senate each reported back to its respective chamber asking for instructions as to the attitude to be taken toward the court. The senate instructed its committee to disobey the order and not to put in an appearance, and to so notify Justice Wright. The house instructed its committee to make appearance and to answer, thus surrendering its right and independence as one of the legislative bodies representing a distinct arm of the government, whose deliberations are constitutionally defined to be free from judicial interference. Justice Wright later dismissed the writ of mandamus on what he termed "its merits," yet the fact remains that by yielding to the court's order the house left the original subject to the discretion of the court, that is, whether the house committee should be compelled to perform an act which might be contrary to the judgment of the committee or the house itself and contrary to the interests of the people. The action of the house established what Justice Wright aimed to secure, the jurisdiction of his court, and therefore the jurisdiction of any court in issuing an order compelling a legislative branch of the federal government to perform an act contrary to its will.

In addition, your attention is called to the fact that the writ of mandamus and the writ of injunction differ only in this respect: A mandamus compels the doing of an act; an injunction forbids the doing of an act. If a court has the right to issue a mandamus or writ to compel the doing of a certain act by congress or by one of its committees, it follows that the court has also the right to issue an injunction forbidding it to do that same act or to pass some other act. What is of additional interest to labor is that the senate in totally disregarding the order of Justice Wright did not incur his wrath; he did not have the temerity to exercise his power and cite the senate or its committee before him for their refusal to disobey his mandate. If his order was not void, he had the right and the power to punish for contempt through disobedience.

It is not pleasant to be compelled to record such observations and reflections as these relative to a department of government generally considered the most popular, and which is and must always naturally be the closest to the people, but it is useless to wait longer for time to correct these deficiencies, and it is absolute folly to expect that reformation and regeneration will be primarily effected inside the house. To purify and rehabilitate are achievements that must originate with the people themselves, never forgetting that eternal vigilance is essential to secure and preserve that priceless treasure, liberty. The popular branch of the congress must be restored to its original intent, and our congressmen must be prompted by the people to exercise their every constitutional right and to jealously conserve their inalienable prerogatives.

If the house of representatives had exercised the power and the rights with which it was originally endowed, the men of labor would not have occasion to persistently protest against the application and abuse of the writ of injunction in labor disputes. Neither would they be confronted with the confusing interpretations of law which have emanated from our courts in the latter's attempts to link up a trade union with an industrial or commercial trust dealing in the products of labor.

For ages before our government was organized there had been an irrepressible conflict between two distinct forms of government—government of law and personal government, or government by discretion. In the long run civilization has always made progress toward government by law, not court-made law, but law formally enacted by representatives of the people (and at least in theory) with the people's approval.

One of our chief grievances is the tendency of our modern American courts to get away from government by law—statutory law—law enacted by the people through their duly accredited representatives—and to hark back to the old system of personal government, government by discretion, that discretion resting with men; good men, strong men, frail men—judges.

To submit to such a reaction would be the extreme of folly; it would be equivalent to setting the hands of the clock backward. It would be an admission on our part that the struggle of the Revolutionary fathers was all in vain and that government by the people is a delusion.

We can not, we dare not, permit this tremendous power to be in the hands of any one man or any few men, and we most assuredly must not permit one man, or a small proportion of men, to arrogate to themselves a discretion amounting to dominion over the lives and the liberties of the people. Yet when our courts issue unwarranted injunctions in labor disputes restraining men from persuading, from inducing, from congregating, from soliciting, from speaking, from printing, from performing the simplest acts clearly compatible with the inherent and inalienable rights of every citizen, or of a number of citizens, the courts have come to assume a power that the constitution and the laws do not confer upon them, and indeed explicitly deny to them.

Judges must have a substantial basis of concrete law upon which to base their decisions. The congress must provide this basis; if it has been and still is unwilling or incapable, the people in their might and by the exercise of their constitutional rights must compel the remedy.

The habit of countenancing courts in their invasion of the most sacred rights of man, and then allowing such invasion to be followed because of precedent, no people deserving freedom can long tolerate or, tolerating, can long retain their freedom.

Congress must come to the rescue in an intelligent, courageous, progressive manner and reassert the personal rights of men and lay down definite laws from which the courts may not depart.

In short, the congress must legislate, the courts must administer, the executive must execute and the people's will must prevail. When these separate and co-ordinate departments re-establish themselves within their authorized and constitutional limitation and jurisdiction, the dangers of usurpation shall have been curbed and the people shall have set the faces of their servants once more toward the horizon of the rising sun of progress, liberty and everlasting justice.

We must reassert an old truth in a new way, and herald it broadcast: The courts are made for the people, and not the people for the courts.

Let me close these observations on this vital subject by quoting a guarantee contained in the Massachusetts constitution of 1780:

"In the government of this commonwealth the legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers, or either of them; the executive shall never exercise the legislative and judicial powers, or either of them; the judicial shall never exercise the legislative and executive powers, or either of them; to the end that it may be a government of laws and not of men."

That declaration contains the whole philosophy of genuine representative republican government. If the congress and the courts and the executive had observed these first principles there would not now be any need of protest on this issue from the men of labor, who by reason of their position in and relation to society must of necessity be the defenders and standard-bearers of true freedom.

Injunction—Contempt—Appeals.

It becomes my duty to report to you the status of the injunction issued by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, as sustained after being modified by the court of appeals of that district, and of the contempt case resulting in the sentences imposed upon "Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison," of twelve, nine and six months' imprisonment, respectively. The American Federation of Labor directed that such steps as may be necessary be taken to carry both the injunction case and the contempt case growing out of it to the supreme court of the United States, in order that we may obtain a decision which shall define labor's rights in so far as it can be done in connection with these cases.

It is not necessary to burden this report with a repetition of the history of the case. That history may be found in the reports which the executive council and I had the honor to submit to the Toronto convention, printed proceedings of which have been provided here for each delegate.

In compliance with instructions, our counsel took an appeal to the supreme court of the United States in the Buck's Stove & Range Company's suit for injunction, and they also presented a petition, supported by brief, for the issuance of a writ of certiorari in the contempt proceedings under which "Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison" were held as guilty of contempt of court for an alleged violation of the injunction and sentenced to imprisonment. The petition was presented to the court November 25, 1909. The petition and brief are so lucid and interesting that I commend them to your consideration and to that of all others interested in this phase of the law. I deemed them of sufficient importance to publish them in the issue of The American Federationist of January, 1910. The United States supreme court took the petition under advisement, and a week later, that is, on December 6, granted the petition. It should be stated that the counsel opposed to us also appealed against the modified injunction of the court of appeals, and that after the granting of the writ of certiorari the United States supreme court directed the two branches of the case to be considered and discussed at the same time.

In consequence of two vacancies in the United States Supreme Court, and the general recognition of the prime importance of the principles involved in these cases, it was deemed advisable by our counsel that an effort should be made to have the cases argued before and decided by a full bench. With this view, the United States Supreme Court agreed at the October, 1910, term and deferred the argument until January 16, 1911.

The origin of these cases was in the disputes between organized labor and the Buck's Stove and Range company, which, under its old management and policy, sought the injunction and obtained the decree in the contempt proceedings. It is gratifying to report officially that the industrial dispute between organized labor and the Buck's Stove and Range company was, in July last, adjusted upon mutually honorable terms. The decease of the president of the company, Mr. Van Cleave, gave the opportunity for the new manager of the company to carry out his life-long policy of friendliness toward and co-operation with organized labor.

And now the opportunity is afforded to disclose the correctness of the position which we took in the contempt proceedings; that is to say, the American Federation of Labor's representatives made earnest efforts to come to an honorable understanding and adjustment of the matters in dispute between the Buck's Stove and Range company and organized labor before the company's products were placed on the "We Don't Patronize" list. The negotiations were conducted then, as they were later, by Vice-President Valentine, who, being president of the International Molders' union, was authorized to make, and did make, efforts to bring about an adjustment. At that time we were not warranted in making public the names of the men either directly or indirectly associated with the company through whom such efforts were made. Since labor's agreement of last July with the company we feel justified in stating that the efforts were made through Messrs.

Hogan and Cribben, the then executive officers of the National Stove Founders' Defense association, of which the Buck's Stove and Range company was a member, and Mr. F. W. Gardner, the present chairman of the board of directors of the company. This fact disproves the position taken by Justice Wright when he declared that no such effort had been made by us.

The agreement reached between organized labor and the Buck's Stove and Range company was published in the September, 1910, issue of The American Federationist, and a later agreement in compliance therewith was entered into at St. Louis, September 7, 1910. In connection with the published agreement, attention should be called to the fact that upon advice of our counsel the representatives of labor requested that those provisions in section four of the agreement by which the company was to withdraw its attorneys from the cases pending in the courts, be nullified. The company readily agreed to our request.

It will be remembered that the counsel opposed to us in the case are retained by the so-called Anti-Boycott association, and had appeared for the company as a member of that association. Under the old management and policy this was agreeable to both company and association. Our attorneys advised us that if we desired the United States Supreme Court to pass upon the principle underlying the judicial controversy, it would be unwise to insist upon the company's withdrawal of its attorneys of record in the case. In view of this fact, and the further fact that the attorneys of record opposed to us are equally with us fully intent upon having these fundamental principles determined by the United States Supreme Court, we were glad to avail ourselves of the suggestion of our attorneys, which, as already stated, was cordially acceded to by the company.

However, from any standpoint, it has been the purpose of the American Federation of Labor, ever since injunctions of this character have been issued, to have the United States Supreme Court pass judgment upon them. They are fundamental. They strike into the very bottom of the principles of personal liberty and equality before the law. If it were our purpose to avoid the consequences of the assertion of our rights, there has not been a time during these entire proceedings in the last five years when we could not have avoided them. But there had been developed in employers of labor and business men a mental attitude and a condition in which they undertook to deny to the working people of our country rights which are accorded to all other citizens. The issue was clean-cut, and we have been glad of the opportunity to meet it. For years we have endeavored to make this issue before the courts. The dispute with the Buck's Stove and Range company and the injunction issued upon its petition afforded the desired opportunity. At our own wish, as well as upon the direction of the American Federation of Labor, advantage was taken of this injunction in order that the case might be made full and complete and the issue tested before the several judicial tribunals until it had reached the United States Supreme Court. Inasmuch as the opportunity is afforded equally to labor's opponents, I feel confident that they also will be glad that the question at issue shall be determined by our highest judicial tribunal.

Suits Against Labor Under Anti-Trust Law.

There are three suits for damages now pending in the federal courts under the Sherman anti-trust law:

1. Loewe & Co. against the United Hatters of North America.
2. A. Sitomer against the Shirt Waist Workers and the Ladies' Garment Workers' unions and others, and.
3. C. W. Post against the officers of the American Federation of Labor, the officers of a number of affiliated organizations and the new management of the Buck's Stove and Range company.

Inasmuch as I have discussed the Hatters' case in the leading article in the March, 1910, issue of The American Federationist under the caption of "The Hatters' Case—The Sherman Law—Amend it or End it," and in the editorial, "Labor Organizations Must Not Be Outlawed—The Supreme Court's Decision in the Hatters' Case," printed in March, 1908, issue, and in view of the fact that the executive council will deal fully with this subject in its report to this convention, I deem it but necessary to state that after a trial before the federal court of the district of Connecticut, running from the first Monday in October, 1909, to February 4, 1910, the jury, under instruction of the judge, awarded damages against the Hatters, the sum being $222,000, with costs and counsel fees.

In connection with the strike of the shirt waist makers of New York, a suit was brought under the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law by A. Sitomer against the officers and members of the local union, the officers of the Ladies' Garment Workers' International union, and a number of humane women who interested themselves in securing victory for the girls engaged in that great contest. Injuries in the amount of $150,000 are alleged and $450,000 damages demanded. An endeavor was made to have the defendants in this suit present a comprehensive defense, so that the fundamental principles involved in labor's contention in regard to the anti-trust law may again be brought to the attention of the courts. My hope is that if a defense is made which shall comprehensively and fundamentally bring the cause before the lower courts, and if necessary through the other courts until it shall reach the United States Supreme Court, we may have a full review by the courts and a possible substantial reversal of the decisions in the Hatters' case.

Concurrent with the unsuccessful effort of C. W. Post to secure an injunction to restrain labor from carrying out its agreement with the Buck's Stove and Range company, he brought suit as a minority stockholder against the officers of the American Federation of Labor and the officers of a number of affiliated organizations jointly with the Buck's Stove and Range company, alleging $250,000 damages, and claiming threefold damages, or $750,000. As a minority stockholder of the company it is the firm conviction of leading members in the legal profession that the suit can not be successfully prosecuted, and yet it has been necessary to be represented by counsel and to put in an appearance. All parties named in the complaint, and who have been served with a process, have conveyed to me power of attorney, as president of the American Federation of Labor, to defend them in the case and to share equally the costs of defense.

In the October issue of The American Federationist the matter is more fully stated in an editorial under the caption, "Post—Cheap Mischief Maker." This matter must necessarily receive due consideration at the hands of this convention and further authority and direction given.

In New Orleans seventy-five workmen were indicted by the federal grand jury under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law, because the men authorized a strike in sympathy with fellow workers engaged in a dispute with their employers.

A few months ago six farmers in Kentucky were indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law, their offense being that they had co-operated to obtain better prices for their product.

Let any right-thinking, liberty-loving American read these cases, the reports of which have been made to the American Federation of Labor conventions, the editorials in The American Federationist dealing with these subjects, as well as the grave opinions by high legal authorities which have been published therein, and he will become convinced of the great injustice done to the workers by the interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law. By that interpretation its provisions have been extended to the voluntary organizations of the working people, and by it the toilers are and may be mulcted in damages for the exercise of their personal endeavors to protect and promote their own interests. Further, by that interpretation, at the whim, fancy or pique of a federal administration, its officers or subordinates may proceed criminally against the men of labor because of efforts they may make in furtherance of a fair standard of wages, hours and conditions of employment by withholding their labor-power and their patronage. Labor will continue to emphasize its protest against the conception and decision, whether judicial or otherwise, which would place in the same category the trusts and corporations dealing with material things, the products of labor, and the voluntary associations of men and women, the sole purpose of which is to protect the physical well-being of their members.

Every effort made by the American Federation of Labor and the men of labor, whether political, legislative or industrial, in the past several years, was not only justified, but necessary to safeguard the right of organization of the toilers. Their safety and well-being are involved. It is the bounden duty of the workers to subordinate political partisanship in the one great effort to which we should concentrate our best energies, to attain the right to organize.

In view of the fact that these matters will be dealt with more fully in the report of the executive council, by the proper committee, and later on by the convention, there is no necessity for more than this brief statement of facts in regard to these subjects.

Hughes Amendment—Prosecution of Labor.

The president carried his opposition to such an extreme that he exercised the limit of his power, working with all his might and main on June 22 and June 23, to defeat the amendment our friend, Mr. Hughes of New Jersey, proposed to the section of the sundry civil appropriation bill on June 2, 1910. The section provided an appropriation for the prosecution of the criminal trusts. Mr. Hughes' amendment was as follows:

"Provided further, That no part of this money shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or individuals for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the condition of labor, or for any act done in furtherance thereof NOT IN ITSELF UNLAWFUL."

An interesting debate occurred on the amendment, as the Congressional Record discloses. The house, in committee of the whole, adopted it by a vote of 82 to 52. The bill with the proviso went over to the senate, and after debate was defeated by that body by a vote of 34 to 16.

Because of the disagreement the entire bill was sent to conferees of both houses. They reported to their respective bodies their inability to agree. The majority of the conferees on the part of the house, while obeying the house instructions, opposed the proviso in the house. They were out of sympathy with, indeed, were hostile to, the proposition they were supposed to urge on the conferees of the senate.

On June 21 the house, by a vote of 154 "yeas" to 105 "nays," twelve answering "present" and 119 "not voting," indorsed its former action and instructed its conferees to insist upon the Hughes proviso being retained in the bill.

The senate again rejected the proviso and the bill again went to conference. Speaker Cannon again naming the majority of the house conferees who were hostile to its enactment.

The situation evidently angered the president, as he immediately took the matter into his own hands. He suspended other public business and swept aside every engagement. He called "waivering" representatives to the white house and insisted upon their active opposition, even going so far as to say that if it cost him the support of every laboring man in the country he would not approve of such a proviso in the law. It is reported that when he learned that the house had receded from its insistence upon the proviso by the close vote of 138 to 130, he made no effort to conceal his great gratification because he had succeeded in defeating labor to this extent.

Your attention is called to the Hughes proviso. It directed that no money should be expended by the government in the prosecution of any organization or individual in an effort to increase wages, shorten hours of labor or bettering the conditions of labor when that effort was "not in itself unlawful." The proviso was important in a declaratory sense. What is the obvious inference from the action of its opponents? None other than that, notwithstanding every action of labor should be fully within the law, they desired to hold over the heads of the toilers the threatening sword of Damocles—criminal prosecution.

Since the vote taken on June 23, some representatives have said that they would vote for a direct measure to exempt labor from the provisions of the anti-trust law when it comes before the house. Others have said that they can see no reason why the great corporations should be continually exempted from the law, while the labor organizations are subjected to and continually harassed by it. Others, again, have said that they have come to the conclusion that labor had made possible the fight that had been made and was being made in congress for the benefit of the whole nation, and that henceforth they intended to make our fight their fight.

Irrational Antagonism to Organized Labor's Protest and Progress.

There are men prominent in the industrial and political affairs of our country who do not or will not understand the present trend of economic and social development, nor the position which the organized labor movement takes relative thereto, expressing as it does an orderly and rational progress, and they consequently set themselves against the projects and aspirations of the toilers. They will, as a matter of grace, yield a crumb of materiality, yet deny to the toilers the fundamental principle of freedom—freedom to exercise those personal activities necessary in the struggle to work out their own amelioration and emancipation. It is most unfortunate that opponents assume such an attitude of hostility to the growth of the much-misunderstood and misrepresented labor movement of our country and our time, and endeavor to circumscribe its activities within such limitations as would deprive its members of their inherent, natural and constitutional rights.

For what does organized labor contend if not to prove the standard of life to uproot ignorance and foster education, to instill character and manhood and an independent spirit among our people, to bring about a recognition of the interdependence in modern life of man and his fellowman? We aim to establish a normal workday, to take the children from the factory and the workshop and give them the opportunity of the school, the home and the playground. In a word, the unions of labor, recognizing the duty to toil, strive to educate their members, to make their homes and lives more cheerful in every way, to contribute an earnest effort toward making life the better worth living, to avail their members of their rights as citizens and to bear the duties and responsibilities and perform the obligations they owe to our country and to our fellowmen.

In the constant struggle, in the struggle of the ages, as well as of our time, the self-same elements of bitter antagonism have been and are now encountered. Labor contends that in every effort to achieve its praiseworthy ends all honorable and lawful means are not only commendable, but should receive the sympathetic support of every right-thinking, progressive man. The wheels of industry must not be turned back nor the movements of commerce halted. The industrial and commercial development can not and must not be checked.

Concentration of wealth continues. The tools of labor have been alienated from the toilers. Vast and intricate machinery has supplanted them. The toilers must work. Their economic position in society is changed. They can no longer act as individuals to redress a wrong or to attain a right. They must pool their individual effort for their associated protection and weal, and if the concept of the sovereignty of citizenship is not a meaning phrase, the toilers must in their common effort under modern industrial conditions be accorded the exercise of their rights as citizens, as men and as workers, to protect themselves from the tyranny which concentrated wealth and industry impose if left unchecked, and wherever necessary to contend against that tyranny and to work for a higher and better opportunity to live and to progress. Judicial decisions and legislative enactments are to be expected in the course of the evolution through which we are passing, but whatever their character the workers in our republic must be accorded at least the same rights as those enjoyed by the subjects of the monarchy of Great Britain and of nearly every other civilized country.

Because the labor movement in our country is so thoroughly imbued with the consciousness and the responsibility to rationally, naturally and in an orderly manner work out the great problems of the relations of the worker to society and to the evolution of industry and commerce, and particularly with the necessity to work for a higher and better life for the workers and for common humanity, I regard the attitude of such hostility as I have recalled from men prominent in political and industrial affairs as not only unjustified, but highly prejudicial to the best interest of all our people and particularly dangerous to an orderly adjustment and solution of the economic problems and social difficulties of our time.

In all countries of the civilized world the economic problem is up for discussion, and its solution, gradual, peaceful or otherwise, is a question of imminent importance. What in many other countries is sought or accomplished by force or the show of force is in our movement undertaken or achieved by the American methods of agitation, education and organization, and the exercise of the personal rights of man in association with his fellows—rights which must not under any pretense be denied by the subterfuge of injunctions or outlawed by the perversion or interpretation of law.

If the labor movement of America can be outlawed and its normal endeavors in the interests of the toilers and all the deprived stratum of humanity made impossible, the discontent of our people with existing wrongs and their efforts for relief will find their expression in another form, a form perhaps not quite so rational or orderly. On another occasion I have expressed this thought, whereupon malicious opponents have perverted it to make it appear the utterance of a threat. It is not a threat; it is a diagnosis of societal conditions; it is a prediction—a prediction based upon a knowledge of the struggles of the peoples in the past and an understanding of human nature.

The toilers must, for their own safety now and for the future, organize. Their organizations must be accorded the full legal status recognized in all voluntary associations dealing with purely personal affairs and instituted not for profit. In the same degree that these rights are recognized and conceded by present opponents, will the great economic and industrial problems of our time and of the future be rationally, safely and peacefully solved. Solved they must be at all hazards.

Extension of Eight-Hour Law.

The experiences encountered were many and varied during the past session of congress in the effort to obtain effective legislation extending the beneficent provisions of the federal eight-hour law to all government employees and employees of contractors and sub-contractors engaged on work for the United States government. So far as the results obtained with the regular eight-hour bill before the house committee on labor are concerned, it is not possible to report any progress, but nevertheless some material progress was made in other ways toward extending the eight-hour law, in spite of the house committee on labor, which was more deliberately and ingeniously packed by Speaker Cannon than ever before. First, he repeated his unfair practice of appointing to the committee eight of the majority party to five of the minority party; second, he appointed a majority of the members from distinctly non-industrial districts, who do not know anything and seemingly care little about the lives and welfare of the workers in congested urban centers; third, he selected several members to serve on the committee whom he knew to be openly hostile to labor—men who spare no pains to show their antagonism to the real welfare of the toilers. In fact, the chief aim of the speaker toward this committee has been to use the committee on labor as a mortuary, instead of a cradle, for labor's hopes and aspirations.

Much more could be said upon this important subject, but it must suffice to add that the immediate prospects for eight-hour legislation are brighter now than ever, and if we persistently continue our efforts it will be secured in the very near future.

I make this statement without reserve and predicate it upon these reasons: First and best, our fellow-workers are determined to obtain this legislation; second, the new element aspiring to political preferment is committed to the eight-hour workday on principle as well as policy; third, we have succeeded in breaking the thralldom that has hitherto bound members of the house of representatives.

By our incessant efforts, we, the members of the American Federation of Labor, have succeeded in obtaining a larger measure of freedom for our congressmen. They need not be bound and gagged as formerly. They can command attention; they can get their bills out into the open daylight by means of the new rule adopted June 17, 1910, viz.: House Resolution No. 808, referred to elsewhere in this report.

Taking advantage of this new rule, Mr. Hayes of California, on June 20 moved to discharge the house committee on labor from further consideration of H. R. 26984, which is a meritorious eight-hour bill. Its number on the "discharge committee" calendar is 16.

On the same date, Mr. Hughes of New Jersey, made a similar motion relative to H. R. 15441. Its number on the calendar is 21. Once these bills come squarely before the house they will pass, and Chairman Gardner's vain boast that he is "sitting on the lid to prevent consideration of labor measures" will be finally and forever exploded, and he will be deprived of the honor which could have been his, of being the "father of the eight-hour law."

The discussion and vote in both houses of congress show clearly that when definite propositions have been before them providing for the extension of the eight-hour workday, favorable action has been taken. The fact stands out clearly that the greatest obstacle to success on this line of action is the failure or refusal of the committees to report the labor and reformatory bills which have been referred to them.

Child Labor.

The persistency and patience of the organized workers in behalf of the children of the nation are being rewarded.

After years of heroic effort and weary periods of misrepresentation and misinterpretation by the gradrinds of industry, the goal of ultimate success gradually, but surely, is being reached.

The child, our nation's most priceless possession, is at last being recognized by society as its most valuable asset.

Some other influential portions of society have at last, after our repeated warnings, continual struggles and gratifying successes, been convinced that we are right in asking protection for the child. They are taking a leaf from our book of endeavor and aspiration and are now rendering us valuable aid in behalf of better child labor laws. This is as it should be, and as it should have been years ago. If it had been so our newly-discovered auxiliaries could more consistently claim credit they are now appropriating without stint. This is another evidence of the truism, "Nothing succeeds like success."

The period has now arrived when the average member of a legislature is proud if he can make a good record on "child labor legislation," and while this inclination prevails it will be well to press home in every state legislature the most complete and efficient measures in the interest of the children.

The Ohio law is without doubt the most enlightened and humane. It provides fourteen years as the age limit for employment of children in factories, fifteen years in mines (during school term), and sixteen years in dangerous or unhealthful employments. That state has also enacted a law making eight hours a maximum day's work for children, including girls up to the eighteenth year.

The most essential feature now required in some states is more capable factory inspectors to enforce the child labor laws of the state. These can be obtained if a firm demand is made for them.

We succeeded in having the child labor laws of the District of Columbia strengthened during the last session of congress. Formerly, inspectors were appointed at the option of the district commissioners. We protested that the duty should be made mandatory, instead of optional. The District of Columbia appropriation bill now contains a provision requiring the detail of two privates of the Metropolitan police for the enforcement of the provisions of the act to regulate the employment of child labor.

Several efforts have been made by persons interested in exploiting the labor of children to have what they are pleased to call "broad and liberal interpretations of the law," but the courts have decided otherwise. The last case, under Judge De Lacy, was decided October 6, 1910, in which he held that the spirit as well as the letter of the law should be strictly observed, saying: "Violators of the child labor law deserve the severest censure. The boys and girls taken from school and play are deprived of their birthright. Those who exploit them should be punished severely." It is not so long ago that when labor's representatives made similar statements they were denounced as "blatant agitators," "dreamers," etc., but through their righteous endeavors we have lived to enjoy hearing judges, ministers, statesmen and even politicians applauded for such lofty sentiments.

Forty-four states now have child labor legislation of some form. In twenty-eight states the working age limit is fourteen years; in ten, twelve years; in three, sixteen years; in two, fifteen years, and in one state (Georgia) ten years. Five states now have a forty-eight-hour week for children; five a fifty-four-hour week; two a fifty-five-hour week; two a fifty-six-hour week; two a fifty-eight-hour week; twenty-four a sixty-hour week; two a sixty-six-hour week.

The law should provide that the maximum working hours for minors should not exceed eight hours per day. Uniform state legislation in this regard should be immediately urged.

Labor of Convicts.

The chief argument of those who exploit the labor of convicts under the contract system and those who defend the exploiters—for profit to themselves—has been that the convict must be employed during incarceration. This cry, as old as the contract system of convict labor itself, is hypocritical and sophistical. The use of it by profit mongers is an endeavor to place labor in a false position and to cover their own heartlessness and perfidy.

Certainly no thoughtful, humane person, and most assuredly no trade unionist, wants the inmates of our prisons to remain idle. Every one is in agreement that they should be employed. No labor representative has privately suggested or publicly expressed a desire to keep these offenders against society in idleness.

Impositions upon the credulity of the people have always been inspired by the grasping prison-labor contractor and his hirelings. And the sole plea of those who fatten upon the misery and shortcomings of the unfortunates, and those who have successfully thrived upon the cupidity of state legislators, is an imposition.

The convict contract labor system is a curse to the convict, the state, the prison officials, the fair employer, the short-sighted merchant and the honest toiler for wages.

The contract system of prison labor is inhuman, dishonest and stupid. It is a disgrace to our highly trained scientific twentieth century and a blot upon our boasted civilization. It is deceptively presented to the representatives of a state as a device that will procure ample revenue to reimburse the state for the expense of caring for the convicts, allow the convicts to "earn something for themselves," and of late a more specious, but not less transparent, claim is made that the "poor convict" is being taught a trade so that when he is released he can procure honorable employment at good wages.

Not one of these statements can be successfully maintained. They fall of their own weight when analyzed. In the first place, the largest part of the profit of the labor of the prisoners under the contract system does not go to defray his expenses to the state. It does not go to the convict himself. It goes to the third party, the contractor who has no interest whatever, either in the welfare of the convict or the interest of the state, other than to add to his swollen profits from the misfortunes of the criminal. Consequently, no reformation results. The prisoners are not deceived. They know they are robbed. They become hardened and learn to hate society for the crime society permits to be practiced upon them under the name of law.

"The contract system furnishes revenue to the state," say the prison labor contractors and their apologists. Your attention is called to what Mr. Scates confessed at the last hearings before the house committee on labor. Said he:

"I speak by the book. I had seven years' experience in the Maryland penitentiary on the shoe contract. Maryland is one of the few contract states which nets a profit from its prisoners. . . . I know the state made about $40,000 one year. . . . At that time the contractor divided with his partners. One got $5,000, another $10,000, another $15,000, and he took $65,000 as his own profit from the Maryland penitentiary."

The state got $40,000 and the contractors $95,000. The contractors got over 70 per cent of the total, nearly two and one-half times as much as the state obtained from the labor of its convicts.

Mr. Floyd, a member of the committee, testified that in his state (Arkansas) the contractors pay the state 50 cents per prisoner per day and then hire them out to the railroads and on the public works of the state for $1.75 per day. Could any scheme be more venal or more stupid?

The suggestion that men are taught trades in prison under the contract system is ridiculous. They learn how to make shirts and overalls, which is women's employment. They make hollowware, which is now a prison monopoly. They make chairs, and by so doing have driven fair employers and honest wage-workers in that industry out of business. "Your prisons," recently said an eminent English penologist, who, visiting the United States in connection with the International Prison Congress, had concluded a tour of investigation, "are not reformatories. They are factories."

This transparent fraud must be abolished. Convicts must be employed by the state direct on its own account and not on account of the contractor. The state may derive economic, but it must secure social, advantages from the labor of the convict. The first consideration must be the welfare of, and the influence upon, the prisoners during the incarceration and after their release; the second, consideration of the free, honest citizen workman, and third, the interest of the state as a financial and political entity.

Prisoners should be employed at useful and practical productive toil. The labor of the states' unfortunates and derelicts should never be exploited for profit and certainly never for the private profit of contractors. Let our states employ their prisoners in the production of the necessities of life, for the maintenance of themselves and the inmates of the other state eleemosynary institutions, or else road building.

The police power of a state undoubtedly extends without question to all laws regulating the health, the morals and the general peace, comfort and safety of the community, and is broadly construed to include all laws that promote the general welfare. In no essential can the general welfare of the state be better protected than for the congress to assure each state of its right of home rule within the confines of the state, so that no state should become without its will the dumping ground for goods made by convicts of other states. The enactment of H. R. 12000, now before congress, would give the legislatures of the states the right and power to protect their own citizens from the unfair competition of the contract convict labor of those states which care more for the profits of their prison labor contractors than for their prisoners, and whose only success is the dumping of the products of that labor on other states. Such a law would destroy the arrogant boastfulness of some prison officials, who declare that they can sell their goods against the will and desire of the people of the state in which they dump their unfair products.

The enactment of such legislation, which will mark in fact a progressive growth and outcome of the necessities of an intense economic, industrial, commercial and social struggle, the American Federation of Labor must bend its best energies to secure from the federal congress and state legislatures.

Several hearings were held by a sub-committee of the house committee on labor on the convict labor bill, H. R. 12000, indorsed by the American Federation of Labor, at which our representatives were greatly encouraged and their arguments strongly fortified by many statements of incontrovertible facts presented by influential employers of labor, representatives of national committees on prison labor, attorneys of employers, prison officials and other penologists. This was a new, but gratifying, experience, and the representatives of the American Federation of Labor called the attention of the committee to the fact that the presence of such advocates from other walks of life and their corroborative arguments vindicated and justified the contentions made by labor before this committee for several years past.

The sub-committee was sympathetic; it refused delay or extension of time for further hearings to the opponents of the bill. The hearings closed March 31, and a peremptory order issued that all briefs and written arguments upon the subject, pro and con, were to be in the hands of the committee by April 11. On May 20 the sub-committee reported it favorably to the full committee, and on June 17 the full committee agreed to report it favorably to the house, which was done on June 22. Its number on the house calendar is 294.

On June 24 the chairman reported H. R. 12001, a bill to prevent any officer, employe or agent of the government from contracting for products in which the labor of convicts entered. Its number on the house calendar is 299.

Owing to the fact that so much unnecessary delay was caused by the full committee in reporting these bills, and to their unfavorable position on the calendar, it is scarcely expected that any action will be taken on either during the forthcoming short session of the sixty-first congress, unless great pressure is brought to bear upon representatives and senators. I urge that every effort be put forth in the hope that despite appearances success may crown our efforts before the close of this congress.

Immigration, General and Asiatic.

A veritable flood of bills designed to check immigration was introduced during the last session of congress.

Even reactionary members of congress and others who have obeyed every whim of the speaker in a most docile manner apparently refused to be longer held in check. In response to the nation-wide sentiment they introduced bills tending to regulate and limit the avalanche of immigration of recent years.

These bills have covered every imaginable phase of the subject, such as deportation of felons, of defectives, of the insane and otherwise diseased persons, higher head taxes, illiteracy tests, so-called white slave regulations and prohibitions, Asiatic exclusion, etc.

The house committee on immigration held extended hearings upon the several bills and upon the special features contained in the bills, with the result that one act covering deportation and prohibition of white slaves was passed, and another measure, supplementary to the first, prohibiting interstate commerce in white slaves, was enacted.

Great interest was manifested among the representatives on the general subject, so much so that it was finally arranged that the house committee should take a vote on March 14, 1910, on the propositions to increase the head tax and establish an educational test for immigrants, but when the committee was convened for that purpose it was found impossible to reconcile the contending factions, so it was finally agreed to defer any further legislation until the next session of congress, awaiting the report of the immigration commission, which has been ordered by congress to make its complete and final report by December 1, 1910.

Later on Representative Gardner of Massachusetts moved to discharge the committee on immigration from further consideration of his bill, H. R. 15413, requiring an educational test for immigrants. Its number on the "discharge committee" calendar is 24.

Asiatic Exclusion.

Representative Hayes of California was active in his endeavors to obtain practical and effective legislation excluding Asiatic immigrants. He succeeded in obtaining the passage through the house, on May 2, 1910, of an amendment to section 2169 of the revised statutes.

The Hayes bill, H. R. 24993, which passed the house as an amendment to the revised statutes, declares specifically which foreigners shall be eligible to citizenship in the United States, and by omitting Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Hindoos and Malays consequently denies them the right of naturalization. The bill is now pending before the senate committee on immigration.

In the meantime Mr. Hayes followed this success by pressing another bill, H. R. 20379, as an amendment to section 2 of the present immigration law by adding the following:

"That the following class of aliens shall be excluded from admission into the United States:

Persons who, under the provision of section 2169 of the revised statutes of the United States, are ineligible to become citizens of the United States, unless they are merchants, teachers, students or travelers for curiosity or pleasure."

Representatives of the American Federation of Labor consulted with Mr. Hayes on this line of procedure and aided him in pressing these measures. The latter bill was reported out of committee on February 10, 1910, and is No. 86 on the house calendar. It is confidently expected that if these two measures can be enacted into law Asiatic immigration to the United States will be effectually prevented.

Employers' Liability—Compensation.

Thirty-seven states have enacted some form of employers' liability law, very few of which, however, have been interpreted favorably for the workers by the courts. This is to be accounted for largely because the courts have clung tenaciously to certain former precedents, arising out of peculiar judicial reasoning, which have at times been referred to as the "unholy trinity," viz.: the "assumption of risk," "contributory negligence" and "fellow-servant" rulings. As if these obstacles were not enough to offset a workman's claim for damages, another method has been devised, which the courts have duly recognized as affording grounds valid and sufficient to prevent an injured employe from obtaining an award for damages. This cunning device has been to induce—manifestly in the last analysis through coercion—an employe when arranging for employment to sign a contract "waiving his rights, or his widow's and orphans' to sue for damages in case of injury or death during employment."

The following states have abrogated the defense of "fellow-servant" responsibility, either for general employments or in particular industries (usually transportation): Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma (by constitution), South Dakota, Texas and Wisconsin. The Colorado law is the most notable example. It completely eliminates the defense of the "fellow-servant" rule in all employments, and upon a test case being made (In Vindication Mining Co. vs. Firstbrook, 36 Colo., 498) it was upheld as constitutional. To the credit of organized labor, this humane measure was introduced in the Colorado legislature and pressed to a successful enactment by a trade unionist member of the general assembly.

In California, Mississippi, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia, the "fellow-servant" rule is modified without being abrogated.

Several states have enacted legislation modifying the old common law rulings of "assumed risk." Others have modified the rulings of "contributory negligence" to what is more euphemistically termed "comparative negligence," but such tinkering and trifling with measures of such grave import to the workers in industry is but transparent pettifoggery. Just, humane, positively affirmative and effective legislation must in honor and duty be enacted by the states and by the United States. All legislation on identical subjects should be uniform among the states, but, pending the time when that desirable end can be reached, it is essential that legislation dealing with the important subject of employers' liability should be uniform among the states, not only uniform in technique, but uniformly good—effective legislation that will forever abolish the antiquated, barbarous, so-called common law defense known as "fellow-servant" rule, "contributory (or comparative) negligence," and "assumption of risk," as well as the waiving of rights. If any reason ever existed for these circumscribed rules, formulated by judges, the time has long since passed when they should be applied.

The modern use of steam power, electricity, compressed air and explosives, often under control of men who fail to understand their nature, and whose routine duties make them so accustomed to danger that they fail to realize it, has made it utterly impossible to protect society against the weakest of all human agencies, viz.: the failure or forgetfulness of the human factor. Then also must be considered the dangers to life and limb in the operation of fast-driven intricate machinery, as well as the accidents due to the massing together of great numbers of workers in modern industry.

The stubborn resistance of corporations, common carriers, mine owners and other employers to the most moderate laws for the protection of human beings from injury and their general reluctance to provide protection through their own volition, ought to convince reasonable and fair-minded legislators that true justice demands an expansion of the law, with more humane interpretation of it on the part of judges, instead of there being, as the court reports in many of the states now so amply record a studied effort to restrict the law and apply new exceptions to it, to prevent the allowance of damages for the injured and killed workmen of industry.

Seemingly the American public has just awakened to the fact that of all civilized countries of the world, Turkey and the United States are the only two left that still cling to the old common-law doctrine of liability with respect to industrial accidents. This awakening will force upon the workers of the United States some kind of workmen's compensation legislation, and unless labor takes an active part in the movement its interests in regard to this will not be properly safeguarded.

Industry must bear the financial burden of accidents to the human being, exactly as it does now in case of accidents to machinery or to other property.

The organized workers are thoroughly aroused on this subject, and in several states, notably New York, Minnesota, Ohio, New Jersey, Washington and Illinois, commissions have recently been appointed to deal with it as an all-important life-conserving measure. Life-conserving is the true title, because if it becomes too expensive to the employers to maim and kill employes in industry, more and better safety devices and measures will be speedily adopted to prevent the massacres rather than cure the patients or pay money for injuries.

Through the instrumentality of the organized workers an "automatic compensation act," passed by the congress May 30, 1908, took effect August 1, 1908. It granted to certain employes of the United States engaged in hazardous occupations the right to receive compensation from the federal government for injuries sustained in the course of their employment. On June 25, 1910, congress passed a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate the subject-matter of employers' liability and compensation to workmen for injuries sustained during employment, with instructions to report to congress through the president December, 1911. This commission is composed of United States Senators William Warner of Missouri and C. J. Hughes of Colorado, Representatives W. G. Brantley of Georgia and Edwin Denby of Michigan, Daniel L. Chase, editor of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's Journal, and W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central railroad. The commission held its first meeting in Chicago October 22.

The employers' liability law (applicable to common carriers by railroads in interstate commerce only) approved April 22, 1908, during the few months of its operation has been found to be defective because of certain rulings by the courts. The courts held, first, that an injured employe could only bring suit when the defendant railroad company could be found, that is, the headquarters of the company; second, that in case of death, either before suit for damages was instituted or during the pendency of suit, the right of action did not survive to the benefit of the widow and children or other dependents on the deceased employe; third (by the Supreme Court of Connecticut in the case of Hoxie vs. the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company), that the state court had no jurisdiction. In the latter case the court went further and declared the act unconstitutional after rendering a decision bristling with all of the old out-of-date and cruel exceptions common to courts in such cases.

All of these defects were corrected by an act passed during the last session of congress, a copy of which is made an appendix to this report. The organized labor movement, comprising the American Federation of Labor and railroad brotherhoods, is entitled to the credit of presenting all of the above-mentioned measures to congress and pressing them to a successful passage.

Department of Labor.

Very interesting hearings were held on May 25 and 26 before a sub-committee of the house committee on labor, in support of H. R. 3646, by Mr. Sulzer, representative in congress from New York, which provides for a department of labor with a secretary at its head, to be a member of the president's cabinet. No one appeared before the committee in opposition and the committee expressed itself as being in favor of the general principle contained in the measure. On June 14 the sub-committee reported the bill favorably to the full committee, with the recommendation that Chairman Gardner redraft the bill so as to provide for an enlarged scope of activities for the proposed department of labor. The full committee accepted the report of the sub-committee and on June 17 decided to report the bill favorably to the house when redrafted, but in spite of many urgent requests made to Chairman Gardner he failed to report it before congress adjourned.

Many members of congress seem to be favorably inclined toward this proposed "department of labor," and it is within reasonable possibilities that the administration will favor it and urge its early passage. Continued demands, with pressure from the ranks of organized labor and other broad-minded citizens in behalf of the measure, are sure to meet with favorable response and action.

The hearings and arguments on the bill to create a department of labor are printed by congress as a public document. Copies can be obtained without cost by citizens or organizations upon application to the congressmen of their respective districts. The matter contained in the hearings is of great interest to all labor.

Industrial Education.

Conservation is one of the topics uppermost in the mind of the American public today, but there is one phase of conservation which is not receiving the attention which it deserves. I refer to the conservation of the brain and brawn of our American youth. Our school systems are giving only a one-sided education; the boy may go to school and prepare himself for professional or commercial life, or he may drop out of school and enter a trade with no particular preparation and become a mediocre workman. Training of brain and muscle must go together for the complete preparation of men.

While the public schools and colleges aim only at teaching professions, the greatest need of America, educationally, is the improvement of industrial intelligence and working efficiency in the American youth. We need an educational uplift for the work of the boy who will work with his hands, and we not only need to give an educational uplift to craftsmanship, but the school needs the help of the workman and his better work in education. We should realize better the interdependence between our common education and our common industries. This can be effectuated only by a system of industrial schools, differentiated from the manual training schools, which shall actually train workmen for the trades and at the same time give them a broader mental culture.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Toronto convention, a committee was appointed to confer with Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor and with Commissioner Neill of the bureau of labor, to present the request of the convention that the United States department of commerce and labor investigate the entire subject of industrial education. The committee, consisting of Vice-Presidents Mitchell and O'Connell, Secretary Morrison and myself, conferred with Secretary Nagel and Commissioner Neill December 20, 1909, and after an exhaustive discussion of the matter in all its phases it was agreed that an investigation was desirable to all interests concerned and should be undertaken within the year. The investigation was begun April 3, 1910, and is now nearing completion.

From my observation and information it is evident that the investigation comprehends a thorough and exhaustive study of all schools in the United States which are giving real trade or vocational training, that is, training which will fit a boy (or girl) wholly or in part for a trade or vocation.

The interest of organized labor in industrial education has always been progressive as in contrast to the employers' interest. For five years the employers in associations have been talking, but they have made little progress. The trade unions have talked, but they have also accomplished something. A special committee made a deep study of industrial education and has reported. That report we published and it has had a wide circulation. Action upon the report has been taken by us. The federal investigation, as already shown, was brought about through the efforts of organized labor.

In pursuance of the recommendation of your committee on education, labor's bill for congressional action was drafted. This vocational education bill, better known as the Dolliver bill, was introduced by the late Senator Dolliver, and through the efforts of your committee was put upon the calendar.

The bill provides for educational co-operation with states and consists of five parts: (1) (sec. 2) Providing $5,000,000 for instruction in the trades and industries, home economics and agriculture in the city high schools; (2) (secs. 3 and 4) Providing $5,000,000 for state district agricultural high schools and branch experiment stations; (3) (sec. 5) Providing $1,500,000 for extension departments in the state colleges of agricultural and mechanical arts; (4) (sec. 6) Providing $1,000,000 for the preparation by state normal schools of vocational teachers, and (5) (secs. 7, 8 and 9) Providing $70,000 for the administration of these funds and for assistance to the states by the departments of the interior, agriculture and commerce and labor.

Prior to 1910 employers announced themselves willing to endorse the Davis bill provided the words "trade training" be substituted for "manual training." The proposed legislation comprehends training for "trades and industries" but subsequent action (or lack of action) by employers would suggest only a transient interest on their part in the promised federal legislation. They were not even sufficiently interested to attend the hearings on the vocational educational bill before the senate committee.

Taking advantage of the new committee discharge rule, Hon. Charles R. Davis, representative from the Third district of Minnesota, on June 20 (only three days after the adoption of the rule by the house) moved to discharge the house committee on agriculture from further consideration of the bill (H. R. 20374) and for the house to consider the bill directly. This action by Mr. Davis will undoubtedly bring this bill before the house at an early date when congress convenes for its next session, and there is scarcely a doubt that the house will give this very essential and progressive legislation favorable consideration.

The fact that industrial education, like academic education, is becoming a public function and that it should be paid for by public funds is fast gaining supporters. At a recent meeting in Indianapolis the department of superintendents of the National Educational association placed on record its approval of the general plan, and especially emphasized the desirability of enlarging the work of the federal and state departments and bureaus which have to do with public education. But most significant is the following declaration by that organization:

"That the department, while heartily approving every agency that may be used to advance the educational interests of both states and nation, places itself on record as disapproving any appropriation made by either legislatures or congress for any institution which is not supported exclusively by public funds and which is not subject to complete federal and state control and investigation."

May 6, 1910, at a joint meeting of the American Education and Co-operative Farmers' Union and the American Society of Equity, the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved, That we approve the provisions of the Dolliver vocational education bill, which provides national funds for the establishment of rural high schools to be administered by state authority, and earnestly urge members of the United States senate and house of representatives to favor this bill."

In the death of Senator Dolliver the cause of industrial education has lost one of its ablest and most enthusiastic supporters. Late in December, 1909, the representatives of the American Federation of labor and a representative of the farming interests conferred with the senator for the purpose of interesting him in the matter of vocational education, and for the specific purpose of having him introduce a bill in the United States senate making provision for legislation covering this general subject. On its being explained, he expressed himself emphatically in favor of the proposed legislation, and he introduced the bill on the reconvening of congress after the holiday recess. In addition it is only just to say that Senator Dolliver in the last years of his life realized the great humane cause which the labor movement espoused. On one occasion, a few months before his demise, he declared that the labor movement is the most potent force to secure the present day needs of the people and work out the great problems for the future, adding, "God being willing, in the future labor's fight will be my fight."

Second-Class Mail Rates.

In accordance with instructions of the Toronto convention (Resolutions Nos. 6 and 71), every effort was made to have congress amend the postal laws to allow trade union publications to carry advertisements and to permit the membership to subscribe for these publications through the monthly per capita tax or dues paid by the members. Suitable bills were prepared and introduced in the house by Representative Dodds of Michigan and in the senate by Senator Owen of Oklahoma.

Extended hearings were held by the house committee on postoffice and post roads, at which representatives of the American Federation of Labor united with the representatives of the railroad brotherhoods, the National Fraternal Congress and the Associated Fraternities in behalf of the purposes embraced in the bill H. R. 22239, which was suitably amended to cover every detail and to embrace all interests. It was reported out of the committee June 2 and passed by the house without opposition June 6, 1910. The bill then went to the senate and every effort was made there to get the senate committee on postoffice to make a report upon it. Thousands of petitions were sent to the senators and many interviews held with the members of the committee, but because the chairman, Senator Penrose, was absent no meeting of the committee could, or would be held by its other members, and consequently no action was taken by it on the bill.

Outside of the postoffice department no definite opposition has been made apparent, and when the postmaster-general, Mr. Hitchcock, was interviewed on the subject by members of the executive council, he agreed not to press the departmental rulings pending the outcome of the anticipated legislation or until reasonable time was allowed international organizations to adjust their laws requiring personal subscriptions for the publications.

Insurance Laws and Trade Unions.

In March last the commissioner of insurance of South Carolina notified the general office of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America that that organization came within the scope of the insurance laws of the state and that it was required to take out a license in order to do business in the State. Correspondence being unsatisfactory, Mr. Frank Duffy, Secretary of the Brotherhood, and Mr. D. F. Featherston, one of its organizers, proceeded to Columbia, S. C., and held a conference on the subject with Insurance Commissioner McMaster. They informed him that the Brotherhood was a labor organization, a voluntary, unincorporated association, not paying insurance in any form, merely making an allowance of a funeral benefit, to provide decent burial for deceased members. A copy of the constitution of the Brotherhood was submitted to him, with the list of its various trade union purposes and the sections governing the payments of benefits marked. In reply the Insurance Commissioner informed the labor representatives that he adjudged the Brotherhood fraternal, rather than otherwise, it having a restrictive method of gaining admission to its meetings, with its own form of transacting business. Coming under the head of fraternal associations, it must be governed by the provisions of the act recently passed by the Legislature of that State for the regulation and control of such bodies. Not being classed as an insurance organization, and not falling under the provisions requiring either a deposit or a bond, the Brotherhood's sole financial qualification to do business in the State would be attainable by taking out a license from the Commissioner at a cost of $25 a year. Without a license the organization could have no standing and would be prohibited from doing business in the State. Further, under the law in its present provisions, the Brotherhood must show that it admits members of one race only, (the Commissioner admitting that on this point the law would require remodeling); and it must file an annual financial statement, giving its income with the sources thereof, its expenses and for what purposes, its assets, money invested, indebtedness, etc. Among the additional requirements was registration with the Commissioner of each organizer, person, agent, or representative going into the State to do business for the organization, neglect of which rendered the person soliciting membership liable to a fine of $100 or imprisonment for thirty days. A similar fine or imprisonment might be inflicted for neglect to comply with any other provision of the act.

The Commissioner warned the Brotherhood's representatives not to solicit new membership in the State until complying with the law and holding a license. In reply, they informed him that the General Executive Board, which was to meet in July, would take up the question, and that the entire matter would be placed before the annual General Convention, which was to take place in Des Moines, Iowa, in September. The Commissioner cautioned the representatives against admitting new members in any of the local unions of the State in the meantime. This means that the work of organizing was forbidden in the State until a license should be procured. At a meeting of the Brotherhood's General Executive Board the General President was instructed to procure a license from the South Carolina Insurance Commissioner and also to communicate with the President of the American Federation of Labor, and with the labor organizations similarly affected as the Brotherhood, asking that joint action be taken to have the insurance laws of South Carolina and of the various States modified to such an extent as to exempt from the operations of laws never intended to cover them the voluntary organizations of labor.

In connection with this subject your attention is called to the fact that in several States discriminatory laws have been enacted against labor organizations at the instance of insurance companies organized for private profit. The companies realize that in the voluntary co-operative effort of trade unions to protect their membership against the vicissitudes of life the greatest benefits result to the membership, and that the work is done at a minimum cost and with the avoidance of red tape and circumlocution.

It is recommended that this Convention make further declaration on this question, directing that such assistance be continued to be rendered and such further action be taken as to protect and promote the rights of organized labor in the humane work in which our trade unions are engaged.

Oklahoma Constitution.

The railroads and other vested interests early this year undertook to have the excellent constitution of Oklahoma changed in their own interests. The effort was unsuccessful. An energetic campaign was carried on by the organized wage-workers and farmers to prevent the proposed amendments being adopted. The Oklahoma State Federation of Labor, together with Organizer M. Grant Hamilton, representing the American Federation of Labor, carried on a vigorous campaign throughout the State. Besides the railroads and other vested interests favoring these amendments, the Railway Employees and Investors' Association had agents in the field advocating their adoption. The representatives of the Oklahoma State Federation of Labor and the representative of the American Federation of Labor, as well as the advocates of the amendments, appeared before the Governor of the State at the same time and debated the provisions contained in the amendments. As a consequence of this joint meeting the Governor of Oklahoma issued an open letter against the amendments. I issued a letter to the workers and farmers of Oklahoma urging them to perform their duty and defeat the amendments. The letter was reproduced and largely circulated throughout the State. There is no question but that the assistance rendered by the American Federation of Labor and the State Federation materially aided in arousing the people to the serious situation so that they cast their vote and encompassed the defeat of the amendments. The proposed amendments were submitted to a referendum vote of the people of Oklahoma on June 10, with the result that they were defeated by almost 40,000 majority.

Constitutions—Arizona and New Mexico.

On June 20, 1910, an act that had passed Congress granting statehood to Arizona and New Mexico was approved by the President of the United States. In passing this bill Congress evidently had in mind the constitution adopted by Oklahoma and the provisions therein relative to the initiative, referendum, right of recall, and particularly that clause in that constitution upon the issuance of injunctions. It must have been the evident fear of Congress that the constitutional conventions in both of the new States might adopt similar provisions, and therefore it embodied in the act granting statehood to New Mexico and to Arizona the following conditions:

"That when said constitution and such provisions thereof as have been separately submitted shall have been duly ratified by the people of New Mexico as aforesaid a certified copy of the same shall be submitted to the President of the United States and to Congress for approval, together with the statement of the votes cast thereon and upon any provisions thereof which were separately submitted to and voted upon by the people. And if Congress and the President approve said constitution and the said separate provisions thereof, or, if the President approves the same and Congress fails to disapprove the same during the next regular session thereof, then and in that event the President shall certify said facts to the Governor of New Mexico," etc., etc.

The elections in both the proposed new States for delegates to the constitutional conventions have been hotly contested, centering around the plank calling for the initiative and referendum and right of recall. In each State the Democratic platform advocated this plank, the Republican platform opposed it. In Arizona a majority of the fifty-two delegates elected to the constitutional convention were elected on a platform pledging them to incorporate this plank in the constitution. New Mexico elected a majority of Republicans to the convention, five-sixths of whom are opposed to the initiative and referendum, while the measure is favored by all the Democrats, the minority. The New Mexico constitutional convention, however, adopted a provision by which the entire judiciary is to be elected by the people.

I have endeavored to be of assistance to our fellow-citizens in the two new prospective States so that they, like Oklahoma, may start aright in statehood. We should all endeavor to be of such further assistance as is possible in this direction.

The subject of the initiative and referendum has also been under consideration in other States and in the city of Denver, Colo. The State of Arkansas voted upon this proposition in its late election, giving it a splendid majority. In Denver, after an intense and exciting campaign, in which "the interests" were arrayed against any really progressive legislation, the initiative, referendum and recall were established on a popular vote.

Oregon.

Of all the States in the Union, Oregon has taken the most advanced ground in the establishment of the people's rule. There they have the initiative and referendum, the recall, the direct primary, and the corrupt practices act as well as the election of United States Senators by direct instruction of the people. Recently, however, the old and almost discarded political bosses, acting at the behest of "the interests," attempted to swing the people back to the old condition of bossism through the manipulation of party conventions, where they could corral, coerce and dominate, despite the people's will. In conformity with the declarations of our Federation upon this subject, I have deemed it my pleasurable duty on all occasions to render such assistance as lay in my power so that the people of that State might retain the splendid vantage ground they have achieved. In connection with this, your attention should be called to the masterful address delivered by Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., in the Senate of the United States, May 5, 1910, giving a clear and concise exposition of the admirable form of government in Oregon, which should prove an example and an incentive to the toilers and to the people generally in extending its principles to our entire system of government. Federal, State and municipal.

Labor's Practical Political Action.

Some of the fruits of organized labor's participation in the political activities of the States and the Nation are coming to the surface.

We who have been conscious of what has been and what is being accomplished have had the gratification of witnessing the fact that other influential sections of society have also seen fit to make some effort to cleanse politics of contaminating influences.

Since the American Federation of Labor has taken a more active part in the political affairs of the Nation, we have had the satisfaction of removing from office many bitter opponents to Labor's advancement, which includes and implies the advancement of the interests of the whole people.

We have curbed the sordid, self-seeking agents of predatory interests—now somewhat softened by the new title of "big business." We have seen Mr. Cannon, the most potent evil influence against the people's rights and interests, stripped of his autocratic, arbitrary power as Speaker of the House of Representatives. We have seen the Rules Committee of the House reconstructed and reformed so that it shall respond to the will of the majority rather than be the pliant tool of "the interests" under domination of Speaker Cannon or any future Speaker of a like caliber and make-up.

When we said in the now historic "Bill of Grievances," which we submitted to the President, and to the chief representatives of both houses of Congress in 1906, that unless the rights to which Labor is entitled were accorded by legislation we should appeal from the Representatives in Congress "to the conscience and the support of our fellow-citizens," the declaration was jeered at by those at that time entrenched in power in the House, and we were damned from Dan to Beersheba by the penny-a-liners who scribble for a hostile press as being dictators to Labor and scheming to "deliver the Labor vote." But their rantings were in vain. Their efforts to hold the workers of America in mental servitude to party idolatry and party slavery have been abortive. The militant organized wage-workers have been so aroused, and the appeals to the people on the ground of humanity, liberty and justice rewarded with such manifestations of accord and co-operation, that success now appears on the horizon. Our achievements in both the industrial and political fields, especially during the year now closing, warrant the justification of our brightest hopes and the prediction of greater successes as time goes on.

Passing, as we are, through the gravest crisis ever faced by the workers in the history of this country, Labor has not faltered. It has not abated one tittle of its activity. It has not hesitated in the face of the most trying circumstances to stand loyally, faithfully, and tenaciously for the rights of the toilers, for the rights and liberties of all the people.

When we pledged ourselves to exert every possible legitimate effort to secure for the workers their inalienable liberties as a vital portion of the fabric of our civilization, a new declaration of human rights was recognized by our associates, and when we further pledged our fealty to carry on this work until every industrial and political right of the workers shall be guaranteed its permanent place and sphere of usefulness in the progress of our country, we challenged our opponents to try to prevent the achievement of these aspirations—if they dared.

Today we are standing on the threshold of successful accomplishment. By the persistency of our endeavors in the interest of human welfare we have shaken the crafty and the greedy out of their position of confident self-assertion and converted them into apologists before their fellow-citizens.

A great majority of the public news-vendors have conspired to keep silent on our extraordinary political successes in California, Washington, Oregon, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, New York, Maine and elsewhere throughout the country. They ascribe a thousand and one fictitious reasons for the uprising of the people. Anything and everything in their eyes has been responsible except the one real cause.

When so many elements, through their common interests, tacitly or by agreement try to suppress or pervert the truth, and thereby to keep the people in ignorance as to the most potent factor which has caused the important political upheaval and the legislative reforms in recent times it would be a false modesty, a modesty which is not a virtue, it would be wasteful and wrongful, did not organized labor claim the just credit due it after the years of struggle and sacrifice which the toilers have undergone to bring about these achievements; achievements in the cause of a progress which is but at its beginning. Labor—militant organized labor—owing allegiance to no political party or formulated partisan creed, inspired the revolution of independent political thought and action and with practical aims called upon the people to claim their own.

The political defeats that have taken place this year in districts and States which can be named, whereby many of our opponents have been consigned to political oblivion, have demonstrated beyond all quibble what element was responsible and hence is deserving of credit for the upheaval. The wholesale overthrow of the legislative and political jugglers with the people's rights and interests can unerringly be traced to organized labor's appeals to the people to defend their common interest and precious rights.

In this day of reckoning which has arrived I am firmly convinced that the American Federation of Labor is most directly responsible for the strength of the aroused indignation of an offended and aggrieved nation.

In this great awakening our men of labor have brought forcibly to the attention of the rest of our people the evils with which we have contended and still have to contend. We protest and shall protest against the abuse of the injunction writ by the courts—against being denied the manifest and fundamental right of equality before the law. We have been denied our constitutional rights of free speech and free press; we have suffered under laws primarily enacted to regulate and control great combinations of capital which have been interpreted to apply to the voluntary organizations of working people. We have so forcibly called these grievances to the attention of the public mind that we are now meeting with an unmistakably sympathetic response. If Labor will but maintain the vantage gained and persistently pursue the course it has adopted, it will not only effectively prevent any reaction or possibility of returning to the old basis of injustice and misrepresentation, but it will also steadily advance toward the goal of justice and freedom, the consummation of Labor's aspirations.

We must never forget—never forget the men and their associates who did their utmost to reduce Labor to a bargain-counter commodity; never forget that the courts were made for men and not men for courts; never forget that legislators for State or Nation are but the representatives of the citizens, in duty bound to enact such laws as shall make secure the freedom of all our people and be in furtherance of their rights and interests.

In connection with this subject of injunctions your attention is called to the high legal authorities quoted in the letter to Mr. Moon and which is an appendix to this report.

Attention is also called to the report of the Labor Representation Committee to the Executive Council which will in turn be submitted by the Executive Council as part of its report.

Labor's Rights and Its Economic Power.

Essential to the welfare and independence of the masses is the free exercise of certain of their rights and powers in the economic field. This truth becomes clear to our minds when we consider it as applied to the individual possessing those rights and powers. Let a man have the right to decide when he is to work or is not to work, and let that decision be backed by his power to keep himself from being obliged by immediate necessity to offer his labor to an employer, and the consequence must be that he will not sell his labor-power until the terms offered him are the best that the industry can warrant. Similarly, when a number of associated persons may freely decide as to whether they shall work or not, and uphold that decision, they have in their hands the economic power to secure to themselves from the products of industry a share restricted only by industrial success.

In the mere statement of the conditions indicated by my words there are suggested the reasons why Labor is compelled in present circumstances to engage in the political struggle. It is, in a word, in order to set itself free.

Labor is bound by the fetters of unjust laws. It is Labor's task to break those fetters one by one. The first to be removed are necessarily those which are the most painful, binding, and destructive of Labor's rights and powers.

There must in justice be no law, formulated by judge or lawmaker which can deprive a wage-worker of his own exclusive ownership of himself, or, in other words, of those rights over his own labor-power which are guaranteed by the Constitution and the concepts of liberty implied in the fundamental principles of our Republic.

There must be no law which can deprive the laborer of his right over his power to purchase or to refrain from purchasing whatever is legitimately on sale in the community.

There must be an end to the untenable doctrine that a right pertaining to an individual singly becomes a wrong when exercised by him in combination with other individuals legally enjoying the same right singly.

These examples illustrate points at which the labor movement comes into contact with politics, since only by force of law-making can present laws be abrogated or the limits of law-making itself be outlined.

As the defense of rights, manifestly varying in their scope with respect to men, women, and children, and in times of peace or war, is the legitimate domain of government, so the defense of those rights which peculiarly bear upon the wage-worker is inevitably the especial concern of the labor movement. I am impressed with the conviction, however, that with the free exercise of the rights which will leave untrammelled the regular and recognized functions of trade unionism, the workers of this country will move forward by leaps and bounds to a general condition of unexampled welfare. With those rights in full play they will be possessed of the economic power to enable themselves to push forward to greater successes, to justice, freedom and a better humanity, the goal of Labor's aspirations.

Trade unionism is self-help. The possibilities of self-help by its means have never yet been reached nor with certainty foreseen by any authority however prescient. The dividends thus far declared in its history by trade unionism have been immeasurably the highest ever known to any movement of the unprivileged and deprived classes. Every trade or calling in each year since the formation of our Federation has moved its members upward from the state in which they previously lived. In every walk of life the men of this continent recognize the benefits worked through trade-unionism. By far the greatest of its benefits have come through the exercise of its economic power. Let that lesson be taken to the hearts of all workmen. Let that thought be kept uppermost with any of them when in danger of being lured away from union work by any political party, whatever its name or its pretenses or its promises.

Police Oppression—The "Third Degree."

It seems to me proper to call the attention of the delegates attending this Convention to a police practice, not only unauthorized by the law, but in positive terms forbidden by the law, which nevertheless has become a public scandal throughout the civilized world. I refer to what is known as "the third degree," or obtaining confessions from prisoners held for trial through terrorizing or brutally mistreating them. From the nature of this outrageous measure it is difficult to obtain legal evidence of its existence. However, that it does exist, and is regarded by the police as one of their functions tacitly accepted by the courts, we have the testimony of the press in general and even of that branch of periodicals which is devoted to recording and commenting on the proceedings of the courts. One of the latter journals recently said:

"It would be unjustly disparaging the dignified and learned gentlemen who preside at the trial of criminal cases in our courts to say that they do not at least suspect what every child in their community knows, to wit, that the alleged voluntary confession ordinarily relied on was not the spontaneous outpouring of a guilt-burdened conscience, quickened into action through grateful response to the touching kindness of captors and keepers. Things don't happen that way."

While it is the very first maxim in criminal law that every man is presumed innocent of crime until proven guilty, the police "sweat-box" proceedings are based on the idea that when a man has been arrested the presumption that he is guilty must amount almost to a certainty, and that if sufficiently frightened or put in pain he will tell the truth. This idea men in general know is often without foundation, for a poor and innocent man may be accused and thrown in prison by powerful enemies through revenge or even by the police themselves in default of detecting the really guilty. Moreover, on several recent occasions psychologists of the foremost standing have testified to the fact that innocent prisoners who had made confessions of guilt had done so under mental conditions superinduced by their third-degree tormentors. It may with truth be said that a State or a country which will permit the police to act in any other capacity than detainers of persons charged with crime is in danger of a tyranny over men's persons that is without bounds, and it is from this aspect of the case that our duty arises to protest against any such powers being exercised by them. Public attention has not yet been fully aroused to this danger, which everywhere is beginning to menace the plain citizen. While the law itself positively prohibits police officers from exerting any other authority than securing the person of an accused or suspected man, bringing him before a magistrate for examination without unreasonable delay, keeping him meantime in security to answer the charge made against him, the power is assumed by detectives and policemen of the higher ranks to put prisoners in special lock-ups for convenience of "sweating" to cross-question, brow-beat, and maltreat them by physical force, and even to resort to means so terrible as to be compared with those of the Inquisition, in order to extract a confession. This is the uttermost perversion of law. As a fact, a confession made as a result of either an inducement or a punishment is inadmissible as evidence if the law itself is to be obeyed.

I repeat that it is a principle in law as well as in every concept of justice that "a man is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty." This applies with equal force to the man who may be subsequently proven guilty of the most heinous crimes as to the accused who may be subsequently proven entirely innocent. The correction of this police abuse of power lies primarily in the hands of our judges on the bench and finally in an aroused public conscience against such a flagrant violation of rights to which even the most insignificant of the human race is entitled. When the police so far abuse their powers and violate the rights of man, no matter how insignificant or vile that man may be, it endangers the rights and the liberties of all the people. It is the beginning of tyranny— injustice. The constitutional and inherent rights of the citizen are not wholly invaded and destroyed with one fell swoop. Their beginning is ushered in under the pretense that a righteous purpose is to be served. The people having accepted invasion by degrees, it is extended until no man's liberty or life is safe. Our people are not unfamiliar with the history of police tyranny in other countries as well as our own.

This Convention should take cognizance of this subject and make some declaration and take such action as may be deemed necessary in regard to it. In addition, the State Federations and city central bodies, indeed all organized labor, should express itself upon this question.

Maintain Labor Day's Significance—Labor Sunday.

It is well within the limits of the truth to assert that Labor Day, 1910, was fittingly celebrated throughout the country wherever Labor is organized.

The co-operation of the organizations of labor in the various cities in the observance of Labor Sunday was also enthusiastic and hearty. Many letters and a large amount of printed matter relating to Labor Sunday were sent to ministers of every denomination. In addition, the various committees appointed by different organizations to request the ministers in their respective localities that they prepare a special sermon to deliver on the Sunday preceding Labor Day, that day to be known as Labor Sunday, were provided with circulars and leaflets on the subject. At headquarters numerous letters from ministers have been received in reply, and it is interesting to report that these show a deep interest in the cause of labor and a sincere desire for information, the writers expressing their intention of rendering every possible assistance in the work of the labor movement.

While it is a fact beyond contradiction that as time passes observance becomes more general of the day set apart for the honor of Labor, the commemoration of its achievement, and the public testimony to its essential dignity and its fundamental worth to society, there yet remains a fraction in the ranks of organized labor which is inclined to believe that the money cost of parades and other non-revenue features of Labor Day may be a waste of means that ought to be devoted to objects more obviously material. Consequent upon this reasoning, demonstrations on Labor Day have on occasions been suspended in one or other industrial centers.

In my judgment this course is mistaken. A sincere, heartfelt, enthusiastic, and general demonstration is in a high degree practical, both in its methods and results. The very base of organized labor's work lies in aroused sentiment—in the spirit of fraternity, the avowal of unity, the public declaration of each to share in the struggles of all, the expressed willingness to obliterate occupational or other sectionalism, and the appeal through massed numbers for a common loyalty among all who toil. Besides, the spectacle of organized labor declaring itself and its purpose by the time-honored means of procession, music, and banners is impressive to all elements in society.

Defense funds are necessary, trade unions are often forced by stress of circumstances to watch carefully the outlay of each dollar for every purpose, and men of experience in the movement become in the course of time deeply impressed with the importance during unavoidable emergencies of having an adequate union treasury to meet the demands of those workers who are in stress and struggle. These men are right in warning their fellow-members against unpreparedness for the certain coming day of need. Themselves convinced and veteran unionists, familiar with the routine of their associated work, they may at times, however, overlook the conditions in America which place the ceaseless promotion of general organization in the forefront of union duties and indeed union necessities.

Every locality and every occupation sees a stream of new workers incessantly pouring into it, to mingle and perhaps to compete with the old. Besides, the changes in industry constantly tend to the disintegration of certain occupations while building up others. In these conditions organized labor is confronted with, not the choice, but the urgent necessity of organization, reorganization, and adaptation to change. The ignorant must be informed as to what union labor is doing, the apathetic must be reinspired, the disheartened once more encouraged.

Labor demonstrations are in themselves a protest against wrong, an agitation for the right, a solicitation to the unorganized to joint with their brother workmen, a notification to opponents that labor is up and doing in its own cause. They are an attractive feature in union education of the children of the masses as well as an appeal to the conscience and the emotions of non-unionists, which leads them to put an end to their isolation from those who are fighting their battles.

Moreover, as a matter of fact, if the question be put on the mere basis of the management of finances, a Labor Day demonstration pays frequently as a proclamation and advertisement. The notices it receives in the public press bring up the issue of unionism in every household, obtain for the trade union a general recognition as a national institution closely in touch with community life, and put before readers of all classes the addresses gained by labor's spokesmen. The publicity thereby gained for organized labor's objects, sentiments and principles alone more than repays all outlay incident to the demonstrations.

Before any Central Labor body decides upon giving up the now generally accepted features of Labor Day demonstration, including the parade, meetings, and addresses, let its delegates discuss what would happen if these observances should be abandoned for a single year in all the cities of the country. Opponents would declare that the labor movement had collapsed, non-unionists would no longer on Labor's own day be made to feel the reproach of their absence from among the defenders of their rights, the press would remain silent where it now is a helpful vehicle for the cause of unionism, and much of the opportunity and occasion for our propaganda of unionism would be lost.

If the emphasis of Labor Day as an American holiday should come to be placed on mere jollifications for private profit, which has generally been the tendency when genuine Labor Day demonstrations have been suspended, the significance, the honor, the pride of trade unionism would receive a serious blow.

All the men and women in a labor demonstration, and all who line the sidewalks to cheer the passing procession, feel that they are doing something for the cause the event represents. They are participants, not mere spectators to be amused. To all of them, banner, motto, and slogan, the serried rank and the marching step, symbolize and consecrate principles and ideals for which they desire to manifest their devotion. The least interested outside observer is impressed by the enthusiasm and warmth of fellowship evinced by the throngs united on a great purpose.

The labor movement of our time owes it to the future that the inherent purposes and principles of our cause be upheld and maintained with constantly increasing intensity. In line therewith nothing is more important than that the one day in the year secured by labor, for labor, and for all the people—Labor Day—shall be celebrated in the best and most effective manner. In larger numbers, and with a deeper resolve to work on for the day of Labor's disenfranchisement from every vestige of wrong and injustice, for the attainment of a higher and better life, and the establishment of the universal brotherhood of man.

In the past the governors of several States issued annual proclamations urging the people to appropriately observe Labor Day. This practice in later years has almost gone by the board. There is no good reason why the custom should not be revived and extended, not only to the governors of States, but also to the President of the United States. And if deemed advisable by our Canadian fellow-workers, such proclamations might be urged upon the proper officials of the Dominion government.

In connection with the subject of Labor Sunday it should be stated that several protests have been made against what has been termed discrimination against religious sects—Seventh Day Adventists and Jews—who celebrate their Sabbath, or day of rest, on Saturday. It surely was not our purpose to make any such discrimination; we urge and welcome the co-operation of all men in the great uplift work of our labor movement. I therefore suggest a declaration by this Convention on the subject.

International Secretariat.

The Toronto Convention having decided that the American Federation of Labor should become affiliated with the International Secretariat, I duly transmitted information to that effect to the Secretary in Berlin. This Federation was thereupon placed in the list of the organizations connected with the Secretariat. The annual dues, amounting to $567.21, were forwarded in August. The dues are 30 cents per thousand members of affiliated organizations.

A considerable correspondence has since been carried on between Secretary Carl Legien and myself, among other matters dealt with being the methods to govern international contributions for assistance in case of labor disputes, the attitude to be preserved toward one another by the national organizations of different countries, the steps to be taken to prevent the transferral by employers of strike-breakers from one country to another, and the character of the contents of letters or circulars to be sent from the headquarters of the Secretariat to the affiliated organizations.

The last-named point refers to a matter of some passing interest to this Convention. Just before adjournment of the Paris Conference, September, 1909, the Secretariat directed its secretary to send to the various organizations a copy of a lengthy communication from America which had been received too late for reading and discussion. On receipt at our headquarters, it turned out to be a protest against the admission of the American Federation of Labor to the Secretariat coming from a so-called "National Industrial Union of Textile Workers," speaking on behalf of the so-called "Industrial Workers of the World," and claiming the latter to be the only bona fide American labor organization entitled to representation in the Secretariat. The contents of the communication were beneath notice except as having a value in informing the various European bodies affiliated with the Secretariat as to the sort of fanatical ravings and malicious fabrications which continually emanate from the all-round malcontents who mislead the corporal's guard of "yellow" unionists that makes up the Industrial Workers. The document has, indeed, served in Europe a good purpose for the American Federation of Labor, in showing our comrades there who have read it the improbability that the perpetrators of such criminal literature could ever accomplish more than attempting to assassinate character and disgracing those elements in the wage-working class which endeavor to move upward in the light of reason and by virtue of patience, forbearance, insistence and truth. The International Secretariat in due time received from me sufficient information relative to the I. W. W. to permit a fair judgment of the organization to be formed.

The International Secretariat meeting at Stuttgart, 1902, made the following decision: "Only one national center of trade unions will be recognized for each country, and only representatives of this national center will be admitted to the international conferences."

Our affiliation to the International Secretariat has afforded a greater feeling of international fraternity among the workers of the various countries, and has helped pave the way for a larger, freer mutual acceptance of clear cards of trade unionists. It has also given the opportunity by correspondence to a better understanding of the American trade union movement, its history, its struggles, and its aspirations. With such extension and development of the International Secretariat as we hope to witness, it must be helpful in bringing to a minimum and possibly the entire abolition of the fratricidal wars between nations of men.

As per your instructions, which were approved by the Toronto Convention, I submitted for consideration to the Paris Conference two propositions, as follows:

"Resolved, That the International Trade Union Congress recommends to the trade union centers (general trade union federations and congresses) of all countries the discussion of the proposition of establishing an International Federation of Labor, the autonomy of the trade union movement of each country being ordained and guaranteed, the purpose of the Federation being for the protection and the advancement of the rights, interests and justice of the wage-workers of all countries and the establishment of international fraternity and solidarity."

"Resolved, That it shall be the purpose of the labor movement of all countries to endeavor to the fullest extent to prevent the workers from one country being induced to emigrate to other countries during periods of industrial depression or when trade disputes exist or are in contemplation; that it shall be the duty of the recognized representatives of the labor movement of the country affected to notify the International Secretary, who in turn shall at once communicate the situation to the representatives of the trade union movement of each country."

These propositions were ordered to be placed upon the program for consideration and action at the Budapest meeting, August, 1911. If when these propositions come before the meeting during the coming year they shall be adopted, I feel confident that a bond of unity and fraternity will be more firmly established and an effective International Federation of Labor brought into existence to help in the great work of amelioration and final disinfranchisement. The American Federation of Labor is entitled to, and undoubtedly should select or authorize to be selected, a representative to attend the Budapest meeting, August, 1911.

In connection with the correspondence which I have had with the international secretariat, I found myself placed in an unsatisfactory situation by reason of the fact that I have been unable to furnish any sort of a satisfactory statistical report of the work of our affiliated organizations, particularly in respect to wages, hours of labor, strikes, payments by members, and benefits paid to them and for what purpose. Most of our international unions lack such statistics by reason of the fact that so many of them have no uniformity of initiation fees, dues, assessments, and benefits throughout their jurisdiction. As a matter of fact, these are largely determined by the local unions, the internationals having in these respects no jurisdiction and often no knowledge.

Then again, a number of our organizations have relied upon the State and national Bureaus of Labor to collect and publish these statistics when the organizations of labor should gather and promulgate them. Our unions have done so much for Labor that there is no need for them to hide their achievements, and even in instances where great progress and results can not be shown it must be remembered that in our industrial struggle and enlightened time, often the very weakness of some of our organizations forms the sympathetic tie that grips the hearts and consciences of our people to their advantage and strength. We should earnestly press upon all organizations the need of high dues, extension of benefits, greater uniformity and discipline in methods and preparation for a statistical showing of trade union achievements.

Vital Statistics.

Under present conditions of employment there is constant temptation to misstate the age of the child seeking work. Valid evidence of the date of birth is often lacking. Many of the States have wisely set limits to the age at which children may work in gainful employment. Without a birth certificate the age of a child is always in doubt. In such case neither the employer nor the factory inspector can feel safe in permitting the child's employment. In a recent paper an authority said: "Of 28,000 children, native-born and foreign-born alike, who get working papers each year in New York City, between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years, three-quarters have birth certificates. The remaining quarter, who fail to get birth certificates, are native American children and those who come from certain parts of Russia or from the earthquake district of Italy. What earthquake and revolution do in Europe, official slovenliness accomplishes throughout the greater part of this nation, in depriving the children and citizens of the most fundamental of all vital and industrial statistics, the record of births."

It is thus seen that the registration of births lies at the basis of vital statistics, the necessary foundation of modern health organization, and hence is indispensable for the safety of the lives of children as well as the older members of the communities in cases of preventable diseases, but, what is especially to the point with the wage-workers of any community, is most important in order that the legislation for the prevention of child labor shall be carried out thoroughly. Evidence should be furnished by certificate made out at the time of birth by the attending physician, filed with the local registrar of vital statistics, and preserved at the office of the State Registrar at the capital of the State, according to the requirements of the model law for the registration of vital statistics which has been recommended by a number of the foremost health and medical associations of the Union, as well as by the Bureau of the Census, and has already been carried out in practice in several States.

If laws providing for a free and happy childhood and the prevention of the ills which follow from the employment of children under legal age are to be enforced, there should be the means of obtaining evidence of age beyond doubt.

Members of organized labor should take a personal interest in this matter from its importance to their families. Through their unions questions such as these might be asked of the public authorities:

"Is there a law for the registration of births and deaths in State and city? Is it thoroughly enforced? Are the births of children registered, and if not, why not?"

Information upon this subject may be obtained from the Division of Vital Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, Bureau of Census, Washington, D. C. The officers of our Federation will certainly aid in securing this information.

Since my last report the number of volunteer organizers I have commissioned has been 430, a large majority of whom have entered upon their labors since the close of last winter. The number of new unions formed and membership in existing unions has correspondingly increased. The total number of organizers now holding commissions October 1 is 1,462.

The Labor Press.

Again I direct the attention of the trade unionists of the country to the excellent services on their behalf performed by the labor press. In the work of organizing, of giving correct information to union men during controversies with employers, of carrying on the discussions of questions arising in the course of the movement, a newspaper which is labor's own is indispensable in every large organization and in every considerable industrial community. The patronage extended by unions or individual unionists to the labor press is an investment in support of a principle. As such the amount contributed ought to be made at all times as great as possible. A full truthful account of an incident during an emergency in the course of the struggles of an organization may turn the tide of affairs in its favor, and an intelligent defense of the justifiable actions of Labor's representatives may at the opportune moment save the members from hurtful misunderstandings and even disastrous dissension. The average labor periodical of America affords to its readers an opportunity to keep up with the discussion of the important social problems of the day. Every union man, therefore, should bear in mind his obligations to the labor press, and regard it as an imperative duty to give a liberal support to the periodicals which can be called on at any and all times to defend union principles and promote union projects. It may be said without invidious reflection upon the efforts of labor press managers and editors in the past that a steady advance is observable in the appearance and contents of labor newspapers, while the number is increasing. I urge Labor's representatives to vote and work for the assistance of their printed messengers, even when any immediate beneficial result may appear doubtful. A good labor paper, like a good tool, is a thing which it is well to have at hand.

American Federationist.

Necessarily, during the last twelve months the issues of our official magazine have contained much matter relating to the principles of the law bearing on the case of Labor now before the Supreme Court of the United States. It has been my good fortune as editor to be able to place before the readers a number of excellent articles, emanating from pens that command the respect of our country, showing the strength of the position your officials have taken in the matter in question. Indeed, whatever the outcome otherwise, the case has assuredly had the effect of familiarizing Labor with its fundamental rights as expounded in the courts by many eminent jurists. The file of the year 1910 of The American Federationist is valuable in this respect to unionists wherever their liberties may be endangered.

Our magazine has also attracted more than usual attention on account of the controversial articles it has contained in the course of the year. Whether or not opponents have been convinced of the errors of their ways, it has been my aim to accord to those entertaining differences in opinion a treatment never lacking in due courtesy. In no instance has no opponent been able to charge the magazine with unfairness or error of importance in its statement of facts. It may be said also that the general contents of The American Federationist have given contradiction to those who charge the trade union movement with narrowness and selfishness. Tolerance has been exhibited toward all organizations whose aim is social betterment. If it is in any degree a part of the function of this magazine to suggest to the labor press and the labor platform the plane on which subjects germane to our movement should be treated, I trust that in this respect its pages have not failed to uphold proper ideals.

The issuance of The American Federationist was not originally directed for any financial returns it might yield. The authorization for its publication by the Convention of 1887 was "for the discussion of labor and its interests in all its phases," and in the seventeen years of its regular monthly issues it has been my single aim to make it ring true to the cause, the rights and interests of the toiling masses of America. And through it all The American Federationist as an advocate and defender of our great cause—the cause of humanity—has been of insignificant financial cost to our fellow-workers or our Federation itself.

In view of the good service our magazine has performed and the greater good it could render if a wider clientele were secured for it, I earnestly hope that greater interest be generally manifested by the rank and file of organized labor to extend its circulation and to secure for it a larger number of subscribers.

Conclusion.

It would be unpardonably remiss in me did I not acknowledge the deep sense of gratitude which I owe to my colleagues of the Executive Council, who by their advice and co-operation have so materially aided me in the duties which I have been required to perform, and the many difficulties I have had to encounter. Our relations have been sincere, fraternal and helpful.

To the officers of our organizations, and to the mass of the workers I am eternally obligated because of their kindly consideration and helpful support in bearing the burdens of our ennobling cause, and in giving it an essential impetus and an enduring impress. If we shall but be true to ourselves, true to one another, true to the best that is in us, we shall in our time contribute our share to the early realization of that day when man to man shall brothers be—"for a' that and a' that."

The foregoing subjects, as covering the most important features of the year's work, I have deemed it my duty to report to you for your consideration and action. The report which the Executive Council will make to you deals largely with matters of an executive character. To some of these I have made reference. I am conscious of the unsatisfactory character of this report, even to myself. And yet it is submitted to you with an abiding faith that you will esteem it for the purpose it is designed to serve, rather than to censure it for its shortcomings.

Such as it is, this report is made to you, and through you to the rank and file of labor, to the thoughtful, earnest men of our time, and to the great mass of humanity, whose rights, whose liberties, whose progress it has been my one aim in life to serve.

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

President, American Federation of Labor.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

The following are the only alterations or amendments to the constitution adopted since the Detroit (1896) convention, and not published in the 21st edition of the constitution:

By Union 77, Minneapolis, Minn.:

Amend Section 219 of the Constitution by adding: "And if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

Section to read as follows: "Each local union shall have the right to propose, through the columns of the Official Journal, amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal, containing such amendments and report to the International President. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined 5c. But no union shall be fined for not taking action on a proposed amendment, unless the same has been submitted by the International President by circular. Any amendment receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a vote of local unions within thirty days, and if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption."

By Union 316, McSherrytown, Pa.:

Amend Sec. 67 by adding after the word "adoption," on the last line, the following: "And except in the 1st and 9th districts of Pennsylvania, where the initiation fee for applicants for membership shall be 50 cents for a period of three months, beginning the first day of the month following the adoption of this amendment."

"That should the results in increased membership from the operation of this amendment justify an extension of time, the International Executive Board is hereby empowered to extend the time for an additional three months, or such additional periods as they may deem necessary."

Sec. 607, as amended, to read accordingly:

By Union 460, San Juan, P. R.:

Amend Sec. 210, by adding the following:

District of Porto Rico.

A. The District of Porto Rico shall embrace the entire Island and all Local Unions of the Island, who shall elect a "Joint Advisory Board."

B. The "Joint Advisory Board" shall adopt rules of procedure, calculated for the best welfare of the unions in Porto Rico, but not conflicting with the International Constitution.

C. The basis of representation shall be decided by the Unions in Porto Rico, but shall not be less than one delegate for each Local Union.

Sec. 210, as amended, to read accordingly.

By Local 71, of Elgin, Ill.:

Amend Section 106 by inserting between the word "loans," on line 11, and the word "loan," on line 14, the following in place of the present words: "Members in the payment of private loans must pay cost of money has to be remitted to another union. They shall be entitled, at their own expense, to a postal receipt to be mailed to the union having been granted the private loan."

Section to read accordingly.

By Local 9, of Troy, N. Y.

Amend Sec. 166. Section to read as follows: "Local unions shall, wherever practical, organize State, or Province, or District Label Leagues for state or district label agitation. Each local union in a state or district where a league exists, or thereafter to be formed, must be a part thereof." Same to take effect at once if adopted.

By Local 129, of Denver, Colo.:

That an assessment of 25c be levied on all 15c and 30c members for the benefit of the locked out members of Local Unions in Tampa, Fla. Said assessment to be disbursed under the supervision of the International President.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

Amendment proposed by 304, Racine, Wis., strike out Secs. 165 and 166 and insert the following instead:

Blue Label Advertising and Printing Bureau, Sec. 165: The International president shall appoint a bureau agent according to Sec. 64, whose duties shall be to organize an advertising bureau to advertise the blue label and what it stands for by circulars, newspapers, magazines, billboards, dead walls and such other methods as may from time to time come to hand or as he may originate, subject to the approval of the International President.

Further, the International president shall appoint five members whose duty it shall be to establish a printing plant of our own, wherein the necessary printing for our Journal, Office and Label bureau can be done, and if necessary to success, printing for others.

Sec. A. The location of such bureau and printing plant shall be in such city as the International Executive Board may indicate.

Sec. B. The agent shall publish an itemized account of his expenditures monthly in the Cigarmakers' Official Journal.

Sec. C. The agent may draw upon the International President for the required funds from month to month, giving an itemized statement to what purpose such funds are to be used.

Sec. D. The agents salary shall be not less than $18 per week or as in the opinion of the International Executive Board shall constitute a sufficient salary.

Sec. E. All organizers and financiers shall report to the agent the condition in districts visited by them and suggest the kind of advertising likely to do the most good.

Sec. G. In the event of the bureau agent desiring to send advertising matter to local unions or town collectors, such material shall be sent free of all cost to such union or town collector.

Sec. 166. The funds for the maintenance of the bureau and printing plant shall be a per capita of one dollar on all 15 and 30-cent members per annum, out of the general fund, to be based on the May report of Local unions, and a one dollar assessment levied on all 15 and 30-cent and also 20 cent members who are working at or derive an income from the cigar industry; said assessment to be levied annually on the first Saturday in May.

Local 450 of Oklahoma City proposes the following amendment to the Constitution:

Add after the lines, "Upon the payment of 20c dues per week and all International assessments, and local assessments levied for Label agitation"—and assessments levied by amendments in aid of strikes.

Section to read in part as follows:

Sec. 77. Any member who has contributed full dues for a continuous period of three years quitting the trade, or becoming a foreman as defined in Sec. 64, or a continuous employer of one or more members, may be placed in the retired beneficiary class and continue to receive the sick and death benefits upon the payment of 20c dues per week and all International assessments, and local assessments levied for Label agitation, and assessments levied by amendments in aid of strikes. Balance of section same as in book.

Cigarmakers' Union No. 118, Peoria, Ill.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 28, 1911.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions, C. M. I. U.

Greeting—An amendment has been proposed by Union No. 318 of Chattanooga, which, if adopted, will provide for a ten-cent assessment to be levied on all fifteen and thirty-cent members, to be expended in behalf of the Peoria strike under the supervision of the International President.

You have, from time to time, received communications from us in reference to this strike, which has been on since the 11th of last June. We are sorry to admit that the situation is practically unchanged, and unless the International Union is enabled to take up the fight we fear for the ultimate result. A great many local unions have generously responded to our appeals for aid in carrying on this struggle, for which we are indeed thankful, but this plan is inexpedient, as the burden is unequally divided.

In spite of our best efforts, however, the situation is away beyond the reach of local application. Sprenger Bros. and M. Grossman are still employing their imported scabs and are finding a market for their cigars, not locally to any extent, but in other cities and towns throughout the Middle West and Southwest where we, with our limited resources, are unable to follow.

The F. P. Lewis Single Binder Factory, with perhaps 150 scabs and an approximate output of 1,000,000 cigars a month, still finds a market in and throughout the same territory, although he is feeling the effects of the agitation that we have carried on, and we believe that if this amendment carries we will bring about a change in this one institution that will be to the glory and benefit of the old C. M. I. U. of A.

Brothers, it is too much to expect this little local, sadly depleted in its membership and finances as it has been by our efforts to improve conditions, to carry on this fight alone and unaided. Remember that these scab bosses of Peoria are rich and powerful, and that the seriousness of the situation should not be underestimated. The continued prosperity of these enemies of honest labor is not only a menace to this local, but to all jurisdictions where their goods find a sale.

We would also call your attention to the fact that the funds raised by this assessment are not to be expended at the discretion of Local 118. The money is to be handed by our International President. We would not presume to ask a responsibility of that kind. We would not want it in the first place, and in all probability could not do the work as well as it would be done under the proposed plan in the second place.

While it is true that nearly all of our strikers have found employment, it is also true that a large number of them have been forced to leave town or have found day labor on the streets, in the distilleries, or in the railroad yards. We would particularly urge you that there are possibilities of unionizing the Lewis shop or at least put him out of business.

Hoping that you will give the Chattanooga amendment your hearty support and thus help us to make a thoroughly union cigar town of Peoria once more, we remain

LOUIS STROEBEL, Fin. Secy.

Vous avez déjà été avisés par une circulaire émise par ce bureau de la fin de la grève et "lock-out" de Tampa. Il n'y a virtuellement rien de nouveau à dire à part de ce qui a été dit dans la circulaire. La veille du jour où la grève fut arrêtée, les fabricants requèrent un comité composé de trois membres du Comité des Citoyens, deux "cigariers" et quatre hommes d'affaires. A cette réunion, on convint de ce qui suit: Que les fabricants maintiendront le tarif de prix adopté le 1er janvier 1910; qu'il n'y aurait aucune discrimination envers aucun des hommes en grève; que les fabricants feront tous les efforts possibles pour empêcher les contre-maîtres ou les directeurs de forcer les "cigariers" à prendre pension dans certains restaurants et salons et pour empêcher des discriminations en donnant des "jobs" dans les fabriques; que les fabricants se conformeront strictement à la loi du travail des enfants, laquelle prohibe l'emploi d'enfants au-dessous de quatorze ans.

Cette entente et contrat, cependant, ne fut pas fait avec les représentants du Conseil Uni ("Joint Advisory Board") ni les Unions Unies, de là il résulte que les unions retournent au travail sans posséder de contrat écrit.

Le Secrétaire Stanley dit que les "cigariers" de Tampa se joignent à l'union et semblent plus décidés que jamais à maintenir cette organisation dans la ville en question.

Dans un prochain numéro, le règlement de la grève de Tampa sera discuté d'une façon plus complète.

Ya han sido Uds avisados pur una circular distribuida por esta Oficina, que la huelga y "lockout" de Tampa se ha concluido. Prácticamente nada hay de nuevo que no haya sido indicado en la circular. La víspera del día en que se acabó la huelga, los fabricantes recibieron un "comité" compuesto de tres miembros del Comité de Ciudadanos, dos cigarreros y cuatro negociantes. En esta reunión, se convino lo que sigue: Que los fabricantes mantendrían la tarifa de precios adoptada el 1.º de enero de 1910; que no hay de haber prevención contra los obreros de huelga; que los fabricantes harán todos los esfuerzos posibles para impedir que los capataces ó directores-gerentes compelen los cigarreros a hospedarse en ciertos restaurantes ó salones y para impedir que se ejerciten exclusiones al distribuir los puestos de empleo en las fábricas; que los fabricantes se conformarán estrictamente a la ley rige el trabajo de los niños, prohibiendo que se empleen muchachos de menos de catorce años de edad.

Este acuerdo y contrato sin embargo no fué hecho con los representantes del Consejo Unido ("Joint Advisory Board") ni las Uniones Unidas, y por eso, resulta que las uniones van á resumir el trabajo sin (tener) contrato escrito.

El Secretario Stanley dice que los "cigarreros" de Tampa se juntan á la unión y están aún más resueltos todavía á mantener esta organización en la ciudad de que se trata.

En un próximo número hablaremos más extensamente del ajuste de la huelga de Tampa.

Již vám bylo oznámeno cirkulárem, touto úřadovou vydaným, že stávka a výhost (lockout) v Tampu jsou ukončeny. Není prakticky dalšího nic nového k tomu co bylo v cirkuláři uvedeno. Den před tím, nežli byla stávka odvolána, sešli se vyřaditelé s výborem, pozůstávajícím ze třech členů Citizens' Committee, dvou doutníkářů a čtyř obchodníků a při této schůzce došlo k dohodnutí, že vyřaditelé zachovají škálu mzdy z 1. ledna 1910; že nemá být žádného rozlišování na úkor kteréhokoli stávkáře; že vyřaditelé se vynasnaží zabránit formantům neb managerům nutiti doutníkáře bydlet v jistých restauretech a hostincích jakož i zabránit diskriminaci při rozdávání práce v továrnách; že továrníci se budou přesně držeti zákonu o dětské práci, kterýž zapovídá zaměstnávat dítky pod 14 roků stáří.

Dohodnutí toto jakož i smlouva nebyla učiněna se zástupci Joint Advisory Board aniž Joint Unions, proto unie se vrací do práce bez jakékoli psané smlouvy.

Tajemník Stanley praví, že doutníkáři v Tampa hromadně přistupují k unii a jsou odděleni více než kdy jindy udržeti si svoji organizaci v tomto městě.

V příštím čísle stávků v Tampa popíšeme podrobněji.

Wir haben schon in einem von dieser Office ausgegebenen Birkular berichtet, daß Streik und „Lockout“ in Tampa beendet sind. Eigentlich läßt sich dem Bericht des Birkulars nichts Wesentliches hinzufügen. Am Tage vor der Aufhebung des Streiks empfingen die Fabrikanten ein Dreier-Komitee des aus zwei Zigarrenmachern und vier Geschäftleuten bestehenden Bürgerkomitees, und es wurde beschlossen, daß die Fabrikanten die am 1. Januar 1910 angenommene Lohnskala beibehalten sollen; daß unter den Streikern kein Unterschied gemacht werden soll; daß die Fabrikanten mit ganzer Kraft verhüten sollen, daß Vorleute oder Managers Zigarrenmacher zwingen, sich in gewissen Restaurants und Wirtschaften zu beschäftigen, daß bei der Stellenvergebung in den Fabriken Unterschiede gemacht werden; daß die Fabrikanten das Kinderarbeits-Gesetz strengstens befolgen sollen, welches die Beschäftigung von Kindern unter 14 Jahren verbietet.

Dies Uebereinkommen wurde jedoch nicht mit dem „Joint Advisory Board“ oder den vereinigten Unions getroffen, und es gehen also die Unions ohne schriftlichen Vertrag wieder an die Arbeit zurück.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

When applying for retiring card read the Constitution.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 30c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

DECISIONS OF PRESIDENT

Mr. S. Davis appealed against 58, Montreal, for refusing to grant him retiring card. The union replied that he owed a fine, and they could not grant a retiring card until he was clear on the books. The appeal was not sustained.

Louis Krushevsky appealed against the New York Label Committee for refusing him the use of the label. The appeal was not sustained.

M. H. Farrell appealed against 49, Springfield, for compelling him to deposit $100.00 on account of his alleged refusal to pay a week's wages, said to be due one of the members. The decision is that he be refused the use of the label until he pays the week's wages due, and that it then be restored to him without depositing the $100.00.

J. Olmos appealed against Union 228, San Francisco, for compelling him to return $40.00 benefit which he illegally received while on the ninety-day list. The appeal was not sustained.

P. M. Sharlip appealed against 225, Los Angeles, for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appellant submits an affidavit showing that he paid the dues to a fellow-member, and that such member neglected to turn them into the union. The member also submits an affidavit stating that he received these dues, but forgot to turn them in. The member is given the benefit of the doubt and the appeal is sustained.

Wm. McCauley appealed against 19, Sault Ste. Marie, for holding him for an unpaid board bill. The appeal was not sustained.

C. W. Kilborn appealed against 215, Logansport, for fining him for purchasing a non union cigar. While the appeal was not sustained, I recommend that the fine be rescinded and the member reprimanded in an open meeting for the alleged offense committed.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 296, Wilmington, Del., to suspend Joseph Featherstone, No. 73492, and fine him $50 for working in the closed factory of Chas. K. Brewer. Following is the vote: Affirmative—7. One member disapproved the suspension.

Approved the application of Union 2, Buffalo, N. Y., to fine Schuler Gotz, Sam Marcus, M. Schochets, and M. Hyman, each $25 for working in the unfair school factory operated by M. Hyman. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8. Negative—None.

Approved the application of Union 451 Bushnell, to fine Bruce Pierson $25, and require him to post a forfeit of $50 for further use of the label, for selling cigars below the union's limit. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8. Negative—None.

Approved the application of 1 Baltimore to fine Harry Kolodner, No. 1141, $50 and ask a $100 deposit for the further use of the label, for employing a non union man and using the label on his goods. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8. Negative—None.

Approved the application of 93 Omaha to fine John O'Grady, 66996, and Adolph Albrecht, No. 1647, each $25, for working in a non union shop. Following is the vote: Affirmative—8. Negative—None.

Approved the application of 90 New York to annul the cards and fine the following $25 each for remaining at work in a strike shop: Fanny Franz, No. 55246; Josef Jindela, No. 55551; Barbara Linhardt, No. 57955; Anna Prazak, No. 57867; Barbara Pospisel, No. 56732; Barbara Stasny, No. 56612; Annie Vladyka, No. 56713. Following is the vote: Affirmative—5. Negative—1. Three members approved the fines but not the annulment of cards.

CORRESPONDENCE

Tampa, Fla.

We, the members of the local unions of the International Cigarmakers' Union of America in the city of Tampa want to inform the comrades belonging to the outside local unions about the truth of what has transpired in this city. That is, we intend to post you as to the facts in the great lockout and strike that began the 25th of June, 1910, and lasted until the 26th of January.

Our motive is to point out some errors in the article published in the Cigarmakers' Official Journal.

It has been said that the strike began by the impetuous demand on the part of the cigarmakers of one of the large cigar factories of this locality that the foreman be expelled. We want to let you know that what our president has reference to happened during the administration of the former board, three months before the lockout, and consequently has nothing to do with it. Undoubtedly what our president has reference to is the protest, lockout and later strike in C. Vega's factory in West Tampa, May 23, which was of short duration, inasmuch as the foreman resigned ten days after the initiation of the strike and the affair did not interfere in the least with the normal course of the industry in the whole.

After this event the old Joint Advisory Board presented its resignation and new members were elected in their places.

The new board found the organization in such state that only two thousand members out of the six thousand that it had when the one dollar initiation fee had been left in good standing, and there was a single union (472 of West Tampa) that was about to strike out seven hundred names from the membership roll.

The primitive cause of it all was non-compliance with the equalization of prices of 1910 on the part of the manufacturers, which caused bitter deception in the minds of the cigarmakers as they had faith in the pledge of the employers.

As the board came to the understanding that if the organization was to be saved it was necessary to begin the work of organization once more and a new spirit of trustfulness was to be planted in the minds of the working people, an organizing committee was appointed and plans were framed up to carry its purpose into effect.

The method adopted to materialize their plan was simple and practical. The committee went from shop to shop, calling out the most prominent men among the employees and instructing them to go from bench to bench, taking the names of those who were members of the International union in order to see about their standing and also inviting those who were not members to join them. This method was the best that could have been applied, taking into consideration the element in question, and its result was crowned with success, as it was expected. In the first six factories that were visited, carrying out the above plan, it was found out that six hundred members were behind their duties toward the union, four hundred were in good standing, and one thousand were taken in. Among this one thousand men there were sixty-two belonging to the factories of Balbin, Cesta y Rey and Calixto Lopez, who had resisted all persuasion of the organizing committees appointed in the respective factories, but yielded when the special organization committee talked to them personally.

In the presence of the great progress that the organization was making, and noticing that the workingmen had been filled with a new life, and all were encouraged to proceed with the organizing movement, the employers thought that if the campaign continued to be as successful as it had been, the next thing for them to expect would be a petition for the recognition of the union at the time when they had the most number of orders coming in; and above all, they might be forced to comply with the equalization of prices, which meant a practical increase in wages. Then, at the end of the first week of our campaign, June 25, 1910, they proceeded to turn off a fifty per cent of the selectors and twenty-five per cent of the cigarmakers.

In dismissing their employees, the manufacturers proved to have the meanest of intentions. They picked out the heads of families, the needy ones, and they showed special partiality against the Americans, inasmuch as they were all union men.

It was evident then that their plan was to check the progress of the organization at whatever cost, without taking into consideration the money that might be lost in so doing, or the misery produced by their acts, nor the harm that would be done to the interest of the community in order to accomplish their purpose.

It will be a hard matter for the outsiders to understand how it may be possible to trample over the rights of the working people so outrageously.

The wage earner always suffers the consequences of being poor, but in Tampa the case is worse because, owing to the fact that this city depends for its economical life on the one industry of cigar manufacturing, the manufacturers are considered as gods, and they act in everything according to their notions.

After the first week when a large portion of the employers were dismissed, the Joint Advisory Board was in a very difficult position. Were they to yield, what they had accomplished would become naught, and it would make it impossible to take another forward step in the future because, besides other obstacles, we would have had against us the allegation that it would be enough to dismiss a few of us to give our movements a set back.

For this reason the board, in view of the dilemma that was presented to them in either having to decide to retreat and allow the International Union to die out, or to march forward toward the great victory of uplifting the spirit of our people, decided to do the latter and it continued organizing, as in the first week. We knew well enough that they would repeat the process of dismissing a certain percentage of their employees, but we trusted in the support that we expected from the outside unions, which we did get.

Then, foreseeing the emergency of the case, we sent out applications to strike in six local factories, as a majority of the unemployed unjustly demanded a general strike, and we had to clearly define our position later on.

The dismissal continued, but the organization committee reported at the end of the three weeks that the 37 factories belonging to the Manufacturers' Association had been organized.

Not being our intention to make direct demands, and waiting to avoid the strike if possible, we sent a committee to the Board of Trade, stating to them that we were ready to go back to work under the same conditions as before, and asked that body to intervene to stop the incipient conflict.

The answer the Board of Trade gave us was that they could not intervene because the manufacturers affirmed that they had enough men at work and that they did not need us, besides, the Board did not feel that the proper time to intervene in the conflict had come yet.

In view of their attitude we determined to strike in seven shops, asking for the recognition of the union and compliance with the equalization of prices of 1910.

This was the beginning of the strike and lockout in Tampa which, as is evident, was a partial lockout on the part of the manufacturers or the combination mentioned in Section 93 of our constitution, and it was their purpose to undermine the organization that prompted us to strike in the seven houses for which our applications had been granted.

From this time on, some interviews took place between our board and the manufacturers, but they proved to be extremely irrecconcilable and would not yield in the least.

Moved by their haughtiness they proceeded to establish branch factories in neighboring towns. Now, the citizens thought that the strike meant the inevitable ruin of this city, and stepped into the fight.

But instead of siding with the ones who were in the right they took the part of the manufacturers and, taking advantage of certain acts of violence perpetrated during the strike, they armed themselves with rifles and, numbering four or five hundred, proceeded to patrol the city at the time when all was in perfect quietness. They arrested several union officers, caused others to leave the city and closed up the labor buildings. The latter, especially, caused a great deal of disturbance and confusion among our men. In regard to the arbitrary acts committed by the citizens, enough has been said, and we deem it unnecessary to revive the subject once more.

The International Union has never been so stable and never had as many members as at present. The two thousand members that made up the union in June, 1910, have recruited four thousand more, making a total of six thousand, and the weekly additions to the membership roll average from 125 to 150. The old beliefs that the International Union does not come up to the aspirations of the Latin element, that it had the power to put an end to all strikes as it suited the notion of the headquarters at Chicago, the prejudices caused by former friction—all these stumbling blocks have been put aside by the natural effect of the events that have transpired.

The International Union in this locality has just two enemies—the employers and the citizens.

In reference to what has been said about the cost of the strike we will point out to you that besides the moral effect that the fight had on our people, it was a practical proof of the superiority of the International over the Resistencia associations, organized after the Latin style.

This was an evident proof of how powerful morally and materially is our union and how badly mistaken were those who relied upon such combinations that could not support a strike longer than two or three months, and could not give any monetary support to their men.

Before closing we want to convince you of the fact that the Joint Advisory Board, as well as all the local unions, firmly believe that in spite of the fact that owing to the long duration of the conflict a number of our men deserted us, in their innermost nature there is the same aspiration in regard to the success of our union.

For this reason we hope, counting with your co-operation, to be able to carry to an end the great work so successfully commenced and obtain a final victory for the International Cigarmakers' Union of America.

The Joint Advisory Board,
Edw. Stanley, Jr.,
Corresponding Secretary

Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Sir—During the course of its investigations the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has learned that there are a large number of members of labor organizations suffering with tuberculosis who are ignorant of the sanatoria where they may be economically treated, or else without information as to how to be admitted to them.

Owing to the character of its work this society is in close touch with the sanatoria in Pennsylvania and throughout the country and is willing to offer its services to labor organizations in Philadelphia and elsewhere in the matter of arranging for the admission of trade unionists to proper sanatoria at the lowest possible rates.

In the earlier stages of the disease the expense to the union or individual will not exceed $1.00 per day and it will be possible in many instances to have patients who are residents of Pennsylvania admitted to the State Institution at Mont Alto, where there is no charge.

Other states also have free sanatoria and with a little direction union members could make use of them.

In order for a local to avail itself of this offer it will only be necessary for the body to file a letter signed by a duly authorized officer of the local, advising this society that the offer has been accepted and that should occasion arise the Pennsylvania society will be called upon to assist the local in arranging for institutional care of any member suffering from tuberculosis.

There is nothing in this offer that shall be construed as preventing any local or person from acting independently of the society as regards the admission of any patient to any institution, public or private, in any way in which that local or individual may deem fit.

This matter has been passed upon and approved by the committee appointed by the labor unions of Philadelphia in association with the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and it is to be hoped that the unions will make use of the society.

Sincerely yours,
J. Byron Deacon,
Executive Secretary.

Boston, July, 1911.

Union No. 97 attributes her success to label agitation, and what has been accomplished by Union 97 can be done by every local union of our craft.

If each local will assess its members for label agitation, and do it continuously (not spasmodically) they will get results. It will take time, but if you are persistent, and have an enthusiastic label committee, results will come.

The first local union was formed for the purpose of promoting fraternity in the craft of the first trade union; then a national organization was formed for a like purpose.

Then we found that we were all links in the same chain, and Central Labor Unions were formed for creating brotherly feeling and mutual assistance between the various crafts, this being followed by state organizations. This being a step in advance, we now formed a large Federation composed of representatives of the National Unions, Central bodies and State branches.

The lesson of the value of associated effort was thus realized, interchange of thought showed that those trades having the greatest number of benefits were the most successful and some crafts crossed the border and became international organizations.

No distinction in membership was made on account of creed, color or sex. Of course to pay big benefits a fair due has to be paid.

What no state could accomplish the trade union did, uniting all nationalities in one body. When writers held forth on one nation, one government, one parliament, if ever realized, the incentive and its practicability has been shown by the labor movement.

One more thing has been taught—that curbing each member of each craft in one body is the only practical form of organization. We are now on the road for a shorter work day and a living wage; abolition of child labor.

The fourth estate now occupies the center of the stage, the future is theirs. I am an optimist. It will take time, and a long time to reach the goal, but the schoolmaster is abroad and with his aid and that of organized labor the welfare of the worker will be achieved.

So we are not to have a convention. Well I believe we ought to have one, but the membership know what they want, and we shall have to abide by the majority, but we will try again later.

We should be represented by delegates in European conference of Tobacco Workers. We gave $150 to Jacksonville; $50.00 to Hebrew Bakers. Our executive board listens to every appeal and uses good judgment in every case.

When this is read the International election will be a thing of the past, and now for a strong pull, a long pull and all pull together. "With malice toward none and charity toward all."

"The working man single-handed as compared with the master, is a weak and impotent being. Let us act as one man." Trade Unionist first combined to resist a lowering of wages.

In some faint and perplexing way it was discovered that by combination they might acquire power. Many could resist where the few were crushed, and combination did not require money—only sense. The poorest could unite. They who had nothing could agree to act together. It cost nothing to cohere and cohering was strength, strength was resistance, resistance was money, for thus higher wages came.

The following from an editorial in the Tobacco Journal of July 6, 1911, will explain the policy of the Tobacco Trust:

"It was one of the fixed and immutable laws of business that no article of merchandise could be continuously successful unless it showed a reasonable margin of profit to those who handle and distribute it, and that when it became no longer profitable to stock and sell certain goods the time of their ultimate disappearance from the market was not far distant."

This shows the object of the trust in cutting prices.

Mr. Henry Abrahams, Secretary of Cigar-makers' International Union No. 97:

My Dear Friend—This brief note in reply to your kind letter, is brimful of good wishes to yourself and to all the members of your organization. The members of the union are well aware of the deep interest I have in their welfare. They all remember the incident, a few years ago, when at one of my annual barbecues I rejected a gift of 5,000 cigars rather than jeopardize the products of their skill. Perhaps, however, they have never heard of two subsequent incidents, where I rejected checks of $10,000 and $25,000 respectively, which were proffered to me for the use of my name to an enterprise which was intended to compromise the welfare of your union.

I sincerely hope that no legislation, detrimental to the good of your organization will ever be found staring at us from the statute books of dear old Massachusetts.

Very sincerely yours,
Rev. John F. Cummins.

Philadelphia, June 11, 1911.

Readers of the Journal will recall my article in the February issue in which I dilated on the action of Mr. John Mitchell in sacrificing his position as chairman of the "Trades Agreement" department of the Civic Federation, but for the benefit of those who have not read that article, I quote here a paragraph therefrom, which is pertinent to the purpose of this letter:

"Mr. Mitchell by his action in sacrificing the $24,000 (salary) gives the lie to his Socialist defamers. Fancy a Socialist sacrificing $24,000, or 24 cents, for that matter, once he got within reach of it. I am quite satisfied Mr. Mitchell's act was a surprise to the red button gang. They expected him (measuring everybody by their own yard stick) to hold on to his job, thus furnishing them with a target at which to shoot their shafts of opposition and vilification against trades unionism. Their rage and mortification must indeed be great. I wonder what they (the Socialists) will call Mitchell now?"

Well! I did not have to wonder long. A few days after Mitchell's resignation, the "Philadelphia Tageblatt" started afresh malignant slanders on Mitchell. Before quoting the "Tageblatt" it is necessary to show what that paper is. The "Philadelphia Tageblatt" is a daily German newspaper, and the official organ of the Socialist party and United German Trades. Its position in Philadelphia is the same as is that of the Volkszeitung in New York. Its policy has been, and is, to advance the Socialist movement at the expense of and by exploiting trades unionism, hence its malignant tactics of vilifying the A. F. of L. and its officials. On March 4, 1911, the Tageblatt published an editorial tirade, taking up a column of space, and which was directed in a general way against the A. F. of L., its constituent bodies and its officers. All trades union officials were stigmatized as the "Bread and Butter Brigade." In this column of slush one paragraph is devoted specifically to Mr. Mitchell, which has caused the writing of this letter. I quote verbatim in the original, translated into plain English as follows:

"When John Mitchell decided to let this $18,000 job go, preferring to stick to the United Mine Workers' Union, regardless of the rough treatment the union accorded him, he did so, presumably, in an understanding, or collusion, between himself and Seth Low and the other big fellows in the Civic Federation. It may be assumed that this Mitchell can be of greater value to them (the C. F.) working inside the union than if he remained with them (the C. F.). Besides this, his job can be given to some other labor leader who's trade union has not yet kicked against it."

It will be noticed that the paragraph consists wholly of innuendos, insinuations, assumptions and presumptions, and virtually, when boiled down to its naked meaning, charges Mr. Mitchell with being the tool and spy of Seth Low and the other big fellows in the "C. F.", to carry out their orders and schemes in "U. M. W. U. of A." under cover, and gives that as its (the Tageblatt's) reason why Mr. Mitchell quit his job. Can any one imagine a more cowardly piece of character assassination than this? The above has since been repeated by individuals and other Socialist bladders.

But, enough of the Tageblatt's dirty foul wash. The monotony has at last been broken; the Socialist party itself has been so kind as to treat us with a little variety, which makes their perpetual mud-slinging somewhat interesting. It is a matter of public notoriety and knowledge, that for more than a year the Socialist party has been wrestling with the problem of how it can smother and hide its own dirty linen, its skeleton in its own closet.

But, owing to the exposures made by the "Provoker," Mr. Morgan, "The Christian Socialists," officials of the National Committee, sections of the party located in different states, and who are insisting and clamoring for a full and complete ascertainment of the facts, the National Executive Committee has made a sorry mess of it, and the pot is fiercely burning despite its efforts.

And now, last but not least, comes the Western Federation of Miners to add its fuel to the flames. I have before me several issues of "The Miners' Magazine," from which I intend to entertain my readers with a few quotations, but before doing so let me show what and who this magazine and the Western Federation of Miners is, in order that we may know whether the Magazine has a right to speak as it does, and that it is not the outpourings of an unscrupulous enemy.

The Western Federation of Miners is the most radical Socialist organization of wage workers in the United States. Indeed, it is the backbone of the Socialist party in the Rocky Mountain states. It publishes a weekly paper known as the Miners' Magazine, and controls its policy and utterances fully. It is the parent of the Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone fame. It is thus seen that it is not an enemy, but a loyal friend and champion of the Socialist cause, and what it says, therefore, comes with double force, and must be met with the respect of both those inside as well as those outside the party.

I quote fully the editorial published in the Magazine, issue of March 23, 1911:

"In this issue of the Miners' Magazine there appears the report of an investigating committee, which committee was elected by the National Committee of the Socialist party, for the purpose of investigating the charges preferred against J. Mahlon Barnes, the national secretary of the Socialist party. The editor of the Miners' Magazine regrets that the report takes up so much space in the official organ, but we feel that every man and woman who belongs to the working class should know the contents of the report, in order that they may be able to form an opinion as to the character of the official ring that now dominates a political party that is lauded as the redeeming force which is to liberate the struggling millions of the earth. We recognize the fact that there is a large percentage of the membership of the Western Federation of Miners who are members of the Socialist party, and this large percentage have paid their per capita tax with commendable regularity, believing that a party that proclaims relentless war on industrial tyranny would select men of such noble mold to conduct its affairs that not even the faintest taint of suspicion would fasten itself upon their honor and integrity. The editor of the Miners' Magazine, after carefully considering the report of the 'investigating committee' and after perusing other documents in his possession, feels no hesitation in declaring that the Socialist party is rotten officially and that the time has come when the men and women who pay the salaries of the Spartans, who are Socialists 'for revenue only,' should rise in their might and demand a housecleaning that will sweep from official life the vermin that now threatens the very life of the only political movement on this continent whose platform demands the emancipation of labor.

The editor of the Miners' Magazine urges the membership of the Western Federation of Miners to read the report of the investigating committee carefully, weighing well every conclusion of the committee, in order that they may be able to penetrate the thin veneer of a 'whitewash' that is offered as a vindication of the national secretary of the Socialist party.

"The editor in due time proposes to take up the report of this investigating committee, analyzing and dissecting its principal features, in order that no member of the Western Federation of Miners may be laboring under the delusion that the officials of the Socialist party are, like Caesar's wife, 'above suspicion.'

"The editor of the Miners' Magazine recognizes no friends in either the labor or Socialist movement when the interests of the working class are at stake. Every great movement that has for its object the welfare of humanity must be protected from traitors and hypocrites, and the man in the field of labor journalism who will smother infamy on account of personal associations or ties of friendship is no more worthy of trust or confidence than the moral pervert who hides his depravity behind a mask of virtue."

In the issue of April 27, 1911 of the Magazine appeared an editorial resume of four large pages. Space forbids me to quote this fully, and I am therefore compelled to give only its introductory, which is the mildest part of it:

"In the last issue of the Miners' Magazine there was reproduced the lengthy editorial, 'The Time Is Now; Tomorrow May Be Too Late.' The demand for the issue of March 30th made it necessary to reproduce the editorial, though the editor felt a reluctance in taking up so much space in the official organ with a repetition of an editorial that partially uncovered some of the rottenness that befools the national headquarters of the Socialist party. In the field of labor journalism the editor who is true to himself and who desires to be loyal to the class that is struggling to usher in a civilization where man, woman and child shall be free, is called upon at times to discharge duties that are unpleasant, but the man who shrinks from duty or who lacks the moral courage to break the ties of personal friendship in being faithful to the trust reposed in him, is a weakling unworthy of the confidence of the soldiers in labor's army, whose hearts beat for the coming of that glad morning when the sunburst of an economic freedom shall dispel forever the gloom of that slavery that has shrouded a world in the blackness of despair."

"In the language of the revolutionary patriot, 'These are times that try men's souls,' and the man who falters in wielding the editorial pen in denunciation of the system that enslaves humanity or in condemnation of the moral deformities and treasonable lickspittles who crawl like vermin into the labor movement 'for revenue only' is a yellow-streaked mongrel, who is so low as to be even beneath the contempt of honorable men and women."

"The editor of the Miners' Magazine, in exposing the degeneracy of moral perverts who pull on the mask of Socialism and shout for the 'Sisterhood of woman and the Brotherhood of man,' when at the same time these wind artists are dripping with the filth of depravity, will ask for no quarter and will give none."

"We care not for the personal enmity of human microbes, and we scorn their friendship. The Socialist party and its principles must not be brought into disrepute by men and women whose conduct would embarrass the inmates of a brothel. The time is now to rout the hungry maggots that have been glutting themselves on the pennies of the deluded rank and file of the Socialist party and who have been laboring under the belief that the integrity of the Socialist party officially was above reproach."

"Since our editorial, that was but a partial analysis of the 'whitewash' of an investigating committee, we have been the recipient of scores of letters from various parts of the country urging us to bombard the Sodom and Gomorrah that has been built up in the Socialist party, and these letters have come from men and women who are panting for a civilization in which manhood and womanhood shall be safe from the pestilence of a profit system that seems to debauch everything that it touches."

The foregoing should induce every decent, fairminded Socialist to put a check on the slanderous attacks on pure, straight cut trade unionism, and devote his efforts toward cleaning away the filth of his own household. He should, above all, condemn the slanders uttered against honest, loyal trade union officials by his unscrupulous "comrades."

FUNDS FOR M'NAMARA.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions:

Fellow Craftsmen: The International Executive Board unanimously adopted a resolution directing that a circular be issued appealing for voluntary contributions and local assessments to be used in the defense of the McNamaras, one of whom, Secretary of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was kidnapped out of the State of Indiana, and is soon to be placed on trial charged with being implicated in the alleged dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building.

The material facts in this case are given in the May Journal, pages 4, 9 and 11.

By common consent and by those most directly interested the plan of defense and the collecting of funds for that purpose has been delegated to officers of the American Federation of Labor. The American Federation of Labor issued the following circular, which was also unanimously endorsed by a conference of trade union executives held at Indianapolis, Ind., June 29, 1911:

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

Washington, D. C., June 17, 1911.

"From many sources in the ranks of labor has come the urgent request for the American Federation of Labor to take such action as circumstances may warrant in order that proper and adequate defense may be afforded the men kidnapped from Indiana and now incarcerated in Los Angeles, so that not only their innocence may be established before the courts, but also that the perpetrators of the outrageous kidnapping of these men may be prosecuted and punished and to prevent a repetition of such proceedings in the future."

Having these facts in mind, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor invited the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L., the Executive Board of the Metal Trades Department of the A. F. of L., and the Executive Officers of the Union Label Trades Department of the A. F. of L., to meet, and they did meet, in joint session in Washington, D. C., for the purpose of formulating such tentative plans as were found to be immediately necessary. We have also had the benefit of the advice in consultation of Hon. Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel retained in these cases, and it has been plainly made manifest, not only to us but to all right-thinking Americans, that vast financial hostile interests are bitterly and unjustly arrayed against the organized labor movement, and its men, and the humane cause which they represent and advocate. These hostile interests scruple at nothing in the accomplishment of their purpose, even to deprive earnest, devoted, honest and peaceable workmen of their liberty and even to jeopardize their lives.

All fair-minded men are forced to the conclusion that if good and sufficient evidence of guilt existed, the outrageous secret kidnapping of the incarcerated man in violation of all law, and of all rights, without their having had an opportunity to be heard before any competent court, would not have been resorted to. Nor would any such high-handed, illegal proceedings have been even attempted, were the kidnapped men other than workmen. Therefore, and in the absence of known evidence, who will deny, then, to the great rank and file of labor the right to think and to assume that men are innocent of crime, at least until proven guilty after a fair and impartial trial before a jury of their peers? The men of labor ask no immunity for any violation of law.

It is, therefore, essential and self-evident that the defense of these men and our movement, and the prosecution of the outrageous kidnapping will require adequate means for competent and faithful array of counsel and assistance to them.

In passing, it need but be said that it is much more difficult, and possibly much more expensive, to unearth and expose a scheme to fasten a charge of crime upon men than it is to hatch such a scheme and conspiracy. Therefore, in joint session, the Executive Councils of the American Federation of Labor, of the Building Trades Department, of the Metal Trades Department, and of the Union Label Trades Department of the A. F. of L., have adopted the following as a plan to raise the necessary funds for the defense in "The McNamara Case" and the prosecution and future preventing of kidnapping:

Suggestions for Raising Funds for the McNamara Case.

That all national and international labor organizations be called upon and urged to contribute an amount equal to 25 cents per member; the international officers to raise the amounts from their respective memberships or locals in the form and manner best adapted to each organization; that the total amounts received be transmitted weekly by the officers of national and international labor organizations to Frank Morrison, Secretary, American Federation of Labor, who is also Secretary of the McNamara Legal Defense Committee.

That the local and Federal Labor Unions directly chartered by the American Federation of Labor be called upon and urged to contribute the sum of 25 cents for each member in the local unions, and that the same be transmitted to Frank Morrison, Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

That Central Bodies select committees for the purpose of collecting funds from workers and friends who do not contribute through the channels of their local or international organizations, and forward their contributions regularly and promptly to Frank Morrison, Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

That at least one officer of each of the International Labor Organizations be called into conference at the city of Indianapolis, Indiana, on Thursday, June 29, 1911, for the purpose of discussing the necessity of co-operative and energetic action for the collection of funds to aid the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' International Association in the defense of what has been termed "The McNamara Case," and for the prosecution of the kidnappers, and to take such further action as the ends of justice may warrant.

That the organizers of the international unions and of the American Federation of Labor be requested to visit all organizations with a view of explaining the cause which labor is defending, and to enlighten the people of our country as to the character of the prosecution of labor men and the necessity for ample and adequate defense.

That the officers of all labor organizations whether international, state or local be, and they are, requested to continuously keep before the workers and the people generally the necessity of defending our brothers in labor against the organized conspiracy inaugurated and maintained by the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Erectors' Association, and other hostile employers, to cast ignominy upon our movement by the imprisonment and punishment of our men, regardless of their innocence.

That the labor and reform press be urged to keep continuously before the people the contest in which the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and the American Federation of Labor are engaged in defense of the labor men kidnapped and now incarcerated.

That Labor Day be celebrated more earnestly and generally than ever, by demonstrations, addresses, and sociability; that the proceeds of these celebrations be devoted to the legal defense of the McNamara case and the prosecution of the kidnappers.

That a permanent committee on ways and means be and is hereby created to consist of: Frank M. Ryan, President of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers; Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison, President and Secretary respectively of the American Federation of Labor; James Short and Wm. J. Spencer, President and Secretary respectively of the Building Trades Department; James O'Connell and A. J. Berres, President and Secretary respectively of the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor; John B. Lennon, President, and Thomas F. Tracy, Secretary, of the Union Label Trades Department of the A. F. of L.

That the disbursement of all monies received in connection with these cases shall be made by Frank Morrison, Secretary of the A. F. of L., upon the order of Samuel Gompers, President of the A. F. of L., and made payable to Hon. Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, and through him to such attorneys and assistants who may be retained or employed by him (subject to the approval of President Gompers and Secretary Morrison) for services in these cases.

That all contributions toward the legal defense in the McNamara cases and for the prosecution of the kidnappers be transmitted as soon as possible to Secretary Frank Morrison, who will forward a receipt for every contribution received by him, and at the end of the trials a printed copy of the income and expenses will be mailed to each contributor.

There has been studiously circulated and published in the press exaggerated statements of immense sums of money which are supposed to have been contributed and received for the defense of the men in these cases, and it is not difficult to understand that these statements have been published for the specific purpose of making it appear that because large sums are already at hand that there is no necessity for the workmen to respond. The fact is that thus far an exceedingly small sum of money has been received and that we shall all have to depend upon the sympathy and generosity of liberty-loving workmen and our friends to secure the means for the defense of the McNamara Case and the prosecution of the kidnappers.

In the name of justice and humanity you are urgently requested to make such arrangements as the form and manner of your organization is best adapted to pursue, so that an amount equal to 25 cents per member be forwarded towards the preparing and meeting for the legal defense and for the prosecution of the kidnapping in the McNamara case, and to forward the same as promptly as possible to Mr. Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

In addition, your organization is respectfully invited to have one or more of its officers to attend a conference to be held at the Denison Hotel, Indianapolis, Indiana, beginning at ten o'clock Thursday morning, June 29, 1911, for the purpose of discussing such further cooperation and energetic action for the collection of funds in furtherance of the ends of justice in these cases.

Kindly advise President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, at your earliest possible convenience as to the number of officers of your International Organization who will attend the Indianapolis conference June 29th, and oblige,

Yours fraternally,

The foregoing statement practically fully covers the case. In view of all the facts, and the well known hostility of certain manufacturers' associations toward organized labor and their determination to disrupt the labor movement if within their power to do so, it is imperatively necessary that organized labor defend these men at all hazards. To hesitate or falter will invite renewed activity of the most vicious, unscrupulous and destructive nature imaginable on the part of the fanatics who have set their hearts upon an effort to retard, hamper and destroy if possible the organized labor movement.

Organized labor does not believe in, nor has it, nor will it countenance the use of violence and destructive tactics on the part of any of its members, but it never will accept as the gospel truth the statement that these or any other men holding responsible positions in the labor movement are guilty, because a hired detective agency, similar to the Pinkerton, led on by tempting rewards offered by a hostile employers' association, say that they are.

Under all these circumstances it is not only right but it is our duty as well, to see to it that these men have ample means to insure the proper defense. Unlimited capital has been placed at the disposal of the people bent on convicting these people, and for that reason it will require considerable funds to meet them.

J. McNamara, the Secretary-Treasurer of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union, a sister organization, a man with a good character, and a splendid reputation for ability, sobriety, integrity, and devotion to the trade union cause, is in distress. Because of his splendid standing in the labor movement we have a right to, and do believe him innocent.

The American Federation earnestly urge all members and friends to contribute their mite for his defense. Your International Executive Board joins with them, and the officers of all other trade unions in soliciting and urging that you contribute promptly and as liberally as possible to the McNamara defense. We suggest that you act promptly by urging the voluntary contributions or the voluntary assessments for such sum as your judgment, based on the willingness of the members, may suggest.

All contributions and assessments should be sent direct to Frank Morrison, Secretary, 801 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C., and notice of the amount contributed sent to Headquarters.

UNION NOTES

Luber Blair Morrison, a native of Jamaica, a colored man, and who was a member of Union 97, took a course of medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons and graduated with the highest honors. Union 97 desires to congratulate our fellow craftsman upon his success, won by hard work and persistence.

Union 437, Cairo, Ill., would like to hear from Louis Dochner, M. A. Halloran, E. B. Jones and G. S. Harbke and S. Sepneski. Important.

Mrs. Katie Wilhelm, Eva Plab and Lizzie Wild, sisters of the late John Dambach, wish to thank Union 250, Belleville, for the prompt payment of the death benefit, which was paid just nine days after the death.

James E. Butler, secretary of Union 102, Kansas City, Mo., writes: "My address is 3113 Gilliam Road, and I will grant loans during working hours only, and will be at Labor Temple, Fourteenth and Woodland, Saturdays from 2 until 5 o'clock p. m."

Fred Gels (70478 in 1905) is requested to correspond with Union 477, Manitowoc, Wis., at once.

Union 6, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Cigarmakers are requested to stay away from Syracuse, as there are 200 of our members on strike."

Union 44, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "If Mr. J. H. Miller (24498), initiated by Union 438, Marion, does not pay up arrearage and board bill, the law will be enforced and a fine of $5.00 placed against him for leaving an unpaid board bill."

Union 106, Ogdensburg, writes: "Mr. George Smith (93485), you are requested to settle up with Union 106 by August 5th, or, if not, you will be suspended. Let us hear from you."

Union 457, Benton Harbor, requests all cigarmakers to stay away from St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, as there are quite a number of members there that have only two or three days work each week, and the local fund is empty.

D. Cunningham (54211), send your address to secretary of 283, Geneva, N. Y., at once if you wish to save yourself trouble.

Union 67, Grand Haven, would like to hear from Adam Brown.

Union 67, Grand Haven, would like to hear from Morris Bashorove, why he should not be fined for conduct unbecoming a union man.

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis., would like to have the address of W. J. Mulvaney (1732).

The following unions donated in answer to the appeal issued by Local No. 60 in behalf of the late Ike Imboden, for which we extend our sincere thanks:

Al Hunter.

Secretary of Union 239, Lyons, Ia., would like to hear from Patrick Quinn, formerly of this city.

Union 11, St. Albans, Vt., requests secretary holding card of A. Senecal (83044) to have him show reason why he should not be fined and suspended for an unpaid board bill he went away owing.

Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill., requests all unions to take notice that as the lockout in L. S. Kent and McCarthy Company shops is ended, and the men are all at work, no more aid should be sent. We thank all unions who so kindly contributed toward our lockout fund.—L. P. Hoffman, Fin. Sec.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Mr. J. Buhmeyer of Belvidere would like to hear from Martin Mulloy. If not soon, he will dispose of the property he holds. By Union 157, Rockford.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Daniel Coleman, who once ran a buckeye in Winsted, Conn., please correspond with Fred Avery, Skowhegan, Me. Very important; something that will interest him.

CHICAGO, JULY 15, 1911.

According to advice received from Tampa, Messrs. De la Campa, Bartlum and Russell were denied a new trial and were sent to a penal camp to serve out their sentence of one year.

It will be remembered that these men were arrested, and tried for conspiracy in preventing others from going to work during the big Tampa strike. The men were tried during the excitement associated with great industrial conflicts, and at a time when ill-feeling and bitterness was at its height. They were defended by Frank E. Jennings, of Jacksonville, Fla., Robert McNamee of Tampa, and Eugene Clifford, general counsel for the International Union. Everything was done from a legal standpoint to protect the rights and liberties of these members.

We had hoped that in the calm light of restored tranquillity and reason the judge would see his way clear to grant a new trial. Under the law of the State of Florida there is no further appeal in this case. For that reason we advised the unions to sue for a writ of habeas corpus, for the purpose of releasing the men pending an effort to have the law under which the men were sentenced declared unconstitutional. If this course is pursued and fails or if the attempt is not made, the only recourse is an appeal to the governor for pardon.

The sentencing of these men to a year of penal servitude is a fitting climax to the high-handed, illegal, unjustifiable methods employed by the citizens and manufacturers during the late strike. The men, however, will not be abandoned and every effort will be made to have them liberated by legal process, and, failing in that, a pardon.

Mr. Frank Roney of San Francisco, Cal., in an article published in the Labor Clarion, under the caption "Are the Privilege Strikes to Be Continued?" TO STRIKE. writes in part: "Whether boycotting or striking are the best means to attain certain ends they are, I think worthy of deeper consideration than most trade unionists seem disposed to accord them. The inalienable right to strike, as I have heard more than one prominent unionist assert, is a privilege the workingman should never be deprived of, nor should he surrender it at whatever cost." We agree with Mr. Roney in one particular, that the privilege to strike should never be surrendered. This privilege, if we may call it so, should be maintained under any and all forms of government. But, it does not follow that every grievance or dispute, no matter how trivial, should be settled by a strike.

There are other methods of settling grievances, small or large, besides the strike. It should be the last resort, and not the first; it should be resorted to only when all other methods available for a settlement have absolutely failed. All grievances should be submitted, in the first instance, to a conference, without any threat of a strike whatsoever. A calm and careful discussion by both parties in interest, of all merits in the case, should be the preliminary step, without any haste in the matter.

If one conference should not suffice, then a second and more, should follow. If, after the threshing out of all differences in dispute, both parties fail to reach an agreement, then arbitration should be substituted as a means of solution. This presupposes the fact of both parties being agreeable to a settlement in an amicable manner.

When employers of labor refuse, however, to confer or to arbitrate, then the strike becomes inevitable; with the certainty of financial losses on both sides and serious injury to the industry.

What we are opposed to is to strike first, before all other methods of settlement have been exhausted. There is a vast difference between the privilege to strike at any and all times, and the privilege to use the strike weapon as the last resort.

The strike and lockout are, at the best, double-edged swords in many instances, likely to cut both ways. This is another phase of the problem, which deserves careful consideration and knowledge of trade conditions.

We have before us a report from Mr. Ike S. Byrum, legislative agent of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, con-

LABOR LEGIS- taining many points of IN- terest, which are valuable to the student and parties interested in labor legislation. That legislation of this nature is still in its infancy, and the methods employed in securing the same of less than average efficiency, cannot be denied. Taking it all in all, we are making rapid progress in comparison with former generations.

The prime responsibility rests upon the organizers and leaders of the labor movement, to arouse a deeper interest, not alone among the laboring classes, but also among the fairly well to do people, who do not derive their incomes from the profits of female and child labor. We publish herewith a synopsis of the legislation enacted:

No. 11. Limiting the hours of labor of women in factories to 54 hours per week, not exceeding 10 hours in any day. The law does not apply to mercantile establishments and canneries. The Consumers' League and the Women's Suffrage Association assisted in promoting the passage of this bill.

No. 69. Requires that all employers report accidents to the state factory inspector within three days, and increases the penalty for failure to do so, to not less than $50 and not more than $500.

No. 104. Amends Section 1027 of the General Code relative to the guarding of machinery for the purpose of more securely guarding elevator shafts.

No. 115. Amends Section 1028 by increasing the penalty for violation of the laws pertaining to the guarding of machinery to not less than $100, nor more than $300, for each offense.

No. 123. Amends Section 1030 of the General Code by increasing the penalty for operating dangerous machinery after being condemned by the department of workshops and factories to not less than $100 nor more than $200 for the first offense, and to not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 for each subsequent offense.

No. 282. State insurance in case of accidents. It provides for the payment of 10 per cent of the premium by the employe and 90 per cent by the employer. It insures every workman who is in the employ of an employer that employs five or more workmen, that goes into the fund, against accident in the amount of $3,400, to be paid in weekly installments of two-thirds of the wages; in addition it allows $200 for medical and hospital services, and $150 for funeral expenses, and in case the employe is permanently injured for life, he is allowed two-thirds of his wages for life. The law repeals the common law defense of assumed risk, fellow servant and contributing negligence.

No. 93. Provides for a full crew on all passenger trains.

No. 538. Strengthens the laws regarding the use and abuse of union labels and increases the penalty for fraudulent use of the same.

No. 262. Provides for the nomination of congressional candidates and election of delegates and alternates to national political conventions by direct vote of the people.

No. 440. Provides for the Oregon plan of electing U. S. Senators, namely, direct nomination and popular election.

Mr. W. D. Mahon, President of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America,

AN INSURANCE proposed a plan for old age PROBLEM. pension, funeral and disability benefits for discussion by the local divisions, under the jurisdiction of the International Association. The benefits suggested are as follows:

First year's membership.....	$100
Second year's membership.....	150
Third year's membership.....	250
Fourth year's membership.....	400
Fifth year's membership.....	500
Sixth year's membership.....	600
Seventh year's membership.....	700
Eighth year's membership and thereafter.	800

Old Age Pension.

Having reached 65 years of age and with 20 years' continuous membership.....$800

All that is asked to make the above plan financially successful is to increase the per capita payment to general headquarters twenty cents monthly.

Before discussing the plan as outlined, it should be understood at the outset that the financial systems of the Amalgamated Association has no resemblance whatsoever to our own. The proposed benefits are to be paid directly from general headquarters; the local divisions are not the custodians of the funds provided for the payment of the insurance.

The benefits proposed are stupendous, and convey promises of a financial character, which almost sound like a lottery scheme.

It is true the various Brotherhoods employed on railroads operated by steam and electricity pay much higher accident and death benefits. But the assessments paid by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers reach in the highest class as high as $9 monthly, and exceed over one hundred dollars per annum. How this compares with the monthly per capita of the Amalgamated Association does not require any further elaboration. Then comes the old age pension of $800, paid in a lump sum, which is promised besides the accident and funeral benefits.

We do not propose to act in an advisory ca-capacity to a sister organization, unless invited to do so. But we merely discuss this for the information of our own members, some of whom are imbued with the most visionary schemes about financial possibilities.

The discussion of the insurance plan by the local divisions of the Amalgamated Association, no matter what the outcome may be, is an encouraging sign and augurs well for the future. The adoption of any feasible plan will make the association more permanent in its membership, with higher aims and ideals for the common welfare.

As predicted in the last issue of the Journal, the outlook in the industrial field tended to an increased production and distribution in the cigar TRADE STATISTICS. Industry. This prediction has been verified by the internal revenue reports for the month of May, 1911. There has been a good sized increase in comparison with the corresponding month of 1910; much larger than we anticipated from surveying the general field of industrial activity. There is still curtailment of production in many lines of activity, which affects the cigar trade. Steady employment in all branches of industry at remunerative wages is of much potency in the extensive use of the products of our labor.

There will be fluctuations from month to month, due to many causes, some of which are of a financial and speculative character. But, nevertheless, the general tendency is upward, and for a larger production than in the past three years. To what extent this growth will apply to union factories, depends upon the quality of goods manufactured, and the ability to compete with the nickel cigar in the general market.

The production of cigars, cheroots and stogies, in the month of May, 1911, amounted to 619,927,385; for the corresponding month in 1910, taxes were paid for 535,988,656, showing an increase of 83,738,729 cigars.

To what extent this increase has been distributed in the various internal revenue districts can be seen at a glance by reading the figures in the appended table:

In this issue of the Journal is published an appeal for assistance for the McNamara defense case, which was originally adopted by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, and the several departments of the American Federation of Labor, and a resolution adopted by the members of the Cigar Makers' International Union Executive Board.

At a conference of trade union officers held in Indianapolis, Indiana, June 29th, the urgent necessity for funds to properly defend the McNamara brothers was demonstrated, and a resolution unanimously adopted urging all members of organized labor to contribute a sum of at least 25c per member. The conference also endorsed the appeal issued by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, and referred to in the foregoing. It was declared that the unlimited funds of the National Manufacturers' Association is behind the prosecution of these men, and it was emphasized on all sides that it would require an enormous sum to properly conduct this defense, and all members were earnestly urged to contribute toward the defense of the men, whom the conference declared they believed to be innocent.

Whenever a bill is introduced in the legislature to shorten the hours of labor of women and children, the greedy and unscrupulous manufacturer reiterates the doctrines of the old school of political economy, whose motto was: "Let the devil take the hindmost." There is at present pending a 54-hour bill in the legislature of the state of New York, which was recently agreed before the joint committee on labor and industry, where the opponents of the bill, both in person and by attorney, appeared in full force. We are glad to note an honorable exception:

Stephen Lewis, a textile manufacturer from Cohoes, said the argument that "we manufacturers have to work our employees 60 hours a week was dictated by greed. He favored the 54-hour bill, said human rights were infinitely superior to human might, and that the golden rule was better than the rule of gold."

Attention was recently called to the fact that the printers' union label is not on the address slip used in sending out the Official Journal. It is true that the label does not show on the face, but it is printed on the back of the slip. The United States postal regulations absolutely prohibit anything on the face of the address slip except the name and address and the name of the Journal or paper. We formerly printed the label on the face of the slip, but were ordered to remove it by the postal authorities, since which time we have had it printed on the back of the slip.

The Labor Committee of the House of Representatives consists of thirteen members. It includes four members of trades unions: William B. Wilson, coal miner of Pennsylvania, chairman; James C. Maher, hatter of New York; David J. Lewis, coal miner of Maryland; Frank Buchanan, structural iron worker of Illinois.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Article V, Section 6, of the by-laws of the International Typographical Union provides for the payment of the old-age pension to any member of the International Typographical Union, who has reached the age of 60 years, and who has been in continuous good standing for a period of twenty years, or any member who has reached the age of 70 years, and who has been in continuous good standing for a period of 10 years and who finds it impossible to secure sustaining employment.

All forces of political reaction, all forces allied with greed and plutocracy, and all combinations opposed to giving a fair measure of justice to organized labor, denounce the "initiative, referendum and recall as revolutionary and opposed to representative government.

Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States deserves a great deal of credit for the manly stand he has taken for the enforcement of the laws, regardless of consequences for property interests acquired by a criminal conspiracy. His dissenting opinions in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases will stand as a monument of independence, manhood and high character.

The first attempt at co-operative production in the United States of America was made by the Boot and Shoemakers' Union in Philadelphia, Pa., in the spring of 1825. It followed a conspiracy trial, which took place in the Mayor's Court, when the jury rendered a verdict that "the raising of wages was a criminal conspiracy."

When the trades unions will become as active as the fraternal orders in developing various schemes of a benevolent character, of insuring the members against all kinds of hardships in life, then their growth and development will become irresistible for a higher and better civilization.

A suit for libel, asking damages to the amount of $100,000, was filed in the Supreme Court of New York County, on May 17, by President Lynch, through his attorney, against John Kirby, Jr., president of the National Manufacturers' Association and his associates on the board of directors of that organization, on behalf of the International Typographical Union, for passing resolutions charging the International Typographical Union with being indirectly the cause of destroying the plant of the Los Angeles Times.

The arbitrary decisions of the courts, in declaring labor legislation unconstitutional, hastens the day when the power of the people to recall the judiciary will become part of the organic law of the country.

The legislature of the State of Massachusetts passed an eight hour law which applies to all public work; a weekly fifty-four hour law for all females and minors under eighteen years of age.

Prof. Willard C. Fisher of Wesleyan University, in an address before the Central Labor Union of Hartford, said: "The cause of the labor union is one which should enlist the sympathy of all. Organization is the word of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, and it is futile to make labor dispense with organization.

The suit instituted by C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Mich., for an injunction and damages in the amount of $750,000 against the Buck Stove and Range Company and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was dismissed by Judge Dyer, on the ground of no jurisdiction.

The unscrupulous member of the union, striving for popularity in times of trouble, does not appeal to the head or to reason, but always plays upon the passions and prejudices of the average member. His advice is, as a rule, worthless; for he is not guided by principle and experience, and usually ignores general conditions of trade.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies at Rome is at present debating a bill which provides for a government monopoly of life insurance. Mr. Wittl, the minister of agriculture, explained the object of the bill was to encourage thrift among the people. The profits of the life insurance monopoly would be used for the payment of old-age pensions.

Jose De La Campa, Brit Russell and J. F. Bartlum will have to surrender to the officers tomorrow to be taken to the state convict camps to serve out the sentence of one year imposed on them by Judge Gordon of the Criminal Court of Record. This is the outcome of argument before Judge Wall of the Circuit Court recently on a motion for a re-hearing and in which Judge Wall again decided against the defendants. The three strike leaders will be allowed time to prepare to begin their servitude, the court wishing to allow them all the consideration that can be reasonably expected under the circumstances.

Arguing of the motion began at 10 o'clock, Col. Robert W. Davis speaking until noon for the convicted men. When court resumed at 2 o'clock Robert McNamee spoke for a considerable length of time. The argument of State Attorney Phillips and County Solicitor Raney was very brief, they contending that the defense had failed to show any grounds for a re-hearing of the case. At 3 o'clock Judge Wall announced that nothing had been brought before him which would justify a re-opening of the case, therefore denying the defense's motion.

Mandate Is Held Up.

Col. Robert W. Davis immediately made the request that the defendants be allowed until to-morrow before being required to give up in order that they could wind up their business and personal affairs, bid relatives farewell and in other ways prepare for their service. Being assured that no attempt would be made by Bartlum, De La Campa and Russell to skip their bonds, Judge Wall granted the request, instructing Deputy Clerk W. A. Dickenson not to certify the mandate to the Criminal Court until to-morrow.

When the mandate is certified to him Judge Gordon will issue a commitment, which will be placed in the hands of the sheriff, the strike leaders will be formally arrested and their sentence will go into effect.—Tampa Tribune.

PUBLIC MONEY MUST BUILD TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITALS.

Thirty-Nine State and 114 Local Sanatoria Provided, But These Only a Beginning.

In spite of the fact that state sanatoria and hospitals for tuberculosis have been established in 31 states and 114 municipal or county hospitals in 26 states, vastly more public provision is needed to stamp out consumption, says the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin issued today.

Every state east of the Mississippi river except Vermont, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi and Illinois have provided state sanatoria. In Vermont, a private sanatorium is partially used as a state institution, and in Florida, an indefinite provision for such a hospital has been made. The states west of the Mississippi river which have established state sanatoria are Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Oregon. There are 39 sanatoria provided by these states, Connecticut having three, Massachusetts four, Pennsylvania three and Texas two.

New York state leads in municipal and county hospitals for tuberculosis, having 34, while Ohio, the second on the list has 17, and Massachusetts the third, has 9. In these twenty-six states, which are the only ones having any municipal or county care for tuberculosis, there are 114 hospitals, including special pavilions and almshouses. Hardly more than one-tenth of the cities of 30,000 population and over, make any local provision for tuberculosis cases, and not one-twentieth of the less populous districts make such provision.

In addition to the state, municipal and county hospitals, the federal government provides for certain selected classes in the United States Army Hospital at Fort Bayard, N. Mex., the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service Sanatorium at Fort Stanton, N. Mex., the United States Navy Hospital at Las Animas, Colo., and in five special hospitals for Indians on different reservations in the West.

Apart from these institutions, and a few special pavilions at prisons, hospitals for the insane, and some other public institutions, a grand total of hardly 200, the institutional care of the consumptive is left to private philanthropy. With 200,000 deaths from consumption every year, and more than that number of living cases, too poor to pay for their care in private institutions, the National Association says that unless the cities, counties and states realize their duty and provide adequate local hospital accommodations for these consumptives, the disease can never be stamped out.

JUDGE STEIN'S DECISION.

To the Officers and Members of Organized Labor:

Dear Sirs and Brothers—Cigarmakers' Union No. 22, Detroit, Mich., desires to notify our fellow trade unionists and friends of organized labor pertaining to the decision rendered by Judge Stein against George McLean, manager of the Detroit Cigar Co., 48 and 50 Congress street E., non-union cigar factory, charged with violating the Michigan State Union Label Law.

Judge Stein authorized the business agent and a member of the label board as a committee of two to go to the non-union cigar factory and soak off all the union labels which had been unlawfully placed on cigar boxes by the Detroit Cigar Co., and to collect all union labels still held by the company and to report to the court Friday, June 9, 1911.

Bear in mind, brothers, that the different State Federations and Trades and Labor Councils and Local Unions are urgently requested to report to this office any violations of the court decision, and to appoint a committee or send your business agent to wait upon the cigar dealers and explain to them the situation we are in, so that they will not buy any more non-union cigars from this non-union firm, and that dealers, when buying cigars, insist that the Cigarmakers' Union Label be on the box.

Brands manufactured by the Detroit Cigar Co. non-union shop: Green Seal and Liorna, 10-cent brands; Silver Seal, High Life, Little Cupid and Rosy Light, 5-cent brands.

Brothers, don't lose your fondness to keep hustling for all union labels and working cards that are recognized by the American Federation of Labor. You will never be sorry for demanding the Cigarmakers' label and doing good to all.

Fraternally yours,

Label Board of the Cigarmakers' Union No. 22.

David Morgan,
Secretary.

David S. Jones,
Business Agent.

Headquarters, 232 Gratiot Ave., Detroit.

TRADE NOTES.

The largest manufacturers and importers of cigars from Porto Rico are the Porto Rican American Tobacco Company, the United Cigar Stores Co., the Cazea-Caguas Tobacco Co., the American West Indies Trading Company and the West Indies Cigar Company. The imports of these five companies amounted in one week in June, 1911, to 543 cases, each containing 5,000 cigars.

The total shipments of cigars from Tampa, Fla., from January 1, 1911, to June 4, amounted to 131,405,000, showing an increase over the corresponding period in 1910 of 1,820,000 cigars. The largest shipment in the first week of June, 1911, amounted to 7,905,000.

The commercial reports from the Philippine Islands indicate greatly increased activity in the cigar industry for the export trade, due to the free entry of cigars into the American market. The total exports, including other countries, increased from 151,457,000 in 1909 to 184,407,000 in 1910.

Congressman Cantrill of Kentucky, claims that the American Tobacco Company, under the court's decision, would reorganize and go ahead in the same old way. This opinion is shared by a good many others.

During the four months of the current year ending April 30, 1911, the cigar industry gained less than one hundred millions, while the cigarette industry increased nearly four hundred millions.

The cheap coolie labor produces extraordinary dividends to the Dutch corporations, the owners of the Sumatra tobacco plantations, as can be seen from their reports: The Deli Co. paid to its stockholders dividends averaging 58 per cent annually, from 1870 to 1900; the Deli-Batavia Co. paid annual dividends of 25 per cent from 1874 to 1900; the Arendsburg Co. paid annual dividends of 68 per cent from 1889 to 1900; the Amsterdam-Deli paid 45 per cent dividends in each year from 1882 to 1900, and the Senembah Co. paid annual dividends of 35 per cent from 1889 to 1900.

The production of cigars in the second and third internal revenue districts of New York City, for which taxes were paid in the month of May, 1911, amounted to 50,445,920. This shows an enormous decrease in comparison with former years.

The production of cigars in the Ninth Internal Revenue District of Pennsylvania, for which taxes were paid in the month of May, 1911, amounted to 61,972,920; while for the corresponding month in 1910, taxes were paid for 39,005,740. This shows an increase of 2,967,180 cigars.

The production of cigars in the First Internal Revenue District of Pennsylvania, which includes the city of Philadelphia, in the first five current months of the year ending May 31, 1911, amounted to 293,748,410; while for the corresponding months in 1910 taxes were paid for 269,255,510. This shows an increase of 24,492,900 in comparison with the former year.

The Federal Bureau of Corporations at Washington, D. C., admits that the American Tobacco Company expended about $100,000 in furnishing the bureau with information during its investigation of the illegal monopoly.

The following falsehood is circulated in the tobacco trade papers subsidized by the trust: "It is a matter of record that the Tobacco Trust did not own a dollar's worth of stock in the United Cigar Stores Co. at its inception, and that it was not until after George J. Whelan and his associates had fully and conclusively demonstrated the profitability of the project that the American Tobacco Co. finally decided to invest capital in the purchase of shares in the stock of the United Stores."

Mr. George J. Whelan furnished the plan and the American Tobacco Company supplied the capital, as soon as the United Cigar Stores Company of New Jersey was incorporated.

The Canadian government employs a different system for stamping tobacco products than any other country in the world. The several varieties of tobacco are each indicated by a different colored excise stamp. Thus tobacco manufactured entirely from Canadian grown leaf carries a green stamp; if made from a blend of Canadian and imported leaf, the stamp is pink in color; if made in Canada entirely from imported leaf, the stamp is black; while if the tobacco is imported already manufactured, it must bear a blue stamp.

The exports of cigars from Havana, Cuba, for five months ended May 31, 1911, to all parts of the globe, including the United States, amounted to 76,429,398; while for the corresponding months in 1910, 67,655,896 were exported. This makes an increase of 8,773,502, and indicates prosperous trade conditions in the Island of Cuba.

The first Sumatra tobacco company in Holland engaged in business in 1869 with a capital of $120,000, which was subsequently increased to $1,608,000. In the first twenty-five years of its business career it accumulated a reserve fund of two million dollars, and paid to the shareholders in dividends $11,475,000. The corporation employs on more than twenty plantations over 16,000 coolies. A few white men act as superintendents and overseers.

The United Cigar Stores, the leading drug stores in many cities and several chain cigar stores handle almost exclusively the product of the American Stogie Company, a subsidiary of the American Tobacco Company. They are crowding the hand-made stogies of Wheeling, W. Va., out of the market.

Damage suits against the American Tobacco Company for illegal practices committed against rivals in past years have been instituted in the federal courts. The chances for obtaining damages have improved since the recent decisions of the Supreme Court.

A Card of Thanks.

Boston, Mass., July 5, 1911.

To the Cigar Packers and the Cigar Makers under the Jurisdiction of C. M. I. U. of America: It is with a heart full of gratitude I take this means to thank the members of your grand organization for the kind aid they have rendered to myself and my four little ones since the death of my beloved husband, William Farrell, one year ago. I especially wish to thank the officers of Union 97, Boston, and the committee, Mr. B. Jacobs, Pres., Mr. Ed. Broders, Sec., Mr. F. R. Hart, Treas., Thos. Maguire, Leopold Fisher, Jas. Fay and Nelson Shoenfeld, who have had charge of the relief work; also the cigar strippers' union of Boston. Thanking you again, I am,

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. William W. Farrell.

July 3, 1911.

Boston, Mass., July 6, 1911.

Kindly publish in July Journal the following amounts received by me for the relief of the widow and four small children left destitute by the death of William W. Farrell, late president of Cigar Packers Mutual Benefit Ass'n, and vice-president of Union 97, Boston. The committee wish to thank those who have so liberally contributed to this worthy cause and will say that the widow is now in business with very flattering prospects for the future, and oblige.

F. R. Hart,

Treas. Relief Committee.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

(Edited by the Officers of the American Federation of Labor.)

The organization committee of the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly has just organized a Shoe Repairers' Union in affiliation with the National Boot and Shoe Workers.

After three weeks' strike the Sheet Metal Workers of Indianapolis, Ind., secured 2½ cents per hour increase and two-year agreement; also a local union of Sheet Metal Workers in Birmingham, Ala., have secured an increase in wages.

Practically every country on the face of the globe realizes that an employer's liability and workmen's compensation law is a necessary adjunct to civilization. Word has just been received from Peru that President Leguia has just signed what is known as the Peruvian Employers' Liability Law.

The convention of the International Printing Pressmen's Union was held at Hale Springs, Tenn., recently. The dedication of the new home for indigent members of the organization was also a feature of the week.

Election of Senators.

Washington, June 24.—After the House of Representatives passed the bill providing for election of senators by direct vote it went to the senate, which added the Bristow amendment (giving federal control over elections). The amended bill was then sent back to the house, but the house has defeated the Bristow amendment by an overwhelming vote and passed it back to the senate. The amendment is considered to be a "joker."

MISLEADING REPORTS.

Sinister Motives Behind Statements That Large Fund Has Been Raised to Assist the McNamara Defense.

Washington, June 24.—Statements in newspapers have been made with regularity, and evidently systematically, asserting that a large fund has already been raised for the purpose of making it possible that a fair and impartial trial shall be accorded the members of organized labor charged with the Los Angeles dynamiting outrage. These stories are also creeping into the columns of the labor journals. These statements are made with the self-evident purpose to soothe the feelings of organized labor into a sense of security, and in order that only a beggarly sum shall be raised in support of those who are to be shortly tried for the heinous crime charged. Let it be understood, and emphatically so, that a comparatively small amount of money has as yet been received at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor in response to the appeal sent out on May 6, 1911. It is necessary that there be sufficient funds to guarantee the men charged with a fair and impartial trial, and rumors and false stories which have been given currency should not be allowed to hinder organized labor in fulfilling its part in raising a sufficient amount of money to defray the legitimate expenses which must of necessity be incurred.

A settlement has just been made at St. George, Me., whereby the Quarry Workers employed by two firms have secured the eight-hour day. This accomplishment practically places the Quarry Workers in New England on a general eight-hour basis.

The number of women employed in Germany, according to the last statistical data, is 9,400,000; France, 8,800,000; Austria, 6,600,000, and England, 5,300,000, this great number being employed in manufactures and trades.

The Quarry Workers' International Union of North America reports that 38 local unions have this year effected new agreements which run from one to five years, and with an increase in wages from 1 to 6 cents per hour.

According to British census returns, the employees in linen mills of the United Kingdom number about 98,000, whose average earnings per week are approximately $2.90 each. This wage scale applies to men and women. Boys who attend hawking machines average about $2.00 a week for full time. Allowing for all stoppages, and on the basis of the average earnings per head of all employed in an ordinary week, the earnings of each employee for an entire year do not average more than $143.00.

There has recently come to light a new invention, termed the "Direction and Rotation Indicator," for steamships. When the instrument is fixed in the captain's chart room and on the bridge, it enables him to see at a glance the direction and speed of the engines and number of revolutions per minute. When a captain telegraphs "ahead" or "astern," and any degree of speed, the indicator gives instantaneous ocular evidence of the accurate carrying out of orders.

A federation of transport workers has recently been formed in Bulgaria. There are now affiliated the unions of railway men, post, telegraph, telephone and tramway servants, dockers, teamsters, motor drivers and all other laborers employed in any branch of the traffic and transport trade of the country.

A number of spinning factories in Portugal have been compelled to close down on account of the cotton spinners' strike.

Great Britain's trade unionists are noted for commendable acts, and none more so than one which has just come to light. It appears that three years ago the treasurer of the Greenock Boilermakers' Society was the victim of a robbery. $300 of the society's funds having been stolen. Suspicion was cast on the treasurer and he was removed from office. Recently evidence has been produced to completely exonerate him, and as a result the society has reinstated him as its treasurer in reparation of the wrong committed.

Word is received from Riverside, Cal., that the superior court has just declared the woman's eight-hour law, recently passed by the legislature of that state, unconstitutional. The grounds for declaring the invalidity of the law were that it was class legislation and antagonistic to the fundamental law of the land. Intense feeling has been engendered by the decision.

The men of labor at Portland, Ore., have just achieved a victory in defeating a conspicuous enemy of organized labor for mayor, and electing a friend. The defeated mayoralty candidate, it is alleged, was favorable to any plan making for the extermination of the unions, and organized labor of that city reduced its displeasure toward his attitude to a sufficient number of votes to compel the union buster to remain in private life. Union men were also elected to the council.

Twelve Thousand Men on Strike.

Washington, June 24.—The Baldwin Locomotive Works, one plant of which is located in Philadelphia, the other at Eddystone, a suburb of Chester, Pa., is closed down as the result of the 12,000 employees ceasing work.

The State of Ohio has five free public employment offices, one each being located at Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Toledo, under the supervision of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. A report has just been received for the last quarter, giving in detail the number of people assisted in procuring employment, and the total reaches 8,731.

A copy of an act in relation to employer's liability and workmen's compensation, approved by the legislature of the State of New Hampshire, has just been received. The measure follows the general line of this class of measures, not having any distinguishing features.

Great Britain's Labor Party Reintroduces "Right to Work" Bill in Parliament.

Washington, June 24.—The text of the Labor party's bill, entitled "Right to Work," which makes provisions for work or maintenance being given to the unemployed, has just been made public. The bill, among provisions putting into operation the proper machinery for execution, provides for the preparation in advance of undertakings of public utility upon which workmen could be employed at the ordinary wage, thus avoiding the necessity for providing temporary relief for workmen during periods of commercial inactivity. According to authorities it is claimed that unemployment ranges from 3 to 20 per cent.

Compulsory School Attendance.

In a preliminary statement issued by the United Textile Factory Workers' Association, Great Britain, containing the subjects to be discussed at the coming convention, is the following: "To consider the compulsory attendance at evening continuation schools of boys and girls over 14 years of age, the time of school attendance to be from October to March in each year, schools to be open three nights a week, and the cost to be borne by the state. Attendance is suggested until the age of 18 has been reached."

The labor department of the board of trade of Great Britain has just issued a statistical report on the activities of the trade unions in respect to their financial operations. The grand total of membership entitled to benefits was 2,358,040. The amount of ordinary unemployed benefits paid in 1908 by 1,059 unions was over $6,000,000. Traveling benefits amounted to $31,000, while emigration fares and removals reached $13,000.

It is said that labor conditions in Switzerland are somewhat better than anywhere in the European continent, and the organized workmen relatively greater. The trade union movement, however, is not thoroughly united, political and religious questions precluding a complete unification. Beneficial associations and other organizations based on religion are common in Switzerland. Of a total 113,800 organized workmen in 1910, only 67,348 were affiliated with the general federation of that country, the "Trade Union Association." The railway workers have an 82 per cent organization. Membership is on the increase.

CONTEMPT CASE UP AGAIN.

Committee Appointed by Justice Wright of District of Columbia Supreme Court Makes Report—Suggests Making Apology—Apparent Determination to Administer Summary Punishment Against American Federation of Labor Officials.

Washington, July 1.—When the United States Supreme Court handed down its decision in the Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell case, Justice Wright of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia immediately took advantage of the closing sentence of the decision, which says, after a dismissal of the case had been ordered: "But without prejudice to the power and right of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to punish by a proper proceeding contempt, if any, committed against it." Justice Wright appointed a committee of attorneys, J. J. Darlington, Danielavenport and James Beck, attorneys for the Anti-Boycott Association and the National Manufacturers' Association, and who assisted in the prosecution of the American Federation of Labor. This committee has now reported to Justice Wright, and summonses have been served on President Gompers, Secretary Morrison and Vice-President Mitchell, notifying them that they must appear in court on July 17 to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court. In the report of the committee it is suggested that an apology to the court would provide a means of escaping punishment. It is stated that all of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia will sit in the case, but it is asserted that Justice Wright will decide upon the punishment, if any punishment there be, which seems imminent at this time. That there will be any apology forthcoming is hardly in the realm of possibility. President Gompers has stoutly maintained that in all his acts during this controversy he has only exercised his constitutional rights. It is apparent that Justice Wright and the attorneys whom he appointed on the committee are not satisfied unless drastic punishment is administered to President Gompers, Secretary Morrison and Vice-President Mitchell. That the plan has been well laid is not questioned, but it is a question whether or not the people of this country will permit the right of free speech and free press to be denied by court injunction. Some courts have apparently become imbued with the idea that they have a right not only to interpret and execute the law, but to make laws to suit their convenience. Even the President of the United States has seen fit to issue an executive order denying the right of the employees of the government to exercise the prerogatives of free citizenship. This state of affairs cannot exist in a country like ours. The question of the power of the courts over a free press and free speech must be determined, and no better time could be appropriated than the present. The American Federation of Labor has at all times been a law-abiding organization, and its officers have persistently advised that under all circumstances the law should be obeyed. But equally with every other class of citizens, the men of labor of this country do not propose that they shall be deprived of the rights guaranteed to each individual under the constitution. If the sacrifice of the liberty of a few individuals is necessary to re-establish fundamental guarantees, the labor movement of our country has produced men with sufficient courage to make the sacrifice. Whatever may be the result, it can be truthfully predicted that the American Federation of Labor will be true to its former history, standing for the right, whatever the cost, that the liberty of not only the members of the labor organizations shall be preserved, but the whole people as well.

Unions, Take Heed!

Just recently warning was sent to labor papers and the unions cautioning them against entering into business relations with irresponsible men who are traveling about the country getting out special editions. This warning was issued because in several instances these men had gone into various cities and after securing the endorsement of the central body, would take advertisements indiscriminately and further fail to fulfill the obligations they had entered into. Information has just been received at headquarters that another scheme has been concocted. The placards having the lithographed union labels of the various crafts issued by the American Federation of Labor have been secured in some manner, and then advertisements solicited to be placed around lithographs as a border, the solicitor agreeing to divide the proceeds with the union from which he got the endorsement. It is stated that in numerous instances these obligations have not been fulfilled. The union should be very careful in giving endorsements to anyone, no matter for what purpose.

Seamen's Strike.

Washington, July 1.—The latest accurate reports obtainable are to the effect that the Seamen's strike is being successful. It is now asserted that the Shipping Federation, a world-wide concern, is about to permit the individual companies, a part of the Federation, to use their own discretion relative to settlements with the Seamen. If this decision is arrived at, the ultimate success of the organization is assured.

has announced that all of the work to be done in rehabilitating the road will be done by union labor, and that when completed the motormen, conductors and all employees of the operating department will be put upon an 8-hour day, and a wage rate that will enable the employees to maintain a high standard of living. It is stated that the employers' organizations and other associations of a like character are very much perturbed over the action taken by the union labor administration.

"Something For Nothing."

An article has just been published in the American Magazine under the caption as given above. It deals with convict labor and is full of interesting facts. It may seem rather singular, but it is recounted that in the county jail at New Haven, Conn., a company has a contract whereby 200 men in the county jail are employed at an average of 8 cents a day. Other interesting matter is included, together with a table showing the general loss sustained by penal institutions in their contracts with private concerns.

Governor Shafroth of Colorado, it is stated, at the request of the representatives of the Miners' Union, has vetoed the coal mining inspection bill passed by the recent legislature, which was intended to prevent accidents in the coal mines. The objection offered by the miners was that the amendment tacked on in the Senate requiring the coal miners to pay the cost of shot firing, and it was estimated that this would have taken $168,000 every year from the wages of the miners.

Iron Molders Win.

The Toronto Iron Molders have won their strike for an increased wage rate.

The legislature of Connecticut has defeated the woman suffrage bill by killing the proposed constitutional amendment, which, had it gone before the people, would have struck out the word "male" from the constitution and given general suffrage.

"THIRD DEGREE" METHODS.

Senate Committee Conducting An Investigation Into the Reprehensible and Abhorrent Practice.

Washington, July 15.—President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the Senate Committee before which has been referred the matter of investigating "third degree" methods. Mr. Gompers opened his testimony before the committee on the methods employed by the police of this country, which, he said, constituted a system that is not only unlawful, but brutal. "In the case of the Seylor brothers, arrested in connection with the death of a young woman in Atlantic City, about two years ago, one of the brothers was sweated and doped to such an extent that he made statements, which, if true, ought to have resulted in his conviction, but when the trial came," Mr. Gompers added, "and the man was not under the influence of the 'third degree' system, he gave testimony which resulted in his acquittal. That case is in strong contrast with the case of Dr. Crippen, arrested by the British authorities. Just as soon as Crippen was taken into custody, the officers told the prisoner that any statement he might make would be used against him at the trial. He was warned that he had rights that could not be invaded by the police."

Coming to the case of the McNamara's, Mr. Gompers declared that they were taken away from their home state without a proper hearing, without an opportunity of consulting with counsel, despite the fact that such an opportunity was demanded by the suspect—just taken bodily, placed in an automobile that was cranked up and ready to start, one of the speediest machines in the city of Indianapolis—manacled, taken at break neck speed to Terre Haute, held until train time and rushed to California, being placed on several different trains during the trip.

A colloquy ensued between the members of the Senate Committee and Mr. Gompers, dealing with the various phases of the case. It was brought out also that Burns had telegraphed to the Governor of California that he had arrested and was holding J. J. McNamara, in order to get the requisition, when, as a matter of fact, McNamara was not arrested until a week after the telegram was sent. Mr. Gompers also intimated that there had been unlawful acts committed by postoffice inspectors in co-operation with Burns.

At Hot Springs, Ark., the painters secured an increase from $3.20 to $3.60; carpenters from $3.60 to $4.00.

THERE'LL BE NO APOLOGY.

Intimation That An Apology Would Have the Effect of Dismissing Contempt Proceedings Will Not Be Accepted by Defendants.

Washington, July 15.—At the hearing before the Senate Committee appointed to consider the administration of the law by federal officials, "third degree," President Gompers made it plain that he and his colleagues would not accept the proffered suggestion of apologizing to Justice Wright of the District Supreme Court. As a matter of fact, after reviewing some of the important points in this case, he said: "Several phases of this case will be a subject of profitable inquiry by this committee. Whether or not impeachment proceedings can be brought against this judge is a question. He deserves it, I have no doubt. If we had the recall, he would have been recalled long ago," Senator Borah interjected, "I think impeachment is a better proceeding," while President Gompers replied: "I have no doubt something along that line will soon develop." It was brought out that the sentences that have been imposed on the three defendants, imprisonment for twelve, nine and six months, are without parallel in the history of the country. As a last word Mr. Gompers said: "I am not ready to apologize for trying to help the poor devil who is working, giving the best that is in him and getting so little for it. I am not conscious of having done any wrong or of having violated any law."

Duncan Leaves.

New York, June 15.—James Duncan, delegate to the International Secretariat at Budapest, sailed Wednesday on the Carmania, his first stop being Liverpool, England.

The Seamen's Strike.

Washington, July 15.—From information gathered from widely separated points, it appears that the seamen have been generally successful in securing an increase in wages and bettered conditions. Owing to the fact that the strike was so widespread, it will be a considerable time before complete and authentic reports can be had and a general estimate made of the degree of success which has obtained on account of the contest.

To Investigate.

Washington, July 15.—The Interstate Commerce Commission is incensed because the N. Y. N. H. & H. Railway has not reported the frightful wreck which occurred at Bridgeport, Conn. The Commission has sent a number of inspectors to the scene, for the purpose of making a complete and exhaustive investigation. Following this, the commission will prepare a bill and have it submitted to Congress for the purpose of having enacted more drastic regulations relative to railroad wrecks.

Electricians at Aurora, Ill., secured 50c per day increase.

Patternmakers of Chicago have secured an increase of 3¼c per hour and 44-hour week.

Painters of Wheaton, Ill., secured increase of 45c per hour, eight-hour day and Saturday half-holiday.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Bill Introduced in House for the Establishment and Operation of a Government Owned and Controlled Line of Steamers.

Washington, July 15.—A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Stephens, of California, providing for the establishment and operation of a government owned and controlled line of steamers along the Pacific coast and through the Panama canal. Among the many interesting bills which have been introduced during the extra session of Congress, the one to empower the government to establish a line of steamers to make regular calls at the principal Pacific coast ports, including Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, is the most unique. The bill provides that the Panama Railroad Company purchase, or have constructed, not less than six steamers suitable for transportation of passengers and freight, along the Pacific coast. It also provides that as soon as the Panama canal is completed the service will be further extended to the Atlantic coast ports. The bill carries with it the sum of $6,000,000 for the purpose of inaugurating the line of steamers. This measure will be watched with considerable interest.

Rural Carriers.

Washington, July 15.—It has been announced by the Postoffice Department that the 40,000 rural free delivery carriers in the United States are to receive an increase of $100 per year over their present salary of $900, for all carriers on standard routes, with proportionate increases on the shorter routes.

Population Movements.

Washington, July 15.—Preliminary reports from the Bureau of Census have been received, showing the constant cityward movement of the white and negro population of the nine southern cotton states, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. It shows that of the white people of these states, 18.9 per cent lived in urban areas in 1910, 14 per cent in 1900 and 11.6 per cent in 1890. Of the total negro population of the same states the percentage living in urban areas was 17.7 per cent in 1910, 14.7 per cent in 1900 and 11.8 per cent in 1890.

Mail Service Criticism.

Brooklyn, July 15.—Much dissatisfaction has been caused among the employees of the Postoffice Department in Brooklyn relative to the reduction of mail deliveries from five to three. Much criticism has been indulged in and Dr. C. P. Granfield, First Assistant Postmaster General, in the usual automatic manner, said: "Any employee who sees fit to criticize the action of the department or his superiors makes himself open to instant dismissal."

Government by Commission.

Walla Walla, Wash., July 15.—This city has adopted the commission plan of city government by a vote of two to one.

Carpenters at Greenwich, Conn., secured an advance of 25c per day.

PRISON MADE GOODS.

The Manufacture of Brush and Wire Goods Employs Almost Exclusively Convicts in the Various Penitentiaries.

New York, July 15.—The Bromwell Brush and Wire Goods Company, one of the largest convict-working corporations in the country, controls the market for tampons and brushes in the United States, and is considered to be the richest concern in its line in the entire country. It has contracts for convicts at the following institutions: The penitentiary at Baltimore, Md.; State Prison at Trenton, N. J.; the reformatory at Mansfield, O., and the workhouses at Cincinnati, Columbus, Zanesville and Dayton, O. The average price it pays for its convict labor is about 35c per day, together with no expense for factory buildings, heat, light, water or power. This company has manufactured with convict labor since the early fifties, over half a century. Col. Melish, the president, and granted to be the controlling stockholder, is one of the traction and financial magnates of Cincinnati and a leader in its most exclusive social circles. About a year ago he delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the city to the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Irwin Strike Ended.

Greensburg, Pa., July 15.—The strike of the coal miners in the Irwin-Greensburg district, in progress for the past sixteen months, has been officially declared off. This is the conclusion of one of the most bitterly fought industrial battles in the history of labor. The men have made great sacrifice and shown extreme loyalty to a principle. It is unfortunate that a clean-cut victory could not have come to the miners, but, without doubt, the conditions in the Irwin fields will be materially bettered as a result of the contest.

Immigration Department.

Washington, July 15.—Pursuant to the resolution of inquiry into the office of Immigration Commissioner Williams, introduced in the House by Congressman Sulzer, a hearing has been held. Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor denounced as ill-founded, partisan, cruel and injurious the charges made against the administration of immigration affairs at Ellis Island. The investigation will be continued at a later date.

Result of Arbitration.

Joplin, Mo., July 15.—As a result of a short strike of the street car men of this city, the questions involved relating to wages and hours were left to a board of arbitration and the men returned to work. This arbitration committee has just made its award. The street car men are to receive an advance of 3 and 4 cents per hour, with a three-year agreement.

Satisfactory Settlement.

Joplin, Mo., July 15.—A controversy which has been on between the Building Trades Council of this city and the E. I. Dupont Powder Company has been satisfactorily settled. The adjustment provides for an agreement, with the union shop.

ENGLAND'S POSTAL EMPLOYES.

Men Employed in the Postoffice Department of Great Britain Have Perfect Freedom in Joining Trade Organizations.

Washington, July 15.—In a letter received from A. H. Gill, who was a fraternal delegate from the British Trade Union Congress to the American Federation of Labor convention in Toronto, Canada, he makes mention of the organization in his country of the employees in the postal service. In commenting upon the attitude of the Postoffice Department, with reference to the organization of men employed in the service, he writes as follows:

"With regard to the organization of postal clerks, I can say that all classes of workers in connection with our postal department are organized in trade unions, and most of them are affiliated to the Trade Union Congress, paying exactly the same rate per member as those in other trades. They consist of separate organizations, such as the Postmen's Federation, Postal and Telegraph Clerks, Sorters, etc. The government treats with their officials in reference to any disputes or arrangements or conditions of work. They are not prohibited from using their influence with members of Parliament to secure legislation or better administration of the postal service in their favor. They exercise their votes at elections, but are not allowed to take any public part in any election for a member of Parliament, but are allowed to sit in public bodies, boroughs or city councils, etc. The postal service is so thoroughly organized that they wield a great influence." This is somewhat illuminating when we take into consideration that the Postoffice Department of this country arbitrarily and autocratically forbid the organization of the postal employees, save that they join an organization dominated and controlled by the Department itself. That this class of employees have an equal right to join the trade unions attached to the American Federation of Labor will eventually be demonstrated.

The Steel Inquiry.

Washington, July 15.—Representative Stanley, of Kentucky, who is chairman of the Steel Trust Inquiry Committee, is to soon call the committee together again to continue its hearings. Some gratuitous criticism has been offered that the committee did not intend to take up the labor end of the subject. It is stated authoritatively that the subject of labor conditions in the steel works will be taken up and a thorough investigation made.

Strike Vote Being Taken.

Richmond, Va., July 15.—Negotiations between the officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and the representatives of the various organizations employed in the shops on the system, looking toward an increase in pay have been broken off. The company practically refused to make any advance. As a result a strike vote is being taken and it is asserted that one of the biggest shops of the company has voted to strike, there being only one dissenting vote. The entire vote will be at hand within a few days.

The City Council of Barre, Vt., granted the street and water department employees a 48-hour week, reducing the hours from 54, without reduction in wages.

WATERFRONT WORKERS.

Over 160,000 Greater New York Wage Earners Form a Compact Federation for Defensive Purposes.

New York, July 15.—Delegates from the Seamen's, Longshoremen's, Harbor Boatmen's, Marine Cooks', Stewards', Waiters', Produce Shipping Teamsters' and Dock Builders' Unions have completed the organization of the Greater New York Waterfront Federation, comprising a membership approximating 160,000. The conditions in the various crafts mentioned, together with a desire for complete unity among the unions, is the motive which actuated the formation of this large organization.

REPORT OF FINANCIER.

Boston, Mass., July 3, 1911.

According to your instructions I have examined the accounts of Union 475, Fitchburg, Mass. Result as follows:

The books are in good condition, stamp account correct, ledger posted to date, vouchers (all but two) on file.

The financial secretary had a great opportunity to become careless or even dishonest, as the finance committee neglected their duty, the few slight errors showing this plainly. Instructed the new secretary to balance the accounts at the end of each month:

J. R. DE JONG,
Acting Financier.

LOCAL FINES

Note.—Fines below $5 are not published in the Journal. See Sec. 196.

Sec. 197. Members having been fined by local unions shall pay such fines on the following basis: $10 or less, 10 per cent of weekly wages and benefits paid by the union, or amounts more than $10, 15 per cent, aside from payments on loans, as provided by the constitution.

Union 300, Michigan City, fined E. H. Smeltzer (22804) $5.00 for allowing himself to be suspended.
Union 211, Victoria, has remitted the fine of $8.00 imposed on John Shilleto (705).

Union 58, Montreal, Can., fined Geo. Robley (49488) $5.00 for ignoring written official notice given him by the president of 58 to appear for trial on a certain charge.

Union 305, Monmouth, Ill., fined Fred W. Garner (1469) $10.00 for allowing himself to be suspended, and $15.00 for conduct unbecoming a union man.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

Union 228, San Francisco, Calif., offers the following amendment to the Constitution: Amend Section 64, on line 16, after the word "world," insert the following: "or National Civic Federation," section to read accordingly. Amendment to go into effect immediately after its adoption.

Amendment proposed by Union 32, Louisville: Amend Section 156 by striking out $20.00 and insert $25.00, in line 24, and by striking out part of line 24 and entire line 25.

Section to read as follows:
Each local union shall furnish through its shop committeeman, to all strictly union shops, free of charge, as many of the labels as may be required from week to week for all cigars actually made by members of the union, and persons holding retiring cards. All label orders shall be signed by the shop collector; the label orders are to be furnished by the International President at cost. No shop shall be considered a strict union shop unless the packers of the shop are members of the International Union and the apprentice law of the local union complied with. Where the manufacturer deals in Chinese, tenement house or scab cigars it shall be optional with local unions to grant the union label to any manufacturer or firm whose name or firm name appears in or about the box containing Chinese, tenement house or scab cigars, or whose name or firm name appears on or about such non-union cigars. All labels issued must bear the ink stamp. It shall be optional with local unions to paste them on boxes. But in no case shall the union label be used in a factory in the United States which pays less than $7.00 per thousand, and no less than $1.00 for packing per thousand, and in Canada, which pays less than $6.00 per thousand for mold work, 5 molds of 20 bunches. Nor shall it be allowed on any cigars sold for less than $25.00 per thousand. No union shall be allowed to furnish the labels for cigars made in whole or part by machinery. It shall be optional with local unions to grant labels to members who are not employing any journeymen, if they have not been members for one year. This shall not apply to members suspended who were, prior to their suspension, members of the International Union for one year or longer, provided they be reinstated within six months after suspension. But in no event shall a manufacturer be permitted to use the label who offers presents as an inducement for the sale of his goods.

Union 14, Chicago, offers the following amendment:

Amend Section 2: That a convention of the Cigarmakers' International Union shall be held on the second Monday in April, 1912.

Amend Section 8 by striking out June, in line 3, and inserting January.

Amend Section 9 by striking out May in first line and inserting December, and strike out July in line 9 and insert February.

Note.—The amendments to Sections 8-9 simply makes the proposed amendment harmonize as to time allotted for the election of delegates when convention occurs in September.

The amendment offered by Union 251, New York, as published in the May Journal, reference 25c assessment in aid of the McNamara brothers, reassessed the endorsement of Union 25, Milwaukee; 329, Fond du Lac; 291, San Jose; 499, Trinidad; 72, Burlington; 8, Hoboken; 114, Jacksonville; 397, Ionia; 129, Denver, and 44, St. Louis.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment offered by Union 468, Albion, Mich., as published in the May Journal, reference Section 11, received the endorsement of Union 25, Milwaukee; 329, Fond du Lac; 150, Sioux City; 99, Ottawa; 387, Yankton; 114, Jacksonville; 49, Springfield.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 90, New York, as published in the June Journal, as follows:
"That a 10-cent assessment be levied on all 30 and 15-cent members for the defense of the McNamara brothers."

Amendment to go into effect as soon as adopted. Received the endorsement of Union 5, Rochester; 297, Canton; 13, New York; 416, Norwalk, and 149, Brooklyn.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—Mr. E. P. Mullen (95456), who died in Boulder, Colo., June 29th. Remains taken back to Perry, Ia., by his mother for burial.

Union 433, Mobile—Rudolph J. Nodal (86969), who died June 20, 1911.

Union 225, Los Angeles—John J. Ritter, who died June 12, 1911. Members of union acted as pallbearers.

Union 92, Worcester, Mass.—H. Pearl (71312), who died June 6th. Funeral attended by a committee from the union.

Union 25, Milwaukee—Morritz Hunger (111976), who died June 21st, and Jacob Hahn, No. 1, card 47911, who died June 10, 1911.

Union 261, Knoxville, Tenn.—Elias H. Levy, one of the oldest members of the C. M. I. U., who died at the age of 79 years.

UNION CIGAR MEN WIN.

Judge Stein Orders Non-unionist Not to Use Label.

The cigar makers' union is claiming a signal victory by a recent decision rendered by Judge Stein, to which they refer as one establishing a precedent.

The Detroit Cigar Company of 50 East Congress street, of which George McLean is manager, had been conducting a union shop until 1909. Since then it has been a non-union shop. Union labels, accumulated in 1909, were used on later goods, although the cigars were made by non-union labor, it is claimed. The local union brought the matter before Judge Stein, who issued an order compelling the Detroit Cigar Company to soak the union label off boxes containing from 30,000 to 40,000 cigars.

The case was worked up by David S. Jones, business agent of the union.—Detroit Journal.

L'organisation du travail la plus puissante et la plus effective est celle qui se conforme aux lois de son Union locale et internationale, ainsi qu'aux décisions de ses corps affiliés. Les organisations du travail ne peuvent pas être menées à quelque degré de succès que ce soit, sans une observance stricte de règlements communs et de l'obéissance des lois. Des organisations "Helter-Skelter" ne signifient rien; leurs efforts sont stériles et elles n'accomplissent rien de conséquent. Obéissance à la volonté de la majorité est le motto qui devrait être adopté.

La législature de l'Etat de Vermont a établi un record en réglant les intérêts du travail:

Comme résultat d'un effort organisé il a été passé un bill de responsabilité des patrons, un plan de compensation volontaire sur un modèle adopté dans l'état de New-York; un amendement estimable aux lois du travail des enfants, le faisant la meilleure loi de la Nouvelle-Angleterre; un bill pour amender la constitution de l'état, donnant aux électeurs légaux le droit de décider si la compensation obligatoire devait être légalisée.

Si tous les membres du travail organisé voulaient essayer avec autant de ténacité d'employer leur pouvoir d'acheteur dans leur propre intérêt que quelques uns d'entre eux le font pour affaiblir la cause, soit en omettant de payer leurs cotisations, ou en s'abstenant d'assister aux réunions, ou en émettant des critiques injustes, le mouvement serait si puissant, que les employeurs seraient obligés d'agir avec honnêteté, droiture et loyauté.

Le membre qui parle des affaires de son syndicat sur une place publique ou dans la rue, fait une grande injure à la cause. Ceux qui l'écoutent s'aperçoivent qu'il y a critique ou dissensions, antipathies au cœur même du syndicat et pour une telle organisation, ils ne sauraient avoir le moindre respect.

Le produit du travail bon marché de l'industrie des tabacs, peu importe où effectué, est vendu sur tous les marchés et trouve des acheteurs toujours prêts. Les distances ont pour ainsi dire disparu grâce aux trains rapides, aux vapeurs et aux compagnies de transport. Le remède se trouve dans l'organisation des districts de travail bon marché, des femmes aussi bien que des hommes; plus ce fait sera reconnu généralement, meilleurs seront dans l'avenir les résultats qui en découleront.

Quand les syndicats du commerce seront devenus aussi actifs que les ordres fraternels en perfectionnant des principes de caractère de bienfaisance, en assurant les membres contre toutes sortes de mécomptes dans la vie, alors leur croissance et leur développement deviendront irrésistibles pour une civilisation meilleure et plus élevée: pour plus de bien-être et moins de pauvreté.

L'article V, section 6, des statuts de l'International Typographical Union prévoit le paiement de retraites à chaque membre de l'I. T. U. qui aura atteint l'âge de soixante ans et qui, pendant les vingt dernières années, a été financièrement en règle avec la société; ou à tout membre qui a atteint l'âge de soixante-dix ans s'étant trouvé dans les mêmes conditions que le précédent pendant les dix dernières années, et qui est dans l'impossibilité de trouver un travail capable de le faire vivre.

Pendant plusieurs semaines, la Manufacturers' Association de Los Angeles, a essayé de convaincre un certain nombre de syndiqués d'agissements déloyaux, parce qu'ils avaient essayé de persuader les ouvriers de cesser le travail là où des grèves étaient en fermentation. Un jury disposé à tout a pu étra rassembler pour juger la première cause et d'autres causes ont été remises à plusieurs reprises, jusqu'à ce que, tout récemment, toutes les accusations contre les syndiqués, bénéficièrent de nonlieu.

Le succès financier de l'American Cigar Company est le résultat du travail à bon marché et l'emploi pour de longues heures de femmes, de jeunes personnes et d'enfants en âge de fréquenter l'école. Les produits de cette corporation, ceci soit dit à notre honte, sont achetés par des ouvriers, membres de syndicats du commerce et le travail non-organisé en général.

Le meneur sans scrupules, à la chasse de la popularité, dans les meetings de syndicats, ne fait jamais appel à l'intelligence et au bon sens, mais toujours aux passions et aux préjugés. Ses conseils en général sont sans valeur, car il n'est pas guidé par des principes et de l'expérience, et habituellement se trouve dans la plus complète ignorance des conditions commerciales.

Aucun homme ne peut obtenir de la trahison envers ses propres frères un gain durable pour lui-même. Quelquefois un grand financier peut s'en tirer pour de courts moments, mais la fin lui apporte inmanquablement le désastre. L'homme dans la moyenne peut espérer du gain uniquement dans la lutte pour sa propre espèce. C'est pourquoi les syndicats sont si universellement nécessaires. Ne vous isolez pas.—Coast Seaman's Journal.

Le parlement italien débat actuellement un projet de loi qui prévoit pour le gouvernement le monopole de l'assurance sur la vie. Le ministre de l'agriculture a expliqué la teneur de ce projet, faisant ressortir qu'elle encouragerait l'économie dans le peuple, et que le gouvernement utiliserait les profits des assurances sur la vie pour payer des retraites aux vieillards.

Nombreuses sont les grèves qui s'abattirent sur le monde industriel en l'année 1835. Le plus pathétique de ces dissentiments du travail fut celui d'un millier d'enfants employés dans les usines à Paterson, N. J. L'âge de ces ouvriers enfants était de sept à dix-huit ans, et ils tâchaient d'obtenir une réduction de deux heures à leur travail journalier qui était alors de treize. Le mouvement sympathique en leur faveur fut si grand, que leur effort fut couronné de succès.

La C. T. U. O. A. (Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America) a fait des progrès mirifiques pendant les dix dernières années. Elle a réussi à établir des tarifs, à faire augmenter les salaires, et à trancher des différends, et à faire d'autres choses utiles et qui présagent bien de l'avenir. La plus grande cordialité s'est établie entre la Rail Road Telegraphers et la C. T. U. O. A.

El pleito iniciado por C. W. Post, de Battle Creek, Mich., por inhibición y daños y perjuicios, por la suma de $750,000.00 contra The Buck Stove and Range Company, y Samuel Gompers, Presidente de la A. F. of L., ha sido rechazado por el Sr. Juez Dyer, sobre la base de no jurisdicción.

El Profesor Willard C. Fisher, de la Wesleyan University, en un discurso ante la Unión Central de Labor de Hartford, Conn., a dicho: "La causa de las uniones de gremios es una que ha de alistar las simpatías de todos. Organización es la palabra de los siglos diez y nueve y veinte, y es fútil hacer que la labor se dispense de la organización.

El miembro que habla de los asuntos de su unión en la calle hace un daño grave a la causa. Las personas presentes solo oyen bastante para saber que hay criticismo ó disensiones interiores en la unión, y solo pueden tener poco movimiento al movimiento.

Si todos los miembros de las uniones de gremios se dieran la pena de hacer todo lo que les sea posible para emplear todo su fuerza de compra en favor de su propio interés, lo mismo que algunos de entre ellos lo hacen para debilitar su causa, sea rehusando de pagar sus cotizaciones, sea dejando de asistir a las reuniones ó presentando injustas críticas, el movimiento sería tan poderosa, que los padrones en todas las ciudades estarían listos ya á entrar en negociaciones para proporcionar á sus obreros mejor sueldo, horas más cortas de trabajo y condiciones más saludables.

La legislatura del Estado de Massachussets ha pasado una ley de ocho horas de trabajo que se aplica á todas las labores públicas, una ley de cincuenta y cuatro horas que se aplica á toda la labor de mujeres y de menores de menos de diez y ocho años de edad.

El Sr. Juez Harlan de la Corte Suprema de los Estados Unidos merece gran crédito por el coraje y la actitud viril que ha tomado en favor de la obediencia á las leyes sin consideración á los intereses de propiedad obtenidos por medio de conspiración. Sus opiniones disidentes en el caso de la Standard Oil Company y en el de la American Tobacco Company quedarán como un monumento de independencia, virilidad y elevación de carácter.

Los productos de la labor barata en la industria del cigarro, no importa donde sean fabricados, se venden en todos los mercados y encuentran compradores listos. La distancia queda virtualmente suprimida por los trenes de carga rápidos, los vapores y los compañías de express. El remedio se encuentra en la organización de la labor barata; cuanto más pronto sea reconocido este hecho, cuanto más pronto los resultados.

Cuando las uniones de gremios se volverán tan activas como las órdenes fraternales para desarrollar sus ideas de benevolencia; para asegurar sus miembros contra toda clase de injurias en la vida, entonces su crecimiento y su desarrollo serán irresistibles hacia una civilización más elevada y mejor.

El artículo V, sección 6 de los Estatutos de la International Typographical Union, provee el pago de la pensión para los ancianos á cualquier miembro que haya alcanzado la edad de sesenta años y que haya seguido en buena condición hacia la asociación durante un espacio de veinte años ó cualquier miembro que haya alcanzado la edad de setenta años y haya estado en estado de buena condición por un período consecutivo de diez años y encuentre imposible de obtener un empleo que lo sustenga.

Todas las fuerzas de la reacción política; todas las fuerzas aliadas con la avaricia y la plutocracia, y todas las combinaciones opuestas á dar una medida equitativa á la labor organizada, denuncian el referendum de iniciativa y aún lo llaman una medida revolucionaria.

El éxito pecuniario de The American Cigar Company depende del empleo de labor barata, bajo todas las formas; del empleo de mujeres haciéndolas trabajar largas horas, de jóvenes y de niños que deberían estar en la escuela. Los productos de esta corporación, digámoslos para nuestra vergüenza propia, los compran obreros que forman parte de uniones de gremios obreros que no forman parte de ellas en general.

La primera tentativa de producción co-operativa en los Estados Unidos fué hecha por The Boot and Shoemakers' Union, de Filadelfia, Pa., en la primavera del año 1805. Siguió un juicio por conspiración en la corte del alcalde, en el mes de enero, en el cual el jury emitió un veredicto declarando que la aumentación de los sueldos era una conspiración criminal. Dos demandados recibieron una multa de ocho pesos y tuvieron además que pagar los gastos.

Las decisiones arbitrarias de las cortes al declarar la legislación de la labor inconstitucional, acelera el día que verá el público autorizado á anular las decisiones de los jueces.

Los más considerables fabricantes é importadores de tabaco de Puerto Rico son la American Tobacco Company; The United Cigar Stores Company; la Cazca Caguas Tobacco Company; The American West Indies Trading Company y la West Indies Cigar Company. Las importaciones de estas cinco compañías sumaron en una sola semana del año 1911 á 543 cajas, conteniendo cada una 5000 cigarros.

Los embarques totales de cigarros de Tampa, Fla., desde el 1.º de enero de 1911 al 4 de junio de 1911, sumaron 131,405,000, arrojando una aumentación sobre el período correspondiente de 1910 de 1,820,000 cigarros. El embarque más importante en la semana terminante del mes de junio de 1911, se elevó á 7,905,000.

Los informes comerciales para las Islas Filipinas indican una aumentación de actividad en la industria del cigarro de exportación, debida a la admisión sin derechos de los cigarros en el mercado americano. Las exportaciones totales, incluyendo los otros países, aumentaron de 151,457,000 en 1909, a 184,407,000 en 1910.

El miembro del congreso de Kentucky, Sr. Cantrill, pretende que la American Tobacco Company, bajo la decisión de la corte, se va a reorganizar y seguir su camino como antes. Esta es la opinión de muchas otras personas.

Durante los cuatro meses del año que cursa concluyendo el 30 de abril de 1911, la industria del cigarro ha ganado menos de cien millones, mientras que la industria de los cigarrillos ha ganado cerca de cuatrocientos millones.

La producción de cigarros en los distritos de réditos internos de los distritos de la ciudad de Nueva York, sobre los cuales se pagaron derechos en el mes de mayo 1911, se elevaron a 50,445,920. Esto indica una disminución considerable, comparándola a los años pasados.

El informe de la Federación General de Gremios en España indica la aumentación siguiente del movimiento en los cinco últimos años. El informe se presenta en el mes de marzo de cada año.

La mayoría de los que dicen que creen en las uniones de gremios "si son conducidas debidamente" quieren decir que limitan su aprobación a las uniones que son pura y simplemente sociales y benéficas. Las uniones de gremios presentan generalmente esas características, pero no son estas las razones principales de su existencia. Los estatutos federales que proveen la incorporación de esas uniones mencionan estos puntos, pero especifican también, como objeto de las dichas organizaciones, "la reglamentación de sus salarios, de sus horas de trabajo y de sus condiciones de labor, la protección de sus derechos individuales en la prosecución de su propio gremio." Este punto, no lo aprueba la mayoría de los padrones. Cuando la unión principia a ejercitar su fuerza para regular los salarios o las horas o condiciones de trabajo, piensa él que sale fuera de su esfera de acción y se hace una amenaza para el bien estar de la sociedad.

Las exportaciones totales de cigarros de Habana, Cuba, en los cinco meses que concluyeron el 31 de mayo de 1911, se elevaron a 76,429,398, mientras que en los correspondientes meses del año 1910, las exportaciones fueron de 67,655,896. Esto indica una aumentación de 8,773,502 cigarros. Indica también condiciones mejores del gremio en la Isla de Cuba.

Der deutsche Metallarbeiter-Verband ist unfreier die größte Arbeiterorganisation der Welt unter zentraler Leitung.

Nach der soeben veröffentlichten Abrechnung hat der deutsche Metallarbeiter-Verband im Jahre 1910 beispiellose Fortschritte gemacht. Die Zunahme an Mitgliedern übertraf die aller früheren Jahre: Sie betrug 90,667. Die Zahl der männlichen Mitglieder stieg von 349,941 auf 426,989, die der jugendlichen von 7860 auf 13,355, die der weiblichen von 15,548 auf 23,672. Die Gesamtmitgliedszahl am Jahreschluss betrug 464,016.

Die Jahresrechnung bilanziert mit der Summe von 13,039,426.05 Mark. Die reinen Einnahmen waren: Beitrittsgehalt 86,784.20 Mark, Beträge 11,880,886.80 Mark. Sonstige Einnahmen 198,404.86 Mark, zusammen 12,166,075.86 Mark.

Für Unterstützung wurden aus der Hauptkasse gezahlt: Reisegeld 291,264.69 Mark, Umzugsunterstützung 98,787.03 Mark, Krankenunterstützung 2,745,838.73 Mark, Arbeitslosenunterstützung 1,536,318.11 Mark, Unterstüßungen bei Maßregelungen 149,500.40 Mark, Unterstüßung in besonderen Nothfällen 58,687.55 Mark, Sterbegeld 88,247 Mark, Rechtschutz 43,471.36 Mark, Streikunterstützung 2,803,476.40 Mark, zusammen 7,815,592.17 Mark.

Der Verband hatte im Berichtsjahre 1370 Lohnbewegungen zu führen, unter denen sich opferreiche Kämpfe befanden. Es sei nur erinnert an die Werftarbeiterbewegung, die 14 Millionen Mark kostete, an die Kämpfe in Hagen-Schwelm, Remscheid und Pforzheim, die ebenfalls bedeutende Summen erforderten.

Das Vermögen des Verbandes hat trotz der großen Ausgaben zugenommen. Es stieg in der Hauptkasse um 848,555.06 Mark, in den Lokalkassen um ca. 500,000 Mark, so daß das Gesamtvermögen am Jahreschluss 7½ Millionen Mark betrug.

Englische Genossenschaftsbewegung. Eine offizielle Publikation enthält Angaben über Entwicklung und Stand der englischen Genossenschaftsbewegungen im Jahre 1909. Es gab im Ganzen 2331 industrielle Genossenschaften, davon waren 250 reine Produktionsgenossenschaften, 901 reine Konsumgenossenschaften und 1155 sowohl Produktiv- wie Konsumgenossenschaften. Die Mitgliederzahl dieser Genossenschaften betrug am Jahreschluss 2,613,142, der gesammte Waarenumsatz 111,414,308 Pfund Sterling, ein vorher nie erreichter Betrag. Die Ausgaben für Gehälter, Arbeitslöhne und Betriebsauslagen betrugen mehr als 9 Millionen Pfund Sterling, woraus die Bedeutung der englischen Genossenschaften als Arbeitgeber zu ersehen ist. Die Jahresbilanz wies bei 1974 Genossenschaften einen Gewinn von zusammen 11,850,715 Pfund Sterling, dagegen bei 240 Genossenschaften einen Verlust von 31,503 Pfund Sterling auf. Von den Gewinnen sind 88,761 Pfund Sterling auf Erziehungszwecke verwandt worden. Außer diesen industriellen Genossenschaften gab es in England noch 136 Landeinkaufsgenossenschaften mit 18,819 Mitgliedern und 146 Kleinbauerngenossenschaften mit 7925 Mitgliedern.

Nach der Fabrikstatistik vom 5. Juni 1901 waren in der schweizerischen Tabakindustrie 7521 Arbeiter beschäftigt, davon 1852 männliche und 5669 weibliche, 504 derselben waren Hausarbeiter.

Von diesen 7521 Arbeitern männlichen und weiblichen Geschlechts waren 6334 (84,2 Proz.) Schweizer, 215 (2,9 Proz.) Deutsche, 145 (2,1 Proz.) Franzosen, 773 (10,3 Proz.) Italiener 41 (0,5 Proz.) aus anderen Ländern.

Die eidgenössische Betriebszählung von 1905 ergibt 10,163 in der Tabakindustrie beschäftigte Personen, 2963 männliche und 7389 weibliche, davon waren 389 in der Hausindustrie beschäftigt. Rechnet man hierbon die Betriebsinhaber ab, so ergibt dies die Zahl von ca. 9500 Arbeitern und Arbeiterinnen. Die gegenwärtige Zahl der in der Tabakindustrie beschäftigten Arbeiter und Arbeiterinnen kann sicherlich auf über 10,000 geschätzt werden.

Seit dem Jahre 1857 hat sich nach vorhandenen statistischen Angaben und Schätzungen die Arbeiterzahl vervielfacht.

Aus dem vom Schweizer Handels- und Industrieverein erstatteten letzten Bericht über den Geschäftsgang der Tabak- und Zigarrenindustrie geht hervor, daß derselbe im Jahre 1909 etwas besser war, als im Vorjahr, immerhin zeigte sich kein Mangel an Arbeitern, wie in früheren Jahren.

Die Rohmaterialien blieben mit wenig Ausnahmen gleich theuer wie im Vorjahr.

Weiter wird geklagt, daß die Tabak- und Zigarrenindustrie auch im Jahre 1909 bei den hohen Tabakpreisen und Schwierigkeiten im Betrieb genug zu kämpfen hatte, ebenso wird über die starke Konkurrenz geklagt.

Zentralisation der britischen Gewerkschaften. Seit der Gründung des Allgemeinen Gewerkschaftsverbandes (General Federation of Trade Unions) im Jahre 1899 hat man in Großbritannien ernstliche Versuche gemacht, die zersplitterte Gewerkschaftsbewegung zu zentralisieren. Der Verband hat sich unter anderem das Ziel gesetzt, die Gewerkschaften nach Berufen zu vereinigen, um den Gefahren begegnen zu können, die der organisierten Arbeiterschaft seitens des sich immer stärker zentralisierenden Kapitals drohen. Wie erinnerlich sein wird, beschloß der letzte britische Gewerkschaftskongreß, Schritte zu thun, um die zersplitterten Berufsorganisationen zusammenzubringen. Der Aufforderung des Gewerkschaftskongresses haben nun schon eine Reihe Gewerkschaften Folge geleistet. Dank der Initiative des Gewerkschaftsverbandes haben sich schon die Töpfer und die Gold- und Silberarbeiter Sheffield's zu einem Zentralverband zusammengeschlossen. Der Zentralverband der Töpfer umfaßt die vier früher selbstständigen Töpfergewerkschaften, und der neue Verband der Gold- und Silberarbeiter Sheffield's wird von 13 alten Gewerkschaften gebildet. Eine weitere bedeutende Zusammenföhrung von Gewerkschaften derselben Berufe wird in nächster Zeit perfekt werden. Sie betrifft die Eisengießer, die bisher in sechs verschiedenen Gewerkschaften organisiert waren. Diese Organisationen haben zusammen 34,900 Mitglieder. Fünf von ihnen mit einer Mitgliederzahl von 33,500 haben sich zum Zusammenschluß mit großer Majorität bereit erklärt; nur die Kernmacher stehen noch abseits. Man hofft jedoch, daß diese Organisation nicht lange außerhalb des Verbandes stehen wird. In einer großen Reihe anderer Berufe beschäftigt man sich zurzeit mit dem Gedanken des Zusammenschlusses; in einigen sind schon die nötigen Vorbereitungen getroffen worden, um den Gedanken in die That umzusetzen. Es ist daher sehr wahrscheinlich, daß auf dem diesjährigen britischen Gewerkschaftskongreß die Zahl der Organisationen, die jetzt etwa 1150 beträgt, bedeutend geringer sein wird.

Soudní pře vyvolaná C. W. Postem v Battle Creek, Mich., na soudní zákaz a náhradu škody v obnosu $750,000 ve prospěch Buck Stove and Range Company proti Samuelu Gompersovi, presidentu americké federace práce, byla soudcem Dogerem vyškrtuta na základě právní neplatnosti.

Prof. Willard C. Fischer z university Wesleyan pravil ve své řeči před ústřední dělnickou unií v Hartford, Conn.: Soudní případ dělnické unie měl by si získati všeobecnou sympatii. Organizace jest heslem devatenáctého a dvacátého století a dělnictvo nemůže se obejti bez ní.

Člen, který prozrazuje spolkové jednání neb vynáší jej na veřejnost, škodí nejvíce dobré věci neb ti, kdo nejsou spoluúčastni mohou si učiniti nesprávný pojem a úsudek, což podstatě dobré věci jest na újmu. Pročez vnitřní jednání v unii neb organizaci mělo by býti respektováno a nepodléhati kritice mimo rámec unie neb spolku.

Soudce Harlan od nejvyššího soudu Spojených Států zasluhuje všeobecného uznání pro své mužné vystoupení, které zaujal při vynucování zákona na ochranu majetkových zájmů proti spiknutí. Jeho odlišné mínění v případech Standard Oil a tabákového trustu jest důkazem samostatnosti, mužného jednání a pevného charakteru.

Výrobky laciné práce tabákového průmyslu, at' zhotoveny jsou kdekoli, jsou prodávány všude a nachází hojnost odkupníků, neboť k jejich rychlé dopravě napomáhají dráhy, parolodě a expresní společnosti. Náprava spočívá jediné v organizování této laciné práce a čím dříve k tomuto náhledu se dojde, tím spíše dočká se dobrých výsledků pro budoucnost.

Jakmile by řemeslné unie zahájily činnost jako bratrské řády a leže s dobročinným charakterem, pojišťující své členstvo v každém případě znešťastnění života, jevíly by se ihned následky toho v pokroku vyšší a lepší civilizace.

Finanční rozmach American Cigar Comm. jest podmíněn zaměstnáváním laciné práce, zaměstnáváním práce ženské, mladých lidí a škole nedostupných dětí po dlouhou dobu pracovní. A výrobky tohoto druhu jsou kupovány k naší ostudě dělnictvem zapsaným v řemeslných uniích a pak ovšem neuniovými dělníky vůbec.

Arbitrační rozhodnutí soudní, prohlašující zákonodárnu práci za neústavní, bude uvedeno v nívece, jakmile lid uvědomí si svoji sílu a počne bráti podíl na vydávání zákonů této země.

Americká protiboykotová společnost a národní občanská aliance užívají každého způsobu, aby odradily odkupníky od bojkotu výroby Buck Stove and Range Company, poněvadž opáčně by to prospívalo dělnictvu.

Legislatura státu Massachusettsu přijmula osmihodinový zákon, vztahující se na všechny veřejné práci a padesátí čtyřhodinový zákon pro všechny pracující ženy a nezletilce do 18 roku Kdyby všichni členové organizované práce použili svého plného významu co třída konsumentů, důsledek toho byl by tak mocným, že v žádném městě by se nikdy více ničeho nemohlo podniknouti proti dělnictvu.

V prvních čtyřech měsících tohoto roku, to jest do 30. dubna 1911, získala tabáková industrie nejméně sto milionů, neboť výroba cigaret stoupla skoro o čtyři sta milionů kusů.

Výroba doutníků ve třetím Internal Revenue distriktu v městě New Yorku, za kterýž byly zaplacený daně v měsíci květnu 1911, obnášela 50.445.920. Na rozdíl od dřívějších let, vyjímaje rok 1907, kdy řádila finanční panika, převyšuje výrobu doutníků o 80—90 milionů měsíčně.

Výroba doutníků v devátém Internal Revenue distriktu ve státu Pennsylvanii, za kterýž byly zaplacený daně v měsíci květnu 1911, obnášela 61.972.920 kusů. Ježto v minulém roce za stejný čas byly zaplacený daně z 59.005.740 kusů, zvýšila se letos výroba o 2.967.180 kusů.

Úhrnná zásilka doutníků z Tampy, Fla., obnášela od 1. ledna 1911 do 4. června 131.405.000, převyšuje tedy za stejnou dobu v minulém roce o 1.820.000 doutníků. Největší zásilka za první týden v měsíci červnu 1911 obnášela 7.905.000.

Obchodní zpráva z Filipinských ostrovů oznamuje značné zvětšení doutníkové výroby pro export na základě volného dovozu na americký trh. Úhrnná zpráva, počítaje v to i ostatní země, oznamuje stoupnutí z 151.457.000 v roce 1909 na 184.407.000 kusů v roce 1910.

Kongresník Cantell z Kentucky prohlašuje, že American Tobacco Company následkem soudního pronásledování bude zreorganizována na dřívějším obchodním podkladu. Tento náhled se potvrzuje také i z jiných stran.

Každý muž i každá žena, zaměstnaní v tabákové industrii, měli by býti organizátoři pro získávání členů do unie. Není-li váš známý, přítel neb spolupracovnice v dílně členem unie, proč neučinit krok, abyste jej získali a tím tak pomáhali ku zlepšení podmínek našeho řemesla?

Výroba doutníků v prvním Internal Revenue okresu v Pa., který zahrnuje město Philadelphii, obnášela v prvních pěti měsících běžného roku 293.748.410 doutníků oproti stejné době v minulém roce, kdy byly zaplacený daně za výrobu 269.225.510 kusů. V tom se jeví zvětšení výroby o 24.492.900.

Co jest nám třeba? Spojení veškeré činnosti na prospěch našich zájmů a výhod. Potřebujeme větší a lepší organizace v každém směru výroby. Hnutí naše necht' jest sjednoceno, uceleno a spojeno pod jedním praporem.

Tabáková industrie v Rakousku jest vládním monopolem, založeným císařem Leopoldem I. 20. května 1701 a císařem Josefem II. 8. května 1784 podřízené úplně vládní kontrole. Tabáková režie má pod svojí kontrolou 30 tabákových továren, 7 úřadoven k nakupování tabáku od pěstitelů a 18 prodejových stanic. Zaměstnává 700 úředníků, 450 vypravčích a 40.000 dělníků, z nichž jest asi 86 procent žen. NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

When applying for retiring card read the Constitution.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS, WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

Any secretary holding card of Max Miller (100015) please send it to this office for inspection.

Any secretary holding card of A. B. Callender, please send it to this office.

Notice to Secretaries and Members.—Please be on the lookout for Geo. D. Rapp, card No. 23335, initiated May 20, 1911, by Union No. 457, Benton Harbor, Mich. He has only his due book with him. Disappeared Sunday, July 30, taking with him about $75.00 secured through fraudulent transactions and forged checks. He also had in his possession $10.00 which he collected from the members in Benton Harbor for dues and failed to turn over to the secretary. He is a little short fellow, about 5 feet, light hair, weight 145, age 44, and has only three fingers on his right hand. He is an old-time offender. His old card was No. 17185, initiated by Union No. 165, Philadelphia, in 1890. Anyone knowing his whereabouts please notify A. D. Hill, Sec'y No. 457, 303 Michigan Ave.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

Before notifying their office of the death of a beneficiary member consult section 151 and comply with same, and if the member has a card deposited send it along with the notification, but take a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Correction.

In the September, 1909, Journal, William Niehoff was published as having been fined $50.00 and suspended by Union 32, Louisville, Ky. The name should have been Harry J. Niehoff.

DECISIONS OF PRESIDENT

Bertha Silvershare appealed against 90, New York, for suspending her for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

Fred Gervig appealed against 76, Hannibal, for fining him $10 in 1905. The appeal was not sustained.

H. Schwartz appealed against 22, Detroit, for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

M. J. Gallery and others appealed against 160, Milford, for accepting a boy to membership who had not served the full constitutional apprenticeship time. The appeal was sustained.

J. J. Dreese appealed against 90, New York, for refusing his claim for $40 death benefit. The union replied that he was a twenty-cent member. The appeal was not sustained.

G. Robley appealed against 58, Montreal, for fining him $10. The appeal was not sustained.

H. A. Stran appealed against 225, Los Angeles, for fining him $2 for failure to parade on Labor Day. Member claims sickness and shows a doctor's certificate. The appeal was sustained.

Jose Alonso appealed against 225, Los Angeles, for fining him $2 for failure to parade on Labor Day. The member shows doctor's certificate. The appeal was sustained.

F. Quinones appealed against 225, Los Angeles, for fining him $50 for working two days in a non union shop. The fine is hereby reduced to $25.

J. M. Lind appealed against 225, Los Angeles, for fining him $2 for failure to parade Labor Day. Member claims sickness and shows doctor's certificate. Appeal was sustained.

Viola Alonso appealed against 225, Los Angeles, for fining her $2 for failure to parade Labor Day. The member claims sickness and shows doctor's certificate. The appeal was sustained.

M. Oppenheim appealed against 251, New York, for finding him guilty of slandering a member and ordering the president to reprimand him and for not permitting him to attend meetings until he would permit the president to administer the reprimand. The appeal was not sustained.

S. J. T. Wall, secretary, appealed against 28, Westfield, for holding that a member who deposited his card after a running assessment was levied did not have to pay any part of the assessment. The appeal is sustained. The decision means that if a running weekly 25c assessment is levied and a member retires from the union after the first week, he only has to pay one week's assessment of 25c. If a member deposits his card after the first week he has to pay the remaining weekly assessments.

CORRESPONDENCE

Vancouver, Nov. 13, 1911.

Cigarmakers of Local 357, Vancouver, B. C., held their seventh annual blue label masquerade ball on Friday, Nov. 10. The large Dominion Hall was crowded with merry masqueraders, attired in every conceivable costume. The dress and demeanor of all classes, from the King and George Washington down to the professional hobo, was shown. The different walks in life of the female sex was portrayed by the queenly queen, the blushing bride, the enticing ballet dancer, the poor match girl, etc., etc. The colored race was represented as usual by burnt cork artists. This merry throng, dancing to the music of a union orchestra, is one form of advertising the blue label which we can recommend as effective. Sister locals should try something along this line. It only requires a little energy. The dancers pay the bills.

Robert J. Craig.

Morris, Ill., Nov. 4, 1911.

Sent picture of our window display by messenger. Hope it pleases you. Concerning expense, will say a committee of Union 191 called on the leading drug firm of the city, and asked them if they would give the union the use of their window for one week for a cigar display. They said they would be glad to do so. We hired an expert to trim the window. The cost of display was about $15 to the local union. We also advertised the display in the local papers and at the moving picture show at an expense of $5 and got considerable free write-ups from the papers. The members of Union 191, Morris, Ill., think it was the best label ad. in their city.

Otto Ludwig, Secretary.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 21, 1911.

The so-called Marco smugglers, who were selling cigars in New England with the Cuban label on the box, have been driven out of New England through the Sherlock Holmes ad which you reproduced, and they are now working in the West, and especially in Missouri.

If the western union where they operate would get your cut and article run in Boston American and circulate it as we did, especially in Missouri, they could bring about the same results.

These fellows have their headquarters in Boston, and when asked by friends what spoiled their Boston trade they say "those damn newspaper ads."

To the rest we say, "Go thou and do likewise."

Henry Abraham, Secretary.

Chicago, Ill., 1911.

"I am not one of those addle-pated feather-heads, who in their arrogant conceit imagine they can move the world by hitching it on to a hobby, or a lopsided issue.

"(Signed) John S. Kirschner."

—In September Journal.

The above is supposed to be a sledge hammer argument. In the July and September Journal this juggler of words had two lengthy articles. He rather proudly refers to his defense of the Civic Federation as printed in the February Journal.

Mr. Kirschner quotes articles from the Miners' Magazine against me, and says: "I know nothing of the merits and care less." The quotations from the Miners' Magazine were simply used as an added proof to show the wicked inclinations of the Socialists to blackguard everyone right or wrong.

This is charged up to "Comrade O'Neill," editor, who does not happen to be a member of the Socialist party. With this fact established, Mr. Kirschner's logic and entire article falls like a house of cards.

In the August Journal, relating to attacks upon individuals, I said: "Personally, I regret unfair criticism of John Mitchell, or any other person in the trade union movement."

To this Mr. Kirschner replies, in substance, that if I did not abuse anyone myself, yet I am a sinner by omission, if not by commission, because I did not control the minds and tongues of thousands of persons, for I occupied "a position carrying with it great influence and power." It must be patent to all that such circumlocutory argument is the veriest rot.

But most of Mr. Kirschner's charges are born of his imagination, no specifications being given—only assertions.

What shall we say of the Cigarmakers' Journal on the same score? Is it not a fact that in the past ten years there has been a column of vituperation and abuse by Kirschner and others against members as true-blue unionists as their critics could be, for every paragraph against any present officer of a trades union? And this abuse was all because of a difference of political ideas.

In the next Journal I shall treat upon the merits of Mr. Kirschner's article which favored the Civic Federation, and also some of his later vagaries.

And then, as stated in the August Journal, "I would (will) be justified by reason of Kirschner's articles and all the surrounding circumstances to ask for the publication of the entire reports of these two trial committees." By both I was exonerated of the charges published in the Journal.

J. Mahlon Barnes.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 30, 1911.

After attending the convention of the O. F. of L., at Cleveland, I spent a few days visiting various cities and towns throughout the state in the interest of the cigar makers.

It was with much regret that I found the demand and the supply of union cigars far from expectations, and feel that if more of our locals throughout the state, particularly the cigar makers, would become a part of the state body, much would be accomplished toward bringing the union label to the front. I find that activity is especially needed in the different cities. Even in places where there is a strong central body the lack of agitation for the label is very noticeable, and I can trace it to no other cause than lack of interest and lack of demand on the part of the trade unionists. In towns where there are no labeled cigars one finds plenty of non-union brands, so this leaves but one conclusion, and that is that union men are smoking non-labeled goods.

In Akron I found 160 saloons, and but few of these places handling cigars bearing the blue label. There are only twenty members in the union at Akron, and I found only four employed in that city, the other sixteen members being employed in small towns nearby. When the question was put to the dealers they claimed there was no demand for labeled brands, but that there was no lack of it for the "Tom Keene" and the "Owl" cigars. Now this condition of affairs is deplorable, particularly when one considers that there should be 200 union cigar makers instead of twenty. Endeavored to sow the seed of unionism while there, but we will have to wait for results. In Canal, Dover and New Philadelphia I found similar conditions. At Dennison and Uhrichsville I found plenty of union brands, but no demand for them. The dealers speak in preference of the labeled brands as against the trust-made goods, and claimed that all needed is a demand. So it is up to the union men to get busy.

In Norwalk I found conditions in good shape. Labeled cigars are in demand and the men are working steady.

From experiences I think Cincinnati is the banner city of our state for union-labeled cigars. The Label Committee of No. 4 is out continuously working and advertising for the blue label, and, together with the good work on the part of the organized workers, it is an easy matter to be supplied with good union brands. But in spite of all this agitation there is much room for work here; so much more is there where the label is neglected, and how necessary it is that committees be appointed to boost the label, not only that of the cigar makers, but of all trades.

It is discouraging to enter a town filled with union men and find such a lack of co-operation and interest toward our greatest weapon, the union label. Would call upon these men to get into the band wagon. Agitate for all you are worth. By so doing you will not only be strengthening your own cause, but living up to the principles of the trade union movement. Don't let it be said that trust goods have a greater sale in towns where union men are in the majority.

I hope the members in Ohio will take notice of this article and will get busy and wake up the members in the Central bodies and create more of a demand for our label.

I think a good State Label League would be a great benefit to our trade in this state.

So if one is started I hope all the locals in the state will do all they can to make it a success. I would like to hear from some of our members through the columns of our Journal on a State Label League.

John L. Gilliam,
President No. 4.

McSherrystown, Pa., Dec. 6, 1911.

Union No. 316 desires to call the attention of the membership to the amendment proposed by Union No. 25, Milwaukee, which provides that members of the International Union shall only be permitted to work in strictly union or label shops. No measure more calculated to injure the present stability of the International Union or more sure to retard the future growth can be conceived. At first glance a proposed law of such a nature is amusing, but when you consider that there is always a possibility of any amendment being enacted into a law, then it becomes serious.

What has been the history of the International Union? Was our organization started with "strictly union shops"? No. Was it "strictly union shops" which built up our organization to its present large membership and its power in the economic field? No. Any one conversant with the history and the up-building of our organization knows that our success has only been made possible by organization and agitation, and this work was not confined to any particular city or locality, but was country wide.

To illustrate the effect of the proposed amendment we will cite our own state, Pennsylvania. Do you know that in Pennsylvania, with its present membership of 5,000, less than 1,200 are working in strictly union shops. Do you know that there are at present from 20,000 to 25,000 unorganized cigarmakers in Pennsylvania? What chance of organizing the unorganized army will we have if they are only to be organized when they secure jobs in "strictly union shops"? We cigarmakers in Pennsylvania want complete organization, and we need your assistance. This is an uphill fight for us, but it is the same fight our older brothers made in other and more favored sections. Hundreds of members are being added to the International Union from Pennsylvania. Will you continue to encourage and assist us, or will you force us to cut our membership to practically nothing, as you surely will do if you pass this amendment?

If this is true of Pennsylvania, it is bad enough; but that is not all. Do we mean to lose all that we have gained in Tampa, in fact the whole state of Florida? How many members of their 8,000 or 10,000 are working in "strictly union shops"? The International Union in its wisdom has also extended its power to our island possessions. Do you mean that practically all our membership in Porto Rico and Cuba are to be sacrificed? We hope not, we believe not.

The same conditions, that of a large part of our membership working in other than "strictly union shops" prevails in many other sections of the country, most notably in Ohio and New York. In New York City a play has been made by a sponsor of this amendment to gain support for same by trying to fool them into believing that a very small percentage of their membership will be affected if the amendment becomes a law. Fortunately for the International Union, New York will cast a large vote against this amendment if its true significance and effect is understood.

In conclusion we want to appeal to you to vote against this amendment. Thousands of dollars and years of effort have been spent in building up our organization to its present membership and efficiency, and we are sure that you will not nullify this by enacting into law a measure which is sure to cut our organization to pieces, a measure which will not only retard but which will stop all further organization in Pennsylvania, in Florida, in Porto Rico, Ohio and New York, as well as in many other parts of the country.

Seb. H. Weaver,

F. J. Eline, Committee.

Warren, Pa., Dec. 5, 1911.

I have noticed the statements in the Journal of two old cigarmakers, and want to call your attention to Mr. Christian Strickfuss of Warren. He is 83 years old and has worked at the trade for seventy-seven years, starting stripping at the age of six years. Mr. Strickfuss works in his factory every day. Does his casing, stripping, packing and selling, and makes on an average from 600 to 700 cigars a week. He has been a member of Union 122, Warren, Pa., for nearly twenty-two years.

E. J. Tribout, Secretary.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 6, 1911.

Union No. 22, Detroit, Mich., desires to call your attention to the shameful labor conditions in Detroit and to the cheap non-union cigar shops where married women and children are working. They are sacrificed for the selfish interests of the aristocratic owners. They have a system of fines from 25 cents to $2 per week for the girls and married women if they fail to make enough cigars out of a certain amount of tobacco.

A foreman in the Hemmeter Cigar Company factory, No. 386, First District, Michigan, 34 Woodward avenue, has taken 700 cigars in one week off a girl's table without pay. The foreman said the cigars were all right, and the firm sold them. He said that was the highest number of cigars taken from a girl; that means labor practically for nothing. The girls who work there say the foreman has taken from twenty to thirty cigars a day, telling those poor foreigners, married women and children, "Your cigars were taken because of bad workmanship." Those cigars are sold just the same.

Girls received from $1 to $2 and $3 per week. Brothers, think of it. Six thousand to seven thousand of those poor slaves work under those conditions at starvation wages, having nothing to say as to what they should receive in wages, hours or shop conditions. This system leads to white slavery, low wages, long hours and brutal treatment. Those inhuman monsters are grinding dollars out of the flesh and blood of the children and married women, some in a delicate condition, and are supported by smokers who do not give a thought to those bad conditions under which the cigars they smoke are made.

The working women should receive no less than $10 and $12 per week and work seven and eight hours a day, and half day on Saturday, and there would be less danger of girls forced to go wrong by circumstances over which they have no control.

Only too often the aristocratic employer himself or his subordinates, such as superintendents, managers and foremen and his aristocratic friends take advantage of such girls and married women in their employ. This is so frequent as to cause comment.

The people of Detroit and the State of Michigan are not showing any consideration against those aristocratic owners—not even a protest against the girl catchers. Their brutal persecutors have covered the cheeks of the women and children with tears. There is no other city or town in the land of the free and the home of the brave except Detroit, where they have such bad industrial conditions.

There will come a time when the people of Detroit will be ashamed of those cheap non-union cigar traps. Babies are dying year after year because of the fact that they don't get a mother's care. Those little babes are left in the cradle by their mothers, who are making cigars. Their lives are sacrificed for the selfish interests of the aristocratic owners.

In the November Journal we published a statement made by John W. Smith, Deputy State Labor Commissioner, to the Business Agent, that he would enforce the Michigan child labor law and the 54-hour week law for women, and that he would appreciate information from the Business Agent pertaining to any violations by the owners of Detroit non-union cigar factories.

The November Journal shows the evidence by D. S. Jones to the Commissioner pertaining to this matter and those reports are correct.

The Commissioner made the statement at a conference Thursday, Nov. 16, that it would be necessary in order to enforce the law that the Business Agent get names of the girls working in those non-union shops. This caused some more work for Union No. 22. However, we desire to report that we have been able to give Mr. Smith on Saturday, Nov. 18, the names of four girls working at the San Telmo cigar shop (non-union), Factory No. 990, 540 Forest avenue East: Bernice Lemanski, 972 Dubois street; Luci Celmanski, 582 Frederick, aged 15 years; Helen Jiosotarski, 1000 Dubois street; Sophia Jgrycryho, 1001 Dubois street. And here are two names of the lady members of Union No. 22 who gave the information, and they used to work for the San Telmo non-union shop: Celia Steck, 328 Grandy avenue; Francis Belitzke, 584 Frederick avenue.

The evidence given by all the girls shows the violations of the child labor law and the 54-hour week law for women.

Monday, Nov. 20, State Factory Inspector Mary C. Girardin investigated this matter and held an interview with those two lady members of Union No. 22, and they made good their statements again to the factory inspector. Business agent was present at this time.

Mary C. Girardin made the statement to D. S. Jones that she would swear out a warrant the same day against the San Telmo non-union cigar shop, charging them with violating the State child labor law and the 54-hour week law for women.

Owner of cafe, 521 Forest avenue East, near the San Telmo Cigar Co., 540 Forest avenue East, stated that the non-union cigar girls started to work at the San Telmo at 6:30 in the morning and worked till 11:30; started to work again at noon (12:15) and some started to work at 12, and remained at work till after 6 in the evening. He did not know that he was speaking to the Business Agent and another member of Union No. 22.

No action (no warrants) has yet been taken by the Deputy State Labor Commissioner. We wonder why. Union No. 22 is looking forward with impatience to find if Mr. Smith has the courage of his convictions.

We beg leave to suggest, brothers, that you explain the situation we are in regarding the shameful labor conditions in Detroit—cheap non-union cigar factories—to the various trades and labor councils, so that all friends will smoke union made cigars and that dealers when buying cigars will insist that the cigarmakers' union blue label be on the cigar box.

David S. Jones,
Business Agent.

Washington, D. C., December, 1911.

Dear Sir and Brother:

The proceedings of the thirty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Atlanta, Ga., is now ready for distribution, at 25 cents per copy, $20 per hundred.

The book contains the reports of the President, Secretary, Treasurer, Executive Council, and all committees, and many other matters of an important nature. Send in your orders early before the edition is exhausted.

Fraternally yours,

Frank Morrison,
Secretary American Federation of Labor.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 1, 1911.

The Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America takes this opportunity of extending to you and through you to your affiliated local unions, its sincere appreciation for the generous moral assistance rendered it during the year now coming to a close.

Our organization stands for the sanitary shop, for courteous and honest treatment of its patrons, and is opposed to the impositions and overcharges characteristic of the non-union shop with no fixed schedule.

Through agitation for our union shop card, members of organized labor have done much to assist us in organizing a large portion of the barbers of our country, and by so doing the labor movement has to a great degree aided us in stamping out the dread disease, tuberculosis, so prevalent among our craft, caused by the long hours of labor and Sunday slavery.

There are still many barbers in your city unaffiliated with us and we, therefore, earnestly appeal to you to aid us in our campaign for a more perfect organization. We trust that you will join us in a united effort to create a greater demand for union-made products, and by so doing aid materially in organizing the unorganized work-shops of all crafts throughout the country.

Again thanking you for your assistance, trusting that we may continue to have your enthusiastic co-operation during the year 1912, hoping that you will give this communication more than passing notice, and wishing you one and all a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year, I am,

Fraternally yours,
J. C. SHANESSY,
General Organizer.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 7, 1911.

Whereas, The American Medical Association is endeavoring to secure the enactment of a law by the Congress of the United States, providing for the establishment of a department of the Government to be known as the Department of Public Health, the head of which department will be a cabinet officer; and,

Whereas, The establishment of such a department would ultimately deprive us of the freedom

we now enjoy, viz., to employ any system of healing we choose and would compel us to submit to the dictation of a Government doctor; and,

Whereas, The National League for Medical Freedom has been organized for the purpose of protecting the people in one of their most sacred rights, the right of every man to select the practitioner of his choice in the hour of sickness; and,

Whereas, The National League for Medical Freedom will seek through publicity and education to unmask and oppose any legislation which endeavors to put into power any one system of healing and to use the Government prestige, money and machinery to enforce its theories and opinions upon citizens who believe in other forms of healing; and now, therefore, be it hereby

Resolved, That we, the members of Cigarmakers Union No. 129 of Denver, Colo., do announce ourselves as opposed to the establishment by the Government of the United States of a department of public health and do further announce ourselves as in sympathy with the National League for Medical Freedom in its efforts to prevent the establishment of such a department.

CIGARMAKERS UNION No. 129.
Denver, Colorado.

Logansport, Ind.

On Nov. 28, Union 215, Logansport, Ind., celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. They gave a banquet and listened to speeches made by the various speakers. The proceedings were interspersed with song and music. C. W. Stewart, an old-time and celebrated cornetist, rendered several selections. Speeches were made by O. P. Smith, Secretary Horn, Mr. C. E. Carter, and by two members who twenty-five years ago signed the application for charter, and by a large number of members of the union, and by President Perkins. The employers were invited, most of whom were present and made short talks. The interesting fact was brought out that in the twenty-five years of its existence the union has not spent one dollar for strike benefit, and yet it enjoys one of the best bills of prices in the state. This, it is claimed, is a record. Everyone declared that the occasion had been one of pleasure and interest to all who attended.

REPORT OF ORGANIZER.

Homestead, Pa., Dec. 5, 1911.

Since last report I have visited Gilbertsville, where some months ago an effort was made to form a local union, which I feel confident will yet be accomplished, as there is a current of favorable sentiment among the cigarmakers employed there and vicinity.

York is very active and admitted a large class of members during the past month.

Lancaster has an active organization committee. They are continuing visits to nearby unions and assisting very much in awakening the indifferent members. Wherever the rank and file are active results are always forthcoming.

Reading is enjoying prosperity in every respect. Several applicants for the use of the label. Bartenders are well organized, which is a great benefit to the cigarmakers.

Perkasie, which was recently organized, is doing well. Admitted several members and will hold a meeting for the unorganized.

Quakertown is still active in their campaign. A central body was recently formed there, also a local of musicians, which was partly due to the activity of the cigarmakers. Meetings were held under the jurisdiction of this union which in the past were never reached. Several were attended by nearly 100 cigarmakers, especially so at Richlandtown and Trumbauersville.

The Pennsylvania Blue Label League is assisting in the work of organization by furnishing literature and mailing labor papers to the non-unionists, which will surely produce results in the near future.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER.

(Edited by the Officers of the American Federation of Labor.)

A STATEMENT.

To the American Public on the McNamara Case:

The McNamaras stand before the world self convicted of great crimes. They have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment—J. B. during his natural life, J. J. for fifteen years. The position of labor in connection with the effort made to afford these men an opportunity for adequate defense before the courts has been attacked and misrepresented to such a degree as to require a clear statement at the hands of the undersigned, who are in the best position to make an authoritative statement at this time—a statement that will be strengthened by some review of the principal points of the case.

Was there an explosion of gas in the Los Angeles Times building when it was destroyed? Immediately after the disaster, the press reports stated that men who had been at work in the building spoke of an odor of gas for some time previous to the explosion. Gas leakage in the building, it came out later, had been known to others. Many conservative trade union officials, newspaper writers and publicists, on making an investigation in Los Angeles, soon after, were positive in assuring the public that they believed gas had destroyed the building. Among the mine workers, not one man, so far as information has reached us, has believed the destructive explosive was dynamite. Prominent officials of the United Mine Workers, cautious, honorable men, whose word is taken as truth by all who know them, who are familiar with mining explosives, declared that the effect of the explosion was not that which follows a discharge of dynamite. Were all these men speaking from blind partisanship or from honest conviction? Were they utterly mistaken? The answer has now been supplied by the prosecution. While the "gas theory" was being hooted at by enemies of the unions, while even so late as last Friday night, an editor of the New York Times was indicting a contemptuous slur at John Mitchell for supposing "that proof would be adduced to show that an explosion of gas destroyed the Los Angeles Times building," the prosecution knew that gas was an agency in the explosion and a great factor in the destruction which ensued. W. J. Burns in a press interview Saturday last said: "Why, McManigal told us in his first confession that McNamara turned open the stopcocks of the gas mains of the building when he set the bomb. We knew all the time that a part of the explosion was due to gas." Now, the possible terrific force of a gas explosion, even in the open air, was shown in the wreckage caused by the accident at the Grand Central Station, New York, December 19, 1910, while the Los Angeles disaster was being discussed throughout the country.

The fact of a gas explosion led all others in importance in the minds of the organized workers! Nearly all of them were convinced that it was an established fact. The most cautious reasoners among them regarded the possibilities of the fact sufficient to hold to belief in it until proof to the contrary could be produced. They were willing to suspend conclusive judgment while awaiting evidence.

The public also wanted such facts regarding the circumstances of the explosion as could be accepted as evidence of the way it came about. What was given the public, first and foremost? On the instant, at the hearing of the explosion, H. D. Otis broke into a savage denunciation of trade unionists, accusing them of having caused the disaster, and he has ever since declared it was the result of dynamite. By this course, he diverted the case from one in which citizens in common should have proceeded, through legal methods alone, to search for the truth. He threw the unions on their defense, outraged them, insulted their officials, raised animosities that could have been avoided. He was at once backed up by the small circle of bitter enemies of trade unionism whose fulminations were largely made up of transparent falsehoods leveled at trade unions in general and at the leaders of trade unions.

Despite all clamor it must be remembered that with few exceptions, the international trade unions, more than 120 in number, are and have usually been in normal business relations with the employers of their members. Many of them have for years arranged their differences and their working conditions with employers through trade agreements or other methods resulting in a minimum of loss through suspension of work. Violence in cases of dispute are not common to them. Trade unionists have been made aware, by experience, that stories of disorder by unionists during strikes or lockouts have been systematically exaggerated.

Therefore, aware of the necessity of trade union organization, of the incalculable amount of good in various forms done by and through their unions every year, of the long and bitter campaign carried on by Otis, Kirby, Post and others, to destroy trade unionism, and perceiving the intention of these plotters and their detectives to ignore the apparent, and to their minds, proven cause of the Times disaster, and to turn that terrible event solely to account as a means of discrediting trade unionism, the unions energetically stated their side of the case to the American public as they saw it at that time.

When, after six months, the McNamaras were arrested, it was in Russian style, not American. Holding the members of the executive board of the Structural Iron Workers in confinement without warrant, hurrying J. J. McNamara away from Indianapolis in an automobile and by circuitous routes taken to California—what were these but features of high-handed irregularity, and tyrannical lawlessness, known in arrests in Russia that precede transportation of prosecuted citizens to Siberia? And, when Detective Burns has through-out been doubted by so great a part of the American public, it has been largely the fault of his proceedings at this point, and of his own defouling the reputation of his craft, for has he not said: "Private detectives, as a class, are the worst lot of blackmailing scoundrels that live outside of prisons." (See page 357, McClure's Magazine, August, 1911).

J. J. McNamara had not been of sufficient prominence among labor men to be the subject of discussion as a leading figure, but what was generally known of him was to his credit. He was seen at conventions as a man of pleasing appearance and of mild manner. He was spoken of as self-educated and a faithful secretary of his organization. His speech and his writings for his magazine were reputed to be conservative. When placed under arrest, and throughout his imprisonment, his bearing was undemonstrative. His letters and telegrams to officials of the A. F. of L. and the Atlanta convention were concise and without suspicious characteristics. In no wise, to common observation, had he shown abnormal traits.

Did organized labor properly express its condemnation of violence on hearing of the Los Angeles disaster? It did by interviews, addresses, and publications. The hundreds of union labor papers, in their issues succeeding the event, contained what, taken together, would make volumes, declarative of the sentiments of their editors and of the rank and file of union membership on the subject. All recognized the case as one of mystery, the feeling shown being that of horror at the possibility of any union man being implicated in it. Unions framed resolutions in meetings, declaring that trade unionism was not to be advanced by murderous acts. Union labor officials, and many others, were quoted to similar effect. The president of the American Federation of Labor, the day after the disaster occurred, as published by the St. Louis Star, said:

"Labor does not stand for such outrages, nor contemplate such crime. I cannot believe that a union man has done it, and I deeply hope no one who was connected with the labor movement will be found to have done it. It is inconceivable that a union man should have done this thing. And yet, if it is found that a union man has done it, unionism cannot be blamed by fair-minded men for the deed of a man devoid of any human feeling, as the perpetrator of this horrible catastrophe must have been. It was the act of a madman. No one with an ounce of sympathy in his makeup could do aught but contemplate such a crime with the deepest abhorrence."

These facts were further fully presented in the June, 1911, issue of the American Federationist, in a seventeen-page article entitled the "McNamara Case," in which the leading facts up to that time were reviewed. Speaking before the St. Louis Central Labor Union on Sunday, October 2, 1910, the day after the disaster, President Gompers asserted he would "immediately turn the dynamites over to the proper authorities if he could lay hands on them." The Globe-Democrat also quoted him as saying: "I only wish I knew the actual perpetrators and if I did, take my word for it, I would turn them over to justice." The universal condemnation of a murderous deed in labor circles, ought to be a fact so far beyond question, so easily ascertainable from accessible records, that no man with any regard for his reputation for veracity could deny it. Yet, the New York Times, in an editorial last Saturday, printed this sentence: "From the day when James B. McNamara's bomb blew his twenty-one victims into eternity, down to the present time no authoritative voice in the ranks of labor has been raised to express the hope that the murderers would be brought to justice, even should they prove to be union men."

Relative to other phases of the McNamara case, the article in the June American Federationist contains these passages:

"It may be said that from that time (the kidnapping) to the present, Detective Burns, Attorney Drew, Editor Otis, C. W. Post, and the active agents of the extremists in the Manufacturers' Association in general, have all played to perfection the hysterical characters to which we are accustomed in the pages of cheap fiction and on the boards of the Bowery class of theaters."

"Nothing more surprised us in the series of audacious acts committed by Detective Burns than his saying to a reporter of the World, May 7, 1911:

"Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor knows by this time that there was no frame-up and that the arrests of the McNamaras and McManigal were not the result of a plant. Why? Because Gompers has been conducting an investigation of his own at Indianapolis that has convinced him that there was no frame-up and no plants."

"These assertions of Burns were entirely without foundation. Nothing was brought to our knowledge in Indianapolis or elsewhere that could be used as evidence against the prisoners or to show that the Structural Iron Workers' Union has been conducting a dynamite campaign against the Erectors' Association."

Since the McNamaras' confession Burns has been reiterating this charge. The only "investigation" in which President Gompers participated in Indianapolis was the meeting of the prominent trade unionists held last May 10-12, called by officials of the eight international unions which have their headquarters in that city, and the meeting of the officials of a large number of trade unions called by authority of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, and held at Indianapolis, June 29, 1911. What President Gompers learned there was precisely what everyone attending the conference learned, and that was nothing that helped to solve the mystery of the Los Angeles disaster, or, of criminality of any kind.

Indeed, the unlawful and un-American kidnapping of McNamara formed one of the chief factors of fixing in the minds of the working people of our country that he was innocent. They reasoned as they had a right to reason, that if there existed evidence of McNamara's guilt of the crime charged, every protection would and should have been accorded him to demonstrate before the courts of Indiana that he was innocent of the crime with which he was charged. His protestations of innocence, his demands to be represented by counsel, were all ruthlessly ignored.

Violence, brutality, destruction of life or property, are foreign to the aims and methods of organized labor of America, and no interest is more severely injured by the employment of such methods, than that of the workers organized in the labor movement. Therefore, quite apart from the spirit of humanitarianism and justice which prompts the activities of the organized labor movement, policy and hopes for success, forbid the resort to violence. The American labor movement and its men are loyal Americans and seek to obtain the abolition of wrongs and the attainment of their rights within the law.

Organized labor of America has no desire to condone the crimes of the McNamaras. It joins in the satisfaction that the majesty of the law and justice has been maintained and the culprits commensurately punished for their crime.

And yet it is an awful commentary upon existing conditions when any one man among all the millions of workers, can bring himself to the frame of mind that the only means to secure justice for labor is in violence, outrage and murder.

It is cruelly unjust to hold the men of the labor movement either legally or morally responsible for the crime of an individual member. No such moral code or legal responsibility is placed upon any other association of men in our country.

In so far as we have the right to speak, in the name of organized labor, we welcome any investigations which either federal or state courts may undertake. The sessions of the conventions of the American Federation of Labor are held with open doors that all may see and hear what is being said and done. The books, accounts, and correspondence of the American Federation of Labor are open to any competent authority, who may desire to make a study or an investigation of them.

Will the National Manufacturers' Association, the Erectors' Association and the detective agencies extend the same privilege for public investigation and examination of their books and correspondence?

When we were selected as a committee on Ways and Means to raise and disburse funds for the defense of the McNamaras and the prosecution of the kidnapers, we were fully impressed with the innocence of the accused men. That impression was strengthened by their written and oral protestations of innocence. We here and now, individually and collectively, declare that the first knowledge or intimation of their guilt was conveyed by the press in their confessions of guilt. From the outset we assured all contributors and the public generally, that we would publish an accounting of the moneys received, from whom received, and to whom paid. This assurance will be fulfilled. A report in full will first be made to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, at its meeting to be held at Washington, D. C., January 8, 1912.

The American labor movement has done so much for the workers of our country in improving their condition, in lightening the burdens which the workers have had to bear, bringing light and hope in the homes and in the lives, the factories and the workshops of our country, that it challenges the world of investigators. The organizations of labor of America have been the most potent factors in the establishment and maintenance of the largest measure of industrial peace. Their course is of a conciliatory character, to reach trade agreements with employers, and the faithful adherence to agreements. When industrial conditions become unsettled, they are more largely due to the unreasonableness of employers, who regard every effort of the workers to maintain their rights, and to promote their interests, as an invasion of employers' prerogatives, which are resented with consequent struggles. If employers will be but fair and tolerant, they will find more than a responsive attitude on the part of organized labor, but, of one thing all may rest assured, that with existing conditions of concentrated wealth and industry, the organized toilers of our country realize that there is no hope from abject slavery outside of the protection which the organized labor movement affords.

The men of organized labor, in common with all our people, are grieved beyond expression in words at the loss of life, and the destruction of property, not only in the case under discussion, but in any other case which may have occurred. We are hurt and humiliated to think that any man connected with the labor movement should have been guilty of either. The lesson this grave crime teaches will, however, have its salutary effect. It will demonstrate now more than ever, the inhumanity, as well as the futility of resorting to violence in the effort to right wrongs, or to attain rights.

In view of the great uplift work in which the men of the labor movement have been and are engaged, and the industrial problems with which they have to contend, we insist that our organization of labor should be judged by what they do and aim to do, rather than to be opposed and stigmatized because one or a few may be recreant to the good name and high ideals of labor, and we appeal to the fair minded citizenship and the press of America for fair treatment.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

Efforts Are Being Put Forth to Have Labor's Bill in Congress Enacted into Law the Coming Session.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The American Federation of Labor has been for the past several years championing the passage of an industrial vocational education bill. Congressman Wilson introduced at the extra session, H. R. 12156, "to co-operate with the states in encouraging instruction in agriculture, the trades and industries and home economics in secondary schools, in maintaining instruction in these vocational subjects in State normal schools, in maintaining extension departments in State colleges of agriculture and mechanic arts, and to appropriate money and regulate its expenditure." The companion bill in the Senate is, S. 3, introduced by Senator Page of Vermont. While the American Federation of Labor has been the pioneer in the agitation to secure this character of legislation, there are several forces at work along the same line.

Paper Is Right.

Reynolds' Newspaper editorially says: "It is false economy on the part of the employer to attempt to cut down expenses by placing young and inexperienced persons in positions of trust. The Central London Railway has just prosecuted a boy booking clerk for stealing tickets. Apart from the shareholders' interests, it is not fair to the boys to place them in positions of such responsibility before their characters are formed and hardened."

Refuse to be Strike Breakers.

Fourteen boilermakers, not members of the Boilermakers' union, were offered jobs at Albany, N. Y., but upon arriving found they were to be used as strike breakers. Although the men were without money they refused to go to work, having been deluded into coming to accept regular employment.

Label Trades Election.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 18.—The Union Label Trades Department, after transacting a large volume of business and making provision for the coming year, proceeded to election of officers, as follows: President, John F. Tobin, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union of Boston; first vice president, John W. Hays, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union of Indianapolis; second vice president, Jacob Fischer, secretary-treasurer of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union of Indianapolis; third vice president, Owen Miller, secretary of the American Federation of Musicians of St. Louis; fourth vice president, T. A. Rickert, president of the United Garment Workers of Chicago; fifth vice president, A. McAndrew, president Tobacco Workers' International Union; secretary-treasurer, Thomas F. Tracy, Cigarmakers' International Union of Boston.

Prisoner in Own Jail.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 18.—Former Sheriff John E. Shields of Westmoreland County, who was sentenced to two years and four months in the Western penitentiary for perjury, is a prisoner in his own jail, his conviction growing out of the coal strike in the Westmoreland fields last year. Shields was one of the active spirits in fighting the sheet and tin workers during the strike against the Steel Trust at New Kensington, Apollo and Vandergrift in 1909. He made himself conspicuously obnoxious in various ways to Organizers Arthur E. Holder and Jeff Pierce of the American Federation of Labor, during the progress of the strike; these organizers having been detailed to assist the strikers. At last, Shields "got his."

Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh will make the pension retirement system for Government clerks a feature of his annual report to Congress.

Jackson, Tenn., Nov. 18.—The strikers on the Illinois Central railroad were proffered and accepted the First Baptist Church in which to hold a mass meeting recently. Addresses were made by prominent labor men and the auditorium was packed and the auditors enthusiastic.

FIGHT ON CIVIC FEDERATION LOST.

Socialists are Badly Routed in Their Fight on the Floor of American Federation of Labor Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—The much heralded fight against the officers of the American Federation of Labor who are members of the National Civic Federation has taken place. Since the United Mine Workers in convention amended their constitution prohibiting any member of the Mine Workers from becoming a member of the National Civic Federation, and the withdrawal of John Mitchell from the trade agreement department of the National Civic Federation as the result of the action of the Miners' convention, the Socialists have been actively engaged in an effort to procure sufficient strength to pass a resolution at the Atlanta convention prohibiting officers of the American Federation of Labor from holding membership in the National Civic Federation. The Miners' delegation to the American Federation of Labor came instructed to make an effort to have the convention take similar action as did the miners. This gave the Socialists a nucleus of 2,504 votes to start with. Three resolutions were introduced, all being practically in the same tenor, seeking to prohibit officers of the Federation from becoming members of the National Civic Federation, or continuing membership therein. These resolutions were referred to the Resolutions Committee which made an exhaustive investigation in an effort to discover whether there was any valid reason why the resolutions should be passed. Finding none, the Resolution Committee reported unfavorably. In the discussion which followed Duncan McDonald, Tom Lewis and E. S. McCullough of the Miners, and Max Hayes spoke against the adoption of the report of the committee, while Dennis Hayes, John Mitchell, James O'Connell, W. B. Wilson, James M. Lynch, John Walker, W. D. Mahon, T. W. McCullough of Typographical Union, Tim Healy, and President Gompers spoke in favor of the adoption of the report of the committee. While the Miners' delegation was instructed to vote for the resolution and did vote for it, yet John Mitchell and W. B. Wilson spoke in favor of the adoption of the committee's report, although stating that they would be compelled to vote against it owing to the instructions from their organization. In his speech John Mitchell made the charge that the convention of the Miners which amended the constitution forbidding membership in the National Civic Federation had been "packed" by permitting men to act as delegates who were not entitled to sit as such; that credentials were illegally issued, and stated that he was prepared to produce the proof. Delegate Walker of the Miners substantiated the charges made by Delegate John Mitchell. Almost the entire day was consumed in the debate upon this question and when the roll call was had the vote stood: In favor of the report of the committee 11,851; opposed 4,924.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—The Supreme Court of this state has just handed down a decision upholding the constitutionality of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

It is reported by officials in charge of the work on the Panama canal that there is now a surplus of labor in the zone.

BRUTALITY.

Southern Pacific Official Denies Water to Striker's Wife and Babe, Even Though Payment Was Offered.

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 25.—According to "The Voice of the People," published in this city, the Southern Pacific officials are indeed desperate and have resorted to exceedingly brutal tactics, that the strikers on the system may be crushed. The paper states: "Even a Digger Indian or a Papago buck on the war path, will turn over a rock and allow a squaw with a new born papoose the first pick of the fat grubs which may be found beneath it, but it has remained for an official of the Southern Pacific railroad, Superintendent J. H. Dyer, of the Tucson division, which extends from El Paso to Yuma, to refuse a drink of water to a striker's wife with a new born babe at her breast.

Ministers for Labor.

Winnipeg association takes action against employers and extends support to leather workers.

According to a preliminary report of the Census Bureau, the average wages per year of men employed in the manufacture of explosives only reaches $686 per man per year in this dangerous industry.

Violator Mulcted by Fines.

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 25.—Nelson Brothers, contractors of public work, pleaded guilty in the superior court to violating the 8-hour law and working men and teams below the scale. A fine of $50.00 and costs was assessed in two cases, and a number of other cases that had been filed against the contractors were dismissed. The State Labor Department is using great activity in the enforcement of the 8-hour law in this state.

Want Higher Pay for Women.

Boston, Nov. 25.—Public hearing was recently held by the Commission appointed to consider the wisdom of establishing a scale of minimum wages for women and minors in this state.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—Under direction of the State Bureau of Labor there will be a State conference of employers and employees in the Twin Cities, on December 7 and 8, to discuss the problems of safeguarding machinery and prevention of accidents. Inspection of manufacturing plants in the cities will be made to view safety appliances in use. Addresses on various kindred subjects will also be had.

New York, Nov. 25.—Eighteen manufacturers were recently arraigned in special sessions to answer charges of violating labor laws. The charges including improper sanitation in workrooms, bolted doors in factories, improper dressing rooms for women, and working minors overtime. Most of the defendants pleaded guilty and sentences were suspended; while for flagrant cases, or second offenses, fines were imposed of from $10 to $25. Further prosecutions are to follow.

Members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have been notified that all operators, towermen and agents on the New York Central lines have been given an increase in wages; the increase beginning November 15. More than 6,000 men are benefited.

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 25.—Rezin Orr, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, and John J. Scannell, organizer for the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, have been badly beaten. They allege that the attack was made by hired sluggers of the local traction company.

The report of James Duncan (the delegate representing the American Federation of Labor at the International Secretariat at Budapest this year), presented to the Atlanta convention of the A. F. of L. is considered a classic in labor literature.

The Federation will be represented next year at the British Trade Union Congress by G. L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union, and John H. Walker, of the Coal Miners. John T. Smith, Cigar Maker, will represent the Federation as fraternal delegate to the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, which meets next September at Guelph, Ontario.

AMALGAMATION PLANS.

Atlanta Convention of American Federation of Labor Directs Amalgamation of Wood Working Organizations.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor through its adjustment committee, gave much consideration to the jurisdiction dispute which has been long occupying the stage, between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, and the Amalgamated Wood Workers. The adjustment committee in reporting on the conditions existing between the United Brotherhood and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters made the following recommendation, which was adopted by a vote of 15,491 for, to 425 votes against, those not voting representing 1,324 votes:

"Your committee recommends that the president of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to arrange a conference between representatives of the two organizations involved within ninety days from the adjournment of this convention, with a view of arranging a basis of amalgamation of the two organizations, and in case of disagreement upon the terms of amalgamation agreed upon and submitted by the president and executive council of the American Federation of Labor, the differences shall be referred to the president and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor for a final decision, which decision shall be rendered not later than June 1, 1912. Should the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners fail to amalgamate with the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners on or before July 1, 1912, the president of the American Federation of Labor is hereby instructed to revoke the charter of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners."

In the jurisdictional controversy existing between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Amalgamated Wood Workers, the committee made an identical report with the one just quoted, the roll call vote being 15,374 in favor, with 409 votes against; 1,457 votes not being recorded either way. If these amalgamations take place the jurisdiction disputes among the wood working unions will be entirely eliminated.

Papers Make False Statements.

Washington, Dec. 2.—During the Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor, newspapers in Chicago and Cincinnati carried a statement that a "split in big labor duty is imminent and organizations of miners secretly lay plans to withdraw from the American Federation of Labor—Reld faction of electrical workers follow movement to form independent federation." Delegate F. J. Hayes, vice president of the United Mine Workers, called attention to this statement on the floor of the convention and denied it in order that the position of the United Mine Workers might be made clear. "Our international president is not here and as I am the next in official capacity I take this opportunity to deny the statement. The article goes on to state that the delegates of the Western Federation of Miners and United Mine Workers of America held a secret conference the other night to carry out this proposition. I take this occasion to brand the statement as a deliberate falsehood."

A BRUTAL ATTACK.

Traction Sluggers Seriously Cripple Amalgamated Association Official and Beat Up Another Organizer.

Toledo, O., Dec. 2.—While on their way from the Central Labor hall a few nights ago, Resin Orr, treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Men, and John J. Scannell, organizer of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, were assaulted by three thugs alleged to be in the employ of the local traction company. Resin Orr was struck with a "billy," so the attending physician claims, and the sight of one of his eyes has been permanently destroyed. Scannell was knocked down and kicked, but his injuries are not considered serious. Fortunately one of the sluggers was caught, and on preliminary hearing was bound over in the sum of $1,000. Orr has been organizing the men employed by the traction company and the company, as usual, are pursuing the tactics commonly employed by street railway companies to thwart organization of their employees.

FEDERATION PLEA OVERRULED.

Supreme Court of the District of Columbia Denies Petition of American Federation of Labor.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Since the handing down of the decision of the United States Supreme court in the Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison alleged contempt case there have been many attempts made by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to punish the Federation officials for the alleged contempt of court. These efforts, however, have been met by various pleas and motions, the last one of which, that of the statute of limitations, having been orally argued before the entire District Supreme Court. The District Supreme Court has now overruled the contentions as to the statute of limitations and ordered that a commissioner or examiner be appointed for the purpose of taking testimony and presenting it to the court. Mr. Albert Harper has been appointed as commissioner, the Federation having waived none of its rights in this appointment. While it may appear that the case is drawing to a close, yet it is quite probable that it will be a long time before the case is finally disposed of.

The Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor has raised the per capita tax of national and international unions from $\frac{1}{2}$ cent to $\frac{3}{4}$ of a cent per member per month. The executive council in its report recommended the increase. The matter was referred to the laws committee and that committee brought in a favorable report. An increase in the per capita tax had become necessary in order to extend the activities of the Federation. The recommendation of the committee was carried by a vote of 123 to 27.

The next annual convention of the American Federation of Labor will be held in Rochester, N. Y.

Denver, Dec. 2.—In the celebrated contempt of court case, in which a number of striking coal miners were sentenced to jail, the miners by their attorneys, went before the Supreme court and succeeded in having granted a supersedeas and the miners were released pending a review by the higher court.

Initiative and Referendum.

The Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor, in dealing with the question presented in a resolution of electing its officers by a referendum vote, decided: "That the question of the practicability and desirability of electing the officers of the American Federation of Labor by referendum vote be referred to the executive council for investigation, with the understanding that they report on this subject to the next annual convention for its consideration."

During the sessions of the American Federation of Labor convention a large display of union label products was exhibited. Collars and cuffs, neckties, ladies' underwear, hosiery and Cardigan jackets, men's underwear, socks, and a large line of children's and infants' underwear, stockings, knit caps, jackets—all bearing the union label—was a revelation to many of the new delegates.

Vote of Confidence.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Among the many telegrams which have reached A. F. of L. headquarters since the confession of the McNamara's, the following is one from Indianapolis, and is self-explanatory: "Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 5, 1911.

"Samuel Gompers, 801-9 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

"The conference of executive officers of the International trade unions, with headquarters in Indianapolis, at a meeting today, taking into consideration the aspersions that have been made against you by representatives of hostile associations and private detective agencies, by unanimous vote, adopted a motion declaring their continued confidence in your honesty of purpose and integrity, and expressing the opinion that in your connection with the McNamara case you did only your full duty as the head of the trades union movement on this continent, in view of the circumstances and conditions as we all understood the situation as it then existed. James M. Lynch, President: Frank Duffy, Secretary."

Harriman Defeated.

Los Angeles, Dec. 9.—Job Harriman, Socialist candidate for mayor, together with all other Socialists on that ticket, were defeated by approximately 25,000 majority.

Strike Vote Being Taken.

London, Dec. 2.—The railroad employees of this country, incensed at the conclusions reached by the commission of inquiry, appointed as the result of last summer's strike, are now taking a strike vote to determine whether the report of the commission shall be accepted on trial or cease work until their grievances are adjusted. There appears to be an unanimity of opinion and it is predicted that a large percentage of the men will vote for the strike. The last day for the return of the voting to the headquarters Unity House, is Dec. 5.

Concessions Being Given.

London, Dec. 9.—While the strike vote among Great Britain's railwaymen is in progress, a number of the railroad companies are announcing concessions. It begins to look as though the attitude of the railroad employees is responsible for the concessions being made by the companies.

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 15, 1911.

Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year to all.

Condemning any illegal act or wrongdoing on the part of anyone regardless of whether he is identified with organized labor or not, we say in view of what follows, the trade union movement stands on its record, with no apologies to make and no excuses to offer for its existence. The trade union movement stands ready to compare its record for obedience to the law with that of any other organized institution or unorganized mass. We include the church, the federal officials and legislature, the state officials and legislatures, municipal officials and aldermen, fraternal or other organizations. There are directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor one hundred and twenty-two National and International unions. Each one of these unions has from one to four executive officers. We don't recall in the past thirty-two years, the time of our own personal membership, activities and efforts in the trade union movement, one single instance where a National or International officer or an Executive in the great trade unions tried and convicted, of any crime of any kind. They have not even been tried and found guilty of any crime by their own organizations. We challenge any other institution on earth to bring forward a cleaner record.

TRADE UNION MOVEMENT STANDS ON RECORD.

Murder, arson, treason, thievery, conspiracy and all crimes in the calendar occur in some walk of life nearly every day of the year and receive only passing notice, but when the labor movement has the misfortune to have a McNamara in its midst, a great hue and cry goes up against the labor movement.

We said editorially in our Official Journal, at the time the McNamaras were arrested: "Organized labor does not believe in nor does it countenance the use of violence in the settlement of any question." We reaffirm that statement. It is true that Organized Labor raised funds for the defense of these men. And why? Because at that time it believed them innocent, and the very things associated with their arrest and their kidnapping justified and warranted it in so believing.

No one need feel any alarm over the effect this case will have upon Organized Labor. Organized Labor does not depend upon any one or two persons. Because these men have done wrong does not prove that the labor movement is wrong or will be destroyed any more than the acts of ministers of the gospel, who have committed murder and other crimes, will destroy Christianity or prove that it is wrong. Because some member of a community commits murder it does not prove that all people in the town or city are murderers, or that such place should be destroyed. The earnest, loyal, law-abiding men and women of Organized Labor deeply deplore these crimes which occur in all walks of life, which, however, are only incidental in the evolutionary development of the human family.

The organized labor movement deeply deplores the McNamara crime, but has no apologies to make for the action it took in the McNamara case. Organized labor, as well as all right-thinking citizens, was aroused, and justly so, by the spectacular manner in which the McNamaras were kidnaped and spirited out of the state. It is this one thing more than all else that prompted organized labor to declare its belief in their innocence and to raise funds through which they might be able to obtain a fair trial. There is an old and true saying, recognized by the law and society at large, which is, "All men are entitled to be held innocent until tried and proven by due process of law to be guilty." Organized labor simply applied this theory in the McNamara case, and we ask in all fairness, is it not right that we should have done so? Would those who are now throwing brickbats at labor have us believe, and would they have society at large believe, that everyone was guilty the minute some individual, some paper, or some detective agency says he is? If we were to regard our fellow men in that light, no man or woman would be safe. Some vindictive soul, out of a spirit of revenge, might point the finger of accusation at any man or woman, who in reality was as pure as the driven snow, and declare him or her guilty of some crime, and we would have to believe it.

With a full knowledge of what the words mean and imply, we say no person who is mentally sound will do what the McNamaras say they did. We believe that all of the real, true facts connected with this outrage have not been told. We make no charges nor insinuations, but others have broadly hinted that if a searching investigation be made and all the real facts brought into the light of day, some power outside of the labor movement may be involved.

With the assistance of Attorney General Wickersham, the American Tobacco Company scored a notable victory. It has been dissolved in the law reports; reorganized with the approval of the government and the Appellate division of the Federal Court of New York. It is now a legal institution, and to all intents and purposes, exempt from the provisions of the anti-trust law.

The New York Times, a paper owned by Chas. R. Flint, the head of the Rubber Trust, writes:

"The tobacco concerns, in their new clothes, are in a position of ease and luxury, and immune from prosecution under the law."

Part of the opinion rendered by Judge Noys reads:

"The successful reconstruction of this organization should teach that the effect of enforcing this statute against industrial combinations is not to destroy, but to reconstruct, not to demolish, but to re-create with the condition which Congress has declared shall exist among the people of the United States."

This opinion is a plain subterfuge, surrounded with legal cunning and a misstatement of facts. There is no provision in the anti-trust law which authorizes the judiciary to organize or reorganize any corporation, or combination of corporations, declared to be a criminal concern and operated in violation of law. No such power is vested by the constitution or by any statute in the judiciary; it is an act of usurpation and nothing else, and deprives Congress of its legitimate functions to legislate.

The reorganization will not restore competition; neither will it deprive the artificial division of the Tobacco Trust, in four parts, of its power to continue in the monopolization of the tobacco trade. The prime object of the law was to prevent monopoly and acts which are in restraint of trade; the new plan will accomplish nothing of that sort. That this opinion is shared by many others, there is no doubt. In this connection we quote from a speech of Senator Borah, during the last session of Congress. He said in part:

"What would be the difference if one corporation had control of the cigarette business, another of the smoking tobacco business, another of the chewing tobacco business, and another of the licorice, and they were all in existence? Who would make them compete or give to the American people any particle of benefit from the dissolution of one corporation into four? It would result, in precisely what happened after the Northern Securities case was decided. They would proceed to do in another way that which they were not permitted to do as a matter of convenience to them in the way which they first chose."

The whole procedure, from beginning to the end, was a miscarriage of justice. The attempt to fool the people, engaged in any part of the tobacco trade, is a conspicuous failure.

The apologists for the high cost of living in this country, which increased much faster than wages, rarely mention the real cause. In recent years they have discovered a new excuse; they point to a general increase in the cost of living in foreign countries, which is only partially true. They fail to mention, however, that the increase abroad has not been at the same ratio as at home. One signal fact, also, escapes their attention, namely: Great Britain is not a food producing country, in the sense of being able to feed her own people on the land actually in cultivation. This fact is of vital importance, and cannot be ignored in making fair comparisons.

England imports more food for her population per capita than any other European nation; she depends on her manufacturing industry, and exports finished goods in exchange for food and raw materials. For these reasons the cost of living should be higher in Great Britain than in America. The cost of transportation by water and rail is no small item. But, strange to say, the cost of living is cheaper in England than at home. We can prove this by quoting from the report of the American consul to the Department of Commerce and Labor. The prices furnished were compiled by the Co-operative Wholesale Society of Manchester, England. All quotations are in cents and fractions of one cent.

Bacon and hams, one pound....	9.92	16.38
Butter, two pounds.....	45.40	51.48
Cheese, one pound.....	10.48	13.12
Flour, twelve pounds.....	33.36	29.52
Lard, one pound.....	6.48	13.80
Meal, one pound.....	2.46	2.32
Sugar, four pounds.....	11.92	16.24
Tea, one pound.....	32.32	30.88

The increased cost averages from 1898 to 1910 13.36 per cent. In this connection it is interesting to note flour, meal and tea have been reduced in price, while butter, sugar and lard are much cheaper than at home.

The increase in the cost of living in our own country is largely due to combination, manipulation and monopoly, both wholesale and retail. The average rate of profit is much higher than in Great Britain; the American middleman is an extortionist, ready to pick from the pocket of the consumer the last penny.

The high cost of living is due also, in no small degree, to the hoarding of all kinds of food in the cold storage plants. Eggs are purchased in the spring when prices are low, and sold in the winter when the natural supply is small and prices are high. The same rule applies to all other kinds of food held in the cold storage plants for speculation at the people's expense.

The laboring classes have an opportunity to protect themselves against these parasites by the organization of co-operative stores and factories. By starting on a small scale they can be developed to large proportions and made a power for the social well-being of the community.

Twenty-nine violators of the law, after many years of criminal operations, gathered together loot amounting in value to many millions of dollars. They were THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR MADE EASY. powers in the "business world." Public opinion at last forced action on the part of the government, and after a snail-like progress, these violators of the law were declared to be such, and the "business" through and by which they had accumulated their loot, was also declared criminal by the supreme tribunal of the country and the combine was ordered to dissolve, to "disintegrate." The detail and supervision of the disintegrating process was devolved upon a court located in the center of the business interests of the country.

Ordinarily when a court decrees the dissolution of a corporation, a receiver is appointed and the property of the corporation is ordered sold, but in this case no such measure was to be resorted to until and unless these violators of the law failed to "reorganize," and so came up the question of reorganization.

Up to that time there had never been a theory that there were any property rights in criminally acquired accumulations, but the Attorney General of the United States, if he did not originate that theory at least promulgated it and time and again he announced his intention of avoiding any measure that would result in the destruction of this property or the disturbance of business interests.

When the people who suffered by the unlawful actions of the twenty-nine wanted to be heard they were given a very limited opportunity at a public hearing, but received no invitation to the many meetings behind closed doors where the representatives of the twenty-nine and the officers of the government discussed the plan of re-creating, nor was their presence at these meetings even permitted.

The protection of this "property" in such a manner as would preserve to the twenty-nine and their associates the full benefit arising from their criminal pursuits became the chief solicitude of the officers of the United States, whose duty, according to the unsophisticated mind, was to see that nobody should reap an advantage from his own wrong-doing.

The result of this decree of this court of equity (Lord save the mark) is that instead of one monopoly of fourteen businesses we are to have fourteen monopolies with one business for each.

The decree says that no two of the fourteen shall have the same board of directors, the same officers or the same agents. It does not say that none of the twenty-nine shall be a director in any of the fourteen companies, and as there are enough of them to furnish two directors to each of thirteen of the companies and three directors to the remaining one, and as these men are the strong men, the men who did "business," it would look to the innocent bystander as if these twenty-nine branded law violators could still control matters as completely as they have heretofore.

There is nothing in the decree that prevents the big twenty-nine from holding every-day conferences, nothing to prevent the companies from imparting to the others the prices they have established, and letting them know, too, what instructions have been or are about to be given to salesmen and purchasing agents.

These fourteen companies have stockholders equally interested in all of the companies; the officers and employees depend upon the stockholders for the positions they occupy and the emoluments pertaining to the positions. Has any person of sound mind a notion that these officers are going to exert themselves in any way to advance the interests of their company when such advancement would be a detriment or disadvantage to any of the other thirteen?

The fruits of their illegal acts have been preserved for them almost intact. Their career of wrongdoing has been a success, a great success. They have attained riches, power and social position and a kind and paternal government shrinks at the idea of depriving them of any part of the good things so skillfully acquired.

The decree says that none of these different companies shall extend financial aid to any of the others, but what is there to hinder any of the twenty-nine or all of them from extending such aid? This phase of the decree looks like buncombe, for it is hardly likely that any of the corporations will include the loaning or donating of money in its corporate powers.

After three years the big twenty-nine will have a free hand; after that time they may do openly and publicly what in the meantime they will probably do with more or less secrecy, that is, manage and control the affairs of all fourteen companies.

So far as shown the decision instead of acting as a damper upon those engaged in violating the law seems to have stimulated them to greater effort. "Stocks jumped" as a result of the decisions, and no wonder, for has not the administration assured them that they will be gently dealt with and all pains taken to preserve to them their spoils unimpaired?

The order to organize the new corporations is being obeyed. The officers and directors, more particularly the managing officers, are from the twenty-nine. Think of it: Fourteen corporations with branded law violators as their officers being organized by direction of a court of equity!

The small offenders throughout the country have a dread of the general government, that never strikes them in regard to the states. This decree may well remove that fear and give them hope that if they get away with the "stuff" the government will see to it that they shall not be deprived of its enjoyment.

The decree has received the indorsement of the President. His message shows plainly that he, too, believes that the welfare of Wall Street is the welfare of the country. His motto seems to be, "Take care of Wall Street and Wall Street will take care of the country."

The President, too, indorses Mr. Wickersham in his refusal to permit the independent cigar men to become parties to the suit. It is well known that they sought to intervene so as to prosecute an appeal to the Supreme Court. Mr. Wickersham objected. The President indorses the objection. The President believes that the Supreme Court is able and honest. Was that the reason that he approves the action which denies the court an opportunity to review this shoddy re-creation scheme.

The "Outlook," a weekly magazine, writes: "Capital tried in England for years to break up labor unions by law. It had the power of money, Parliament, the courts, the press on its side—and failed. Capital has tried in this country, by private war, to break up the unions—and has failed." The above is not exactly correct. Capital in this country has used the same weapons as in England. It has enacted in the past conspiracy laws, some of which still remain on the statute books, as relics of the past. It has applied to and received from the courts injunctions destroying all liberties guaranteed by the constitution, pending the dispute over wages, etc. It has subsidized and purchased some of the leading papers of the country, which becloud the minds of the public by false reports and misstatement of facts. It has used the military arm of the government, both in the state and nation, to terrorize men on strike and to deprive them of their liberties. It has hired Pinkertons and other mercenaries to secure by force that which could not be secured by lawful methods. But despite all these obstacles, the labor movement is increasing numerically, developing greater strength, solidarity and usefulness.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Trade unions have succeeded in maintaining a fair rate of wages during periods of depression, and the following stagnation in business. They succeeded in preventing reductions in many instances; and the attempts to substitute unfair shop conditions, when trade was dull and employment impossible to obtain, were generally defeated.

In formulating bills of prices and making demands for an increase in wages, it is important to observe and to know whether the trade goes to the jobber, who is the middleman between the manufacturer and the retailer. The manufacturer selling to the jobber is not making the profit, which is obtained by the employer selling directly to the retailer. The jobber generally gets the lion's share.

Trades unions are endeavoring to educate the masses in using their purchasing power as consumers, for the betterment of their financial condition. The increased use of union-made goods, in preference to the product made by underpaid and scab labor, is a tendency in the right direction. While it takes time to educate the laboring classes on practical lines, the progress so far made is an encouraging sign for the future.

The commercial press is supplying trades unions with all kinds of advice, most of which is absolutely worthless and uncalled for. The labor movement, as a whole, is not responsible for the criminal acts of misguided individuals.

Strikes should be avoided until the chances for success are thoroughly discussed in a cool and deliberate manner. When trade is dull and employment scarce, then the prospects are poor; when the busy fall or spring season is nearly over, then the outlook for success is not promising. When the trade is not fully organized, then the chances for success are very doubtful.

The opposition of some trades unions to the settlement of trade disputes by conference, conciliation and arbitration with manufacturers is not based upon common sense and experience. To deny the manufacturers the right to argue or to dispute the wisdom of any demand for higher wages, better conditions, etc., is not only a shortsighted policy, but also leads the public to believe the demands to be arbitrary and unjust. The opinion of the people, not directly interested, cannot be ignored.

The executive council of the so-called free trades unions of Germany issued an appeal in behalf of the locked out cigarmakers, etc., in Lippe and Westphalia, Germany. On October 12, 1911, the manufacturers' association discharged about 9,000 persons employed in the trade. The appeal calls for voluntary contributions from organized labor in general; it recites the importance of the struggle for the persons employed in the tobacco trade, whose average wages do not exceed fifty-two (52) cents per day.

During the past three years the Supreme Courts of the United States, and of Illinois, Michigan, Louisiana, Virginia and Missouri have decided that state legislatures may safeguard the health of women by limiting their hours of labor. The constitutionality of the laws, passed within the last year, by the states of Washington, California and Ohio, which provided for the reduction of the hours of females, are now contested in the courts of the respective states.

The average socialist classifies himself as a wage slave. Confused by his dogmas based on false premises, and his anxiety to destroy, by falsehoods and innuendo, anybody and everybody, opposed to his confusion on economic questions, he is not capable to debate the labor question intelligently. His abject mental slavery is a fact and to be deplored; there is hope, however, that practical experience based on facts will emancipate him in time from this kind of slavery.

The Typographical Journal writes:

"The establishment of the eight-hour day, and the campaign for better sanitary conditions in the composing room, insures a longer life for the printer. In 1900 the average age at death of members of the International Typographical Union was 41.25. In ten years the average age has increased to 49.12."

The voters of the State of California adopted at the election, held in October, 1911, the following amendment to the constitution: "The Legislature may by appropriate legislation create and enforce a liability on the part of all employers to compensate their employees for any injury incurred by the said employees in the course of their employment irrespective of the fault of either party. The Legislature may provide for the settlement of any disputes arising under the legislation contemplated by this section, by arbitration, or by an Industrial Accident Board, by the courts, or by either, any or all of these agencies, anything in this constitution to the contrary notwithstanding."

A union cannot accumulate financial strength in the shape of a strong treasury without the hearty co-operation of the members, by the prompt payment of dues, and special assessments, if necessary. The financial resources of a trades union are a powerful weapon in the eyes of the employers and manufacturers' associations.

The "Forum," a monthly magazine, writes:

"There is an era of strikes, of the consolidation of labor unions, of plans of campaign that give to industrial disputes the importance of paralyzing effects of international wars. There is grave need for reform in industrial affairs; the underpaid and overworked have not yet established what is supposed to be the inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Trades unions are not a political organization in the ordinary sense of the term; they are superior in every shape or form. They advocate legislation in the interest of labor, which benefits and helps to uplift the whole community. They ignore political lines and divisions in the advocacy of beneficial measures.

The most powerful weapon of a trades union, either for aggressive or defensive purposes, is a strong treasury, coupled with a chain of benefits. This will have a tendency to make the members loyal to the organization, at the same time securing for them a fair return for their payments.

The "Workingmen's Compensation Acts" of the States of Washington and Wisconsin, which provide for a system of insurance on an automatic plan for all kinds of injuries during employment and in case of death by accident, have been declared constitutional by the Supreme Courts of those States. In the State of Washington 250 claims are pending for settlement by the Insurance Commission.

In 1909 there were 3,987 acres harvested in Florida producing 3,505,801 pounds of the value of $1,025,476, or an average of about 29 cents per pound. In the period from 1899 to 1909 tobacco increased 1,931 acres, or 93.9 per cent. It has advanced from 90 acres in 1879 to 1,190 in 1889, to 2,056 in 1899 and finally to 3,987 in 1909. The aggregate production in 1909 was 3,505,800 pounds; the average yield per acre 879 pounds; the average value per acre $257.

The Turkish tobacco crop in 1910 amounted to about fourteen million pounds, as compared with 4,230,000 in 1910. There is room for extending the acreage for cultivation, providing general conditions are favorable.

The government commission which investigated the tobacco industry in Australia in 1904-05 reported that the combination controlling the business consisted of the States Tobacco Co., which was engaged solely in the manufacture of cigars; the British-Australian Tobacco Co., engaged solely in the production of manufactured tobacco; the American Tobacco Co. of Australasia, which manufactured and imported cigarettes, and Kronheimer, Limited, a jobbing house, which was under the direct control of the three manufacturing companies.

The total number of cigar manufacturers for whom accounts were rendered for the calendar year 1910 was 23,050, which includes 531 manufacturers of cigarettes.

The total number of cigars made weighing more than 3 pounds per 1,000 was 6,810,098,416, an increase of 142,323,501 compared with the production of 1909.

The total number of cigars made weighing not more than 3 pounds per 1,000 was 1,118,135,635, an increase of 75,112,076 cigars as compared with the production for the previous year.

The total number of cigarettes made weighing more than 3 pounds per 1,000 was 19,374,077, an increase of 1,579,914 over the previous year.

The total number of cigarettes made weighing not more than 3 pounds per 1,000 was 8,644,335,407, an increase of 1,825,477,135 over the previous year.

There was a decrease of 121 in the number of tobacco and snuff factories operated during last year as compared with the previous year.

During the past year the bureau has been investigating the matter of manufacturers giving away to their employees cigars and other tobacco products free of tax. Sporadic efforts have been made from time to time to enforce the statutory provisions in this regard, but it is clear that systematic investigation is necessary.

Census Report on Tobacco Manufacturers—A Decrease in Five Years of 6 Per Cent in the Number of Establishments and of 24 Per Cent in the Amount of Capitalization.

Washington, Dec. 1, 1911.

A special report on tobacco manufactures in 1909, with comparisons for 1904, was made public today by the Census Bureau.

The report states that there were 15,822 establishments in the tobacco industry, as compared with 16,827 in 1904, a decrease of 6 per cent. The establishments in 1909 were capitalized at $245,660,000, as against $323,982,000 in 1904, a decrease of 24 per cent.

Full details are shown in the following tabular summary:

	1909	1904	Per cent of increase, 1904-1909.
Number of establishments	15,822	16,827	— 6
Capital	$245,660,000	$323,982,000	24
Cost of materials used	$177,186,000	$126,086,000	21
Salaries and wages	$86,134,000	$71,439,000	21
Salaries	$16,779,000	$8,800,000	91
Wages	$69,355,000	$62,639,000	11
Miscellaneous expenses	$102,653,000	$80,145,000	28
Value of products	$416,695,000	$331,111,000	26
Value added by manufacture (products less cost of materials)	$239,509,000	$205,025,000	17
Employees:
Number of salaried officials and clerks	13,193	9,235	43
Average number of wage earners	166,810	159,406	5
Primary horsepower	28,514	24,604	16

*A minus sign (—) denotes a decrease.

The census includes chewing and smoking tobacco and snuff, cigars and cigarettes. The report shows increases in all the items with the exception of the number of establishments and capital invested. The gross value of products increased 26 per cent; materials cost, 41 per cent; added value by manufacture, 17 per cent; number of wage earners, 5 per cent; amount paid for wages, 11 per cent; number of officials and clerks, 43 per cent; salaries, 91 per cent; miscellaneous expenses, 28 per cent.

The report states that the average capital per establishment was $16,000 in 1909 and $19,000 in 1904. The average value of products per establishment is estimated at $26,000 for 1909 and $20,000 for 1904.

The report notes that the most important item of miscellaneous expenses is the internal revenue tax. By reason of that tax the miscellaneous expenses are much larger in the tobacco industry than in other trades. The value of products and value added by manufacture also includes the tax.

THEY NEED A PRISON SENTENCE.

The law says women shall not be employed more than 54 hours in one week. There is not a business merchant in this city but is aware that this is the law; and, yet in their greed for gain, we find merchant after merchant violating the provisions of this statute. Judge Jeffries has had several of these cases before him, and we are pleased to find that he is handling the offenders with proper severity. One of these was the Trojan Laundry Company. He informed the head of that institution that the law was one of the best ever passed by the legislature of Michigan, it being a measure that worked for greater civilization.

David S. Jones, business agent of the Cigar-makers' Union, No. 22, complains that a number of non-union cigar factories are working the women help overtime; and, moreover, they are employing girls under legal age. He reports that the San Telmo Cigar Mfg. Co., 540 Forest avenue east, and the Lilies Cigar Co. 222 Forest avenue east, in particular are offenders.

If these parties will not live up to the letter of the law they should be made to do so. These rich men are not troubled by being fined. What they need is a prison sentence to make them notice that others beside themselves have rights which should be respected.—Detroit American.

International Jewelry Workers' Union.

The Union (double acorn) Label of the International Jewelry Workers' Union of America is stamped on jewelry of all descriptions, emblems, buttons and charms, fobs, badges and novelties in all metals other than tin or sheet iron. See that the shop number is attached to label as per above cut. Shop number will be found on the end of label when stamped in rings. List of union shops will be furnished on request.

Carriage, Wagon and Automobile Workers' International Union.

In placing your Auto, Carriage and Wagon work, new or old, bear in mind that it represents a mechanical efficiency, as well as a long stride towards a perfect civilization. Encourage the label. It costs you nothing but the effort. Is used on new and repair work.

Laundry Workers' Union Label.

Stamped on Price List from all Union Laundries. SEE THAT YOUR LAUNDRY MAN HAS IT.

Washington News Letter.

Boston, is the first city in the United States to retire laborers on half pay after 60 years of age.

Incubating Another Trust.

A searching investigation of existing telegraph and telephone rates is believed to be foreshadowed by demands which have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in the form of petitions, directing the attention of the commission "to the apparent purpose of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to monopolize all facilities for wire communication."

The Secretary of Agriculture is out with a statement declaring that the federal government should take a deeper interest in its civil employees, both while they are in active service as well as after they have reached the age of retirement.

Amicable agreements between the telegraph operators and officials of the Southern Railway and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, by which the employees of the former will receive an increase of 12 per cent and those of the latter a 6 per cent increase, have been reached. Shorter working hours and other concessions were also granted. The operators on the Southern Railway will receive $120,000 more annually. The agreement on the Southern Railway was reached through negotiations conducted between the general manager of the road and representatives of the Telegraphers.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 18.—What portended to be a serious wage difficulty between the butchers' union and a packing company in this city, has been amicably adjusted. A wage raise of from 2 to 5 cents per hour has been granted, and organization recognized.

Metal Trades Department.

James O'Connell has been re-elected president and will devote his entire time to organization under salary.

Ohio is in the list of progressive states; an overwhelming majority of the delegates to the constitutional convention being pledged to the initiative and referendum, with a splendid opportunity of incorporating the recall. About a dozen union men have been elected as delegates, four having been elected from the city of Cleveland and the others from different portions of the state.

Amendment to be Urged.

It is reported that specific amendments to the Sherman Anti-Trust law to remedy defects in the original enactment and to eliminate from it the "rule of reason" test which the United States Supreme Court wrote into the law, have been prepared by Representative Henry of Texas, Chairman of the House Committee on Rules and ranking member of the Judiciary committee. It is asserted that Mr. Henry will press the bill for immediate consideration before the Committee on Judiciary. Violation of the law is made a felony with imprisonment in the penitentiary of from two to ten years.

The bill exempts from the operation of the law members of organizations or associations not formed for profit and without capital stock, and agricultural products or live stock in the hands of the producer or raiser. This latter exemption has been what the American Federation of Labor has been contending for, and if this exemption is enacted into law, the Sherman Anti-Trust law can then be enforced according to the original intentions of those who formulated and sought its passage.

It is further stated that the Judiciary Committee of the House has decided upon a revision of the injunction statutes and the laws regulating indirect contempt cases. A law providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt of court and modification of the injunction are regarded as necessary to carry out the pledges as expressed in the platform of the Denver National Democratic convention.

Several hundred clerks employed by the Southern Railway Company of this city, have been granted an advance in salary, ranging from five to fifteen per cent, according to length of service, the increase taking effect November 1.

The United Textile Workers of America at their last convention, took action to affiliate with the International Federation of Textile Workers' Association. The membership of the International Federation is approximately 430,000, with headquarters in England.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of 462, West Tampa, Fla., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Amend Resolution 2 by adding at the end "and Italian language." Resolution to read: "That the Constitution of Cigarmakers' International Union of America be printed in the Dutch or Flemish and Italian languages."

Received the endorsement of 150 Sioux City, 315 St. Cloud, 68 Albany, 291 San Jose, 90 New York, 174 Joliet, 179 Bangor, 129 Denver, 25 Milwaukee.

The amendment of 25 Milwaukee, Wis., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Strike out all of Section 200 and insert the following:

"On and after May 1, 1912, no member of the Cigarmakers' International Union of America will be permitted to work in any but strictly union shops under the jurisdiction of the International Union."

Received the endorsement of 297 Canton, 150 Sioux City, 291 San Jose, 491 Huron, 129 Denver.

The amendment of Union 144 New York, as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Strike out of Section 81 all on line 13 after the word "sustained," up to and including the word "decided," on line 15, and insert the following:

"Unless the shop or shops involved shall have voted by secret ballot whether an application for strike shall be made, and if the vote is in the affirmative, the same shall be referred to the Joint Advisory Board, who shall have the power to make an application for strike to the International Union without submitting the same to a referendum vote of the members affiliated with the Joint Advisory Board, but no application to strike shall be made unless a committee of the J. A. B. first visits the firm to investigate the grievance." Section to read accordingly.

Received the endorsement of 33 Indianapolis, 213 New York, 381 Watertown, 38 Springfield, 49 Springfield, 392 Brooklyn, 315 St. Cloud, 165 Philadelphia, 13 New York, 440 Tampa, 329 Fond du Lac, 90 New York, 154 Lincoln, 3 Paterson, 129 Denver, 25 Milwaukee.

The amendment of Union 144 New York, as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 213, by striking out all after the words "International Constitution." Section to read as follows:

"Sec. 213. All rules or regulations adopted by such unions must receive a majority vote of all members voting in such localities; this shall also apply to the sections of the Constitution relating to the label.

"It shall be optional with the local unions of New York so long as the open shop system is in operation to stipulate that any member joining the union cannot work in a label shop until he or she has been a member of the International Union for at least one year. This shall not debar apprentices who served their apprenticeship in a union shop from working in any union shop receiving the label, or cigarmakers coming from foreign countries that are accepted according to Section 67 of the International Constitution."

Received the endorsement of 213 New York, 292 Brooklyn, 165 Philadelphia, 13 New York, 329 Fond du Lac, 90 New York, 316 McSherrystown, 25 Milwaukee.

The amendment of 6 and 241 Syracuse, as published in the November Journal, as follows:

"That a 15-cent assessment be levied on all 15 and 30-cent members for the purpose of agitating directly against the products of Justin Seubert, Inc., strike shop of Syracuse, N. Y., the proceeds of the assessment to be under the supervision of the International President, who shall appoint a special agitator for the purpose of agitating in the territory where the above named firm market their goods."

Received the endorsement of 33 Indianapolis, 381 Watertown, 24 Muskegon, 257 Lancaster, 329 Fond du Lac, 52 Elmira, 49 Springfield, 213 New York, 3 Paterson, 154 Lincoln, 454 Cedar Rapids, 68 Albany, 13 New York, 125 Norwich, 304 Racine, 108 Ogdensburg, 2 Buffalo, 455 Galena, 415 Elkhardt, 174 Joliet, 171 E. Greenville, 129 Denver, 28 Westfield, 253 Oakland, 25 Milwaukee, 61 LaCrosse, 89 Schenectady, 212 Superior.

The amendment of 253 Oakland, Calif., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 156 by striking out the last sentence and substitute the following:

But in no event shall a manufacturer be permitted to use the label who offers presents to the jobbers or retailers as an inducement for the sale of his goods. But this shall not debar manufacturers from offering articles as premiums in exchange of cigar bands, or other like methods, to consumers.

Received the endorsement of 68 Albany, 291 San Jose, 72 Burlington, 28 Westfield.

The amendment of 42 Hartford, Conn., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Whenever the question of the holding of a session (convention) of the International Union is submitted to a referendum vote of the members, it shall be held under the same laws governing the regular election of International officers. The members shall be subject to the same penalties and exemptions as are expressed in paragraph 8 of Section 12 of the constitution.

Received the endorsement of 297 Canton, 314 Jackson, 315 St. Cloud, 13 New York, 90 New York, 179 Bangor, 28 Westfield, 25 Milwaukee.

Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill., proposes the following amendment to Section 64 of the International Constitution, by adding after the words "except in places where the system has been already introduced," the following:

It shall be the duty of the chairman of the executive board to immediately take charge of the member, or members, and impart explicit and comprehensive instructions in reference to the purchase of union made products. Any member of the C. M. I. U. of A. who shall employ non-union labor, or purchase non-union made products, or accept the same gratuitously shall be fined not less than $1.00 nor more than $5.00 for each offense. Section to read accordingly.

The McNamara case having been settled there is no need to submit the amendment of 28 Westfield, Mass., proposing assessment, to popular vote.

UNION NOTES BY UNION 97, BOSTON.

Label committee succeeded in interesting Boston clubs in union made cigars; men who smoke union cigars in the club will buy them outside when they want a smoke. We are now after the hotels. Committee will run a Christmas ad in all of the daily papers. When getting up a label ad, see that the label is the principal feature of the ad. The output of cigars in Massachusetts for the month of October, 1911, was 1,531,617 over same month last year. The shorter work day, the living wage, better sanitary conditions are the aims and objects of the labor movement. No. 97 gave $100.00 to button makers of Muscatine, our third donation. Don't forget to wear union collars and neckties; they cost no more. Label section of Boston C. L. U. publish a bulletin and it is well edited. Why not add an old age pension to our chain of benefits? Was the dissolution of the tobacco trust a farce or a comedy? Editorial comment on Boston made cigars in the public press was written by our president.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

In this issue we find Coupon Chumpo chasing the radiant rainbow in search of something for nothing, and see that he got the latter—nothing. After patiently smoking coupon cigars made by women and children at starvation wages and hugging the delusion of getting a valuable present, he finds himself, on reaching the end of the rainbow, holding the empty bag and stung again.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths, kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of members. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card state when and where from, and in addition send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the latter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 145 and 151, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relating to death or deaths as follows, and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 56, Leavenworth, Kan.—Mrs. Ann Kirkham.

Union 25, Milwaukee.—Peter Helemlich, No. 84013, who died November 24th.

Union 14, Chicago.—Fred Engelthaler, aged 49 years, died June 4, 1911; Chas. W. Van Guylder, aged 52 years, died June 25, 1911; Anton Duschaneck, aged 47 years, died June 28, 1911; Fred Nielsen, aged 57 years, died July 12, 1911; Thos. Carlos, aged 50 years, died July 26, 1911; John Mock, aged 53 years, died Sept. 12, 1911; Thos. W. Cornwell, aged 52 years, died Sept. 20, 1911; Miss V. Przybytowicz, aged 44 years, died Oct. 26, 1911; Mrs. Lida M. James, aged 60 years, died Nov. 3, 1911; August Koss, aged 52 years, died Nov. 16, 1911; William Elsing, aged 57 years, died Nov. 22, 1911; Herman Pabst, aged 54 years, died Nov. 24, 1911; Jos. Kubicki, aged 52 years, died Dec. 2, 1911; Sidney Isaacs, aged 38 years, died Dec. 2, 1911.

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—Enrique C. Cepero, No. 119011, who died November 12th. Funeral in charge of the family. Interment Crown Hill Cemetery.

Union 275, Aberdeen, S. D.—Jos. L. Jelleneck, No. 79157, who died November 3d.

Les unions ouvrières ont réussi à maintenir un taux honorable de salaires pendant les paniques financières et les périodes de stagnation commerciale qui en ont résulté. Elles ont réussi à empêcher des réductions; et les tentatives en vue de substituer des conditions défavorables de travail dans les ateliers lorsque le commerce était mauvais et les emplois difficiles à obtenir, ont été généralement repoussées, grâce à elles.

Lorsqu'il s'agit de formuler des tarifs de prix et de présenter des réclamations pour que les salaires soient augmentés, il est important d'observer et de savoir, si le commerce va au commissionnaire, qui est l'intermédiaire entre le fabricant et le marchand au détail. Le fabricant lorsqu'il vend au commissionnaire, ne réalise pas le bénéfice qui est obtenu par le patron vendant directement au marchand au détail. Le commissionnaire prélève généralement la part du lion.

* * *

Les unions ouvrières sont en train d'essayer d'éduquer les masses, leur faisant comprendre l'utilité qu'il y a pour elles à se servir de leur puissance d'acheteurs pour améliorer leur situation financière. L'augmentation de l'emploi de marchandises fabriquées par des ouvriers affiliés aux unions, de préférence à celles produites par des artisans peu payés, est une tendance dans la bonne direction. Bien que cela demande du temps d'instruire les classes ouvrières dans les choses pratiques, le progrès réalisé dans ce sens n'en est pas moins un encouragement pour l'avenir.

Le Conseil Exécutif de la Fédération des solidaires unions des métiers libres d'Allemagne, ont fait un appel en faveur des ouvriers en tabacs, etc., "locked-out" à Lippe et en Westphalie. Le 12 octobre, 1911, l'association des fabricants renvoya environ 9,000 personnes employées dans ce métier. L'appel sollicite des contributions volontaires du labeur organisé en général; il fait sentir l'importance qu'à cette lutte pour les personnes employées dans cette branche de l'industrie, dont les salaires ne s'élèvent pas au-dessus d'une moyenne de cinquante-deux cents (0.52) par jour.

Pendant les trois dernières années, les cours suprêmes des Etats-Unis et des Etats de l'Illinois, du Michigan, de la Louisiane, de la Virginie et du Missouri ont décidé que les législations d'états peuvent sauvegarder la santé des femmes en limitant leurs heures de travail. La constitutionnalité des lois adoptées pendant l'année dernière par les états de Washington, Californie et Ohio, prévoyant la réduction des heures de travail des femmes, est à présent contestée dans les cours de ces états.

Le socialiste en moyenne se qualifie d'esclave du salaire. L'esprit confondu par des dogmes basés sur de fausses promesses et possédé du désir d'anéantir, au moyen de mensonges ou d'insinuations, tout ce qui s'oppose à ses vues erronées sur les sujets économiques, il est absolument incapable de discuter d'une façon intelligente la question du travail. Son abject esclavage mental est un fait et il faut le déplorer. Il y a cependant de l'espoir qu'une expérience pratique, basée sur les faits mêmes, finira par l'émanciper de cette sujétion.

Le Journal Typographique dit ce qui suit: "L'établissement de la journée de huit heures et la campagne en faveur de conditions sanitaires plus avantageuses dans les salles de composition, assurent une vie plus longue aux ouvriers typographes. En 1900, la moyenne de la durée de la vie chez ces artisans n'était que de 41.25 ans chez les membres de l'Union Internationale des Typographes. En 10 ans, cette moyenne s'est élevée à 49.12 ans."

Ce qui précède prouve surabondamment que les unions ouvrières sont en train d'obtenir pour leurs membres des bienfaits plus durables que n'importe quelle autre agence, fût-elle sociale ou politique, peut espérer de leur avoir jamais.

Nous remarquons dernièrement une dépêche parue dans un quotidien, disant qu'une grève avait éclaté et était en progrès dans une certaine ville et que les directeurs du labeur dans cette ville avaient décidé d'entreprendre une campagne d'éducation. Ceci était, sans doute, ce qu'il y avait de mieux à faire dans les circonstances où ils se trouvaient, mais combien il eût été préférable que la campagne prévédât la mise en grève, au lieu de la suivre.

* * *

Le labeur organisé a commis des erreurs, mais lorsqu'on se rappelle les bienfaits étonnants qu'il a obtenus tout en luttant contre des résistances sans scrupule et toutes-puissantes, des excuses sont absolument inutiles. Le fait est que le labeur organisé a autant à lutter contre les préjugés enracinés créés par les gens à esprit étroit qui ne savent rien des besoins de l'ouvrier, que contre les capitalistes organisés les moins scrupuleux.

* * *

W. D. Mahon, président de l'Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés, compile dans son dernier livre annuel, un grand nombre de faits du plus haut intérêt. Il démontre que $60,612.42 ont été versés pendant l'année en bénéfices de maladie, d'incapacité au travail et de décès. Le nombre des agréments avec les compagnies de traction en force en 1910 s'est élevé à 150, contre 123 l'année précédente.

Clarence Darrow écrit ceci:

"Contre l'effort du patron et les lois du commerce de remplacer les habiles par les inhabiles, les intelligents par les ignorants, les forts par les faibles, les hommes par les femmes, les femmes par les enfants—contre la tendance d'augmenter les heures de travail, de fournir des outils à bon marché et peu sûrs et des conditions non sanitaires de travail, il n'existe qu'une seule force agressive et substantielle dans la société moderne. Et c'est l'unionisme des métiers."

L'opposition de quelques unions ouvrières à trancher les disputes de métiers par la voie de conférences, de conciliation et d'arbitrage avec les fabricants, ne se base point sur le sens commun ni sur l'expérience. Refuser de reconnaître aux fabricants le droit d'argumenter ou de discuter la sagesse des demandes de salaires plus élevés, de meilleures conditions de travail, etc., ce n'est pas seulement le fait d'une politique à vuebasse; mais cela mène aussi le public à penser que ces demandes sont arbitraires et injustes.

Les grèves doivent être évitées jusqu'à ce que les chances de succès aient été discutées avec sang-froid et délibération. Lors que les affaires vont mal et que les emplois sont difficiles à obtenir, les chances sont mauvaises; lorsque la saison de printemps ou celle d'automne, où le travail est plus pressant, est près de se terminer, le succès est douteux. Lorsque le métier n'est pas complètement organisé, les chances sont très douteuses.

L'intérêt dominant de l'American Tobacco Company a présenté au Secrétaire de l'Etat de New Jersey des articles pour l'incorporation de la P. Lorillard Company, au capital de $26,453,200 et de la Liggett, Meyers Tobacco Company, au capital de $36,800,200. L'American Tobacco Company continue à exercer son monopole sous un nouveau nom.

Las huelgas han de ser evitadas hasta que las esperanzas de éxito hayan sido discutidas con detenimiento y de sangre fría. Cuando está malo el comercio y raras las colocaciones, entonces las esperanzas son pocas; cuando la estación de otoño ó la de primavera, cuando son más activos los negocios, ya está casi terminada, entonces las esperanzas de éxito no son muy numerosas.

Una unión no puede acumular fuerza pacuaria bajo la forma de una tesorería fuerte, sin por eso tener la ayuda generosa de los miembros, pagando estos con prontitud sus impuestos y aún sus cotizaciones especiales, caso fueran estas necesarias. Los recursos pecunarios de una unión de gremios son una arma potente en los ojos de las asociaciones de patronos y de manufactureros.

* * *

Las uniones de gremios no son organizaciones políticas en el sentido ordinario de la mencionada expresión; son superiores á estas bajo todo punto de vista. Ellas defienden las leyes favorables á la labor, lo que beneficia y eleva la comunidad entera. Ellas ignoran las líneas ó partidos políticos así como las divisiones en la defensa de las medidas benéficas.

* * *

En el curso de los tres años transcurridos, las cortes supremas de los Estados Unidos, así como las de los estados de Illinois, Michigan, Louisiana, Virginia y Missouri, han decidido que la legislación de los estados pueden proteger la salud de las mujeres, limitando las horas de trabajo. La constitucionalidad de las leyes adoptadas en el curso del año pasado en los estados de Washington, California y Ohio que proveen la reducción de las horas de labor de las mujeres, está contestada ahora en las cortes de esos estados.

La oposición de la parte de algunas uniones de gremios al ajuste de las controversias de gremios por medio de conferencias, conciliaciones y arbitraje con los manufactureros, no está fundada sobre el sentido común ni la experiencia. Negar á los manufactureros el derecho de discutir ó de combatir la oportunidad de cualquier demanda de salarios más elevados, de condiciones mejores, etc., es no solo prueba de miopía moral, sino que también hace esto pensar al público que las demandas son arbitrarias é injustas.

Antes que organizaran las uniones sobre una base permanente, una tarifa uniforme de precios, sobre la cual las dos partes estaban de acuerdo, era un acontecimiento raro. Los obreros recibían diferentes tarifas de salarios por la misma clase de trabajo, si trabajaban a la pieza ó a la afa. Como individuos, no podían resistir con éxito a las reducciones de salarios y a las malas condiciones de los talleres, y en los casos donde la resistencia lograba éxito, las ventajas alcanzadas solo eran temporarias y las perdían en poco tiempo.

* * *

El Consejo Ejecutivo de la Federación de las intituladas uniones de gremios de Alemania, ha emitido una súplica en favor de los embaladores y cigarreros "locked-out" en Lippe y Westphalia, Alemania. El 12 de octubre de 1911, la asociación de manufactureros despidió unos 9,000 obreros. La súplica pide contribuciones voluntarias de la parte de la labor organizada en general, insistiendo sobre la importancia de la lucha de la parte de la gente empleada en el gremio de tabacos, cuyos salarios no superaban un promedio de cincuenta y dos (52) centavos por día.

* * *

El socialista en general se clasifica como un esclavo del salario, confundido por dogmas fundados sobre promesas falsas y su ansiedad de destruir, por falsedades é insinuaciones, todos los que se oponen a su confusión de cuestiones económicas que no es capaz de discutir de una manera inteligente. Su abyecta esclavitud mental es un hecho reconocido y que hay que lamentar; subsisten esperanzas, sin embargo, que una experiencia práctica, fundada sobre los acontecimientos mismos, llegarán a emanciparlo dentro de algun tiempo de esta clase de esclavitud.

Estimamos ser el deber nuestro recordar a los embaladores y escojedores, así como a los cigarreros, que el camino del éxito hacia mejores condiciones económicas y sociales, se encuentra en una organización completa del gremio. Cada hombre y cada mujer que trabaja para ganar su vida, se necesita en esta gran lucha. La agitación, la organización y la educación son cosas esenciales; no han de cesar hasta que esté completa la tarea.

Se lee lo siguiente en el "Weekly Bulletin" (Boletín semanal) de los "Garment Workers" (obreros roperos):

"Muchos miles de pesos y un gran esfuerzo han sido gastados por los obreros al formar uniones de gremios, que eran absolutamente necesarias, pero se han consagrado sumas de dinero y de energía superiores todavía a la dirección de huelgas y de "lock-outs," muchos de las cuales no tenían utilidad ninguna."

Las Uniones de los Obreros de Tejidos en los estados de Nueva Inglaterra, han hecho mucho para mejorar la situación de los trabajadores de la industria del algodón y de la lana.

Por medio de su influencia, las uniones han reducido las horas de trabajo gracias a leyes que han sido adoptadas, y así mismo han favorecido la adopción de otras leyes para la restricción del trabajo infantil, para aparatos de seguridad, para condiciones sanitarias mejoradas y para la inspección de las fábricas. Ellas han aumentado también, por su vigilancia, la eficacia de las inspecciones de fábricas.

El "Forum," una publicación mensual, publica lo siguiente:

"Hay una era de huelgas, de la consolidación de las uniones de gremios, de planos de campaña que dan a las disputas industriales la importancia y los efectos paralizadores de guerras internacionales. Hay una grave necesidad de reformas en los asuntos industriales; los que reciben un saldo derisorio, los que se matan trabajando, no han establecido todavía lo que se supone es su derecho inalienable a la vida, a la libertad y a la prosecución de la felicidad."

Dice el "Typographical Journal":

"El establecimiento de la jornada de ocho horas y la campaña en favor de mejores condiciones sanitarias en las salas de composición, aseguran una vida más larga al impresor. En 1900, el promedio de la edad a la cual morían los miembros de la Unión Internacional era de 41.25 años. En diez años, el promedio se ha elevado hasta 49.12."

A esto agregaremos nosotros que no existe otra agencia ó asociación política del tipo más radical, que haya alcanzado tanto para el obrero como sus uniones de gremios.

Dice el "Outlook" lo que sigue:

"El capital ha tratado durante años en Inglaterra de romper las uniones de gremios por medio de las leyes. Tenía él en su favor la fuerza del dinero, el Parlamento, las cortes, la prensa—y ha fracasado. El capital ha tratado en este país por medio de una guerra privada, de romper las uniones—y ha fracasado."

Lo que antecede no es correcto. El capital en este país ha empleado las mismas armas que en Inglaterra. Ha hecho promulgar las antiguas leyes de conspiración, de las cuales algunas permanecen todavía en los libros estatutarios de varios estados como reliquias del pasado. Ha pedido a las cortes inhibiciones, destruyendo todas las libertades garantizadas por la constitución, durante las disputas sobre salarios, horas de trabajo, etc. Ha dado subsidios y comprado los principales periódicos del país, para que obscurezcan la mente del público con informes erróneos y falsas declaraciones de toda especie. Ha empleado el brazo militar del gobierno, ámbos en el estado y en la nación, para terrorizar los huelgueros y privarlos de sus libertades. Ha alquilado Pinkertons y otros mercenarios para obtener por la fuerza lo que no podían obtener por métodos legales. Pero, con todos esos obstáculos, el movimiento de la labor ha ido aumentando y fortaleciéndose.

La demanda de una jornada general de ocho horas está justificada por el hecho que la producción de la industria hoy día es ampliamente suficiente para procurar salarios que permitan a los obreros de soportar a sus familias según el tipo americano de vida, y, en segundo lugar, que ocho horas por día es el límite del tiempo en que un hombre de fuerza y de salud ordinarias puede sostener el esfuerzo de sus facultades físicas y morales de manera que resulte bien hecho su tarea y que conserve sus facultades durante el periodo activo de su carrera.

Ódpor některých řemeslnických unií k vyrovňování dělnických otázek konferenci, poradou a arbitraci se zaměstnavatelem, nezakládá se na zdravém rozumu a zkušenosti. Odpíratí továrníku vyjednávání s ním o vyšších mzdách, lepších podmínkách atd. jest nejen krátkozrakou politikou, ale vede též často obecenstvo k převládání, že ony požadavky jsou nespravedlivy. Mínění lidu, třeba ne přímo sůčastněného, nesmí se ignorovati.

Stávek jest se vystříhati, dokud všechny okolnosti nejsou chladnokrevně uváženy. Je-li obchod mdlý a zaměstnání málo, jsou též naděje slabé; blíží-li se pilná podzimní neb jarní sezona ke konci, jsou též vyhlídky na úspěch málo slibné.

Řemeslnické unie dovedly si udržeti slušné mzdy během doby finanční tísně. Ony dovedly též předejiti snížení; a všechny pokusy změnití špatné tovární podmínky, když obchod byl slabý a zaměstnání těžko k dostání, obyčejně byly poraženy.

Při určování cen a kladení požadavků za vyšší mzdu jest třeba věděti, zdali zboží jde k překupníkovi, který jest prostředníkem mezi továrníkem a maloobchodníkem. Prodáváči továrních zboží překupníkovi, nemá nikdy takový zisk, jako prodává-li zboží přímo maloobchodníkovi. Překupník obyčejně dostává lvi podíl.

Řemeslnické unie činí pokusy vychovati masu lidu v ten smysl, získati sílu konsumentů pro zlepšení finančního stavu. Zvýšená spotřeba uniového zboží proti výrobkům zhotoveným špatně placenou a ekébskou prací, jest tendence pravého směru. Než vezme to ještě čas, vychovati pracující třídu v praktickém směru, ale postup učiněný jest povzbuzujícím znamením pro budoucnost.

Výkonný výbor tak zvané federace svobodných řemeslnických unií v Německu vydal provolání ve prospěch vyhostění doutníků atd. v Lippe a Westfalsku v Německu, když jednata továrníků propustila 12. října t.r. přes 9000 osob z práce. V provolání se žádá o dobrovolné příspěvky organizovaných dělníků vůbec, a líčí se zápas osob zaměstnaných v tabákovém obchodě, kde průměrná mzda neobnáší více než 52 centy na den.

V minulých třech letech rozhodnuto bylo nejvyšším soudem Spoj. Států a státní zákonodárnou státní Illinois, Michigan, Louisiana, Virginia a Missouri, chrániti zdraví žen obmezením počtu hodin pracovních. Zákon přijatý minulého roku ve státech Washington, California a Ohio, jímž postaráno bylo rovněž o zmenšení počtu pracovních hodin pro ženy, jest nyní kontestován u soudů ve zmíněných státech.

Typografický "Journal" píše: Zavedení 8-hodinové doby pracovní a zahájení kampaně ve prospěch zlepšení zdravotních podmínek v tiskárně, zajišťuje delší život pro tiskaře. V r. 1900 průměrné stáří zemřelých členů mezinárodní typografické unie bylo 41.25. V 10 letech průměr stoupl na 49.12.

"Forum", měsíčník, píše: "Ted" jest doba stávek, sloučení dělnických unií, návrhů, jež způsobují epory v průmyslu a doba ohromujícího vlivu mezinárodních válek. Je vážná potřeba reformy v průmyslových záležitostech. Špatné placení a přetěžování prací nemělo by býti udržováno, naopak směřovati k správnějšímu životu, který vede ku svobodě a k štěstí.

Unie nemohou založiti finanční zdatnost prostřednictvím silné pokladny, bez spolupůsobení všech členů správným odváděním poplatků a zvláštních příspěvků v pádu potřeby. Finanční bezpečnost řemeslnických unií jest silnou zbraní proti zaměstnavatelům a továrníkům.

Průměrný socialista činí ze sebe placeného otroka. Jsa popleten ve svých názorech, podporován falešnými sliby špatných vůdců, způsobuje zmatek v hospodářských otázkách, aniž by byl schopen o dělnické otázky rokovat po způsobu inteligentních lidí. Jeho nízká duševní úroveň činí jej ještě větším otrokem a jest politování hodný. Zbývá jen naděje, že zkušenosti, které dává praktický život, jej časem osvobodí od tohoto otroctví.

Kontrolující zájem v American Tobacco Co. podal tajemníku státu New Jersey články inkorporační jménem P. Larillard Company, kapitál $26,463,200, a jménem Liggett Meyers Tobacco Co., kapitál 36,800,200. Jmenované společnosti povedou svůj obchod nadále jako před tím.

Náhrada dělnictvu výnosem státu Wisconsin a Washington, která stanoví pojištění pro všechny druhy poranění při práci i pro případ úmrtí následkem nehody, byla prohlášena za ústavní nejvyšším soudem jmenovaných států. Ve státě Washington bylo 250 případů, čekajících na srovnání před komisí.

Dříve než se řemeslnické unie zorganizovaly, byla stejnoměrná mezdní škála velmi řídkou. Dělníkům byly placeny různé mzdy, ať pracovali na den nebo od kusu. Jako jednotlivci nemohli úspěšně odporovat snížení mzdy a špatným podmínkám továrním po delší čas; a v případech úspěšných byly úspěchy tyto jen časovými a trvaly krátký čas.

Práce byla a jest neodvislou od kapitálu. Kapitál jest pouze ovocem práce, a nemohl by existovati, kdyby práce nepředcházela. Práce jest představitelkou kapitálu a má se o ní více uvažovati. Nikdo nemá míti té důvěry, jako člověk z chudoby pocházející, jenž těžce pracuje a vše si poctivě zaslouží.

Aus Deutschland.

Die folgende Berichte über Streiks und Lock-outs der deutschen Tabakarbeiter sind dem offiziellen Organ entnommen:

Spenge i. Westf. Die Firma J. G. Dröge, mit welcher unser Verband ein Tarifvertragsverhältnis im Jahre 1909 eingegangen war, gehört dem Westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verband an und sperrte die organisierten Arbeiter aus. Die Firma hat aus letzterem Grunde das Tarifvertragsverhältnis verlegt und ist deshalb aus der Liste der tariftreuen Firmen gestrichen.

Bremen.

Der Vorstand des Deutschen Tabakarbeiter-Verbandes.

Zur Tabakarbeiterausperrung. Die Ausperrung der organisierten Tabakarbeiter im westfälisch-lippischen Industriegebiet dauert unverändert fort. Insgesamt sind über 8200 Arbeiter, die dem Tabakarbeiterverband, dem Verband der Zigarrensortierer und Kistenbekleber Deutschlands, dem Holzarbeiterverband und dem christlichen Tabakarbeiterverband angehören, ausgesperrt. Viele mitarbeitende organisierte Frauen der Ausgesperrten und ein Teil nichtorganisierter Zigarrenarbeiter schlossen sich den Ausgesperrten an, so daß die Zahl der an der Ausperrung Beteiligten zurzeit 9000 beträgt. Mit dem Schluß dieser Woche werden noch mehr als 500 Arbeiter, die ihr Arbeitsverhältnis selbst kündigten, um Solidarität zu üben, oder gezwungen wurden, weil sie sich den Organisationen anschlossen, die Arbeit niederlegen. Die von der eingesetzten Neuordnungskommission eingeleiteten Verhandlungen sind unterbrochen, da der Vorstand des westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbandes es ablehnt, weiter zu verhandeln, solange diejenigen Ausgesperrten, die angeblich die Arbeit einstellen ohne Einhaltung der Kündigung, die Arbeit nicht wieder aufnehmen. Die Leitung der Ausgesperrten hat sich bereit erklärt, im Sinne dieses Verlangens zu wirken unter der selbstver-ständlichen Bedingung, daß der Vorstand des westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbandes die Verpflichtung übernimmt, auch seinerseits dahin zu wirken, daß diejenigen Firmen, die einen Teil ihrer Arbeiter ohne Einhaltung der Kündigung auf die Straße setzten, diese Entlassungen zurücknehmen und die Gewähr bieten, daß keine Auslese bei Wiedereinstellung dieser Arbeiter vorgenommen wird. Seit Anfang dieser Woche stehen nun auch die Mitarbeiter der Hauptbetriebe in Hamburg-Altona, Achim, Bremen, Hemelingen, Burgdamm, Nitterhude, Langwedel, Osterholz-Scharmbeck und Verden im Ausstande, weil sie es ablehnen, Streikarbeit zu machen und nicht gewillt sind, ihren westfälischen Kollegen in den Rücken zu fallen. Die Arbeitseinstellung in den in Frage kommenden Betrieben erfolgte von Zigarrenmachern und Zigarrensortierern, Beklebern, Fertigmachern und Packern geschlossen. Die Ausgesperrten und Ausständigen sehen mit Ruhe und Entschlossenheit allen Maßnahmen der Zigarrenfabrikanten entgegen.

Bünde i. Westf. Die Arbeiter der Firma Krüger & Blumenau richteten an die Firma das Ersuchen, die Lohn- und Arbeitsverhältnisse aufzubessern. Als Antwort erhielten die Arbeiter die Auffündigung, so daß sie seit dieser Woche sich im Ausstand befinden. Die Firma, die außer in Bünde noch Filialbetriebe in Eilshausen und Sidsenhausen unterhält, gehört dem Westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbande nicht an.

Bünde i. Westf. Eine bei der Firma Stute & Comp. eingeleitete Lohnbewegung führte zum Streik. Diese Firma gehörte dem Westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbande nicht an.

Berthel i. Westf. Der Streik bei der Firma G. W. Rohde dauert unverändert fort. Diese Firma gehört dem Westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbande nicht an.

Berthe i. Westf. Der Streik bei der Firma Grohschupf & Schröder (Sitz Bremen) dauert unverändert fort. Diese Firma gehört dem Westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbande nicht an.

Remgo (Lippe). Die Arbeiter der Firma G. Schröder befinden sich seit dem 4. Oktober im Streik. Da die Firma es ablehnt, bessere Lohn- und Arbeitsverhältnisse zu gewähren. Diese Firma gehört dem Westfälischen Zigarrenfabrikanten-Verbande nicht an.

Berlin und Umgegend. Die von unserem Verbande und dem Verbande der Zigarrensortierer und Kistenbekleber Deutschlands eingeleitete Lohnbewegung führte bis jetzt dazu, daß 172 Firmen die Forderungen anerkannten.

Trebbin. Die Lohnbewegung bei der Firma Gerbitz (Sitz Berlin) ist mit gutem Erfolg beendet. Hoffentlich sind nun auch die anderen ortsnähe liegenden Firmen bereit, Lohnzulagen zu gewähren.

Cölbe. Die Lohnbewegung bei der Firma Eduard Traubisch zeitigte den Erfolg, daß die geringeren Sorten 75 Pfennig und die Sorten von 8.25 Mark an pro Mille 50 Pfennig Zulage erhielten. Der Minimallohn, welcher vor der Bewegung 7.75 Mark betrug, ist nunmehr auf 8.50 Mark erhöht. Außerdem soll am 1. Januar ein zweiter Lohnaufschlag für die besseren Sorten eintreten. Die beschäftigten Arbeiter stimmten der Vereinbarung zu.

Spandau. Die Lohnbewegung ist mit gutem Erfolg beendet. Die Firma Rob. Dursch, Wilh. Memmer, Otto Klose, Moos Wm., Max Nölke, Wilh. Pieper und Otto Wille bewilligten den für Berlin festgesetzten Minimallohn und eine täglich neunstündige Arbeitszeit. Die Firma Otto Lüdtke hat noch nicht bewilligt. Die Kollegenschaft wird es an Energie nicht fehlen lassen, nun auch diese Firma zu bewegen, die geforderten Lohnzulagen zu bewilligen.

Oberhausen. Der Streik bei der Firma W. Albracht ist, nachdem sich Arbeitswillige eingefunden hatten, für beendet erklärt.

Bischofswerda. Die Lohnbewegung bei der Firma C. Paulisch endete mit dem Abschluß eines Tarifvertrages, der einen Minimallohn von 8.50 Mark pro Mille bei aufgesetzter Decke, zubereitetem Umblatt und fertiger Einlage vorsieht. Die wöchentliche Arbeitszeit ist auf 55 1/2 Stunden festgesetzt worden.

Walsheim. Die bei der Firma A. Burthardt (Sitz Gera) eingeleitete Lohnbewegung endete mit einem Erfolge für die Arbeiter. Die Firma bewilligte Lohnzulagen von 50 und 75 Pfennig pro Mille.

Reimen (Baden). Die Firma Hauf & Joseph (Sitz Mannheim) bewilligte — nachdem die Arbeiter Forderungen gestellt hatten — auf mehrere Sorten Lohnzulagen in Höhe von 20 Pfennig bis 1 Mark pro Mille. Außerdem erhielten die Deckblattmacher und Einlageripper eine Lohnzulage von 1 Pfennig pro Pfund.

Lauffen a. N. (Württemberg). Der Streik bei der Firma Gust. Rugler dauert unverändert fort. Vor Zug und vor Annahme von Arbeit in Laufen, Güglingen, Weiler a. B., Ochsenbach, Maiefeld, Gleebronn, Leonbrunn, Pfaffenhofen, Untergruppenbach, ferner nach Kirchbach und Stettelfeld (Unterbaden), wo die Firma Filialen hat, wird streng getarnt.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

When applying for retiring card read the Constitution.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

NOTICE.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list, or retires absolutely, all previous cards, in possession of the union, should be returned to the International Union.

MEMBERS OUT OF WORK ARE NOT ENTITLED TO THE SIXTEEN WEEKS' PRIVILEGE IN DUES UNLESS THEY NOTIFY THE SECRETARY WEEKLY BEFORE THE EIGHTH WEEK. THIS INCLUDES TRAVELING MEMBERS WHO SHOULD ALWAYS CARRY A CERTIFICATE AND HAVE SAME SIGNED WEEKLY.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

Any secretary holding card of Max Miller (100015) please send it to this office for inspection.

Any secretary holding card of A. B. Callender, please send it to this office.

Notice to Secretaries and Members.—Please be on the lookout for Geo. D. Rapp, card No. 23335, initiated May 20, 1911, by Union No. 457, Benton Harbor, Mich. He has only his due book with him. Disappeared Sunday, July 30, taking with him about $75.00 secured through fraudulent transactions and forged checks. He also had in his possession $10.00 which he collected from the members in Benton Harbor for dues and failed to turn over to the secretary. He is a little short fellow, about 5 feet, light hair, weight 145, age 44, and has only three fingers on his right hand. He is an old-time offender. His old card was No. 17185, initiated by Union No. 165, Philadelphia, in 1890. Anyone knowing his whereabouts please notify A. D. Hill, Sec'y No. 457, 808 Michigan Ave.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

Before notifying this office of the death of a beneficiary member consult section 151 and comply with same, and if the member has a card deposited send it along with the notification, but take a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

NOTICE.

A party giving the name of Frank Sload, Card No. 840 (which no doubt is fictitious), is imposing on unions in various ways. He is described as about 6 feet and 7 in. tall, weight about 160, age about 48, light blue eyes, sallow complexion and hair just turning gray.

Notice to Secretaries and Members.—Please be on the lookout for Geo. D. Rapp, card No. 23335, initiated May 20, 1911, by Union No. 457, Benton Harbor, Mich. He has only his due book with him. Disappeared Sunday, July 30, taking with him about $75.00 secured through fraudulent transactions and forged checks. He also had in his possession $10.00 which he collected from the members in Benton Harbor for dues and failed to turn over to the secretary. His old card was No. 17185, initiated by Union No. 165, Philadelphia, in 1890. Anyone knowing his whereabouts please notify A. D. Hill, Sec'y No. 457, 808 Michigan Ave.

DECISIONS OF EXECUTIVE BOARD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by L. E. Henderson, of Union 25, of Milwaukee, Wis., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was: Union 25 wished to loan money to buy bonds for the publication of an alleged trade union paper. Certain members appealed against the action of the union, claiming that this paper was a partisan political paper. The International President sustained the appeal of these members, whereupon the union appealed against the decision of the International President to the Executive Board.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That in the evidence submitted by the union is a letter from the Social-Democratic Publishing Company, urging them to buy bonds for the establishment of a daily paper. That this letter closed by saying: "Pledge its moral and financial assistance to the newly proposed daily newspaper." That the union has no right to loan funds raised by assessment for other purposes for the assessment of a partisan political party paper, any more than they would have the right to do the same for any other party, prohibition or church newspaper. That the right to assess certain members, though they be in the minority, for the benefit of any political party, is robbing them of their constitutional and political rights. That the claim that this was local money and that the union had a right to do with it as they chose, is not borne out by the facts. This money was raised by assessment and the union has no right to use certain money except for strictly trade union purposes, and for the purpose for which the money was raised. That the union cannot legally assess a member locally or otherwise for the benefit of a newspaper or political party, or both. This question has been settled in a number of other cases, involving precisely the same principle, and in each case the International President's decision was sustained by a unanimous, or almost unanimous, vote of the Executive Board.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union 292, of Brooklyn, N. Y., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was: The heirs of a deceased member of Union 292 claimed the funeral benefit of $350, which the union claims they are entitled to. The International President refused to allow this claim. The union thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That this member, when joining the union, made a misstatement as to his age, giving it as 45 years, when his death certificate clearly proves that he was 50 years and 11 months old when his application for membership was received; that Section 67 of the Constitution plainly says:

"If it is found that a member has made a misrepresentation in any particular, such membership shall be declared void, all cards that may have been issued annulled, and all moneys paid, forfeited."

That this member should have been placed upon the 15-cent list and was not entitled to benefits already paid him, amounting to $399.66; that in view of the Constitution, and the plain letter of the law, the International President cannot, in justice to the membership, approve the payment of this benefit.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by J. E. Mange, et al., of Brooklyn, N. Y., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was: The joint unions of Brooklyn levied an assessment for agitation purposes, each union voting separately on the assessment. The members appealing claim that under Section 194 of the International Constitution such assessment should have been voted on at a joint meeting of the locals of Brooklyn. These members appealed against the action of the local unions to the International President, who sustained the action of the unions. Thereupon they appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That Section 194 does not state that there must be a joint meeting; it simply says, "Assessments for the purpose of agitations may be levied at joint meetings." That there is nothing in the law making it compulsory to have a joint meeting to levy assessments for this purpose. That the Joint Label Committee proposed the assessment and it was referred to each local union to vote upon, and was carried by a majority vote. That the action of the joint unions of Brooklyn in this instance was constitutional, and it is therefore sustained.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by George McGuire, of Manchester, N. H., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was: Mr. McGuire put in a claim for the sum of $100 for miscellaneous expenses. This claim the International President decided he could not allow. Mr. McGuire appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That this claim, dating back twenty years, was for miscellaneous expenses in addition to the sum provided by the Constitution to be paid to agents, which, according to Section 101 shall be $3 per day for salary and $1 per day for expenses. That the President has not any constitutional right to pay the agent more than the amount stipulated in the Constitution. That the Constitutional rate had been paid this member throughout his services, and that twenty years after he puts in a claim for $100 for miscellaneous expenses; that is, making social calls, and for the purchase of drinks and cigars. That there is no Constitutional authorization for paying such expenses, and the International President therefore refused to pay same.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Yours fraternally,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice-President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union 148 of Caguas, P. R., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers

The basis of the appeal was: Union 148 of Caguas expended the sum of $300 for providing comforts and protection for certain members arrested in connection with the conduct of the strike in that city. The International President claims that these expenditures were unwarranted and illegal. The union thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That according to the evidence in the case, all of the money, with the exception of $80.50 for lawyers' fees, could not be regarded as legitimate expenses, for which the International Union is responsible; that the men incarcerated were released by the efforts of the General Organizer of the American Federation of Labor and the Organizer of the International Union for that district, and that the expenditure of this money by the local union cannot, in justice to the membership, be allowed; that if the members of local unions wish to provide comforts and other things for members in jail, they must do it as individuals, and cannot lawfully ask the International Union to foot the bills.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice-President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union 293 of Fort Smith, Ark., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers

The basis of the appeal was: That Union 293 proposed an amendment to the Constitution, changing the qualifications for members, prohibiting their affiliation with a certain body, said amendment to take effect thirty days after adoption. The International President claimed that this was not a proper amendment and refused to submit it to the membership.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That it is the duty of the President to safeguard and protect, insofar as he is able, the constitutional rights of any member or members who may be affected by a proposition which fundamentally affects his or their memberships, his rights in the organization and membership therein. That any one, a member of the organization, entitled to all the rights and benefits which the International Union provides, cannot be now confronted with new qualifications or penalties for anything that has not been unlawful up to the time of the proposition or the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution. That the amendment says, "Any member who is now a member," and that the words, "Who is now a member" make it retroactive and inadmissible. In other words, the Constitution would be creating a new offense, and if one had been guilty of that offense in the past, he would be expelled for that. That the International Union is a voluntary organization to members of the craft, who must conform to the laws and regulations of the same, and not have their membership put in jeopardy by their affiliation with any other organization, social, religious or political. That the aforesaid amendment is contrary to every principle of justice, is retroactive, and therefore could not legally have been submitted to the membership. That should such an amendment be adopted and any member choose to fight it, it could not be upheld in any court of the land.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice-President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3, 1912.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by the Joint Arbitration Board of Binghamton, against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Tracy, Gariepy, Fitzgerald, Hall, Bradford, Strauss and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was: The Joint Arbitration Board of Binghamton claimed strike benefit for certain members, claiming they were entitled to same by reason of the closing of the shop by order of the International Executive Board. The International President refused to allow same; whereupon the Joint Unions of Binghamton appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That the factory in question was non-union, but that certain union members had been allowed to work therein, being only a small proportion of the force employed. Upon it becoming known that this factory was supplying cigars for a factory previously union, but now on strike, the shop was ordered closed to union men. No application having been either made or approved by the proper authorities for a strike in the first named factory, strike benefits could not be paid under the law to those men who had to quit; that when the strike was ordered in the union factory in Syracuse, the men, had they continued to make cigars for the other factory, would have violated their obligation; that they were so notified and told that they must cease working there whether the shop was closed by the Executive Board or not; that an application to close a shop, if approved by the Executive Board or not, is not necessarily a cause for a strike; that in this case, there was nothing to strike for; the shop was non-union and simply closed to union men. Therefore no strike benefits could be paid.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained. Fraternally yours,
Samuel Gompers,
First Vice-President.

DECISIONS OF PRESIDENT

H. Hans appealed against Nashville, 88, for fining him $100 for quitting a union job in Nashville and going to work in a non-union shop in Louisville. According to the evidence he has also been fined for this offense by Louisville, 32. The fines are hereby reduced to a total all told of $50 for the Louisville offense.

F. W. Carlson appealed against Decatur, 20, for suspending him for leaving town without his card and an unpaid board bill. The appeal was not sustained.

T. Snelvers appealed against Boston, 97, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

J. Foagy appealed against Elmira, 52, for fining him 25 cents for non-attendance at regular meeting. The appeal was not sustained.

W. Trainer appealed against Troy, 9, for fining him $15 for conduct unbecoming a union member. The appeal was not sustained.

Rose Regan appealed against Binghamton, 218, for refusing her claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

W. J. Bauer appealed against Syracuse, 241, for fining and suspending him. The appellant did not first appeal to the union, hence the appeal cannot be recognized.

P. Van Poppel appealed against Boston, 97, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to a mistake in his due book, which caused his suspension, the appeal was sustained.

A. Van Leafferinger appealed against Boston, 97, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

M. D. Lammey appealed against Los Angeles, 225, for fining her $2 for failure to parade Labor Day. Appellant claims she was unable to parade on that day. The appeal was sustained.

F. Heron appealed against Los Angeles, 225, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

O. Kindt appealed against Detroit, 22, for fining her 25 cents for failure to attend meetings. The appeal was not sustained.

J. H. Lopez appealed against Tampa, 336, for fining him for working as foreman during the strike. The officers in replying to the appeal state that the officers told him he could remain in the factory as long as strike breakers were not employed. The appeal was sustained.

F. C. Wegener appealed against Des Moines, 111, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The union admits he was suspended through mistake. The appeal was sustained.

John Weckessen appealed against Baltimore, 1, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

M. Frank appealed against Brooklyn, 292, for levying a $1 assessment to reimburse the funds, for amounts expended for death benefit in the case of a member who was not entitled to benefit, but who the officers of the union supposed was until informed by this office, that he was not entitled to the benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

P. W. Lopez appealed against Tampa, 336, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The union replied that he owed twenty weeks. The appeal was not sustained.

Sam Furley appealed against New Haven, 39, for fining him $1 for failing to attend a shop meeting. Furley claims that he understood that owing to his age he was excused from attendance. The appeal was sustained.

A. Kevon appealed against Boston, 97, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 6, Syracuse, N. ORGANIZER'S REPORT.

Galveston, Texas.

I found conditions, so far as organized labor is concerned, very good, indeed, with the exception of cigar making. This city has a population of about 40,000, of which number fully 4,500 are represented by delegates in the Central Labor Union of this city.

Nearly one-eighth of the number of inhabitants are members of local unions, and yet there are only two Buckeye manufacturers and one journeyman employed at cigar making, making in all three members of the International Union in the city—no non-union factory to compete against. A few years ago there were sixteen or more cigarmakers employed here, but through lack of agitation and other causes, our trade dwindled down to its present standing, nor can one lose sight of the fact that local organizations have not patronized home industry.

Houston, Texas.

By careful inquiry after my arrival here I found about the same conditions prevailing here as in Galveston, with this difference that the population is more than double, and six people employed at cigar making, all members of the International Union, two manufacturers and four journeymen, and a number at work about twelve miles from Houston, sufficient to organize a union. I was informed that it was the intention of those in Houston to send for a charter immediately. I started to inform the different local bodies to that effect, and the idea met with their approval, and it was also stated by the members of the locals that they were pleased to learn that the cigar makers had woke up, and that they would do everything in their power to assist them, but when the time came to put up the money necessary to send for a charter, one individual refused to put up his share, and the proposition fell through. I felt grieved because I had notified local unions that the question of sending for a charter was a sure thing, as I had every reason to believe that this was true. I am of the firm opinion that the cigar makers have made a great mistake in not organizing at the time.

Note: Both Galveston and Houston are under the jurisdiction of Nacogdoches Union, No. 364.

San Antonio, Texas.

This city, having a population of 90,000 or thereabouts, employs three journeymen.

I found here a non-union cigar factory employing (so I was informed) 100 Mexican women and girls with a sprinkling of females not Mexicans. Bunch breaking and roll-up system prevailed in the factory. The firm name is Finck's Cigar Factory. Three journeymen have work but half the time. There are several "Buckeyes." No agitation has been carried on for a long time. While here I brought the members together and we had a "heart to heart" talk, and promises were made that in the future efforts would be made of personal interest to themselves and the organization they represent. I also visited different organizations and central body.

Austin, Texas.

Two "Buckeyes" constitute the cigar producing capacity of this city, with perhaps one journeyman employed. While here I wrote a letter to the town collector of Waco, which place is under the jurisdiction of Dallas, asking the number employed there, also what chance there was to organize a union I received a prompt reply to the effect that there were five or six employed at present I was also informed that as soon as there was sufficient numbers at work a charter would be sent for, as they were desirous of forming a union, also that there were more than the number usually employed on account of the holidays.

Nacogdoches, Texas.

Here I found a little "dry" town, with one "Buckeye" doing a nice business, and every reason to believe that in the near future it will break out of the "Buckeye" class and become a fair sized shop.

Dallas, Texas.

Another large-sized city in this state, the largest cigar factory employing seven or eight. Quite a few small shops or "Buckeyes." Taking all things in consideration, our trade is in very poor shape, so far as wages and conditions are concerned.

Sherman, Texas.

On my way to this town I stopped off at Denison. Some time ago there were a couple of "Buckeyes." At present there is no factory. The town having gone "dry," compelled the little factories to give up business and leave town.

In Sherman a couple of small factories are located, giving employment to one journeyman in this section of the country. Times are very dull, indeed, on account of the failure of the crops, not having had rain for the last two years to amount to anything.

Fort Worth, Texas.

In this city more life and energy was displayed by members of the union than all the rest of Texas put together. Accompanied by a committee, we visited many places of business, including drug stores, groceries, cigar stands, saloons, officers of the Board of Trade, also the Fort Worth Advertising Association, a sort of "boosting club" for home industry, and we found a strong tendency in favor of home-made product, yet at the same time the town is overrun with trust-made and so-called independent manufacturers from down East. However, if the bosses would advertise extensively there might be a chance for a large factory. In nearly every case we were informed that local manufacturers did not advertise and were unknown to the trade in general. In conclusion, let me state that in every place I have been throughout this state it is a dumping ground for unfair cigars, and it will require a heap of agitation and education to overcome this condition.

El Paso, Texas.

In this city is an open shop employing about fifty workers, seventeen of which are members of the International Union. Kohlenberg Bros. are the proprietors. There is another factory employing thirteen, strictly union shop, and several "Buckeyes." As many are unable to speak the English language, agitation is simply out of the question on the part of the members of the Local Union. I found more union members at work in this city than in any other city in Texas. In the past year there has been a gradual growth in membership of the Local Union, and the secretary hopes to see a greater percentage of increase this year. Yours fraternally, Frank Celcis, Int. Organizer.

CORRESPONDENCE

Boston, January, 1912.

Fellow Craftsman:

Boston has indeed been the mother of movements, good, bad and worse. From the time our "high brows," dressed as red men, threw the tea overboard into our harbor up to a few days ago, when the red-eyed mayor-elect of Schenectady told the Bostonese that Socialism loved peace, but that trade unionism cannot be told from dynamiting, we thought we had them all. But no, there is another—one entirely different. It is the very latest to come above the horizon. It was born to the manor, though never in all the world would its name reveal its nativity, even to the literati.

Make way, ye denizens without movements! Here comes the Socialist Cigar Makers' Propaganda Club—for short, the Proper Ganders. P-r-o-p-e-r, of course, spells proper, and proper means, right you are! But G-a-n-d-e-r-s is ganders, nothing more nor less than male geese. Now geese, as these ganders know, are a sub-family of the ducks. We have now probed to the very vitals of these ducks. For the Proper-Ganders are ducks who are right, right because they say so.

For what reason has this very latest movement set on foot? The Proper Ganders organized because they wanted to. No less a patrician than Pat, himself, whispers the secret to all comers. It was not, No! It was not to control the offices of 97. No! no!! Now don't misrepresent the Proper Ganders; we do not want the offices—which we can't get.

Of course we don't want George W. Perkins in the chair. As a man we do. But as president of "our" International Union? Never. Of course, we don't want Samuel Gompers at the head of the A. F. of L. As a man we do. But from a Proper Gander point of view? No, never!

Of course we are opposed to Strasser and Tracy, to Campbell and Hopp and to all the rest of the officials who believe in sick and death benefits, in high dues, in any form of organization which refuses to take in our brothers who carry the fertilizer to the farm where tobacco is grown, and too the Kentucky night riders.

"We don't oppose them! We oppose their principles." We don't oppose the offices they hold. Oh, no. And we don't oppose the men, not individually, no. No, we don't want the offices. We want brighter men in office. Bright men who paint things red. Class-conscious men. Men who will lead on the revolt. Men who will run up the red rag of the revolutionary-revolutionists and march to the tune of emancipation over the whole wide world, stopping at Timbuctoo. Of course, none but Proper Ganders belong to the club. Its name foretells that it is a strictly male organization. And yet every Proper Gander is by his very nature a "woman's sufferer," for each and every one of them believes that unlike things are equal, though they don't know why they believe in the principle that men and women are equal. Yet to judge by the language which is reported as oozing from the inner chamber of these Proper Ganders, no lady born of woman has ever entered the outside portals of the club's deliberative business.

Only a few hours after it was protested that the ambition of the Proper Ganders was made of sterner stuff than to desire to leap into possession of the offices that ambition got the better of impersonal aspiration. A question of right divine there was to settle. Not who should have President Perkin's place; oh, no, that is too far away. But which one of the Proper Ganders should be put into line as the vice commander-in-chief of the forces of 97. That was the live issue.

Now the very Proper Ganders, by their own story, are very im-proper. In their own opinion, fit only for treason and for spoils. We submit that the Proper Ganders are geese, fit only for hissing. David Goldstein.

This local, No. 387, Yankton, S. D., at its last regular meeting, fined L. M. Agnes' card, No. 95748, ten dollars ($10.00), amount for board bill which he owed when he left Tripp, S. D., on Dec. 11, 1911.

Agnes came here without his card, received the tramp stake, and was told to go to Tripp, as there was a job open there, upon which he (Agnes) told us that he could not get up there on the money he had (tramp stake), so some of the boys chipped in and made up the price of a railroad ticket and sent him to Tripp.

He worked there three (3) weeks, every week promising to send for his card and deposit into this union, which he failed to do.

So we wrote to Mr. Noack, the man he was working for, to compel Agnes to send his card in to his local (No. 387), otherwise he would get no more labels for his cigars. Mr. Noack upon asking Agnes why he hadn't sent for his card, was told that he didn't have the money to get it.

The fact of the matter is, it seems that Mr. Agnes has a habit of traveling without his card, working here and there as long as he can without it and when required to send for it and deposit same in local he is working under he will quit his job and go elsewhere.

A letter from Mr. Noack states that he paid Agnes his wages 5 o'clock Saturday and that night he (Agnes) got money from business men, telling that he had not been paid off yet. This amount was $3.50.

A letter from A. B. Freeman, the hotel man, states that L. M. Agnes left his hotel after being drunk and very ungentlemanly, without paying for his board, which was $10.00.

We, the officers and members, earnestly request that this letter be published in the Journal, so that other Locals and members may be forewarned (through our experience) against such tokens of appreciation as we received for favors conferred on Lew M. Agnes when he comes along without his card.

Officers and Members of No. 387,
Wm. Horst, Cor. Sec.,
Pres. L. C. Rhodes.

Chicago, Jan. 9, 1912.

I wish to call your attention to an amendment in this issue of the Journal, supported by Union 14 for a five-cent assessment in my favor. I have recently left the hospital after being in over nine months; and was in bed all that time till about three weeks before I came out. No doubt there are a good many cigar makers around the country who remember my views on these five-cent assessments as expressed by myself, each time one of them was voted down. I have stated time and again in the different shops in the country where I worked at the time one of these cases came up, that I would be willing to stand a dozen of them a week and it would not be long before we had all the old and helpless weeded out and the $65 they draw yearly would remain in the treasury. Now the time has come when I must take a chance at it myself, and I ask all old-time friends and others to do all they can to have their local endorse this amendment, for without the endorsement it cannot come to a final vote. No one can live fifty-two weeks on 13 weeks benefit and if he has no home the only thing open to him is the poor house, and I hope we will never adopt that as a cigar makers' home, for it is a fearful place and rightly named, for it is poor in every sense of the word. I have been there and know what I am talking about.

Wm. Cosgrove.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 1, 1912.

While the year just closed has been an eventful one for labor, yet generally speaking the movement has gone forward regardless of the opposition of the associated employers, demonstrating to us that the workers are realizing the needs of closer co-operation and affiliations, and while trade conditions throughout our jurisdiction has been far from normal, we have been able to maintain our membership, as well as our scale of wages; and this is due to the continued demand for union-made cigars (the box that bears the blue union label).

To the union men and sympathizers we are indebted for the loyal support given us in all parts of our jurisdiction, and for which we thank you at this time. Yet we ask your further co-operation in more thoroughly organizing the Northwest, and if the union men will demand only the products of the union cigar factories, there will be an immense change in all parts, that will add strength not only to our union, but to all unions. Can you not interest the members who seldom, if ever, patronizes the union products of sister unions? We sincerely hope that every member of his union has resolved to not only smoke cigars that are made under union conditions and bearing the blue label on the box, but of demanding the label, shop and working card of every other union, when they are spending their union earned money, ever having in mind that if we expect our employers to employ us as union men, that whenever we spend any money, that we, too, should employ union labor by insisting on union made goods, and demanding the working cards at all times of building trades unions, etc.

If you are opposed to the trust and other employers of child labor, prison labor, as well as other interests that are opposing organizations of labor, the only means of combating them is in discouraging their sale. They, in no instance, bear the union label.

Thanking you and the members for your liberal support in the past, and appealing to all for a greater effort for the year 1912, which we hope will be a most prosperous one for your union, we are, fraternally yours,
George Murray, President.
E. G. Hall, Secretary.

New York, Dec. 28, 1911.

There exist in New York City a great number of cigar factories working under the open shop system and conditions prevailing in such factories are the worst that cigarmakers can endure.

These factories are operated as a whole by Spanish speaking cigarmakers, most of them having adverse conception of the International Union.

The great number of these cigarmakers have come to New York in the last two or three years and have been imbued with bad propaganda and misstatements, which have turned them against the union, or, if not against, have no sympathy for it.

But I don't know of any attempt made to bring these people into the union; if any was made before, in another time, none is being made now.

The Central Union of New York City, as well as the I. A. Board and the union, must make an effort to explain to the Spanish speaking cigarmakers here what the trade unions mean and the necessity of the organization to fight these selfish manufacturers, who think cigarmakers are not human beings, but foolish ones, who can live with very little without care for the coming future.

I am sure the Spanish speaking cigar makers who are enduring the hardships imposed by the cigar manufacturers in New York would organize if a campaign for this purpose were made by the organizations existing here.

If the men who control the opinion here think about this matter they will realize there is a good bit of work to deal with that cannot be carelessly put aside.

Perhaps some good achievement may be the result, and it is worth while to try.

Juan G. Garcia.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 7, 1912.

Tobacco Workers' Union No. 12, and Cigarmakers' Union No. 22, have for many years been of the unanimous opinion that in order to have a more general demand for the Tobacco Workers' Blue Label and the Blue Label of the Cigarmakers that it was to the interest of both unions to have their (label promoters) visit the 75 different labor unions of Detroit.

Chas. P. Alder, Third Vice President, Tobacco Workers' International Union, and Vice-President of Detroit Federation of Labor, with David S. Jones, business agent of Cigarmakers' Union No. 22, both of them known among the trade unionists of Detroit as the Twin Union Orators, were on the job as Blue Label entertainers and promoters of smokers' mass meetings, and where the most commanding figures in the union labor world have been present at mass meetings in the year 1911, in the interest of the working men and working women. These men were energetic; they promoted the union label demonstration that has been made the various ways of advertising the union label by union No. 13 and union No. 22, in order to get the good-will of all brotherly trade unionists and friends in Detroit, Mich.

We hope that the trade union movement will immediately institute a series of diplomatic moves for the year 1912, and to have the ambition to stand first and all the time with the union tobacco and cigar manufacturers (who stand by you), and the fondness to help the cause of labor by always demanding tobacco and cigars bearing the union Blue Label. Live and let live.

Let every cigar dealer and union man, and all friends withdraw their patronage from the non-union cigar and tobacco trust, its agents, its cigar stores, and non-union cigar manufacturers for the year 1912.

It means more demand for union-made tobacco and cigars, more and steady work in union shops, more membership in the different unions; it will pave the way to organized labor and bring into the fold of our international unions, non-union tobacco workers and cigarmakers.

Brothers, let us give the best that is in us to our international unions for the year 1912. Now all together, as real trade unionists.

Let us appoint committees to visit the different labor unions at least one every year; have your delegates go to the different Trades Councils, state conventions and all labor conventions, to keep hustling for the union Blue Label. Brothers, if you are a member of a fraternity, association, kindly do the best you can in promoting the interests of our union Blue Label.

Brothers, you will never be sorry for boosting all union labels and working cards that are recognized by the American Federation of Labor.

With best wishes for doing good to all.

DAVID S. JONES, Business Agent.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of 462, West Tampa, Fla., as published in the November Journal, as follows:
Amend Resolution 2 by adding at the end "and Italian language." Resolution to read: "That the Constitution of Cigarmakers' International Union of America be printed in the Dutch or Flemish and Italian languages."

Received the endorsement of 150 Sioux City, 315 St. Cloud, 68 Albany, 291 San Jose, 90 New York, 174 Joliet, 179 Bangor, 129 Denver, 25 Milwaukee, 425 Astoria, 215 Logansport, 312 Livingston, 330 Alpena, 69 Three Rivers, 12 Oneida, 39 New Haven, 228 San Francisco, 114 Jacksonville, 232 Sellersville, 51 Peekskill, 500 Tampa.

Having received the required number of endorsements, will be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 144, New York, as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Strike out of Section 81 all on line 13 after the word "sustained," up to and including the word "decided," on line 15, and insert the following:

"Unless the shop or shops involved shall have voted by secret ballot whether an application for strike shall be made, and if the vote is in the affirmative, the same shall be referred to the Joint Advisory Board, who shall have the power to make an application for strike to the International Union without submitting the same to a referendum vote of the members affiliated with the Joint Advisory Board, but no application to strike shall be made unless a committee of the J. A. B. first visits the firm to investigate the grievance." Section to read accordingly.

The amendment of Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill., as published in the December Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 44 of the International Constitution, by adding after the words "except in places where the system has been already introduced," the following:

It shall be the duty of the chairman of the executive board to immediately take charge of the member, or members, and impart explicit and comprehensive instructions in reference to the purchase of union made products. Any member of the C. M. I. U. of A. who shall employ non-union labor, or purchase non-union made products, or accept the same gratuitously shall be fined not less than $1.00 nor more than $5.00 for each offense. Section to read accordingly.

Received the endorsement of 72 Burlington, 129 Denver, 116 Cortland, 462 Tampa, and 16 Binghamton.

Union 247, Blue Island, offers the following amendment:

Add to Section 2, after the third line, the following:

"But when the question of a convention comes to vote, and is lost, there shall be a lapse of two years before said question can be proposed again."

Section to read:

"The session of the International Union shall be held whenever ordered by two-thirds of the members voting on the question. But when the question of a convention comes to vote, and is lost, there shall be a lapse of two years before said question can be proposed again."

Union 14, of Chicago, offers the following amendment: Amend Section 146 by adding after the words: "$50 death benefit," on line 47, the following: "That a 5-cent assessment be levied on all 30 and 15-cent members, to be paid in the usual way, the proceeds of which is to be applied to relieve Wm. Cosgrove (34923), initiated June 13, 1905, at No. 33, Indianapolis, and who for several years has been unable to work on account of rheumatism. In the event of the adoption of this amendment Mr. Cosgrove is to receive a permanent non-beneficiary retiring card within 30 days after receiving the proceeds of such assessment."

CHICAGO, JANUARY 15, 1912.

Some confusion seems to exist in the minds of many well-disposed people concerning trusts, big interests, and big corporations, and some astute writers with unlimited command of the English language are industriously adding to this confusion. Recently a writer consumed about three columns of space in a prominent Chicago daily in defense of big corporations and big interests. The burden of his article was to prove that big corporations had cheapened the cost of production, and in the article he says that the big corporation with which he was associated, in the past twenty years had materially reduced the cost of a dozen axes. This should be good news to the average workman, who doesn't know what an ax looks like and has no use for one, but who can rejoice in the fact that if he ever does need one he can get them considerably cheaper if he buys them by the dozen.

It may be true that big corporations with lesser operating expenses and improved machinery have cheapened the cost of production, but they have not materially cheapened the cost of the finished product to the actual consumer, especially in cases where these corporations become gigantic monopolies. In all such instances, yes, they have cheapened the cost of production, but have not cheapened the cost of the finished product to the consumer. They, however, on the other hand, have succeeded in enormously increasing dividends. This results in great benefit to a few of the favored stockholders, but the general public receives no material benefit. Last year the American Tobacco Company, a monopoly and so declared by the United States Supreme Court, paid a dividend to a comparatively few, a band of big financiers who never saw the inside of a tobacco or cigar factory—an enormous dividend of forty per cent.

After all it is not so much the boasted economy of the trust or big corporation that has cheapened the cost of production. This cheapening the cost of production is due more largely to improved machinery and the specialization and subdivision of all work.

In this alleged free country no one with sense will deny the right of an individual to grow as big as he pleases industrially, nor can we successfully deny the right of a firm or a big corporation to conduct business on big lines and big methods. We assert, however, that as soon as these combinations of firms, through written agreements or through "Gentlemen's" agreements, succeed in monopolizing any one single industry, it then becomes a horse of another color. It strangles competing individuals or firms and effectually stifles all natural and legitimate competition. They pile up great wealth and divide enormous dividends among the favored few, while the many, the consumer, has to pay prices, not fixed by any law of competition but by the arbitrary action of the modern trust. Instead of improved machinery, increased skill and efficiency in the worker becoming a benefit to society at large, these elements when controlled by the big corporations become instruments of torture to the masses, and the means of bringing great wealth to the favored few.

The remedy is simple. It remains to be seen whether those who are trusted with the destinies of the people of this Great Republic will apply the proper remedy.

"Tobacco," an alleged trade paper published in New York, and which has a fit every time it hears the word "union" or "unionist," and whose hatred of unions and unionism is of the bigotted type and notorious in its unfair application, in commenting on the McNamara case, in the course of which it denounces President Perkins and the International Union generally, says that we did not utter a single protest against De la Campa and others for their actions in the Tampa strike, and goes on to say in reference to our editorial: "These are fair-sounding words, but they would be vastly more impressive were it not for the recollection of the attitude of the Cigar Makers' International Union and its Executive in connection with the acts of arson and assassination committed on the inspiration and with the approbation of the accredited representative of the International Union, during the long, unreasonable strike of the cigarmakers in Tampa hardly more than a year ago."

The facts are that De la Campa has never made any confession of even any wrongdoing, and he was not charged with or tried for arson or assassination or murder or violence of any kind. De la Campa was tried and convicted for conspiracy with others to prevent people from going to work as strike-breakers in the strike.

Two citizens of Tampa, who while not cigarmakers were alleged to be in sympathy with them, were taken from four deputy sheriffs and deliberately lynched by a mob consisting of fifty or sixty who went to the scene of the crime in automobiles. This mob with balled shirts, high collars, diamonds and kid gloves, certainly did take the law into their own hands when they took two men, whether guilty or innocent, who were under arrest, and deliberately lynched them.

It is also true that the Citizens' Committee, composed of merchants, manufacturers, professional men, bankers, etc., armed with Winchester rifles, and riding in automobiles, charged upon the union headquarters, took the books and papers, and in one instance the whole safe, and without due process of law. Many other lawless acts were committed in the name of law and order, all of which we denounced at the time.

We did not know at the time and do not know now of any instance wherein any of the members of the International Union did anything except to exercise their inalienable rights to go on a strike, and to persuade if they could others to do so. The representatives of the International Union had instructions to and did counsel obedience to the law on any and all occasions.

We challenge "Tobacco" to show one single line, editorially or otherwise, where it ever denounced the illegal or unlawful acts of the self-appointed Citizens' Committee, and of the employers whose ever ready mouthpiece it is. Some people wonder why "Tobacco," an alleged independent paper, had practically nothing to say against the re-creation plan of the American Tobacco Company, a plan which made the Trust stronger than ever. Others, however, were not puzzled and openly say that "Tobacco" would not say anything against its owners.

There is such a thing as fairness in the treatment of these great questions. The International Union has always been fair, and no one knows this better than "Tobacco" should know it. We say this despite the fact that such a term as fairness in the treatment of unions or unionists or anybody connected therewith seems to be unknown to "Tobacco."

The Kirby-Post trade-union busting outfit and those who sympathize with them overreached themselves when they sent out the story that President Gompers had insulted the Flag by standing upon it while delivering a speech in Oakland, Cal. The hostile newspapers came out in glaring headlines, "Gompers Insults the Flag." The real facts are that the speakers' stand was draped around the front and sides with the American Flag. The Flag, however, did not extend over the top, and consequently Mr. Gompers did not stand on the Flag when delivering his speech. This fact was proven by photographs taken at the time. The canard was so pronounced that it became a boomerang, and in reality created sympathizers and friends for Mr. Gompers from unexpected sources.

Nothing seems too mean or cowardly for the unfair opponents of trade unions and trade union officials to say and do at this time. Encouraged by the McNamara crime, they resort to the most unfair denunciations imaginable, all of which, however, will get them nothing. The great mass of the organized workers know full well and have implicit faith in the integrity and honesty of their officials.

There are several ways in which the Good Old Flag of our common country can be used.

It can be desecrated, neglected, turned to mercenary uses, and used as a convenient shield to cloak infamous actions, and it can be defended. In the War of the Rebellion many trade unionists laid down their tools, shouldered a gun and went to the front in defense of the Flag and our country. Anthony Zeitler, at that time President of the International Union, was a volunteer, and while at the front fighting for his Flag and country was shot and instantly killed. Many other trade unionists sacrificed their lives on the altar of patriotism in defense of the Flag and our country. The Federal government has never had occasion to adopt laws preventing the illegal use of our Flag by trade unionists. There is, however, a law on the statute books preventing merchants and others from using the Flag to advertise their wares. Usually those who shout the loudest in defense of the Flag are the first to stay at home in case of trouble. They wave the Flag with one hand and rob the people with the other. Trade unions and trade unionists never did anything to the Grand Old Flag but to revere and defend it with their lives, and anyone who says that Samuel Gompers or any other loyal, sane trade unionist would openly desecrate and insult the Flag resorts to cowardly and malicious falsehoods.

Ever since the McNamara confession every trade union opponent in the country has had the opportunity of a life-time to say "I told you so," to vent his spleen on the defenseless heads of the trade union officials. Everybody has taken a hand in the game. Even the mollicoddies in the labor movement itself have tried to look wise and gravely shake their heads. This is a good time not to believe everything you see in print or hear spoken concerning trade union officials. Every trade unionist has a right to and should know whether the officials are honest or not, and the offices properly administered, and if he has any evidence of dishonesty on the part of any official, no matter what position he holds, it is his duty to bring it forward. The McNamara case, however, does not give the grouch, the habitual knocker, the disappointed office-seeker, the insane idiot, a legitimate excuse to join the Kirby-Post outfit in a general denunciation of trade unions and trade union officials. Trade unionists who indulge in this pastime of the Kirby-Post outfit, and who have no real or just grounds for their accusations, are scoundrels, in the pay of Employers' Detective Agencies, or driving idiots. The latter, of course, would be harmless if their true mental state were known by those who receive their lying postal cards, or hear their insane, villainous mouthings.

While all unions and all unionists mean to and do use discretion and care in selecting officers, both local and international, still the McNamara case emphasizes the necessity of still greater discretion and care in the selection of officers both local and international.

SELECT GOOD OFFICERS.

No member should be elevated to a position of responsibility and trust in the local or international union unless he is well and favorably known and his reputation for honesty and integrity is known to be good. Entirely aside from the McNamara case, trade unions, both local and international, require earnest, loyal, cool-minded, deliberate officials, whose reputations for integrity and honesty are well established. Members with glib tongues who appeal to the hearts, to the passions, to the prejudice, and to the gallery, if placed in responsible positions, sometimes do damage that it requires years to overcome. Fortunately for the trade union movement, this class and those of the McNamara type seldom get to the front, and if perchance they do are usually quickly relegated to the rear.

In the December issue of the American Federationist, President Gompers in the course of an editorial on the McNamara case, in part says:

READY TO SHOW.

"We have nothing to hide. We are ready at any time for the agents of the law to begin investigating. Files, records of all kinds, account books—everything in documentary shape is open to them. All that has been printed, or spoken, or written to our correspondents is subject to their inquiries. Every act of every official may be freely looked into. No one is going to dodge or run away. Whatever can be done to aid the law will be done at these offices.

"This is our reply at headquarters of the American Federation of Labor to the clamor to get at 'the men higher up,' to the repeated announcements in the press of a 'nation-wide investigation by Federal officials,' to the assertions that behind the McNamaras were men standing high in the councils of labor.

"How to make our language on this point more sweeping we do not know. We could not do it in columns or pages. We therefore consider the point disposed of, in so far as it relates to our attitude regarding the investigation for which some men are calling."

We fully endorse the foregoing and make precisely the same offer. We notice, however, that the National Erectors' Association, the Citizens' Alliance, the Manufacturers' National Association, nor any other association of capitalists or manufacturers have ever made a similar offer. We remember quite recently that the jurisprudence of the city of Chicago, the whole State of Illinois, was turned upside down and racked fore and aft by judges and others to prevent a committee of the legislature from getting hold of the books of a certain wealthy corporation. They did not get the books.

Unions with low dues and no benefits never did and never will prove successful. Those in our own trade who preach cheap dues and no benefits, if they are capable of knowing or understanding anything, if they are possessed of even halfway common sense, know that that style of unions does not succeed. There are some cheap dues-paying unions, and we challenge advocates of cheap dues and no benefits in our union to show a single instance where, under like conditions, any of these unions have made as great progress as has the Cigar Makers' International Union with its high dues system and chain of benefits. Those who advocate the cheap John union and no benefits are either ignoramuses who really know better or they resort to buncombe, and if they do know better are hypocrites and demagogues of the purest ray.

With the advent of the New Year, it becomes again necessary to remind our members of the necessity to strengthen the local unions, by organizing and educating the unorganized cigar makers to a comprehension of their interests and duties as wage workers. This cannot be done successfully without the co-operation and enthusiastic endeavor of the intelligent and active members of the union. Without faith in the future, or knowledge that hard work, patience and perseverance is bound to accomplish results, no material progress can be made. The obstacles now retarding organization and complete unification in the cigar trade, or in any other trade, can be overcome gradually. We need the enthusiasm of the young and the experience of the old in the effort to accomplish results. If we expect too much in a short time, we cannot escape serious disappointment, making us unfit for real hard and persistent work. But, with reasonable expectations, and a good lot of cheerfulness and display of energy and activity, a steady progress can be secured. This will have, in the course of time, a marked effect, in securing improved condition, and the curtailing of cut-throat competition.

Labor cannot be organized in a decade or even in a generation; it cannot organize as fast as capital for obvious reasons. In the first instance the long hours of labor, coupled with intensity of work, impair the activity of the brain to a serious extent. Those who work the longest hours are usually the hardest to organize. Long hours of labor stifle the energy and ambition of the wage worker to better his condition by intelligent methods, which mean organization and unity of action. His whole mind is, after a hard day's labor, in the direction of recuperation, by food, stimulants, cheap enjoyments and sleep. There is no time left to stimulate the activities of the brain, or to create any ambition or desire beyond a bare existence. There are, of course, some exceptions to this rule.

The capitalist, on the other hand, with plenty of leisure and time to spare, is studying his interests constantly. He is always on the alert to combine for mutual protection and profit; be it in a corporation with limited liability, or in a Trust with tremendous ramifications.

To what extent the corporations have developed within the last generation can be seen at a glance from a report published in a financial paper with "Wall street" leanings. The capitalization and income is divided among the following classes of corporations:

	Number of Corporations.	Stocks and Bonds.	Annual Income.
Financial	29,822	$ 5,128,253,791	$94,747,699
Public service	24,252	36,374,458,805	508,960,651
Manufacturing	89,384	28,804,902,859	1,325,807,156
Mercantile	54,673	5,754,489,883	359,754,516
Miscellaneous	64,359	8,743,474,109	236,211,077
	262,490	$84,695,579,447	$2,825,481,099

The above shows plainly that the number of corporations exceeds one quarter million, with several million interested share and bond holders. That they wield an enormous power, both economic and political, cannot be denied; that they control the government in all branches is a fact, which cannot be disputed.

The only hope for labor is to organize on a solid financial and protective basis; to meet power with power. What we need is more organization, more discipline and more unity of action. The outlook is bright and promising; let us be active in pushing onward and upward the work of organization.

The amendment of Union 144, New York, to Section 81 of the Constitution, is precisely the same amendment that was voted on and defeated AGAINST REAL DEMOCRACY. in February, 1910.

We repeat herewith what we said editorially in opposition to the amendment at that time. What we said then applies with greater force, if anything, now than it did then. This amendment ignores the referendum in so far as the union itself is concerned and permits the members of a shop to declare a strike if the Joint Advisory Board sees fit. This relegates the power of the union or all the unions in a city where there are more than one union to a shop and to the Joint Advisory Board; it centralizes power and is against democracy, and if adopted would be destructive to the best interests of the International Union and the members thereof.

The amendment to the laws governing strikes are of a far-reaching consequence; it is a radical departure in many respects, hence we deem it our duty to make a few comments. In the first instance it proposes to strike out the following:

"Shall be made unless all the unions have acted conjointly and all organizations have ballotted, and a majority of all votes cast have so decided."

The following is to be inserted:

"Unless the SHOP or SHOPS involved shall have voted by secret ballot whether an application for strike shall be made, and if the vote is in the affirmative, the same shall be referred to the Joint Advisory Board, who shall have the power to make an application for strike, to the International Union without submitting the same to a referendum vote of the members affiliated with the Joint Advisory Board, but no application to strike shall be made unless a committee of the J. A. B. first visits the firm to investigate the grievance." Section to read accordingly.

The amendment would apply, if adopted, to the following cities: St. Louis, Mo.; Chicago, Ill.; Tampa, Fla.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Hoboken, N. J.; Jersey City Heights, N. J.; Union Hill, N. J.; Guttenberg, N. J.; Utuado, P. R.; San Juan, P. R.; Jacksonville, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Detroit, Mich.; New York, and nearly all of Porto Rico.

No reason has been assigned why a single shop shall be made superior to the whole union; at the same time depriving the members employed in other shops to vote on questions so vitally to their interest. A single shop strike may lead to a lock-out of a dozen or more shops, involving thousands of members, necessitating heavy local assessments, while every member, no matter where employed, is bound to pay.

This proposition destroys the vital principle of democratic government, the right of the members to vote on all questions. It is wrong in principle and bad in practice; it has been a failure in long runs wherever attempted. We could cite numerous instances in other trades.

This amendment has to be viewed from a broad statement, affecting, as it does, numerous cities outside of New York City.

It is an attempt to encourage hasty and impulsive strikes; to strike, so to speak, at "the drop of the hat," and to prevent conference and conciliation and the settlement of minor disputes.

Strikes should be the last resort, when all attempts to settle, although involving delay, have failed. This policy should be impressed upon the minds of the members.

The trouble in a certain factory, which was settled without a strike, is cited as a cause for changing an important part of the constitution. From reports received from all sources, giving the facts in the case, it is the strongest argument against the amendment. The firm substantially agreed to all disputed points, which improved shop conditions generally, and gave satisfaction, except to a few malcontents, who believed in "war to the knife and the knife to the hilt."

Trades unions built upon the principle of destruction have no stability; neither have they a chance for future success. The destruction of a union factory means loss of employment to members; it means lower wages in New York City, where scab shops and open shops are still playing an important part in the cigar industry.

Congressman Reilly of Connecticut has introduced the following bill reference the free smoker:

SMOKERS. "A bill to exempt from internal revenue tax cigars supplied employees by the manufacturers thereof.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that on and after the passage of this act no manufacturer of cigars shall be taxed for the cigars supplied employees of said manufacturers for personal use and actually consumed by them not to exceed twenty-one per week for each employee.

Sec. 2. That section thirty-three hundred and ninety-four of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended according to the provisions of this act."

We suggest that all unions or as many members as will do so petition their Congressmen and United States Senators to vote and work for Congressman Reilly's bill. The number of the bill is H. R. 17253. Petitions should be sent urging Congressmen to vote for Congressman Reilly's bill, H. R. 17253.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The right to work for any price and starvation wages is not based upon equity, and good morals. Any act which is injurious to the next man, in the maintenance of himself and his family in decency and comfort, is detrimental to the best interests of the community. The attempt to defend such acts is based upon selfish interests and a low standard of morality.

The right to organize for protective and benevolent purposes is guaranteed, both by the constitution and statutory law. By discharging and victimizing men, for being members of a labor union, the corporations are acting in defiance of the law.

Labor cannot be organized by brute force and by methods which are repulsive to the nobler instincts of the human family. It is a waste of time and effort, and does not accomplish practical and permanent result. The collection of high dues and the payment of corresponding benefits, and the education of the working classes for the protection of their own interests, will gradually overcome the opposition arrayed against the labor movement.

The apologists and sycophants of the powerful corporations and trusts point now to the increase in the exports of manufactured articles, and the expansion of the foreign trade, which they claim is due to the centralization of capital. But they fail to mention the poor and ignorant immigrant toiling in the steel mills for 12½ cents an hour, including Sundays. An industry based upon such slavery is a curse to the nation.

The efforts of the trades unions to secure for every man working in the trade, the most skilled and the least skilled, a wage sufficient to support himself and family in decency and comfort is based upon a principle of justice and the square deal; more far-reaching in its beneficial effects than any institution of philanthropy and charity.

The trades union movement is world wide. It is social in its character, protective by necessity and benevolent in practice, helping the brother in distress. It is a protest against gross selfishness and greed; it defies the "dollar diplomacy," based on physical force and a great navy, and abhors the commercial spirit of the age, which profits and thrives on poverty and distress.

What we need is cautious and constructive trades union leadership; the organization of labor based upon a healthy and strong financial foundation; with a chain of increasing and protective benevolent features, which will protect the worker in every stage of life, both in his youth and old age. The labor movement will then become as impregnable as the rock of Gibraltar.

The so-called open shop is nearest to the sweat shop; it means, except to a favored few, low wages and long hours. It leads to poverty, disease and the poorhouse.

The poorest weapons, in the attempt to organize, are physical force and threats of violence; the appeal to passion and prejudice, and the circulation of reports which cannot stand the light of publicity. The exposure and publication of facts, which surround the home conditions of the underpaid and overworked wage-earner in the mine, mill and factory, is the most powerful weapon and the strongest appeal to public sentiment in the struggle for better conditions.

The trades unions should concentrate their efforts and energy upon issues and measures which have a tendency to improve the moral, financial and social condition of the members in the near future; upon measures which will give the working classes better homes and surroundings; more leisure and more education; and more co-operative effort in the purchase of the necessities of life and the elimination of the middlemen's profit.

The "Coast Seamen's Journal" writes: "Compulsory arbitration in New Zealand is rapidly becoming unpopular, and practically all of the labor unions have lost confidence in the arbitration court, while several of the more important trade unions have canceled their registration under the Act."

The "Shoe Workers' Journal" writes: "The courts have stretched their authority so far, and have so extended their jurisdiction over matters which apparently were not contemplated by the founders of our government, that it is quite natural there should be given considerable attention to the devising of methods of curbing the courts in their disposition to extend themselves to cover all creation, or, to put the matter in another way, employing one of their favorite devices or terms, to 'enjoin' the courts."

In an interesting article in the "Outlook" of December 23, on the conservation of womanhood and childhood, Colonel Roosevelt writes in part:

"New York State should put a stop to manufacturing in tenement houses. This State leads in the output of such manufacturing. The labor law contains no provisions to prevent the employment of children nor to restrict the working hours of minors or women in tenements.

"The fact that the welfare of the workers is seriously menaced, that home life is broken up, and that the public health is endangered through the use of tenement-house-made articles, makes imperative some action towards a remedy. Moreover, tenement-house labor induces unskilled and unsupervised work, including that of very young children, into competition with skilled labor in the shops, thus tending to reduce the proper wages for labor, and enabling unscrupulous employers to avoid the expense of shops, and the necessity of submitting to supervision, by encouraging piece work in the tenement-houses. Organized labor has a legitimate interest in this matter, aside from the general interest."

It is the object and mission of the American Federation of Labor to organize the toilers of the land; to weld them into local and state federations; to encourage the formation of national and international unions; to foster education upon economic and political issues affecting the interests of the working classes; to secure legislation which will repeal acts and decisions of courts detrimental to the peaceful and progressive development of organized labor; to promote legislation prohibiting the employment of child labor under a reasonable age; for the reduction of the hours of labor for females and minors employed in factories, etc., to secure and establish unity of action on all questions affecting the welfare and interests of the wage earners of our country; to act as the center of communication and publicity on current events in the labor movement, spreading correct information in reference to movements for better conditions, etc. The mission of the American Federation of Labor will not be fulfilled until all wage earners—men and women—are organized for unity of action on the whole line. Then the dawn of a better and higher civilization will be in plain view, securing to the producer his just dues.

Judging from the correspondence published in the "Locomotive Engineer's Journal," there is a widespread desire to adopt an eight-hour day and an old-age pension for members over 65 years. The plan discussed at the last convention of the Brotherhood at Detroit, Mich., to give a monthly pension of fifty dollars to members, was referred to an advisory board, who decided unanimously that, owing to financial reasons, the plan would not work in practice.

Our cartoonist has in this issue succeeded in strikingly portraying the Tobacco Trust as it stood before the alleged dissolution and as it is after the recreation under the kindly supervision of the federal court. After being smashed all to pieces (???) the cartoonist sees it put together in such commendable shape under the munificent guidance of the federal court that it now has fourteen strong arms instead of one as formerly, all of which are stronger and better if anything than the one original arm. As the cartoonist sees it the Tobacco Trust, while ostensibly split up into fourteen companies still has practically the same ownership and is in apparently better working order than ever.

The agitation to reduce the hours of females and minors employed in factories should not be relaxed. The leading industrial states—Pennsylvania and New York—require some energetic work in this direction. The following states provide for much shorter hours:

48 hours a week: Arizona, California and Washington.

54 hours a week: Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri and Utah.

56 hours a week: Rhode Island.

55 hours a week: Wisconsin.

58 hours a week: Connecticut, Maine, Minnesota and New Hampshire.

The U. S. Supreme Court sustained the law of the state of Arkansas, which makes coal and railroad companies responsible for damages to employees who suffer personal injury due to the neglect of "fellow servants." This decision reverses the old common law, which exempted the employer from paying damages of this nature. In another recent decision the U. S. Supreme Court sustained the federal law, which provides for an eight-hour day for all laborers and mechanics employed on public works in the U. S., either by the government itself or by contractors under the government. Eight hours is defined as a day's work, except in cases of emergency. The case was in reference to the building of a levee in the state of Louisiana. The decision of the Circuit Court, declaring the building of a levee to be an "emergency case" was overruled by the Supreme Court of the U. S.

The Census Department of the government in Washington, D. C., issued recently a synopsis of its findings, covering the immense volume and development of the industries of the country and of the foreign possessions. At the outset we have to remind our readers of the limitations of the census; it does not include small shops of all descriptions; neither is it complete. It is, nevertheless, of great value for general information; it contains the respective shares in the distribution of wealth, obtained by labor on one side and by capital on the other. It furnishes food for reflection, and corrects errors which gained currency in the past, circulated by public speakers for obvious political reasons.

The wages paid to labor include union and non-union, male and female labor, young persons and children. It includes the regular factory and the sweat shop. The average paid per annum to all workers, excepting clerks and officials, is $500.18 and a fraction of a cent. This includes the hand and building trades, which were not mentioned in any former census issued by the government.

The net profits on every employe, including officials and clerks, were $299.07 and a fraction of a cent, which is far more than capital is entitled to for direction, management, etc. There is something wrong in the distribution of products in our industrial system; the share obtained by capital is out of proportion to the services rendered to the community. The share received by labor—five hundred dollars and eighteen cents annually, is insufficient to support a family of five in decency and comfort, and to give the children a fair education, which may enable them to obtain a fair start in life. Much can be done by the organization of labor, skilled and unskilled, and by appropriate legislation, to change this glaring wrong in the distribution of wealth which labor helps to create.

In Porto Rico, in which our members are interested to some extent, the average wages paid are less than half in this country. The compensation paid to the worker in the island of Porto Rico annually is $233.52 and a fraction of a cent. This is a disgrace to our civilization and can be classified as starvation wages—"insufficient to live and too much to starve."

The following table contains the statistics, as furnished by the Census Department, and speaks for itself:

TRADE NOTES.

The Internal Revenue reports for the month of November, 1911, do not represent any special features; there is but a slight improvement in the conditions of trade, as compared with the corresponding month of 1910. There is nothing to brag about; neither is there any cause for undue complaint. The trade, with the exception of a few districts, is holding its own. This, in comparison with the general conditions in other lines of industry and the employment of labor, is a source of satisfaction. That the trend of trade, in spite of any pessimistic predictions, has an upward tendency, cannot be successfully denied. That energetic label agitation will alleviate the condition to some extent is a matter of fact, and warranted by past experience. A boom in industry is not created in a day, a month or a year; neither is a depression developed in a short space of time. The worker, whose mind is engrossed with the ordinary events in life, cannot see changes constantly taking place, in one direction or another, until the climax is reached. Hence we find the trend of the public mind is subject to extremes; either optimistic beyond reasonable limit, or pessimistic to an alarming degree. The influence of this state of mind upon industry remains an important factor, and cannot be ignored in a general survey of conditions which surround us.

The production in the Florida district shows again an abnormal growth, which is due to a decrease in the output, caused by the strike and lockout in Tampa in 1910.

The revenue districts of the fifth Jersey and second Virginia, controlled by the Trusts—the so-called "United Manufacturers" and the American Cigar Company, are next in rotation, showing an increase in production. There is also an increase in the 23d Pennsylvania, known as the center of the Toby and Stogie production. In the other districts the change is immaterial, some gaining a small percentage and others losing. The production in all revenue districts, including Porto Rico, for which taxes were paid in November, 1911, amounted to 637,191,378, as compared with 634,564,754 for the corresponding month in 1910; showing an increase of 2,626,624 cigars. Mr. Samuel Untermyer, a prominent lawyer of New York City, in testifying before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, said in part:

"Legislation for the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law was necessary because of the 'recent pitiful and humiliating fiasco in the tobacco case.' It has been an amazing thing; they have given the stamp of judicial approval to another trust; that the court had simply changed its (the trust's) clothes. Under the decree, the tobacco business would continue under the monopoly of the four companies, each with the same shareholders. The court has created a condition which would have been regarded as glaringly unlawful before the decree was granted. It is the most colossal judicial farce ever enacted."

We quote the following from the annual report of the Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, in reference to the cigar trade in the Philippine Islands.

"The great stimulus given to the cigar industry in 1910 by the opening of the American market was not maintained, and exports to the United States, which amounted to 83,931,000 in that year, declined to 22,974,000 in 1911. Exports to other countries also declined to a nominal extent, and the total for the year of 132,217,000, valued at $1,700,712, resulted in a reduced trade return of $1,272,918. Regulations that were inaugurated to improve the quality of exports to the American market and correct the unfavorable impression created by earlier shipments resulted in a materially higher average price in 1911, while improved trade was the indication toward the end of the year."

The financial balance sheet of the United Cigar Manufacturers Company, made public early in 1911, showed that the earnings of the previous year had been something over a million and a quarter dollars.

In a report on "Constancy of Employment," the Census Bureau lists the tobacco manufactures industries in a table giving industries in which the largest number of wage earners are employed. According to this report the average number of wage earners employed in the tobacco industry in 1909 was 166,810, the industry ranking tenth. The maximum month taken is December, in which 176,369 employees were engaged in the tobacco industry. The minimum month taken was January, in which 161,563 employees were engaged. This includes cigarettes, stogie makers, strippers and all workers about the factories.

The production of cigars, etc., for which taxes were paid for five months, ended November, 1911, amounted to 3,059,372,138, as compared with 2,971,313,797 for the corresponding months in 1910. This shows an increase of 88,418,341 cigars.

The production of little cigars, weighing less than three pounds per 1,000, retailing for a package of ten from 10 to 15 cents, for five months ended November, 1911, amounted to 275,454,853; while for the corresponding period in 1910, taxes were paid for 294,104,778. This shows a decrease of 18,649,925 small cigars.

The secretary of the United Cigar Stores Company filed an affidavit in the federal circuit court at New York City, which claims that all connections with the American Tobacco Company have been terminated in accordance with the decree of the court. A report comes from Atlanta, Ga., which says that the same concern will open five new stores in a short time.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue decided to enter a friendly suit in the courts, with a view of having the "free smoker" decision settled by the federal circuit court.

We print herewith fac-simile of the union labels used in our trade.

The first label shown was issued by the Cigarmakers' Association of the Pacific Coast, and was printed on white paper. This was the first union label used by any labor organization in this country. It was first adopted and used in 1876, and came into use largely on account of the prevalence of Chinese employees, especially in our trade at that time. The Cigarmakers' Association of the Pacific Coast was not affiliated with the International Union. It, however, has since merged into the International Union, or what there was left of it.

The second label shown was issued by Union 44, St. Louis, Mo., and was first used in 1878. The color of this label was red.

The third label is the one that was used on the Pacific Coast after the independent association became a part of the International Union. It was used in connection with the regular label issued by the Cigarmakers' International Union.

The fourth label is the one adopted by the Cigarmakers' International Union in 1880 and the one now in use, with slight changes. The color and wording are almost the same. The color is light blue.

Receivership for Non-Union Company.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The Allis-Chalmers Company of Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and Scranton, manufacturers of heavy mining and rolling mill machinery, has been compelled to go into the hands of a receiver, by defaulting the interest on its first mortgage five per cent bonds, on Jan. 1, 1912. In spite of the fact that this company has had a practical monopoly, for a number of years, in the special machinery it manufactures, and that it has been a favored customer of the United States Steel Corporation, the chairman of its board of directors being Judge E. H. Gary, who is also chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, and in spite of the fact that it has fought the organizations of labor at every opportunity, it has failed to meet its financial obligations.

The organizations of labor have secured free text books for the schools in the cities of Birmingham, Alabama, and Nashville, Tennessee, and are conducting a lively agitation to the same end in Atlanta.

The plumbers of Kankakee, Ill., secured reduction from 9 hours to 8 without decrease in pay and without friction.

Carpenters and Painters at Longview, Tex., secured advance in wages to 40 cents per hour without friction.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 6, 1911.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz:

28, Westfield, Mass.

The books and accounts here are in very nice condition. An honest effort to do the right thing, before I arrived in Westfield, there had been $100.00 deposited in bank, leaving in possession of officers at time of examination $7.18. Day book, ledger, benefit cards, etc., in good order; cash and stamp accounts correct. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1908.....$ 3,303.96

In possession Fin. Sec. S. J. T. Wall.....16.50

Total$ 425.65

Deficiency of union Oct. 1, 1911.....$ 25.54
This deficiency is the amount expended over percentage in 1910, not yet replaced.

48, Toledo, Ohio.

The books and accounts here, except the ledger, are in fine condition; cash and stamp accounts O. K. Treasurer's accounts fine. The secretary's and treasurer's accounts nicely balanced; benefit cards, original bills and vouchers for expense all on file. The amount due to International Union on examination is $40.00 illegal death benefit and $15.71 illegal sick benefit, which is also the deficiency on Dec. 1, 1911. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 5, 1908.....$1,705.25
Receipts to Dec. 1, 1911.....6,291.75
Expended over percentage in 1908-9-10.....313.49

Addition deficiency Nov. 1, 1911.....$ 356.86
Which amount includes balance from 1896 from old union.....$ 340.45

78, Hornell, N. Y.

The books and accounts here are in a much better condition than this report would indicate, commencing with the local balance for June 1, 1905. Account as follows:

Balance on hand for June 1, 1905.....$ 272.82
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1911.....2,515.35

In possession Treas. Wm. Dowling.....41.80

Total$ 341.80

Deficiency of union Nov. 1, 1911.....98.79
This statement shows a correction in the cash claimed in possession of treasurer. There was a deposit made just after the first of the month, according to the bank book.

79, Sandusky, Ohio.

Except for having paid some illegal sick and O. O. W. benefits here, the accounts are really in fine condition. The treasurer and secretary balance their accounts all the time, money always right. Benefit cards, original bills filed with the vouchers, on file for every item of expense; treasurer's book correctly balanced, also the amounts collected and turned over, with the expense in the day book every month; ledger indexed and posted correctly. This deficiency is caused by having paid illegal sick and O. O. W. benefits. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Dec. 1, 1908.....$1,741.21
Receipts to Nov. 29, 1911.....2,727.81
Due to International Union on examination.....54.50

112, Oneonta, N. Y.

The books and accounts here are in excellent condition, benefit cards, original bills and vouchers for expense all on file, ledger indexed and correctly posted, cash and stamp accounts balanced at the end of each month. The finance committee of this union make up the reports all the time. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 23, 1903.....$ 1,683.28
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1911.....15,569.65
Expended over percentage in 1904-5-6.....40.85

Total$ 832.88

121, Ithaca, N. Y.

The ledger here is in worse than poor condition, other than this the accounts are fine; day book in good order and balanced at the end of the month. All benefit cards and original bills and endorsed vouchers on file for expense. An unusual surplus in stamps. I have the promise of the secretary that he will have the ledger posted to date in two or three weeks. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 5, 1907.....$1,552.01
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1911.....6,225.72
Expended over percentage in 1907 and 1908.....39.71

The books and accounts here are certainly in good order. Secretary Conway really does his work. Benefit cards, original bills and vouchers endorsed by whoever receives the money on file for every item of expense, ledger correctly indexed and posted to show benefits drawn, also balances each member's dues account with every credit given, cash and stamp accounts O. K. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 29, 1908.....$ 2,612.88
Receipts to Oct. 1, 1911.....22,678.20

Total$25,291.08

In possession Sec. J. F. Conway.....189.09

Total$ 5,377.12

Deficiency of union Oct. 1, 1911.....$ 354.00
This deficiency is balance not replaced on account advanced to No. 6, Syracuse, on account of the $1.00 assessment.

206, North Adams, Mass.

The books and accounts here are in splendid condition, all benefit cards and original bills for expense filed in the rotation in which they are entered in the accounts, day book and ledger neat and correct, cash and stamp accounts also correct. An oversight in granting O. O. W. benefit accounts for the $4.50 deficiency. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Aug. 1, 1905.....$ 756.21
Receipts to Oct. 1, 1911.....6,597.91
Due to International Union on examination.....4.50

218, Binghamton, N. Y.

Since my visit here in July, quite an effort has been made to get the ledger, etc., in a reasonable condition. "Almost impossible." Most of the due books have been used to get the members' dues accounts fairly correct. Why any man would take pay for being secretary, as Mr. Haley did, and neglect the ledger accounts, as he did, "simply did not keep a ledger," is to say the least more than unfair. The keeping of a ledger is just as necessary as any other part of a secretary's work. At present the cash and stamp accounts are in good order, benefit cards and endorsed vouchers on file for all expense, and all dues, etc., paid by the members will, I hope, be entered in their ledger account each week. Gave the present secretary-treasurer what help I could, and he promised to do his best. It was said Mr. Haley claimed to have two (2) vouchers for which he had never received credit. I was told he would be at the office on the Sunday afternoon, when we were to meet. I was told he would not be there. Mr. Costello, Pres., and Mr. Wardell and myself looked for these vouchers, but could not find them. They evidently were not there. Owing to this fact and Mr. Haley not being present, could do nothing in the matter. Am of the opinion that if Mr. Haley had anything legitimate to offer he would have been there. In connection with my investigation of benefits I only desire to say this: I refuse to hold members for illegal benefits unless there is positive evidence. Owing to Mr. Haley not having kept ledger accounts this would be impossible, unless my stay would allow my making up ledger accounts for all these years. This I refuse to do unless at his expense or upon special instructions from the International Union. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand July 7, 1911.....$ 922.44
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1911.....1,712.35

In possession Sec.-Treas. J. Wardell.....47.31

Total$ 899.35

Difference or deficiency Nov. 1, 1911.....$ 4.50
This deficiency is due from ex-Secretary Haley owing to my having given him credit with an expense of $5.00 instead of fifty cents (50c) in my previous examination to July 7, 1911. This item was included in the expense on the report for June, 1911, which was partly made up from a statement given me by Mr. Haley, as some of it had not been passed upon, either by the Executive Board at a regular meeting of the union.

221, South Bend, Ind.

It seems that ex-Treasurer Bert Grant, when he retired from office, failed to turn over treasurer vouchers for October, November and December 1908, and January, February, March and April, 1909. Too bad that such a man could, at any time, hold office. There should be a penalty attached to the sort of don't-care behavior. The ledger is nearly posted to date; instructions were left that must be up to date by Jan. 1, for sure. Other than this the books and accounts are in fine condition; cash and stamp accounts correct and balanced.

The books and accounts, except for covering up a shortage by claiming the amount in possession of the secretary, are in good order, all benefit cards, original bills and vouchers on file, ledger nicely indexed and posted, accounts balanced at the end of each month in the day book. Statement as follows:

255, Lowell, Mass.

The books and accounts here are not in as bad condition as this statement would indicate. Failure to apply the Constitution in the payment of benefits is the trouble; am sure the same thing will not happen again while the present secretary is connected with this local. Statement as follows:

The books and accounts here are really in better condition than this report indicates. In the future the ledger will be indexed and posted to balance each member's dues account with every credit given and vouchers for expense will be endorsed by whoever receives the money. At the time of examination there was $50.00 on deposit in each bank, leaving $10.00 in possession of Secretary Solomon. Statement as follows:

At present the books and accounts are in good condition, at least for the time the present secretary has had them. The ex-secretary, Joseph Stahlburger, No. 77670, had embezzled $191.35 up to the time he retired from office. Before I arrived the union had a meeting and made arrangements for him to refund in weekly payments. They also levied a 50c weekly assessment, to be continued until the amount was made good. For this reason I did not interfere. Statement as follows:

So far as figures are concerned the accounts here are accurate, but vouchers for expense have not been used since January, 1910, neither has the ledger been indexed. Very little interest given union affairs here, for instance, the financial secretary has been reporting in his possession an amount that would cover International funds used for private loans, donations, etc. Section 175, reference funds being deposited; also Section 187, reference making false reports to the International Union and penalty attached, were fully explained to the secretary. No more donations or private loans from the International fund here. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand June 13, 1907.....$ 609.32

Receipts to Nov. 1, 1911.....1,700.42

Which includes $8.77 deficiency from last examination by Mr. Strasser and $21.25 used for private loans and donations. As I said before, this must be the end of this style of doing business or Section 187 will make somebody sorry; $25.00 has been deposited in bank since the first of the month.

The books and accounts here are in very good order, benefit cards and original bills for expense on file. In the future vouchers endorsed by whoever receives the money will be on file for all expense. Ledger nicely indexed and posted; $3.15 interest to Oct. 1, 1911, not included in this statement, as it was entered in bank book on Oct. 2 when Mr. Page deposited part of the money reported in his possession on Oct. 1, 1911. The books and accounts here are in good condition, cash and stamp accounts correct. Unfortunately for this local and our trade in this vicinity there is a factional fight on which only does harm; nasty remarks are made, some to me, personal strife under the guise of "union news" given the papers, which, if continued, will make more trouble for somebody than they will be able to handle. Quit it. Be men among men. Our union, our trade, your right to make a living should not be sacrificed because of any such manners; more consideration should be shown. Our membership roll contains names well and probably known in your city and vicinity; do not disgrace yourself trying to harm them. If you must fight, fight fair. Statement as follows:

Report of Delegate A. F. of L. Label Dept.

To the Officers and Members of Cigarmakers' International Union.

Greeting:

We, your delegates to the Union Label Trades Department, beg leave to submit the following report:

The Fourth Annual Convention of the Union Label Trades Department was called to order in the Auditorium Building, Thursday morning, November 9, at 10:30 a. m.

President Lennon introduced Chairman Lindsay of the Label Committee of the Atlanta, Georgia, Federation of Labor, who, on behalf of the Label organization, extended a welcome to the delegates present.

Carl Karston and Jerome Jones also extended welcome to the delegates on behalf of the Atlanta Federation of Labor.

President Lennon responded to the addresses of welcome in an appropriate manner and then declared the convention open for business.

Delegates from twenty-one National and International Unions were seated by the Credential Committee report, and one Fraternal delegate from the Women's International Union Label League.

President Lennon's annual report, while short, was to the point and showed that much good was being done in the interest of the label trades by the department.

Secretary-Treasurer Tracy's report covered all of the work done by the Department in the last twelve months. There is now affiliated with the Department 37 National and International Unions, paying a per capita tax on 414,000.

In speaking of the Union Label Picture Show, Secretary-Treasurer Tracy told of the list of engagements made for moving picture show, number in attendance at each city, and in reports made to Secretary's office, the show was spoken of in the highest terms, and requests were received from many places asking for a return engagement. It was also stated that there was a greater demand for union labeled products than ever before. Eighty-three towns were visited, the attendance in quite a number of places visited reached over one thousand, and it was reported those who did attend the show to a considerable extent became active label promoters.

Considerable agitation was carried on among the farmers of Tennessee. Union label literature, as well as a large number of directories containing the names of manufacturers who use the label on their products, was distributed at each gathering of the farmers. Everyone agreed that beneficial results will follow, and that the day will soon come when the union workers of the cities and the union farmers will stand together.

Circular letters were sent out by the Department to every Central Labor Union, and all local unions of the International Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, urging their members to wait upon their representative in Congress while they are at home, and urge them to vote for the Boomer Bill, H. R. No. 5601, known as the Convict Labor Bill. Immense gains have been made during the year by all of the label trades. More labels issued than ever before, which proves that the Department has done good effective work, and is in a position to do more from year to year.

The reports sent to the Secretary of the Department from the different Internationals affiliated, shows the increase in the amount of labels used during 1911 over the year 1910.

The report of the Secretary, as a whole, proved to all delegates present that the Union Label Trades Department has done much good to all organizations using labels, store cards and buttons.

A resolution was introduced and adopted, requesting all Local Label Leagues to affiliate with the Department.

The receipts for the year ending September 30, 1911, was $13,202.80, on hand October 1, 1910, $3,434.80, making a total receipt of $16,637.74. Expenses for the year ending September 30, 1911, $14,160.96, leaving a balance on hand October 1, 1911, of $2,476.79.

The Executive Council, in making their report, said in part: "We beg leave to say that it is our firm conviction that during the last year there has been a more active label agitation carried on than during any previous years in the history of the labor movement. It is evident on all sides that there is a growing demand for an increased sale of union label goods, as well as an increase in the patronage of union establishments. We feel confident that this work is going to continue and grow in the future, and that this Department is and will be an important factor. The information and publicity that this Department is able to give our members and friends throughout the United States and Canada is of such a beneficial character and assistance, that wherever the information given is taken advantage of, and conveyed to our members and friends, as well as to sympathetic merchants, results are being obtained from day to day and we desire to express the hope that this will continue to grow more rapidly in the future."

A resolution was introduced and adopted that cloth labels be used to the exclusion of paper labels wherever possible.

A recommendation to increase the per capita tax to the Department was defeated.

The Executive Council was instructed to get a design for a uniform button for use of Label Leagues.

The Auditing Committee brought in the following report:

Your Committee has also carefully investigated the individual account of each and every affiliated union and found same to be in an excellent and correct condition. We find on examining the accounts of the bank book of moneys deposited in the name of the Department at the end of the fiscal year that the sum of $2,462.14 is deposited with the Washington Loan and Trust Company, and that $14.64 is in the hands of the Secretary-Treasurer.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that your Committee reports upon the excellent condition in which our Secretary-Treasurer has kept the financial records of this Department. We found the books well kept and in first class shape, and all books, papers and receipted bills, etc., furnished the Committee were given a very careful examination, and because of this excellent condition in which the accounts of this Department have been kept, your Committee is firmly of the opinion that Secretary-Treasurer Thomas F. Tracy is deserving of all credit for the careful, thorough and painstaking manner in which he has kept the records and books of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, John F. Tobin, Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

1st Vice-President, John W. Hays, Typographical Union.

2nd Vice-President, Jacob Fischer, Journeymen Barbers' Union.

3rd Vice-President, Owen Miller, American Federation of Musicians.

4th Vice-President, Thomas A. Rickert, United Garment Workers.

5th Vice-President, A. McAndrew, Tobacco Workers' International Union.

Secretary-Treasurer, Thomas F. Tracy, Cigarmakers' International Union.

Hoping that this report will meet with your approval, we remain,

Yours fraternally,
(Signed) THOMAS F. TRACY,
JOHN T. SMITH.

A. F. of L. Convention—Delegates' Report.

To the Officers and Members of Cigarmakers' International Union.

Greeting:

We, the undersigned delegates, beg leave to submit the following report, as delegates to the American Federation of Labor.

The 31st Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor was called to order in the Auditorium at Atlanta, Ga., Monday, November 14, at 10 a. m., by the President of the Atlanta Trades and Labor Assembly, who immediately turned over the gavel to President Gompers, and introduced Governor Hoke Smith, who delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the State of Georgia, and was followed by Mayor Winn on behalf of the City of Atlanta.

An enthusiastic address of welcome was made on behalf of the trade unionists of Atlanta by Jerome Jones and other representatives of Georgia, all of which were ably responded to by President Gompers on behalf of the convention.

President Gompers read his annual report, which was interesting, educational and instructive, covering sixty pages and contained every conceivable item of interest to labor. The report was listened to very attentively by all of the delegates, and at his conclusion all rose as one man and declared it the finest report they ever had the pleasure of listening to. It certainly made your delegates feel proud to know he was one of us.

Among the items touched on were the following: Organizations and growth, the different departments of the American Federation of Labor, eight-hour law extension, women and child labor investigation, child labor and children's bureau, employers' liability, workmen's compensation, locomotive boiler inspection, the Hatters' case, injunction, contempt, appeal, retrial, police oppression, the third degree, the Post suit against the A. F. of L., anti-trust and injunctions limitation bill, the people, the judiciary injunction, defense, political changes affecting labor, labor group in Congress, occupational diseases, miners' safety, United States Bureau of Mines, Department of Labor, Civil Service employees' rights, labor of convicts, uniform laws to protect human life, seamen's right, insurance laws and trade unions, R. R. track investigations, loading vessels regulations, second class postal rates, immigration, migratory laborers, the McNamara's, Otis' campaign for revenge, the Triangle Shirt Waist factory strike, Ladies' Garment Workers' strike, the Baldwin strike, Labor Day and Labor Sunday, labor press, American Federationist; each one of these subjects was handled with extreme care, and we were all of one mind that President Gompers gave much time and thought to the subjects contained in his annual report.

Secretary Morrison's report shows the total receipts for the year ending September 30, 1911, $132,188.68. On hand September 30, 1910, $182,914.96, making a grand total of $365,103.64. Expenses for the twelve months ending September 30, 1911, $175,524.08, leaving a balance on hand September 30, 1911, $189,579.56.

An idea of the growth of the American Federation of Labor since its beginning can be formed when it is known that in 1881, the first year of the existence of the A. F. of L., the receipts were $174.00, and the expenses were $154.00. During the twelve months ending Sept. 30, 1911, there was issued 326 charters to National and International Unions, Central Local Trade and Federal Unions, three International Unions, 61 Central Bodies, 197 Trade Unions, and 55 Federal Labor Unions. In 1911 the affiliated organizations paid per capita tax to the A. F. of L. on 1,758,735, the largest membership in its history, and it is the belief of all that, notwithstanding the hostile forces that are working against the labor unions, that the coming year will show an increase over the membership reported upon this year.

Treasurer Lennon's report shows that there was in his possession Sept. 30, 1911, $187,579.56, in possession of Secretary Morrison, $2,000, making a total of $189,579.56.

The funds of the Federation in possession of the Treasurer are deposited in banks at Bloomington, Ill. All certificates draw 3 per cent interest; the amount of interest collected during the year and forwarded to Secretary Morrison was $4,972.10. Amount of funds handled during Treasurer Lennon's term of office of twenty-two years was $2,390,980.35.

The Executive Council reported on their work for the past year.

The report of Delegate Duncan as Fraternal Delegate to the Secretariat, held in Buda Pest, Hungary, Aug. 10, 11 and 12. This was a convention of National Trade Union centers of the world. Brother Duncan was instructed by the Executive Council to investigate labor conditions while in Europe. His two months' stay in that country enabled him to see things as they really are, and his report to the convention on labor in general in Europe was so well received by the delegates that when he concluded his report a rising vote of thanks was tendered him, and on motion Secretary Morrison was instructed to have a sufficient number of copies printed to be distributed to the trade unionists of this country.

Delegates McFarland and Tobin reported as Fraternal Delegates to the British Trades Congress, held at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and Delegate Frank Duffy reported as Fraternal Delegate to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, held at Calgary, Province of Alberta. Both of these reports showed that great harmony existed between the labor movement of Great Britain, Canada and the United States. Addresses were also made by Mrs. Raymond Robbins, President of the Women's Trade Union League; Miss Anna Fitzgerald, President of the Women's International Label League; the Rev. Charles S. MacFarland, representing the Federated Churches of Christ, and the Rev. P. E. Dietz, representing the American Federation of Catholic Societies, all of which was well received by the delegates.

Three resolutions were presented to the convention by representatives of the Miners' Unions protesting against any officers or members affiliated with the American Federation of Labor being members of the Civic Federation. The resolutions were referred to the Committee on Resolutions; the introducers of the resolutions appeared before the committee, and their argument seemed to be not so much against the Civic Federation as it was against certain individuals associated with the Federation. Others appeared before the committee and told it was through the good offices or men in the Federation they were enabled to settle strikes, which if allowed to go on would have disrupted their entire organizations.

The committee submitted the following report in lieu of the various resolutions introduced upon this subject matter:

Your committee in connection with the consideration of these resolutions has endeavored to secure such information relative to the National Civic Federation as could be presented by the delegates introducing them, and in addition such information as could be given by those who as trade unionists have held membership in that body, or who have in any manner noted the influence of the National Civic Federation upon the safety and progress of the trade-union movement and the principles for which it stands.

In addition your committee has examined its official records for the purpose of discovering the aims and objects of the National Civic Federation and of assuring itself as to whether there existed any variations between the principles of that organization as laid down in its organic laws and the rules it has adopted, and in its practice.

Your committee finds that the National Civic Federation was organized in part for the purpose of furthering the adjustment of disputes between employers and their employees through the methods of friendly conference, conciliation or arbitration, when mutually acceptable, and the consummation of joint contracts and agreements covering the terms of employment. In addition, to bring together representative men from all groups for the public discussion of the questions affecting the relations between employers and organized workmen. This organization, we find, at the time of its inception, set the official seal of its approval upon the recognition of trade unions by employers, and as endorsing the consummation of formal agreements covering the terms of employment between employers and organized workmen.

Your committee has had no information placed before it which would indicate that the National Civic Federation has at any time departed from its policy as above outlined, but evidence has been presented which demonstrates that it has extended its original program by creating departments whose entire work has been to give a wider-spread influence in favor of the peaceful adjustment of all questions arising between employers and organized workmen.

In evidence of this fact your committee quotes from the official announcement of the National

Civic Federation creating the department of conciliation, as follows:

"Declaration of the Purpose of the Conciliation Department."

"The scope and province of this department shall be to do what may seem best to promote industrial peace and prosperity; to be helpful in establishing relations between employers and workers; by its good offices to endeavor to obviate and prevent strikes and lockouts, and to aid in renewing industrial relations where a rupture has occurred.

"That at all times representatives of employers and workers, organized or unorganized, should confer for the adjustment of differences or disputes before an acute stage is reached, and thus avoid or minimize the number of strikes or lockouts.

"That mutual agreements as to conditions under which labor shall be performed should be encouraged, and that when agreements are made, the terms thereof should be faithfully adhered to, both in letter and spirit, by both parties.

"This department, either as a whole or through a sub-committee by it appointed, shall, when requested by both parties to a dispute, act as a forum to adjust and decide upon questions at issue between workers and their employers, provided in its opinion the subject is one of sufficient importance.

"This department will not consider abstract industrial problems.

"This department assumes no powers of arbitration unless such powers be conferred by both parties to a dispute."

We have carefully examined such records as were available, to learn whether the National Civic Federation has officially or unofficially committed itself to the assumption that the interests of capital and labor are identical and we have failed to find any evidence that this question has ever been passed upon; we have found, however, in the public statements of the officers of this organization, who were not members of trade unions, and in its official publications, expressions of the conviction that in the profits arising from production, the interests of the employer and the workman were not identical, as both endeavored to secure to themselves as large a share of the value of products as possible.

From its attitude and official expressions of opinion the National Civic Federation seems to have committed itself to the belief that the primary purpose of trade unions is to secure a larger share of the actual value arising from production, through collective action, than would be possible for their members to acquire through their efforts as individuals, and that the employers frequently associate themselves together that they might be in a better position to retain the largest possible portion of the profits.

Your committee has had no evidence presented to it which would indicate that the influence of the National Civic Federation has ever been unfavorable to organized labor or that it has been detrimental either when negotiations were in progress between employers and trade unions or when industrial controversies had led to strikes and lockouts. Officers of national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have appeared before your committee and testified that on numerous occasions interviews and conferences were secured with employers who had previously refused to meet any representatives of their organizations, through the kindly offices of the National Civic Federation, and that as a result of these interviews and conferences and the friendly influence of that body, satisfactory adjustments of controversies were effected.

Your committee is aware of criticisms which have been directed against the National Civic Federation by some members of organized labor, but none of these compare with the vindictive and vicious attacks which have been made against it by every association of employers in America which is organized for the purpose of opposing and antagonizing our trade unions and the principles they are contending for.

The bitter hostility of the anti-trade union associations has evidently been directed towards the National Civic Federation because that body has emphatically declared its conviction that trade unions are essential to the workmen's welfare, and that as indispensable organizations they should be given full recognition and encouragement.

It appears to your committee that the criticisms which have been made by members of labor organizations are directed more towards certain individuals holding membership in the National Civic Federation than against that body itself.

It is not to be expected that in an association composed of representatives of trade unions, employers and the general public that every member will be equally acceptable to all of the others because of his views and personal attitude; men differ in their view-point, and these differences become more apparent when representatives of such groups as organized workmen and employers meet upon a common footing to discuss problems affecting both directly. But are we to hold that we shall not meet and discuss the grave problems which affect the wage earners' standard of civilization with an association whose membership may include some whose vision has not yet been sufficiently broadened?

These individual members of the National Civic Federation, against whom criticism has been directed, are in many instances active members of the church, of fraternal and of other civic organizations, contributing to their support. Their attitude toward many questions may fall to meet with the approval of their associates, but is this sufficient reason why any member should withdraw his affiliation from such organization or organizations, or that recommendations should be made by this convention that members of organized labor should withdraw from any of them?

Since the formation of the National Civic Federation there has been in its membership a number of trade-unionists, among these being men who have deservedly earned our full confidence, and who for years have been selected by organized labor in this and their own organization as among the most trusted and capable officers and members. These representative men have had the fullest opportunity of becoming familiar with the policies and influence of that body upon the welfare and progress of our trade union movement, and we are convinced that if any of them had discovered that the National Civic Federation was in any manner inimical to the welfare of our movement that they would have been the first to sound a note of warning.

Your committee therefore recommends non-concurrence with the resolutions.

The subject matter was discussed for an entire day by a number of the delegates and on a roll-call vote the report of the committee was adopted by a vote of 11,851 in favor and 4,924 against.

The question of the practicability and desirability of electing the officers of the American Federation of Labor by referendum vote was referred to the Executive Council for investigation, with the understanding that they report on this subject to the next annual convention for its consideration.

Resolutions favoring the establishment of a Children's Bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor was adopted and recommended that the Legislative Committee of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to use its influence to secure the enactment of such a law.

Resolution introduced by the Labor Representation Committee, Messrs. Gompers, O'Connell and Morrison, endorsing the candidacy of Job Harrison and his associates for the Mayoralty and municipal legislative offices of Los Angeles, was carried by a unanimous vote.

Resolutions were endorsed favoring the amalgamation of the Woodworkers' International Union and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, thereby making one union of carpenters affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Building Trades Department was requested to re-instate the Brotherhood of Carpenters into their department.

Recommended amalgamation of United Association of Plumbers and International Association of Steam Fitters in one organization of United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas, Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America, believing the best interests of all can be served in one organization.

The following was introduced by the Cigarmakers' delegation and was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, The Supreme Court of the United States has declared the American Tobacco Company to be a trust, a monopoly operating in restraint of trade, and as now constituted is an illegal institution existing in violation of law, and therefore ordered its dissolution; and

"Whereas, The Court gave this illegal monopoly eight months in which to dissolve and to reshape its component parts on a basis that will not be in violation of law or operated in illegal restraint of trade; and

"Whereas, The President of the United States has recently said that the laws affecting monopolies, trusts and illegal organizations, such as the American Tobacco Company, will be enforced; and

"Whereas, We are of the opinion that there are no legal means that can be adopted whereby the constituent parts of the illegal Tobacco Trust can be successfully reorganized and maintained on a working basis that will not be in opposition to and antagonistic with existing laws; and

"Whereas, The policy of all trusts has been opposed to organized labor, not hesitating to adopt any means, fair or foul, with which to crush the organization of the workers; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor denounces the attitude of the American Tobacco Trust toward organized labor and pledges itself to do all that it consistently can, in keeping with its own laws and the laws of our common country, to create a healthy public sentiment in opposition to any plan being sanctioned by the Southern Division of the Circuit Court of New York, the Supreme Court of the United States, the Judicial Branch of the Federal Government, or any other constituted authority, that will permit the reorganization of this declared illegal monopoly in a way that may permit it to operate in opposition to existing laws and the decision of the United States Supreme Court; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled declares its unalterable opposition to any plan which will permit the declared illegal American Tobacco Company to reorganize by subterfuge, and thus under the guise of legal sanction, pursue its illegal and sinister method under a plan that will be in violation of existing laws."

Conference Between Cigarmakers and Tobacco Workers.

Kimball House,
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19, 1911.

Cigarmakers represented by G. W. Perkins, Samuel Gompers, Thos. F. Tracy, John T. Smith and Daniel Harris, and the Tobacco Workers by A. McAndrews and E. Lewis Evans.

Conference was called to order by Samuel Gompers, First Vice-President of the Cigarmakers' International Union.

Organization was effected by the election of G. W. Perkins as Chairman and E. Lewis Evans as Secretary.

Chairman stated that the object of the meeting was to give consideration to the present status of the Tobacco Trust and the plan of dissolution likely to be adopted and its attitude toward organized labor, more especially toward the Cigarmakers and Tobacco Workers, and to consider methods that may successfully meet that opposition which the trust has erected to our movement.

Chairman stated that he had attended a meeting held in New York at which the following interests were in attendance:

Cigarmakers' International Union.
National Cigar Manufacturers' Association.
National Leaf Tobacco Dealers.
Retail Cigar and Tobacco Dealers.
Independent Tobacco Manufacturers' Association.
Cigar Salesmen's Association.
Cigar Box Manufacturers.

A number of addresses were delivered, discussing the turn of affairs in the suit by the government against the Tobacco Trust. The consensus of opinion was that the adoption of the dissolution plan as submitted to the Circuit Court would lend strength to the Tobacco Trust's position, inasmuch as it will have a legal status which was not the case prior to this time.

Chairman then read a resolution that had been adopted giving voice to a protest against the decision of the Circuit Court in the case which had been foreshadowed. He further stated that the meeting decided to take vigorous steps against the newly legalized trust in whatever form could be devised.

Statement of the Chairman, together with the resolution, was approved.

Upon motion by Samuel Gompers, duly seconded, it was decided that the Cigarmakers' International Union and the Tobacco Workers' International Union make common cause against the trust in such ways as may seem most potent.

Moved by Gompers, seconded by Smith, that President Perkins of the Cigarmakers' International Union and President McAndrews of the Tobacco Workers' International Union act as a committee to get such support from their respective international unions as may be necessary. Adopted.

Motion offered by Gompers that the expense incurred by the committee appointed shall be borne by each union in proportion to its membership was concurred in.

Conference was adjourned.

In the American Federation of Labor convention your delegation served on the following important committees: Tracy, President's Report; Barnes, Labels; Smith, Resolutions.

An amendment to the constitution was adopted whereby the per capita tax was increased from one-half of 1 cent per month to two-thirds of 1 cent per month.

President Gompers and the entire Executive Council were re-elected without a dissenting voice. George L. Berry of the Printing Pressmen's Union and John H. Walker of the United Mine Workers were elected Fraternal Delegates to the British Trades Congress.

John T. Smith of the Cigarmakers' International Union was elected Fraternal Delegate to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

Rochester was chosen as the next convention city.

The Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor was the largest representative body of organized workers which ever assembled in the history of our country. The large number of subjects in the interests of the working people were calmly considered by the committee, reports made by them, and many of the questions fully and freely discussed before final action was taken by the convention. At the conclusion of the convention the general consensus of opinion manifested and expressed by the delegates was one of entire satisfaction with the constructive work of the convention and the splendid results which the coming year would show.

Definite instructions were given the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to insist upon favorable action upon labor's bills pending in Congress which affect the interests and the rights of the working people, and to hold responsible the President and Congress and all else who may be responsible for the failure to secure the much-needed legislation which the representatives of labor of America in convention demanded.

We strongly urge the membership of the International Unions or the local unions to procure a copy of the official printed proceedings of the Atlanta Convention of the A. F. of L., both for information as well as for future reference. Copies may be had upon application to Frank Morrison, Secretary, American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C. Copies are 25 cents each, postage prepaid.

Returning our sincere appreciation to the membership for the honor conferred upon us and the privilege we had in participating in this great labor convention, we have the honor to remain,

Yours fraternally,
SAMUEL GOMPERS,
THOMAS F. TRACY,
J. MAHLON BARNES,
JOHN T. SMITH.

Delegates to the A. F. of L. Convention.
I appreciate the compliment and honor my colleagues have paid me, but in the preparation of that part of the above report referring to me either personally or officially, I took no part. In all other parts of the report I fully concur.

SAMUEL GOMPERS.

Notes by Union 97, Boston.—1912 will be a busy year, but 1913 will be busier.—The great problem of the future will be the railroads.—Here in New England we are all interested in the school question: Sex, hygiene, industrial education, deportment, manners, manual training.—We write to our Congressmen and Senators on free smokers; hope all unions have.—Convict labor must not compete with free labor.—Label committee inserted Christmas ads in all the dailies, also in January issue of the Chamber of Commerce News.—97 and New England Conference will give away a new card sign: It's a beaut.—Raise the school age; educate the masses.—After all the wage you receive determines where and how you shall live, how long your children shall attend school, and how they will be clad.—We need more leisure to care for our children; all responsibility should not be thrown on the mothers.—We have 400 more at work this year than we had at the same time last year.—New England Conference has the best calendar in the country.—We need a convention.—We should have an old-age pension.—We ought to have the stogie makers in the C. M. I. U.—If independent manufacturers were shrewd business men they would unionize their shops and it would be all of us against the trust.—We are moving upward and onward; this is the transient period.—Why is there not a local union in Mississippi?—With new docks Boston is destined to be one of the great ports of entry in America, and this is going to change Boston from a commercial to a great commercial and manufacturing city, and our label committee, aware of this, are building for the future.—Our chain of benefits is the prime factor in holding our membership.—What are our sister unions doing for the label?—Label section of Boston Central Labor Union is doing good work; of course we are represented there.—All the daily papers are friendly to us.—We used 1,900,000 labels the year of 1911.—The common people of today are the most intelligent in the world's history. Each century has done its work for democracy and this century will be no exception to the rule.—Educate, Organize and Organize.

Union 71, Elgin, Ill.—August Wismer, a charter member, who died Dec. 18, 1911.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

(Edited by the Officers of the American Federation of Labor.)

Button Workers Still Fighting.

Magnificent battle for living wage and right to organize still raging in Iowa.

Congressman Henry of Texas has introduced H. R. 14063, amending the Sherman anti-trust law. The bill seeks to amend the present law to correct its defects, and also to exclude certain organizations. Section 10 of the bill provides "that nothing in said act is intended, nor shall any provision thereof hereafter be enforced, so as to apply to members of organizations or associations not for profit and without capital, or to agricultural products or live stock in the hands of the producers or raisers."

The garments workers of Galesburg, Ill., have received an increase in pay of 20 per cent. The organization only having been established about a month ago.

The Cantrell bill, authorizing an annual census of the supply of tobacco manufactures in the United States, has passed the house. The measure is designed to benefit the growers, who claim that under the present conditions manufacturers are at all times familiar with conditions in the field, whereas there is no corresponding knowledge available for the planter as to the exact supplies of manufactures on hand, thus giving an opportunity to the manufacturers to juggle prices to the disadvantage of the growers. Congressman Cantrell is a member of the Farmers' Union.

The local Typographical Union in Springfield, Mass., has just executed a new agreement with the newspapers in that city for the term of three years. The new schedule calls for an advance of $1.00 for admen, make-ups and proofreaders, with corresponding increase for night work, with 4 hours constituting a week.

Federated shop employees at Van Buren, Ark. after a short strike, reached an amicable settlement and returned to work.

The plumbers of San Diego, Calif., have just secured an increase from $4.50 to $5.00, without strike.

Government 8-Hour Bill—National House of Representatives Unanimously Passes Labor's Shorter Work-Day Measure.

Washington, Dec. 23.—On Dec. 14 Chairman Wilson (coal miner) of the Labor Committee called up on the floor of the house H. R. 9061, the Hughes 8-hour bill. After a short discussion and the adding of a few minor amendments the bill passed unanimously.

Frank J. Hayes, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a statement before the convention of the American Federation of Labor, at Atlanta, positively and emphatically denied the rumor that the miners were considering withdrawing from the A. F. of L.

Compliments Union Labor.

Congressman LaFerty of Oregon makes eulogistic reference to unions on floor of house.

Printers of Norwich, N. Y., secured increase of $2.00 per week.

Journeyman Stone Cutters' Association Making Progress That is a Glowing Tribute to its Executive Officers.

Washington, Dec. 23.—The Journeyman Stone Cutters' Association, during the past year, has made most remarkable progress. General Sec.-Treas. James F. McHugh, in speaking of the wonderful advance made, has this to say of the general membership: "They brought it about without the slightest friction between themselves and their employers. Intelligent committees were appointed who discussed the proposition with the bosses, man fashion, and gave and took as the case deserved. They did not demand the keys to the safe or turning over the employer's business to them, but went about it just like good, square union men, making their wants known, showing why they deserved what they asked for."

At Rome, Ga., the plasterers have secured a raise of 50 cents a day and the 8-hour day.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 23.—A special investigator before the state factory investigation commission, in session here recently, told of appalling conditions she had found in the local meat packing plant. "About 1,000 people are employed," she said. "There is no distinction made between men and women. One of the buildings is old and ramshackle and has been condemned. In three of the rooms that I examined the men and women were forced to work in water standing half an inch deep on the floor."

Louis D. Brandeis, in testifying before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, in dealing with the trust question, gave expression to the following: "The successful trusts have created conditions absolutely inconsistent with America's industrial and social needs."

The Washington Central Labor Union, at its last meeting, adopted a statement and resolutions in the McNamara case. The attempt of individuals and newspapers to cast odium on the leaders of labor was severely condemned.

By a vote of 60 nays to 37 ayes, the Tennessee Legislature turned down an Employers' Liability Bill patterned after the Federal Act, in spite of the fact that before election the regular Democrats, the Independent Democrats and the Republicans all solemnly pledged their parties to pass an employers' liability law, as good, if not better, than the Federal Act.

A conference in the interest of trade training and vocational education was held in Washington on Dec. 14, at which representatives of the American Federation of Labor, the National Educational Association, the National Association of Colleges and Stations, the National Association of Normal Schools, the National Federation of Women's Clubs, the Agricultural Association of Colleges and Stations, and officials of the Grange took part. The Wilson bill, H. R. 12156, and the identical measure, S. 3, by Senator Page, were unanimously endorsed and steps taken to vigorously press the principles of these measures for early passage through Congress.

On Dec. 18 the United States Supreme Court sustained the "full crew" law of Indiana, in which a definite number of men on trains of a certain length is required. The test case was brought before the Indiana courts by the "Big Four" railroad.

Federal Contempt Bill.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Hearings on the Clayton bill, H. R. 13578, were held by the House Committee on Judiciary Dec. 7 to 11. The committee showed a lively interest in all the statements made by friends and supporters of the measure, and closely questioned attorneys of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Anti-Boycott Association while they were making their opposing arguments. The hearings are in print and can be obtained on application to Hon. Henry Clayton, chairman of the committee. A favorable report upon this measure is anticipated from the committee at an early date.

The Eight-Hour Bill, H. R. 9601, which passed the House of Representatives on Dec. 14, has been referred to the Senate Committee on Education and Labor. This committee is composed of the following senators: Borah, Idaho; Penrose, Pa.; du Pont, Del.; Page, Vt.; McLean, Conn.; Kenyon, Ia.; Rayner, Md.; Bankhead, Ala.; Shively, Ind.; Swanson, Va.; and Martine, N. J. President Gompers has urged the committee to take action upon the bill at an early date. It would be well if his example were followed by all the organizations, and if individual members would address their own senators urging them to give immediate and active support to this measure.

Boston, Dec. 30.—The Bureau of Statistics has just issued Labor Bulletin No. 85, and treats of unemployment in the organized industries and the labor supply and demand of the state free employment offices. For the quarter ending Sept. 30 complete returns were received from 78 per cent of the organizations representing approximately 70 per cent of the aggregate trade union membership, and 5.6 per cent were reported as unemployed. This percentage is lower by one point than the corresponding percentage (6.6) for the close of the preceding quarter. The condition of the labor market for the quarter showed a decided improvement over the same quarter last year. There was an increased demand for building tradesmen and metal workers, while the demand for general unskilled workers remained about the same as last year.

Washington, Dec. 30.—The Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, under the Department of Commerce and Labor, has just issued its bulletin giving the number of immigrants entering the ports of the United States during the month of August. During the month mentioned 50,110 immigrants were admitted by nationalities as follows: Hebrews, 7,996; Southern Italians, 5,503; Germans, 4,198; English, 4,087; Polish, 3,677; Mexican, 2,803, and the remainder divided among 33 other nationalities. The total immigration for the year ended June 30, 1911, was 878,587.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 30.—Engineers' and Firemen's Unions have reduced the hours of about 150 men from 12 hours to eight per day. Milk teamsters have obtained better conditions and increased wages as result of short strike. All city firemen work the 8-hour day under a new city ordinance.

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 30.—Cement Workers gained agreement with increased wages.

San Diego, Dec. 30.—Plumbers secured increase from $4.50 to $5.00 per day without strike.

Bindery Women's Union of Raleigh, N. C., has gained 10 per cent increase without strike.

Rome, Ga., Dec. 30.—Plasterers advanced wages 50 cents per day and won the 8-hour day.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Women employes (ticket agents) of the electric railroad companies have received back pay of from $10 to $35 each, and an increase in wages.

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 30.—Garment workers obtained increase in pay approximately 20 per cent as a result of organization.

The Famous Danbury Hatters' Case Again Before the United States Supreme Court.

On Jan. 2 Messrs. Davenport and Merritt, attorneys for Dietrich E. Loewe et al., filed a petition for a writ of certiorari to be addressed to the judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the second circuit and brief in support thereof. They submit the following reasons why the United States Supreme Court should exercise its extraordinary power to take a case of this character up by certiorari. First, the case was started over eight years ago and the plaintiffs were selected without redress. Second, the parties were engaged in active trial for twelve weeks, to the great expense of themselves and to the inconvenience of their attorneys and litigants. Third, the final judgment in this action will ultimately have to be reviewed by the Supreme Court, either at this stage of the proceedings or after the necessary appeal from a judgment rendered on a second trial. Fourth, the question of the liability of the members of a labor union for the torts of the officers and agents committed within the scope of their authority is one of public importance and it would be highly beneficial for the country at large if it could be settled at this time, without waiting for further and protracted proceedings in this case. On Monday, the eighth of January, 1912, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, the petition for the writ of certiorari will be submitted to the Supreme Court for its consideration and action. It is a matter of considerable interest among students of this notable case to learn what arguments will be made by the attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Trade Union Investments.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The United States Bureau of Labor reports that in ten years, from 1897 to 1907, wages of Bricklayers increased 41½ per cent; Carpenters, 50½; Cornice Makers, 47; Gas Fitters, 53½; Hodcarriers, 36; Building Laborers, 28½; Painters, 41½; Paperhangers, 41½; Outside Electric Wire Men, 50½; Lathers, 34½; Plasterers, 39½; Steam Fitters, 45½; Roofers, 33½; Plumbers, 47; Stone Masons, 39; Structural Iron Workers, 36½. This is an official report; it amply verifies statistics issued by organizations of the trades mentioned, and emphasizes most clearly what excellent dividends are secured through investment in a well managed trade union.

Muscatine Button Workers.

Muscatine, Ia., Jan. 6.—Organizer Flood of the A. F. of L., who has charge of the Button Workers' strike at Muscatine, has been indicted by the County Grand Jury for conspiracy. He surrendered himself to the sheriff and gave bond for his appearance. Notwithstanding all efforts made by the employers, the strikers remain firm.

Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers' Request.

That if you travel on a train or sail on a ship,
Have a union label in your trunk and grip;
And we earnestly pray and hope
That you carry one in your telescope.
You will always have a smile on your face
If you carry one in your dress suit case.
We will now end this little verse

By saying, have a union label in your purse.
Any information as to where these goods may be obtained will be gladly furnished by Murt Malone, 191 Boyd St., Oshkosh, Wis., Secretary-Treasurer.

Journeyman Tailors' International Union.

One good turn deserves another. Demand of any and all merchant tailors that this label be placed in your clothes.

This label is granted to merchant tailors where working conditions and wages are satisfactory to our members and who have an agreement with the Journeyman Tailors' Union of America. Demand it. Journeyman Tailors' Union of America, Box 597, Bloomington, Ill.

International Photo-Engravers' Union.

The Trade Mark of Perfection in Plate Making

This is the LABEL of the International Photo-Engravers' Union. Demand and insist on getting it on your PHOTO-ENGRAVINGS. It costs no more.

A list of photo-engraving houses in the United States and in Canada using the union label of the International Photo-Engravers' Union of N. A. may be secured by request made upon Louis A. Schwarz, Sec'y-Treas. I. P. E. U., 228 Apsley St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Un trust, fût-il des moins nuisibles, n'est somme toute qu'une organisation destinée à monopoliser la production et accaparer la distribution des produits matériels. L'association volontaire des travailleurs pour leur bénéfice mutuel et une mutuelle assistance, est essentiellement d'un caractère différent. Même s'ils cherchent à régler la disposition de leur puissance de travail, on peut dire que la puissance de travail n'est pas une fourniture matérielle. Elle n'est pas un produit. Elle est la puissance personnelle d'un être humain.

La nécessité d'apprendre aux travailleurs de ce pays à acheter des marchandises estampillées par des unions, ne le cède en importance qu'au travail d'organisation, et la somme d'énergie, temps et intelligence dépensée dans l'effort donné dans le but de faire apparaître ce fait plus clairement encore aux yeux du public acheteur, mérite l'examen approfondi de chaque membre de l'organisation du travail.

Le "British Columbia Federationist" dit ce qui suit:

"Le temps présent est une bonne époque pour y vivre et mener le bon combat de la liberté industrielle. Des progrès incomparables sont en train de se faire, un jour nouveau pointe déjà et le travail gagnera sa juste cause, malgré l'opposition de la horde des plutocrates et de leurs corrompus champions."

Le droit de travailler pour n'importe quel prix et à des salaires de famine, n'est point basé sur l'équité ni sur un bon principe moral. Tout acte qui fait du tort au prochain dans le maintien de sa famille et de lui-même sur un pied de décence et de confort, nuit aux intérêts bien compris de la communauté. Défendre une action semblable, c'est baser son jugement sur des intérêts égoïstes et sur un code très bas de morale.

Les efforts des union ouvrières dans le but d'obtenir pour chaque homme et chaque femme qui travaillent de leurs mains, au plus habile comme au plus malhabile, un salaire suffisant pour vivre avec sa famille d'une manière décente et confortable, sont basés sur un principe de justice et d'équité bien plus méritoire que n'importe quelle institution philanthropique ou charitable.

Le mouvement des unions ouvrières couvre le monde entier. Il est social dans son caractère; "protectif" par nécessité et charitable en pratique, par le fait même qu'il aide les frères en détresse. C'est une protestation contre l'égoïsme et la cupidité; il défie la diplomatie du "dollar" basée sur la force physique et une forte marine et il abhorre l'esprit commercial de l'âge qui s'engraisse et s'accroît de la pauvreté et de la détresse du plus grand nombre.

La croissance de la Fédération Américaine du Travail est un signe avant-coureur d'un avenir plus brillant pour les classes ouvrières des Etats-Unis et du Canada.

L'augmentation du nombre des membres qui, avec les 51,300 qui lui ont été ajoutés de par le fait d'affiliation de la Western Federation of Miners, a porté le nombre des membres payants et enregistrés pour l'année fiscale 1911, à 1,756,735, soit une augmentation de 194,623 sur l'année précédente et de 80,535 sur le chiffre considéré jusqu'ici comme le "record," de l'année 1904. Le fait que le nombre des membres des unions affiliées s'accroît sans cesse, est indiqué par le fait que les nombre des membres payants et enregistrés pour le mois de septembre, 1911, est de 1,763,614, ce qui indique que, malgré les forces hostiles qui luttent contre le développement des unions, l'année prochaine montrera une augmentation nouvelle du nombre de ses membres.

Le travail ne peut s'organiser par force brute et par des méthodes qui répugnent aux plus nobles instincts de la race humaine. C'est là une perte de temps et d'efforts, sans que des résultats permanents et pratiques en puissent résulter. Le recouvrement de cotisations élevées et le paiement de bénéfices d'une importance correspondance, de même que l'éducation des classes ouvrières pour la protection de leurs intérêts communs, surmonteront graduellement l'opposition apportée au mouvement ouvrier.

Pendant les six derniers mois, on a compté 981,807 pauvres dans l'Angleterre et le pays de Galles, soit une diminution de 43,931 sur l'année antérieure. Cette diminution considérable est due à la mise en vigueur de la loi des retraites ouvrières (Old Age Pension Act).

Un rapport publié par le département du travail du Board of Trade, montre que dans le mois d'août il y avait en grève 148,000 travailleurs de chemins de fer, 78,000 manoeuvres de docks, conducteurs de tramways et autres; 35,000 déchargeurs de navires, matelots et autres, à Liverpool et Birkenhead; 3,000 camionneurs à Manchester et 2,500 et 1,000 employés de tramways à Glasgow et Leeds, respectivement.

Il s'éleva 100 nouvelles disputes pendant le mois, affectant 365,256 personnes de plus que dans le mois d'août de l'année précédente.

L'union ouvrière en tant que force constructive cherche toujours à édifier, et non à détruire. Essentiellement justes en principe, ses forces sont toujours dirigées dans le but de réaliser la perfection dans l'organisation. Son idéal et son but sont pratiques, son travail est progressif. Elle a aidé l'industrie à atteindre les résultats obtenus au cours de plus d'un siècle d'efforts bien dirigés.

Ce dont nous avons besoin, c'est de chefs précautionneux et constructeurs pour le mouvement ouvrier; l'organisation du travail appuyée sur une base financière solide et saine, avec une chaîne de systèmes protectifs de bienfaisance allant toujours en augmentant pour protéger l'ouvrier dans toutes les périodes de sa vie, aussi bien dans son enfance que dans sa vieillesse. Le mouvement ouvrier deviendra alors aussi imprenable que le rocher de Gibraltar.

Ce qu'on est convenu d'appeler "open shop" ou atelier ouvert, est ce qui ressemble le plus à la "sweat shop"; ce système implique, excepté pour quelques rares favorisés, des salaires réduits et des heures de travail longues. Il conduit droit à la pauvreté, à la maladie et à l'hospice.

C'est la mission et le but même de la Fédération Américaine du Travail d'organiser les ouvriers du pays; de les grouper en fédérations locales et fédérales; d'encourager la formation d'unions nationales et internationales; de répandre l'éducation sur les sujets économiques et politiques affectant les intérêts des classes ouvrières; d'obtenir des lois pour repousser les actes et les décisions des cours nuisibles au développement pacifique et progressif du travail organise; de provoquer une législation prohibant l'emploi d'enfants au-dessous d'un âge raisonnable, diminuant le nombre des heures de travail des femmes et des mineurs d'âge employés dans les fabriques, etc., d'obtenir et d'établir l'unité d'action dans toutes questions affectant le bien-être et les intérêts des salariés du pays; d'agir comme un centre de communication et de publicité sur les événements courants du mouvement ouvrier, répandant des informations véridiques sur les mouvements en faveur des meilleures conditions de travail, etc. La mission de la Fédération Américaine du Travail ne sera pas remplie jusqu'à ce que tous les salariés, hommes et femmes, soient organisés pour l'unité d'action sur toute la ligne. C'est alors que l'aurore d'une civilisation meilleure et plus élevée commencera à paraître et le jour se fera, ou le producteur recevra la part de la production qui lui est due.

El hecho de poseer una tarjeta de unión obrera se supone indica que el que la tiene es miembro de una unión. Esto es verdadero, pero solo en teoría, porque el hombre que compra mercancías que no han sido fabricadas por obreros unidos cuando se pueden obtener los que lo han sido—y esto se hace con frecuencia—no es un unionista. El verdadero unionista de gremios exige la etiqueta y si todos los lo hicieran así mismo nunca dejarían de recibirla.

Los embarques de cigarros de La Habana, Cuba, a todos los puertos del mundo, desde el 1ro de enero hasta el 31 de octubre de 1911, se elevó a 151,048,812 cigarros mientras que en el período correspondiente de 1910, la exportación había sido de 132,563,650, sea una aumentación de 18,485,162 cigarros, lo que indica un notable mejoramiento de las condiciones del mercado.

Los uniones de gremios han de concentrar sus esfuerzos y energías sobre asuntos y medidas que tienen la tendencia de mejorar la condición moral, pecunaria y social de los miembros en un porvenir cercano; sobre medidas que darán a las clases trabajadoras mejores alojamientos y vecindades; más horas de descanso y más educación; y un esfuerzo más enérgico en la compra de lo necesario para vivir y la eliminación de las ganancias de los intermediarios.

Lo que necesitamos es una dirección circunspecta y constructiva de las uniones de gremios; la organización de la labor sobre una base saludable y pecunariamente sólida; con un sistema siempre desarrollado de instituciones de benevolentes que protegerán al trabajador en cada período de su vida, desde la niñez hasta la vejez. El movimiento obrero se hará entonces tan inexpugnable como el morro de Gibraltar.

Las peores armas cuando se trata de organizar son la fuerza física y las amenazas de violencia; las apelaciones a la pasión y a las prevenciones y la propagación de rumores que no pueden sostener la luz de la publicidad. La revelación y publicación de hechos relativos a las condiciones de alojamiento de los salarios mal pagados y recargados con trabajo, en las minas, talleres y fábricas, es el arma más poderosa y la apelación más elocuente al sentimiento del público en la lucha por condiciones de vida mejores.

Lo que llaman "open shop" (taller abierto) es lo que más se aproxima a la "sweat shop"; significa, salvo para pocos favorecidos, salarios reducidos y largas horas de trabajo. Conduce directamente a la indigencia, las enfermedades y el hospicio.

La labor no se puede organizar por fuerza bruta ni por métodos que causan repulsión a los más nobles instintos humanos. Es mera pérdida de tiempo y de esfuerzo y no logra ningún resultado práctico ni permanente. El cobro de cotizaciones elevadas y el pago de beneficios correspondientes en importancia, así como la educación de la clase salariada para que aprendan a proteger sus propios intereses, acabarán un día por vencer a todos los obstáculos que se oponen al movimiento de las uniones de gremios.

El movimiento de las uniones de gremios ampara al mundo entero. Es él social en su carácter, protector por necesidad y benévolo también, pues se ocupa de ayudar a los hermanos necesitados. Es una protesta contra el monstruoso egoísmo y la codicia; un desafío a la "diplomacia del dólar"; una manifestación elocuente contra el espíritu comercial de la época que aprovecha y se sustenta de la indigencia y del sufrimiento del mayor número.

Los esfuerzos de las uniones de gremios para obtener para cada hombre que pertenezca al gremio, al más hábil como al que menos lo es, un salario suficiente para poder vivir él y su familia de una manera decente y confortable, tiene como base un principio de justicia y equidad, mucho más extendido que cualquier institución filantrópica y de caridad.

Los defensores y aduladores de las potentes corporaciones y trusts, señalan ahora la aumentación de las exportaciones y la expansión del comercio extranjero, lo que, según pretienden ellos, se debe a la concentración del capital

Pero dejan de mencionar al pobre é ignorante inmigrante que tan penosamente trabajan en las acierías por 12 1-2 centavos por hora, incluyendo los domingos. Una industria que tiene semejante base es una maldición para el país.

El "Coast Seaman's Journal" dice lo que sigue:

"El arbitraje obligatorio en Nueva Zelanda está rápidamente volviéndose impopular y casi todas las uniones de gremios han perdido confianza en las cortes de arbitraje, mientras que varias entre las más importantes uniones han cancelado su registro bajo la Acta."

El derecho de organizarse con propósitos protectivos y benevolentes está garantizado por ambas la Constitución y las leyes estatutorias. Al despedir y hacer víctimas a hombres por ser ellos miembros de una unión de gremios, las corporaciones obran deliberadamente en violación de la ley.

El derecho de trabajar por cualquier precio y con salarios de indigencia no reposa sobre la base de la equidad y de la sana moralidad. Cualquier acto que es nocivo para el prójimo en lo relativo al mantenimiento de sí mismo y de su familia de manera decente y confortable, es perjudicial a los intereses bien entendidos de la comunidad. Al tratar de defender actos semejantes, se coloca uno sobre la base de intereses egoístas y de un sentido moral muy bajo.

El capitalismo obtuvo la dominación política por medio de su ascendente económico—porque tiene en su poder los medios de producción. Esta fuerza ha venido de sí misma—naturalmente—con la decadencia de la fuerza poseedora de terrenos en los Estados del Sur después de la Guerra Civil ó de Secesión; así mismo, los obreros adquirían prestigio y habilidad políticos para luchar contra el "control" del gobierno tan pronto como desarrollen su fuerza económica.

Este es nuestro puto de partida. Esto lo debe aceptar como verdadero cada unionista inteligente, y tan pronto como los obreros se den cuenta que depende de ellos mismos, tan pronto dejarán de correr tras fantasmas para prepararse a ayudar a resolver el verdadero movimiento obrero, juntándose al único movimiento que hiere al capitalismo donde le duele.

Fortalezcan sus uniones. Aprendan a dictar el precio de su capacidad de trabajo como una medida preparatoria a la de poseer su propia colocación. Desarrollen su fuerza económica y arrojen a un lado los tramoyistas y los ambiciosos que muy bien destruirían su organización en sus deshonestos deseos de miserables triunfos personales.—Toledo Union Leader.

"The Trades Unionist," publicado en Washington, D. C., dice lo que sigue:

"La conformidad de los Socialistas es una prenda rara los buscadoras de Utopía de América parecen determinados a gastar una suma considerable de sus energías en un esfuerzo destinado, en su mente, a disminuir la eficacia de las uniones de gremios, y sin embargo, por otro lado, pretienden al mismo tiempo ser los amigos y partidarios de las uniones de gremios.

"En cada oportunidad posible, los Socialistas critican todo unionista de gremios que ocupa una función cualquiera, con tal que no sea un trepador de nubes. Esto ha sido especialmente perceptible en esta ciudad en lo relativo a los catorce miembros del Congreso que lo son al mismo tiempo de uniones, pero elegidos por otros que por los Socialistas."

Más consideración para las mujeres y los niños empleados en los talleres y las fábricas, es la recomendación que hizo el Sr. John Mitchell, vice presidente de la Federación Americana de Labor en un discurso dirigido en la Exposición de Lechería de los Stock Yards de Chicago. Dicho caballero declaró que las influencias moralizadoras de las uniones de gremios eran olvidadas y que solo se juzgaban las uniones por las faltas ó errores que cometían.

"Nosotros juzgamos todas las otras instituciones humanas por sus mejores obras," dijo él, "pero las uniones de gremios invariablemente son juzgadas por sus errores. La violencia en las disputas de labor, que las cometen unionistas, obreros que no lo son ó patronos, han de ser severamente condenadas por la opinión pública. Olvidamos, sin embargo, que un mayor número de personas mueren en una sola celebración del 4 de Julio en los Estados Unidos que las que han sido malogradas en todas las disputas industriales desde que se ha firmado la Declaración de Independencia."

Es el objeto y la misión de la Federación Americana de Labor, organizar los trabajadores del país; agruparlos en federaciones locales y de estado; favorecer la formación de uniones nacionales é internacionales; proteger la educación de los obreros sobre cuestiones económicas y políticas que afectan a los intereses de su clase; obtener leyes que rechazan los mandamientos y los actos de las cortes que son nocivos al desarrollo pacífico y progresivo de la labor organizada; obtener leyes que prohíben el empleo de niños bajo un límite de edad equitativo; para la reducción de las horas de labor de las mujeres y de los menores de edad empleados en las fábricas, etc.; para asegurar y establecer la unidad de acción en todas las cuestiones que afectan el bien estar y los intereses de los salariables de nuestro país; obrar como centro de comunicación de publicidad en el movimiento de que se trata, propagando informaciones correctas sobre los sucesos del día en lo relativo a los intereses de los obreros, etc. La misión de la Federación Americana de Labor no será alcanzada por ella, hasta que todos los salariables—hombres y mujeres—sean organizados sobre toda la línea. Entonces aparecerá la maduración de un nuevo día, en que el productor recibirá su justa cuota de las ganancias.

Pro fiscalía rok, končící 30. září 1911, bylo vydáno Americkou federací práce 326 certifikátů spolkových, jak následuje:

Mezinárodní unie	3
Městská ústřední tělesa	61
Místní řemeslnické unie	207
Spolkové pracovní unie	55

Čelkem	326
K tomu přináležejí též ty, které byly přijmuty k naší federaci:
Mezinárodní unie	115
Státní federace	38
Městská ústřední tělesa	631
Místní řemeslnické unie	493
Spolkové pracovní unie	187
Čelkem	1,464

Americká federace práce podporuje osnovu následující ústavy v zájmu organizované práce v přítomném zasedání kongresu takto:

H. R. 11033—Změna protitruštového zákona. H. R. 11032—Odstranění zákazu v pracovním sporu. H. R. 9061—Rozšíření 8hodinové pracovní doby na kontraktory a subkontraktory. H. R.

5601—Zákaz konkurenční smlouvy mezi prací dovolenou a zakázanou. S. 468 a H. R. 11372—Změna bezdělného otroctví ve službě námořní. H. R. 8155 a H. R. 1343—Oprava zákona přistěhovaleckého, který by žádal znalost čtení a psaní. S. 1162 a H. R. 5970—Řádné doporučení k občanství. H. R. 13—Zřízení oddělení pro federaci práce. S. 3 a H. R. 12156—Opatření náležitého vzdělání pro zanedbané.

Značka H. R. označuje název spisu pro dům zástupců, písmeno S. pro senát.

Jako část návrhu reorganizace Americké tabákové společnosti, byly články vyplněny tajemníkem státu New Jersey 24. listopadu pro inkorporaci P. Lorillard Co. s kapitálem $26,463,200, a pro Liggett a Myers Tobacco Co. s kapitálem $36,800,200.

U P. Lorillard Co. s kapitálem $11,307,000 jsou výsadní akcie, zúrokováné 7procentovými dividendami po 1. následujícím roku.

Liggett a Myers Co. s kapitálem $15,383,800 s dividendami 7procentními po 1. lednu a zbytek ve společných akciích.

Rozumí se, že American Tobacco Co., která je inkorporována pod zákony státu New Jersey, bude nepřetržitě existovat, avšak se zmenšenými hlavními akciemi.

Právo pracovat za libovolnou cenu nezakládá se na zdravé morálce, ani je to rozumné. Tam, kde každý čin posuzován je svým bližním ve smyslu sebezachování a ku prospěchu rodiny jednotlivce, jest rozhodně lepší v zájmu celé společnosti, než hájiti nějaký čin z úmyslu a zájmů sobeckých.

Právo organizační na ochranu a lepší účely je zajištěno, avšak jen stanovami a zákonem práva. Proto při propuštění anebo vykořisťování lidí, kteří jsou členy některé unie s pravou známkou, úmyslně se tato práva porušují.

Snahou řemeslnické unie jest, zajistiti každému dělníku práci, at' už je zručný nebo méně zručný, s dostatečným platem ke slušnému živobytí pro něho i jeho rodinu, kterýžto princip zakládá se na právu a spravedlnosti. Proto také daleko více může dosáhnouti, než leckterá instituce philanthropická a dobročinná.

Obranci a pochlebníci velikých společností a trustů spojili se nyní v rostoucím vývozu kupeckého zboží, při čemž rozpínávoť cizozemského obchodu označuje se jako požadavek, přislušný k centralisaci kapitálu. K tomu přispívají značnou částí dělníci, pracující v železárnách za 12½ centů za hodinu i v neděli, což je velkou chybou, ba krutou nevědomostí. Takový průmysl, jenž zakládá se na takovém otroctví, bývá provázen kletbou každého národa.

Práce nemůže býti organizována surovým násilím na ten způsob, jenž odporuje slušnému ponětí lidstivosti o rodině. Je to mrhání času i práce, a nemůže nikdy docíliti praktických a stálých výsledků. Vybírání vysokých poplatků a brátí plat za společný prospěch, jakož i vzdělání pracující třídy a ochrana její zájmů, přijde znechla přes odpor k pořádku opět v dělnickém hnutí.

Hnutí řemeslných umí je rozšířeno po celém světě. Společenský život to přináší sám s sebou. Ochrana v nouzi a snaha, bratru v neštěstí postavenému, pomoci, stává se protestem proti velké společnosti, která nezná než hrabivost a politiku dolarovou, která poškozují obchodního ducha v každé době, a má za následek chudobu a bídu.

Nám je třeba opatrnosti při budování řemeslnických umí. Organizovaná práce musí spočívat na zdravém finančním základě, s nároky na stálý vzrůst a vzájemnou ochranu, která by podporovala dělnictvo v každém případě života, jak v mládí, tak v stáří. Dělnické hnutí musí nésti známku nedobytnosti, jako Gibraltar.

Tak zvaná otevřená díla (neuniqué) má nejblíže k vyděračství, vyjímaje několik jednotlivých případů, všude tam, kde panuje nízká mzda a dlouhá doba pracovní. Tam musí to vésti k chudobě, k nemoci a do chorobince.

Dělnické hnutí nebrání zaměstnavatelům, aby zaměstnávali osoby ženského pohlaví, kde nehrozí jim škoda fyzická i morální. Ono bojuje hlavně proti tomu, aby práce žen byla stejně odměňována, jako kterákoliv práce jiná.

V zajímavém článku v časopise "Outlook" ze dne 23. prosince stojí, jak si zachovati ženství a dětství. Roosevelt tam píše:

"Méto New York mělo by zastaviti továrnickou výrobu v tenementních domech. Tento stát těží z této výroby, avšak dělnická práva neobsahuji opatření, která by zamezovala najímání dětí a mohla zkrátiti pracovní dobu pro ženy.

"Skutečnost, že zlepšení poměrů dělné třídy toho vážně vyžaduje, že život rodinný tím trpí a veřejné zdravotnictví stává se stokou pro nemocí tenementních domů, povzbuzuje k akci, která by našla prostředek ke zlepšení. Práce v tenementních domech zhusta stává se prací ledabylou, kterou nelze kontrolovati, zahrnuje v sobě práci dětí, která vyžaduje zrůdnosti dospělých. Upraviti tuto práci v určitých mezích, která existuje jen proto, že je spojena s menšími výlohami, odstraniti práci od kusu, o to vše zajímá a zasazuje se organizovaná práce."

Pozoruhodně také píše časopis "Locomotive Engineers Journal", kde důrazně se žádá zhořdná pracovní doba a ve státi píše pro členy přes 65 roků. O tomto plánu bylo rokováno na poslední konvenci Bratrstva a ustanoveno, aby měsíční pense obnášela $50,00 pro člana. Ve smyslu tom byl ustanoven výbor, který by pracoval k tomu, aby myšlenka ta uvedena byla v praxi.

Agitace za účelem snížení pracovní doby pro ženy v továrnách zaměstnané neochabuje. Vůdci průmyslové státy — Pennsylvania a New York — žádají energické zakročení v tomto směru. Tyto státy žádají takovouto pracovní dobu: 48 hodin v týdnu: Arizona, Californie a Washington.

54 hodiny v týdnu: Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri a Utah.

55 hodin v týdnu: Wisconsin.

58 hodin v týdnu: Connecticut, Maine, Minnesota a New Hampshire.

Aus Deutschland.

Die folgenden Berichte über "Streiks und Lock-outs" sind dem "Tabak-Arbeiter" entnommen:

Bünde in Westfalen. Der bei der Firma Aug. Schürter ausgebrochene Streik ist zugunsten der Zigarrensortierer beendet.

Bünde in Westfalen. Die Aussperrung bei der Firma Krüger & Blumenau in Bünde, Eilschausen und Giddenhausen dauert ununterbrochen fort. Vor Zugzug nach diesen Betrieben wird dringend gewarnt. Im besonderen geht an alle Kollegen und Freunde unserer Sache die ergebenste Bitte, diese Firma allen Zigarrenhändlern usw. und Konsumenten besonders bekannt zu machen, weil sie, obwohl nicht organisiert, zu den schlimmsten Scharfmachern gehört.

Werke in Westfalen. Der Streik bei der Firma Großschupp & Schröder (Sitz Bremen) dauert ununterbrochen fort.

Leipzig (Lippe). Der Streik bei der Firma G. Schröder dauert fort, da sie es immer noch ablehnt, bessere Lohn- und Arbeitsverhältnisse zu gewähren.

Frankfurt a. M. Wir berichten gern, daß die Firmen Lippstadt & Comp. und H. Glanitz (Zigarettenfabriken) den für Frankfurt a. M. festgesetzten tarifmäßigen Lohn zahlen. Ein Tarifvertrag besteht jedoch für diese Betriebe nicht.

Berlin und Vororte. Die von unserm Verbands und dem Verband der Zigarrensortierer und Ristenbelleber Deutschlands eingeleitete Lohnbewegung nahm bis heute einen guten Verlauf. Insgesamt sind es 183 Firmen, welche die Forderungen der Arbeiter anerkennen. Die Bewegung wird fortgesetzt. Mit Sicherheit steht zu erwarten, daß auch der Rest der Berliner Zigarrenfabrikanten dem Beispiele ihrer Kollegen folgen wird und die Forderungen der Arbeiter anerkennt.

Dranienbaum (Nah.). Außer den Firmen C. E. Würtner und Louis Schmidt Nachf. hat nun auch die Firma Guft. Delzig Lohnzulagen gewährt. Die gewährten Lohnzulagen betragen, entsprechend der Forderung der Arbeiter, 25 und 50 Pfg. pro Mille.

Templin. Der Streik bei den Firmen R. Dammmer und M. Stemmbeidem dauert ununterbrochen fort.

Jossen. Der bei den Firmen Fr. Goebert und E. Nürenbacher ausgebrochene Streik dauert weiter. Driefen. Die Differenzen (nicht Streik) bei der Firma P. Lindemann sind noch nicht erledigt.

Sinterwalde. Außer den Firmen Jos. Bräuer, Fris Krüger, Rich. Meek, Paul Ritzel, Schloffen nun auch die Firmen Reinhold Voennich, J. Gartinig und Max Büschel mit unserem Verbands einen Tarifvertrag ab. Die bewilligten Lohn- und Arbeitsverhältnisse entsprechen den Bestimmungen des Landesminimaltarifs.

Trebbin. Die Lohnbewegung brachte uns weitere Fortschritte. Außer den Firmen W. Gerbst (Sitz Berlin), F. Lohmann (Löwendorf), C. Schurig und Fr. Weimert hat nun auch die Firma Fris Wächter Wwe. bewilligt. Die Lohnzulagen betragen 25 bis 75 Pfg. pro Mille. Die Firma Guft. Paul hat noch nicht bewilligt.

Die American Federation of Labor.

Wieder einmal liegt ein Jahresbericht des Sekretärs der American Federation of Labor, Frank Morrison, vor uns, den dieser bei in Atlanta, Ga., abgehaltenen 81. Jahreskonvention des Centralbundes der amerikanischen Gewerkschaften unterbreitet hat. Wir entnehmen demselben, daß das vergangene Jahr ein sehr ersprießliches war, denn die Gesamtzahl der Mitglieder, für welche Beiträge an die A. F. of L. entrichtet wurden, ist von 1,562,112 auf 1,756,735, also um nahezu Zweihunderttausend gestiegen. Hierin sind allerdings die Grubenarbeiter des Nordwestens (Western Federation of Miners) mit einbezogen, die 51,300 Mann stark der Federation beigetreten sind. Fast alle Gewerkschaften haben an Mitgliederzahl gewonnen; am meisten die Damen-Schneiderinnen (Ladies' Garment Workers), die von 18,700 auf 68,800 gestiegen sind. Die Kohlengraber gewannen 17,000 Mitglieder, die Maschinisten und Rüstler je 10,000, die Hotel- und Restaurant-Angestellten 6000, die Brauer und Eisenbahn-Telegraphisten je 5000, die Anstreicher 4000, die Schriftsetzer 2900 etc. An Mitgliederzahl verloren haben nur die Kleidermacher 1700 und die Plasterer 500.

Der besseren Uebersicht halber bringen wir nachstehend eine Tabelle über alle zur A. F. of L. gehörenden internationalen Gewerkschaften, die im verflossenen Jahre für 10,000 oder mehr Mitglieder Kopfsteuer bezahlten:

1. Mine Workers of America	250,400
2. Carpenters & Joiners, Brotherhood	194,600
3. Painters of America	67,600
4. Machinists Union of America	67,100
5. Ladies' Garment Workers	68,800
6. Garment Workers of America	52,500
7. Western Federation of Miners	51,300
8. Typographical Int. Union	51,800
9. Iron Molders Union of N. A.	50,000
10. Musicians, American Federation of	50,000

37. Reg'd Workers of America	10,000
38. Bottle Blowers Association	10,000

Zusammen 1,508,000

Die Gesamt-Einnahmen stellten sich in dem am 30. September d. J. beendeten Fiskaljahr auf $182,188 und die Gesamt-Ausgaben auf $175,524; es wurde somit ein Ueberschuß von $6664 erzielt, der das Vermögen der Federation auf $189,579 bringt. Von dieser Summe bilden aber $133,782 den Verteidigungs-Fonds der direkt zur A. F. of L. gehörenden Lokal-Vereine, so daß der Federation nur $55,797 zur Verfügung stehen, die sich auf verschiedene Fonds verteilen.

An ausbezahlten Benefits werden die folgenden gemeldet: 71 Organisationen bezahlten $1,471,381 Begräbnisgelder für ihre Mitglieder und 11 Organisationen $49,925 Begräbnisgelder für die Frauen von Mitgliedern. 29 Unions bezahlten $818,585 Krankengeld und 16 Unions $218,742 Arbeitslosen-Unterstützung.

74 Internationale Unions melden 1359 Strikes, an denen 170,526 Personen beteiligt waren; von diesen errangen 104,655 Vorteile und 16,179 erlitten Schaden. Die Gesamtkosten der Strikes waren mit $4,709,550 angegeben, wogzu noch $173,302 freiwillige Beiträge an im Kampfe befindliche Schwester-Organisationen kommen.
